Kissinger To Visit Hanoi; Nixon To Talk With Thieu

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today he was sending Henry A. Kissinger to Hanoi next month and would meet with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu later this spring in San Clemente, Calif., to discuss the future of war-torn Vietnam.

Both conferences are aimed at considering economic assistance to both North and South Vietnam in the aftermath of the long war, he said.

In a 30-minute news conference, his first since Oct. 5, the President also repeated that he had no intention of granting amnesty to draft-dodgers and deserters.

Nixon said he would meet with Thieu, their first session since a meeting in Saigon on July 30, 1969, at the Western White House in San Clemente at an unspecified time in the spring. The White House announced earlier today that Kissinger, chief architect of the Vietnam cease-fire signed in Paris last Saturday, would be in Hanoi Feb. 10-13 for conversations with top North Vietnamese leaders.

Nixon declined to specify a figure for U.S. assistance to Vietnam, saying the amount would have to be worked out with Congress.

But he said the assistance was an essential ingredient in arranging incentives for both North and South Vietnam to abide by the agreement. He said assistance would go to all of Indochina. This would include Cambodia and Laos. "I look upon this as a potential investment in peace to the extent that North Vietnam — participating with us —would turn inward to works of peace rather than outward to works of war."

He said Kissinger would not be meeting American prisoners of war while in Hanoi.

The President also said he had no plans personally to greet returning POWs.

"This is a time we should not grandstand it, we should not exploit it," Nixon said, adding that the prisoners have a right to privacy and to get home to their families as soon as possible. As for amnesty for those who refused to serve during the war, Nixon said, "I have sympathy with an individual who has made mistakes. I have made mistakes. But certainly we have to pay a price for our mistakes. And that price is a criminal penalty for disobeying the laws of the United States."

FUTURE PLANS — President Nixon today told an impromptu news conference that he will send Henry A. Kissinger to Hanoi next month and that he will meet with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu later this spring in San Clemente to discuss the future of wartorn Vietnam. (UPI Telephoto)

On other matters:

—Nixon shrugged off reports that he had said John B. Connally would be the 1976 GOP presidential candidate. "I would be out of my mind to be endorsing anybody at this time," he said. He said that after the 1974 congressional elections, he would provide a list of likely presidential candidates and after several 1976 primaries he would predict a winner.

—He ruled out any foreign travel during the first half of 1973 but said that with the winding down of the Vietnam war, the problems of Europe can "be put on the front burner."

—The President described the critical wounding of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., as apalling and said it reinforced his conviction that small hand guns should be made illegal.

A Snag In Prisoner Releases

SAIGON (UPI) — Continued delays by a four-party military commission in making arrangements is holding up the release of American prisoners in North Vietnam, U.S. sources said today.

They said the issue was complicated by the fact the leader of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) delegation still has not arrived in Saigon for the talks.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said today a request was received Tuesday to pickup the PRG delegation leader somewhere along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border. He said the request did not include map coordinates and so without a specific location for the pickup, no one was sent to get the delegate.

According to diplomatic reports, meetings of the deputy chiefs of the joint military commission have been bedeviled by procedural wrangles between the opposing Vietnamese delegations. However, a source said today the atmosphere has become more workable.

Deputy delegation chiefs of the joint military commmission —the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong—conferred today for the fifth time, the sources said. The purpose of the meeting was to coordinate administrative details for the first meeting of the military delegation chiefs.

American officials had hoped their POWs could start returning as early as 24 hours after the cease-fire took effect Sunday. But the Paris agreement protocol on prisoner exchanges said "places of return shall be agreed tthrough the four-part joint military commission."

The commission can decide nothing until all delegation leaders are present, the sources said.

Maj. Gen. Le Quang Hoa, the North Vietnam chief delegate, arrived Monday in Saigon on a U.S. C130 transport plane from Hanoi. He immediately got embroiled in the dispute with the Saigon government over immigration forms and did not leave the plane until 22 hours after it arrived—when Saigon relented in what it called a goodwill gesture.

Meanwhile, the new International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) met for three hours Tuesday. It is composed of military and civilian personnel from Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia.

Ambassador Michel Gauvin, leader of the Canadian delegation, said he was designated to work with the military commission to get transport and other logistical support to get the team into the countryside to supervise the cease-fire.

The Paris agreement specifies that the military commission provide the transportation and other facilities. Work by the ICCS was held up because of the delay in getting the military commission organized.

However, since the planned ICCS outposts are in South Vietnamese-controlled territory, Gauvin said he would work with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials to try to hurry movement of ICCS troops to the field.

Behr's Seat Is Threatened Under New Remapping Plan

Proposed District Gives Democrats A Big Edge

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — The Legislature's last try to redistrict itself opened yesterday with a plan that would tie Marin to a Senate district stretching to suburban Sacramento and probably abort the political career of Marin's incumbent.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, eyeing heavy Democratic registration in the district proposed by leaders of both parties in the upper house, conceded getting reelected in 1974 would "pose major problems."

The district would include all of Marin, northern Contra Costa County and a swath of Solano and Yolo Counties.

In the Assembly, a plan was being drafted that would shift Sonoma State College, Cotati and Rohnert Park to the Second District of Democrat Barry Keene of Santa Rosa. The area has heavy Democratic registration, and its shift would increase percentage of Republican registration in the adjacent Seventh District, which covers Southern Sonoma and Marin.

Registration and population figures still were being compiled today for the proposed new districts.

All of Sonoma would remain in the First Senatorial District, represented by Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The Legislature's plan is designed to protect most incumbents, but to do so requires such gerrymandering that Gov. Ronald Reagan has vowed to veto it. He reportedly feels that the Republicans will do better if redistricting is done as promised by the state Supreme Court.

The court assumed jurisdiction over the issue after the Legislature failed two years in a row to do the job. But some legislative leaders believe the court would accept the lawmakers' plan rather than draft its own — if the Legislature can act before the court begins its work and override the veto.

Previous legislative remapping plans would have split Marin or lumped it with San Francisco in a district stretching down the Peninsula. This would have pitted Behr against Sen. Milton Marks, D-San Francisco.

A new "victim" of redistricting has been found in Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, who has announced he will not seek reelection in 1974. This problem is that one Northern California district must be shifted to Southern California because of population growth there. The new plan would shift Short's district to three Southern California counties.

As drafted, the plan would chop all of Napa and most of Solano out of Behr's present district. Instead, his district would jump across the bay to Pinole and Martinez, then northeast through the Delta to Sacramento.

The major question was whether enough votes could be assured in each house to get the necessary two-thirds vote to override a veto by the governor. None of his vetoes has ever been overridden, but legislative leaders of both parties pointed out that with their political lives at stake, even Republicans should join in an override.

Behr, saying the new plan "stinks," objected there was no "community of interest" between Marin and Sacramento citizens.

Stennis Is Shot During A Holdup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., was critically wounded in a holdup in front of his Washington home Tuesday night. He underwent six hours, 35 minutes of surgery early today.

The 71-year-old Stennis, one of the most powerful and most respected senators, managed to stagger into the house after being held up and shot at 7:40 p.m. EST by "at least two" men described by police as young Negroes.

Rushed to Walter Reed Army hospital, he was taken to surgery at 8:45 p.m. and the operation was not completed until 3:20 a.m. today.

Afterward, a hospital spokesman said Stennis' condition was "very serious" in Army terms, which he said was equivalent to a prognosis of critical at most hospitals.

One of two bullets that felled Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, entered his chest and ranged downward through the stomach and an intestine. It lodged in the lower back. That bullet was not removed during the operation.

The other bullet shattered against a bone in his upper left leg but did not break a bone. It was removed.

After the operation, a spokesman at the hospital, Maj. Frank Garland, was asked if Stennis would recover. He said:

"The prognosis is guarded ... He is conscious and he's resting comfortably. His vital signs remain stable." These include heart rate, blood pressure and respiration.

Garland, a hospital information officer, was asked if there were permanent injuries.

"None are apparent, as far as permanent injury is concerned."

The shooting took place, police said, in front of Stennis' home as he alighted from his car after driving from his office. His home is located on Cumberland St. N.W., between Wisconsin and Connecticut Aves., not far from the District of Columbia border near Chevy Chase, Md.

Investigators said Stennis told them he offered no resistance but was shot anyway after handing over his billfold, containing credit cards, along with a gold pocket watch, his Phi Beta Kappa key, and a quarter.

After the shooting, he managed to stagger 10 feet along a

Concerned Citizens' Victory In Madera Del Presidio Fight

By PAT PERRY

In a dramatic reversal of the old saw "you can't fight city hall", a group of Corte Madera townspeople proved yesterday that it is, indeed, possible.

It was proved in Superior Court when Judge Joseph G. Wilson said he will sweep away the town's approval of the bitterly contested Madera del Presidio housing project.

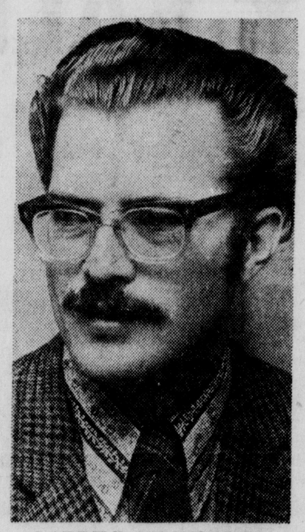
There was no dancing in the streets of Corte Madera last night, however. Just quiet jubilation.

Because it was, give or take a few fits of temper, a very civilized rebellion.

When they halted the bulldozers grading the hillside site, some of the protesters brought along picnics with wine and orange juice.

Town police, arriving hotfoot to arrest the rebellious citizenry, collapsed into giggles at the sight of entire families ambling around before the monster machines.

When the town council summarily rejected a petition signed by 800 residents to get the 75-acre site downzoned there were angry cries, but no fistfights.



LARRY P. WEINGARTH
"We were incensed. . ."

Instead, the incensed protesters met the next night in Larry P. Weingarth's home on Sonora Way.

"We were incensed," recalled Weingarth, who, with Marilyn Hallin filed the successful suit through the Environmental Law Fund of Novato Inc.

"We had all followed every meeting and public hearing only to be ruled out of hand, our petition to be totally ignored. Government is supposedly for the good of the governed."

Weingarth said the group decided going to court was the only recourse.

"Se we passed that hat, and that evening we collected $900 right here in our living room. None of us are wealthy people, but the cash and checks came showering down."

"And we had meetings every night after that for weeks."

Marilyn Hallin of Paloma Drive volunteered to file suit, too.

She's lived in Corte Madera 15 years, has two children, and her husband is a native Sausalitan.

"I'd never been involved in anything like this before. We took a vote on what to do, going to court seemed the most sensible thing, since we'd exhausted other methods."

Did she have second thoughts about the responsibility of going to law?

"I suppose so, but it was just one of those commitments. You take the bull by the horns and follow through. We just don't want our town to look like the Los Angeles basin."

Mrs. Hallin, who'd never ever attended a council meeting before the Madera del Presidio hassle, is fairly typical of the protesters, previously uninvolved middleclass men and women who got their dander up.

Marilyn Shargel of Summit Drive got involved because she'd been taking sixth grade

Government Closing Research Facilities

Federal earthquake and ocean research facilities in Tiburon, San Francisco and Point Reyes have been ordered closed as a result of belt-tightening in the 1973-74 federal budget.

However, a spokesman for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported today the Congressman plans to appeal directly to the White House to save the "valuable, working research units."

The Marine Minerals Technology Center at Tiburon received orders on Monday to close by March 2. The Earthquake Mechanism Laboratory and the federally-operated California Seismological Field Survey also received shutdown orders, but the date is "subject to negotiation," a spokesman said.

The earthquake study groups operate the large, automatic earth movement monitoring station at Point Reyes National Seashore, a device park service employees call "the magic mushroom."

Both the marine minerology and the earthquake research projects are administered by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), which issued the closure orders from its headquarters in Rockville, Md.

Burton B. Barnes, assistant director at the marine minerology center in Tiburon, said "about 50 engineers and scientists will be out of jobs' unless he can find posts for them in other federal agencies. Barnes said the annual payroll is about $360,000 and the total budget is slightly more than $1 million.

He said the NOAA will continue to operate its fisheries re-

Private Property Damage From Flooding At Least $2 Million

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal official reported today that his office found private property in Marin County suffered at least $2 million damage in the mid-January rainstorms and flooding.

A total of 344 homes and 29 business firms suffering losses has so far been reported to the Small Business Administration district office here, according to Robert Belloni, who is in charge of the disaster program.

The data was gathered by SBA officials through what Belloni said was "only a very cursory review" of "a couple of areas the staff could inspect," plus information from state, county and city officials.

The data has been sent to the SBA headquarters in Washington, D.C.

"Until such time as the President acts" to declare Marin a disaster area "there really is not anything more this office can do" to begin processing low-interest loan applications and other financial aid to private property owners, Belloni said.

(Meanwhile, Frank E. Kirby, Marin County emergency services coordinator, said forms are available at his office and in city halls for private property owners to file damage reports. A volunteer aide in Kirby's office said reports were lacking from firms along Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, although that area was flooded two weeks ago.)

WAITING FOR A RIDE — Innocent victims of the Vietnam fighting, young South Vietnamese refugees sat behind barbed wire as they awaited transportation yesterday near Long Thanh, 24 miles southeast of Saigon. Sign in background calls for a fast peace settlement.

Vietnam Fighting Is Tapering Off

SAIGON (UPI) — Fighting and casualties in Vietnam's four-day-old cease-fire dropped off for the third consecutive day today in what could be the prelude to total peace, although a Saigon military spokesman said the decrease was insignificant.

Reported Communist attacks across the country dropped from 426 the first day of the cease-fire, to 311 Tuesday and 209 today.

In one incident, a U.S. Army adviser suffered slight wounds Tuesday in both arms when Communists fired on his helicopter in the Quang Ngai coastal province north of Saigon. But the U.S. command said he returned to duty after treatment.

The magnitude as well as the number of attacks was on the downswing. In one battle Sunday, 28 South Vietnamese were reported killed and 85 wounded but no single clash since then has claimed more than 40 South Vietnamese casualties.

Those casualties were reported today by UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis, who said the North Vietnamese launched three ground attacks on government marine positions just south of the Cua Viet River, 10 miles below the Demilitarized Zone. Davis said 40 government troops were killed or wounded.

Allied experts say the cease-fire will become a reality when the fighting that preceded the truce wears itself out—which could take days or weeks. A South Vietnamese military spokesman indicated today it is too early to tell. He said the decrease in fighting so far is "not significant."

But these fitful—and possibly deceptive—stirrings of peace could be reported:

—Deputy delegation chiefs of the Four-Power Joint Military Commission working on prisoner of war returns and supervision of the cease-fire met in Saigon today in what a diplomatic source described as a "more workable atmosphere" following procedural disputes that hampered Monday and Tuesday sessions.

—U.S. B52 bombers were reported pounding the Ho Chi Minh supply trail through Laos today but the bombing since the cease-fire took effect has been halted throughout South Vietnam and Cambodia. U.S. advisers are being brought in out of the field and the 21,000 troops still in South Vietnam are going home at a rate of 400 a day.

—A few anecdotes of peaceful contact between government and Communist troops were beginning to surface. But these reports were scattered and often unverified.

Jury Finds The Remaining Two Watergate Defendants Guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate bugging trial ended with a jury finding two former campaign aides to President Nixon guilty of political spying, but it will be up to Congress to bring out the full story.

Deliberating only 90 minutes, a jury of eight women and four men brought the 16-day-old trial to an end Tuesday by finding James W. McCord Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy guilty of all charges brought against them in the raid against the Democratic National Committee's Watergate headquarters June 17.

Five other men earlier pleaded guilty.

McCord, a former CIA and FBI operative who was chief of security for Nixon's re-election committee, and Liddy, a former white House aide who served as counsel to the Nixon committee's finance arm, were ordered to jail without bond by U.S. Judge John J. Sirica.

Attorneys were expected to file motions for bail for the men this morning.

McCord and Liddy were charged with burglary, conspiracy and illegal wire tapping. McCord was found guilty of eight counts and could receive up to 45 years in prison and $60,000 in fines. Liddy was convicted of six counts and faces a maximum of 35 years and $40,000 in fines.

Appeals were expected on behalf of both men. Gerald Alch, a defense attorney for McCord, accused Sirica Tuesday of prejudicing the case by acting as "prosecutor and investigator" from the bench.

Sirica during the trial frequently complained that the attorneys were not properly developing the case. From time to time, he took over questioning of witnesses himself.

The trial did not answer all the questions raised by the revelation of the break-in at the Democratic offices and subsequent press reports that the Republicans had organized a campaign to sabotage the Democratic presidential primaries.

A Senate probe of the allegations is scheduled later this year and may make new revelations.

McCord and Liddy took the news of their conviction with no visible emotion.

Liddy stood with his arms crossed in front of his chest as the clerk read the verdict of "guilty" to each charge. McCord stood next to him at parade rest and turned once and winked at his wife, Ruth, who was sitting in the rear of the courtroom.

Heath Arrives For Nixon Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — British Prime Minister Edward Heath has arrived here for two days of talks with President Nixon expected to center chiefly on trade.

Accompanied by Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and other officials, Heath flew here from London Tuesday night. He will not begin talks with the President until Thursday morning at the White House.

On Friday, Nixon and Heath will helicopter to the President's Camp David mountain retreat.

Judge Enters Plea For Timothy Leary

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A plea of innocent was entered by the judge Tuesday for LSD apostle Timothy Leary, who is charged with conspiracy in an alleged international drug-smuggling operation.

Leary's lawyer asked for a postponement of the case, but Superior Court Judge James Turner denied the request and ordered "a not guilty plea entered in the defendant's behalf." Leary also faces charges in connection with his escape from prison 28 months ago. He was brought back to the United Slates from Afghanistan by U.S. narcotics agents.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Teen-Agers Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — Two Belfast Roman Catholic teen-agers were found shot to death in execution-style killings today, the fourth and fifth victims within 36 hours of Northern Ireland's latest surge of slayings.

A telephoned tip to police led to the discovery of the body of a 14-year-old in the car park of an ancient stone circle beauty spot known as the Giant's Ring, four miles south of the city.

He had been shot through the ead and the hood of his blue parka pulled over his head.

A few hours later a British army patrol found the body of a 17-year-old, also shot through the head, near an approach road to the Belfast-Dublin highway.

Airman Guilty

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Airman Donald Ricks, 20, of Roxbury, Mass., was found guilty by Navy court martial yesterday of assault and rioting, the fifth of 27 accused crewmen of the carrier USS Kitty Hawk to be convicted.

Forty-six crewmen were injured in rioting aboard the carrier as it sailed toward Vietnam Oct. 12-13. Navy prosecutors and a congressional subcommittee that investigated the incident said a comparative small group of black sailors ran amok, beating up white crewmen.

Seat Belt Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With less than 20 per cent of the nation's motorists using seat belts, safety advocates have launched a nationwide campaign for passage of state laws making it mandatory to buckle up or face a fine.

Bills have been introduced in legislatures in Georgia, New York, Maryland, and Virginia to make the use of the seat belt mandatory.

Seventeen other states are expected to follow suit, The American Seat Belt Council, a trade organization representing seat belt manufacturers, said.

Volcano Woes

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Iceland-ic government officials on a first inspection tour of the volcano stricken island of Heimaey said today the town of Vestmannaeyjar would be uninhabitable for years. They said eruptions could go on for months.

The officials said the deserted town —once the thriving fishing capital of Iceland — was covered by four million tons of ashes.

Hundreds of houses have been gutted by fire, buried under hardened lava or have collapsed under the weight of the ashes from the Helgafjell volcano.

Arab Summit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Political sources in Cairo said today Arab defense and military leaders have abandoned, at least for the time being, plans for an Arab summit conference to plan strategy against Israel.

The report came as President Anwar Sadat of Egypt prepared a major address today to outline steps he will take to deal with domestic unrest and unity in the face of the Middle East crisis. Political sources said Sadat would address the country before a special parliamentary session at 6 p.m. (11 a.m. EST).

Instead of an Arab summit, the sources said, delegates to an Arab League joint defense council decided to arrange a series of lower-level meetings over the next few weeks to attempt to coordinate Arab action against Israel.

First Contact

VIENNA (UPI) — Negotiators from East and West made their first contacts on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions today in a busy attempt to get formal talks going before the day is out.

"We hope that the conference will develop in a constructive spirit," said chief Soviet negotiator Oleg N. Shlestov, who flew in from Moscow.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) allies delegated Dutch officials to make first contacts with the Russians.

Space Meeting

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, Mercury astronaut Donald K. Slayton and rookie Vance D. Brand have been selected to meet two Russians in earth orbit in 1975 in the first international manned space mission.

The Space Agency named the crewmen Tuesday and said they will start joint training with Soviet cosmonauts this summer at the manned spacecraft center in Houston.

Bungled Plot

JACKSON, Tenn. (UPI) — Donald O'Neal Holt, a 29-year-old carpet layer, was charged Tuesday with being the abductor dressed in women's clothing who bungled a $200,000 kidnap-extortion plot.

Mrs. Rebecca Arendale was abducted Monday. Her husband, Charles Arendale, chairman of the board of the Jackson State Bank, twice left $200,000 ransom beside a highway, only to have passers-by pick it up. Mrs. Arendale freed herself and escaped.

The FBI charged it was Holt, dressed in a wig, high heels and a pair of black women's slacks, who grabbed Mrs. Arendale from her ranch-style home, took her to an empty house and left her tied up.

Nixon Still Firm In Amnesty Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says President Nixon has not changed his campaign position that he will "never" grant amnesty to Vietnam war draft dodgers and deserters.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, was asked Tuesday what was Nixon's position in light of the Vietnam cease-fire.

"Our position has not changed," Ziegler said.

Nixon took a hard line position on the issue during last fall's presidential campaign.

"Don't worry about that amnesty—never," Nixon told an Ohio couple who had lost a son in the war.

The statement contrasted with a position Nixon took on a television interview in January, 1972. At that time, Nixon said he expected he would be "very liberal in regards to amnesty."

It is estimated there are about 500 draft resisters and deserters serving jail terms in the United States and perhaps as many as 70,000 others in exile in other countries.

An aide said Monday that Sen. Robert A. Taft Jr., R-Ohio, is contemplating re-introducing legislation that would provide at least a partial amnesty. Taft has suggested letting deserters come back home if they agree to spend time in the military or public service.

Taft, who generally is a supporter of Nixon, introduced similar legislation in the last session of Congress, but it did not pass.

Third Term Decision Final, Governor Says

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says his decision to serve only two terms is final and absolute.

Reagan told a news conference Tuesday he expects no widespread attempt to "draft" him to seek a third term in 1974 and he wouldn't respond to it even if it did develop.

But the Republican chief executive, who will be 62 next week, still is pondering whether to run for the seat of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., in 1974.

There have been recurring reports that some party leaders and Reagan backers are trying to convince Reagan to relax his two-term pledge and run for governor again even though only one man, Earl Warren, has ever been elected to a third term as governor of California.

"No," Reagan replied firmly when asked about that.

Absolutely not? he was asked.

"No".

Would he respond to a draft?

"No. Nor do I think there's going to be any such thing," the governor added.

Reagan said he hasn't decided yet whether to run for the Senate. Cranston, who plans to run for a second term, says he is sure Reagan will oppose him.

Reagan said, "I think I said I would probably have an answer before the snow melts in the Sierra... The snow 'way up high on the mountains."

In recent weeks, Henry Salvatori of Los Angeles, a prominent Reagan supporter, said he had encouraged Reagan to "sit out" the 1974 elections and prepare instead to run for president in 1976.

Reagan dropped any possible presidential ambitions in 1972 and was Richard Nixon's California re-election chairman. His name has been included in speculation about 1976, however, since last November's balloting.

He has brushed aside any such suggestion by saying he hadn't made up his mind about 1974 yet, let alone 1976.

In response to the Salvatori comment, Reagan said: "I don't know that Henry Salvatori said anything of that kind... so no comment."

Report On Handicapped Education

With 40 children currently in classes for the educationally handicapped and another 45 children on the waiting list. the Old Adobe School District board last night heard a detailed progress report on the district's school psychologist program

Commenting that the program is comparatively new to school districts and that Petaluma's Old Adobe District is breaking fresh ground, trustee William V. Young suggested the board schedule a meeting to decide "what psychological services should provide to the schools."

Barbara Cochran, school psychologist, and Nina Manrath, education specialist and professor of child development at Sonoma State College, reported that half the students this year spent some time in regular classes.

Students are reevaluated at least once a year after returning to normal classes, said professor Manrath. "We have the psychological data on the child, we talk with the teachers and watch how they function within the group." The goal, she said, is a well-rounded, well-functioning individual.

Mrs. Cochran said that although cooperation and communication from regular teachers had been good, many still have questions about the program. She suggested teachers attend and observe the work in the special classes.

Trustee Margaret Kullberg warned against spreading the program thin by acting as social workers. She said that because the City of Petaluma lacked counseling clinics for parents and children, the school psychologists may be called to work out of the classroom.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

FUNDS — Was told that $4,440 budgeted for the program for the mentally retarded has been spent and that another $3,000 will be soon, at which time support for the project will have to come from the general fund.

BOARD — Suggested a date for the selection of a district advisory board for the Early Childhood Education program and to set up a schedule for recommendations by the local boards on where to set up the first ECE program.

COLLEGE — Accepted students Mary Landis and Liz Varney as aides to the Early Childhood Education program

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation as of next June by Barbara Carriker who will move out of the area after seven years of teaching in the district.

A Possible Conflict Seen In Shopping Center Plans

Plans for major shopping centers in Corte Madera and Larkspur run counter to the proposed Marin Countywide Plan which those cities, along with others in the county, are being asked to approve.

That. at least. is the conclusion of Walter Patrick Smith. general manager of the Northgate Mall shopping center, in an analysis of some effects of the countywide plan from a business standpoint.

Smith's analysis notes that the propsoed 75-acre center in east Corte Madera is based on estimates of $30 million to $50 million annual sales volume, and the proposed expansion of the Bon Air Center in Larkspur calls for $50 million in annual sales.

To divert that amount of business from existing shopping areas in Marin would result in widespread blight, he holds.

The combined total of the two proposed centers calls for an increase of about one-third in the county's total retail sales. This would mean that "69,000 more people will have to move into the area and do all of their retail store buying— including groceries — at these two new shopping centers; a population increase of one-third" to justify the developments, says Smith's analysis.

The countywide plan, however, calls for an increase of only 60,000 people in the next 10 years.

Creation of such large shopping centers also would require new highway linkups, and new street patterns and street widening in both Corte Madera and Larkspur, Smith holds, noting: "Most of the problems of concentrating people and commerce into one corridor" (as proposed in the countywide plan) "will be problems of transport. The people must be allowed to move around within the corridor, frequently in circumstances requiring auto use rather than public transit."

He quotes Division of Highways figures that 6,000 cars daily leave Highway 101 at the Tamalpais Drive interchange in Corte Madera and 17,000 daily leave at the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard interchange in Larkspur. Both these figures would be substantially increased by adjacent major shopping centers, he contends.

However, the countywide plan calls for minimal road improvements to try to force people onto public transit. It also calls for scenic open space between communities and recommends that the "eastern corridor" communities "stop continued dispersal of new shopping centers."

Pilot Ditches Plane In Hudson; Swims To Shore

NEW YORK (UPI) — The pilot of a light plane ditched his craft in the icy Hudson River Tuesday night when the motor failed over midtown Manhattan. He calmly climbed out and swam 100 yards to the shore

"I was just past the Empire State Building when the engine quit and I landed the plane on the Hudson River," said pilot Richard Burling, 28, New Monmouth, N.J. "It felt like jumping into a cold shower."

A spokesman for St. Vincents Hospital said Burling, an employe of General Instruments, Inc., Neptune, N.J., was in excellent condition. "There's virtually nothing wrong with him except that he's cold," the spokesman said.

Business Phone Refund Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission Tuesday ordered the Pacific Telephone Co. to refund $1.8 million to businesses.

The order approved a formula in which the company could pay the last of $175 million to subscribers as ordered by the state Supreme Court in June.

Most of the refunds were paid by applying credits to customers' monthly bills The latest PUC order applied only to businesses.

In other action, the PUC ordered an inquiry into the company's application for a $328 million rate hike. Hearings will begin Feb. 28.

POT HAUL — California Highway Patrolmen Myron R. MacNeil and Kevin M. Turner weigh some of the more than 20 pounds of marijuana and illegal drugs confiscated after a routine traffic stop last night near Corte Madera. Four persons were arrested, including a 14-year-old Tamalpais High School girl. Officers recovered 10 kilos of marijuana, plus amphetamines, tranquilizers and barbiturates.

Firehouse Opponents Are Beaten

A move to reject plans for a new firehouse facility was defeated last night by the Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission.

The vote was 5-2, commissioners Randall Garrison and Gracia Landley voicing opposition to the facility planned for land adjacent to Perry Park. They believed the property was better suited for park use. A bond issue to provide the new firehouse will go before voters April 17.

The commission also formed a committee headed by Garrison to look into a plan to preserve redwoods in Honor Grove at Bolinas Road. Suggestions were to build a boardwalk through the grove and to provide a regular system of care for the trees.

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission also:

COOPERATION — Agreed to set up a coordinating comimittee to meet with a similar committee from the San Anselmo Recreation Department to work out a plan of cooperation in scheduling events and classes of mutual interest to both communities.

PAVILION — Instructed architect Don Olson to study costs and feasibility of restoring steps leading to the Fairfax Pavilion.

Chinese Team Arrives For Jet Training

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A six-member Red Chinese team has arrived to work out details for the training of personnel to handle 10 Boeing 707 jets contracted for purchase last year.

Boeing officials said the Chinese team, which arrived Tuesday, would remain here about a week. They said about 70 Chinese would have to be trained to fly and service the jets.

The planes were ordered in September for $125 million. The first one will be delivered late this summer.

Rocket Firing Is Spectacular

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI) — A Minuteman III, newest of the series, was launched just after sunset Tuesday, causing brilliant pink and white curls across the sky that prompted inquiries from observers from Fresno to Riverside.

The missile's destination was a target zone near the Marshall Islands in the Pacific, 5,000 miles away from the California coast.

Air Force officials said the aerial phenomenon was caused by the freezing of fuel debris and water vapor into crystals at high altitudes and sunlight reflecting from the crystals.

Traffic Stop Results In Arrests For Drugs

What began as a routine traffic stop for two California Highway Patrol officers last night ended with the arrest of four persons — including a 14-year-old girl on suspicion of committing several offenses — and confiscation of more than 20 pounds of marijuana and illegal drugs.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale were Edward Lovell Mitchell, 52, of 55 Park Circle, Marin City; Gregg Stacey, 24, and Sheryl Ann Rudder, 18, both of no known address.

A 14-year-old Sausalito girl, arrested with the trio, was being held in Marin Juvenile Hall. Her name was withheld on standing order of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Mitchell and Stacey also were being held for investigation of possessing dangerous drugs and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In addition, Stacey was booked on suspicion of resisting arrest and possessing stolen property.

Officers Kevin M. Turner and Myron R. MacNeil were northbound on Highway 101 near Corte Madera shortly before midnight when they noticed a station wagon in front of them weaving back and forth on the freeway.

The officers followed the car onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and stopped it near Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

When the driver, Mitchell, reached in a paper bag to get out his driver's license, Officer MacNeil said he noticed a vial of suspected marijuana in the sack and arrested the driver and the car's othe three occupants.

A search of the vehicle, officers said, uncovered 10 kilos of marijuana in a cardboard carton in the rear of the auto. Approximately 100 tablets of suspected amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizers also were found, it was reported.

A search of Stacey, who is said by officers to have resisted the attempts to handcuff him, revealed a credit card which had been reported stolen in Mill Valley, the highway patrol said.

Bail had not yet been set for Mitchell, Stacey or Miss Rudder, who were scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

One Nailed As Suspect In Robbery

A Sausalito man, who managed to jump from a moving auto during an armed robbery last night, provided Sausalito police with a description of the car which led to the arrest of one of the robbers later in Fairfax.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Donald Wade Jones, 20, of 251 Drake Avenue, Marin City. Two other men are still being sought.

The victim, Raymond M. Healy, 21 of Kappas Yacht Harbor, told police he was hitchhiking northbound on Bridgeway near Johnson Street about 12:40 p.m. when three negro males in a brown Cadillac gave him a ride.

Shortly after Healy got into the back seat, he reported, the man beside him pulled a gun and demanded he empty his pockets. When Healy complied and the men found no money or other valuables, one of the trio suggested he be shot anyway.

As the car neared the north city limits and slowed for the turn into Marin City, Healy said he managed to open a door and jump out. He immediately reported the robbery to police who broadcast a description of the car.

The vehicle was later stopped in Fairfax by Fairfax police and Jones arrested. Another man in the car when the stop was made managed to jump out and flee, police said.

Bail had not yet been set for Jones, who was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Slayer Stabbed At San Quentin

A convicted murderer was in satisfactory condition today after he was stabbed twice in the chest yesterday in the north housing unit of San Quentin Prison.

James Earl Coumpy, 24, serving a five-year-to-life term for the fatal stabbing of a Merced County jail supervisor during a 1969 escape attempt, is confined to the prison hospital.

Two convicts have been questioned in the attack, but Associate Warden James W.L. Park would not release their names because "they are not firm suspects," he said.

Park was unable to give any motive for the attack.

File Lost For Five Months

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bennie Miles Jr., 44, was jailed five months ago on charges of shoplifting a can of malt liquor valued at 53 cents. But his file was misplaced until Tuesday, when he finally got a trial.

Miles pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to 108 days in jail and fined $200. Judge Billy Ragan ruled the five months Miles served satisfied the sentence.

The district attorney's office said it lost Miles' file and was unaware he was in jail until Miles notified an attorney.

STENNIS

sidewalk, walk up four concrete steps, walk along 20 feet more of sidewalk leading to his doorstep, then climb three steps to the small landing to the front door.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a fellow member of the Armed Services Committee, said Mrs. Stennis heard what sounded like "two pops" and her husband subsequently staggered in.

One report said Mrs. Stennis had looked out the window after the sounds and saw two young men fleeing.

Stennis, police said, told his wife to call the police and the hospital. He was admitted to Walter Reed about 8:05 p.m.

Two ambulance attendants who accompanied Stennis on the ride to the hospital said they heard the senator describe his assailants as two men of 18 or 19. A police investigator said Stennis "was set upon by at least two subjects."

Bill Seeks Funds Now For Approach

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to require the California Highway Commission to appropriate funds to rebuild the deadly San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge was introduced today by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco.

Calling the Doyle Drive approach "blood alley" and a form of "Russian roulette," the legislator said his bill would order immediate funding of the project.

The commission's present plans call for funding the project in 1977, while Foran noted efforts to improve the roadway have been made since the end of World War II.

He pointed out that there have been 17 fatalities since 1969 and 409 accidents since 1967 on the short stretch.

His bill calls for widening the lanes from 10 to 12 feet, constructing a concrete median barrier and addition of adequate merging lanes.

The Humanities Major To Find Jobs Difficult

STANFORD (UPI) — Jobs will be more plentiful for June university graduates, except for those majoring in the humanities, a Stanford University researcher said Tuesday.

"It appears as though liberal arts and humanities majors in general will require two educations in the immediate future—one for the good life and the other for a salable skill," Ralph Keller reported.

Keller, who directs the university's Planning and Placement Center, said prospects appear good for "engineering majors, especially at the bachelor of science level."

Rabbi Proposes Paying Arabs To Leave Israel

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense League, said Tuesday the government should pay Arabs to leave Israel. A Christian Arab said many of his brethren would go if they could afford it.

Kahane said he was working in Arab villages in the hills of the Galilee region to sign up Arabs wishing to leave.

"I do not want to live in an atmosphere of tension caused partly by the activities of terrorists," said Emanual Kuri, 46, a Christian Arab and a teacher from Fassuta, a village in Western Galilee.

Navy Is Cutting Food Bill Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has substituted hamburger for steak on its menus because of rising food prices.

In a Navywide message, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt cited a 20 per cent increase in the cost of Navy chow over the past six months and he, like many a housewife, ordered the food list changed to keep the budget more in line.

Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, told food managers to stop getting "selected high-cost luxury and convenience items." These include steak, roasts, lamb chops and lobsters.

Silent Prayers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A bill introduced in the Texas Senate Tuesday would permit silent prayers in public schools.

Film Maker Wins Sex Case Appeal

Celebration over one legal victory apparently led to the arrest in Marin of one-time night club operator Lloyd K. Downton of Tamalpais Valley, who is due to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday in connection with his latest problem.

Downton, 42, received word Tuesday that his conviction in connection with a 1971 "sex show" case had been reversed by the state District Court of Appeal.

Downton, who once ran for mayor of San Francisco, served more than 10 months in state prison on a charge of conspiracy and aiding and abetting an act of oral copulation.

The higher court ruled, however, there was no substantial evidence that he had conspired or aided and abetted in the act.

His codefendant, performer Louise Drolet, performer at a sex show Downton produced at bars called the New Follies and the Outer Limits, was acquitted of conspiracy but the high court confirmed her oral copulation conviction.

It was apparently in jubilation over his belated acquittal that led to Downton's arrest for drunken driving on the Golden Gate Bridge early Wednesday.

search facility at the former Tiburon Net Depot. The undersea minerals research project has endured several previous cutbacks, returning a fleet of research vessels back to the Navy.

Marion Otsea, an aide to Mailliard, said the Congressman had been told that only about five of the top officials at the Tiburon facility would be transferred to other federal posts, the rest losing their jobs.

Dr. Don Tocher, chief of the earthquake lab in San Francisco, said about 45 people in his office and in the seismological survey, were affected, with a total annual payroll of about $700,000. Tocher said he was "negotiating" to find other federal posts for the employees. His laboratory has operated since 1964; the seismological survey since 1931, he pointed out.

The earthquake scientist said NOAA had decided to divest itself of all scientific research projects except atmospheric studies and ocean biological studies.

The cutback will end federal research into the cause of earthquakes and how to predict them, Tocher added.

Brother, Sister Will Be Named To Air Academy

Rep. Don Clausen, R-Calif., has announced plans to nominate a Crescent City brother and sister to the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Clausen said he received applications from both Charles and Alicia Lytle this year, but that Miss Lytle will have to wait until next year to be nominated. She is only a high school senior and will not be eligible until then.

If accepted, she would be the first female to attend the academy.

TOWN

students on field trips to the area.

Describing herself as "a naturalist of sorts" Mrs. Shargel entered the fight when it was suggested the condominium site housed "just a few deer."

"It's loaded with animals, fox, deer, skunk, mice and rabbits," said Mrs. Shargel, "it just seemed wrong that people who don't live here could do this to our town. They're the same people that put up Shelter Ridge in Mill Valley, and who's ever heard anything complimentary about that?"

Once the momentous decision to go to law had been taken, the question of paying for it continued.

Costs of the fight which ended yesterday came to a little over $3,000, much lower than they might have been, because Environmental Law Fund is a nonprofit corporation.

So the rebellious townspeople embarked on a low-key fund-raising venture. A spaghetti dinner was held at Le Tonneau and the hat was passed.

Then Jana and Jack Haehl of Corte Madera Avenue arranged an art show and sale.

Haehl is an art teacher at Terra Linda High School, and his wife got involved in the protest when she became president of the Corte Madera Homeowners Association.

Like most of her fellow protesters, Mrs. Haehl hadn't been involved in local government before. Last March she decided her new office meant she should monitor council meetings, and that's how she heard of the Madera del Presidio controversy. Until then she'd never even been inside a home on the east side of town.

Corte Madera is physically divided by the freeway, and there's little communication between east and west.

"But our common bond was frustration," recalled Mrs. Haehl. "We were rejected and it made us allies."

The Haehls collected art works from friends and cleared over $400 for the court fund from a two-day sale at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur in November.

The next fund-raising project will be a benefit performance of the Ross Valley Players production of "How the Other Half Loves" at the Barn in the Art and Garden Center in Ross on March 2, at 8:30 p.m. All proceeds will go to help pay court costs.

It's difficult to determine exactly how many Corte Maderans were involved in the struggle, since everyone is so modest. Credit is given to everyone else, and mostly to the hundreds of people who have contributed money.

"The community has been absolutely gallant," said Mrs. Hallin.

Reward Offered For Stolen Tapes

A Berkeley woman has offered a reward for return of video tapes taken from her car in Fairfax Monday night.

Lucy Turner, a graduate student of the University of California anthropology department, said the sack of tapes was taken sometime Monday night while she visited friends near 80 Rocca Drive.

The tapes were films of Eskimo life she made while on an expedition in the Canadian Artic last year, she said, adding they were part of her doctorate thesis.

The anthropology student urged anyone with knowledge of the tapes to contact her through the Berkeley anthropology department.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Louise M. Hund Dies At 88

Louise M. Hund, wife of the late Dr. Harry O. Hund and long-time member of Marin County Medical Association auxiliary, died yesterday in a Reno hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Hund, 88, died just 19 days after her husband.

She was born in Brooklyn, where she met her husband. They were married in 1912, and observed their 60th wedding anniversary last December.

They moved to Marin County, where Dr. Hund practiced medicine for more than 50 years. The couple first lived in Ross and then moved to 558 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, in 1933. They moved to Reno four years ago.

Besides the Marin County Medical Association Auxiliary, Mrs. Hund was past president of the California State Medical Association Auxiliary.

She is survived by a daughter, Marie White o Reno; a brother, William E. Hotchkiss of Evanston, Ill.; a grandchild, and a great-grandchild.

Memorial service will be at 2 p.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael. Inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to a favorite charity are preferred by the family.

LULA HORNE

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported as Lulu yesterday the first name of Lula Horne of Larkspur, who died Monday at home.

Mrs. Horne, who once shared the award of Marin County's outstanding senior citizen, was a 76-year resident of Marin and a charter member of Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur.

Memorial service will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the church.

MRS. NORTON

Graveside service for Gertrude Norton of Black Point, who died Saturday, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Norton, 86, of 67 Manzanita Avenue, was a long-time member of the Black Point Improvement Club.

Friends may call at the Redwood Chapel Mortuary in Novato this evening.

MRS. BUNDESEN

Blanche L. Bundesen, 73, retired telephone operator, died yesterday at her home in Petaluma after a short illness.

Mrs. Bundesen was a lifelong Petaluma resident and lived at 523 B Street. She had worked more than 25 years as an operator for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Mrs. Bundesen was a member of the Petaluma Christian Science Church. Her husband, Martin, died in 1969.

She is survived by a son, Sterling Bundesen of Los Altos; a daughter, Sophie Moriarty of Santa Barbara; three sisters, Ruby Waite of Penngrove, Lillie McCrum and Mary Deiss of Petaluma; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Private funeral was held today in Petaluma. Inurnment was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

TRUCK DEMOLISHED IN TRAIN COLLISION

The wreckage of a 1960 truck sits beside the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks at Fifth Avenue in San Rafael. The southbound train hit the westbound truck at 9:40 p.m. yesterday at Mission Avenue and dragged it one block before stopping. Ray A. Beardall of Santa Rosa, engineer, said he blew his whistle and rang the bell, but apparently the driver did not see it. San Rafael police reported that tests made later showed that the signals were working then.

INJURED MAN — James Clyde Strauss Jr., 18, of Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax, was lifted into a waiting ambulance last night after his westbound pickup truck was hit by a Northwestern Pacific Railroad train in San Rafael. Strauss was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises, hospital authorities reported.

Hospital's Room Rates Increased

Room rates at Marin General Hospital will rise $6 a day effective tomorrow because of $339,635 salary increases granted to employees last night by the Marin Hospital District oard.

Hospital Administrator Ray K. Bolinger said the raises to be paid in February range up to the 5.5 per cent allowed by the federal government. The annual total increase also includes $28,000 for increased social security taxes.

Room rates under the new schedule will include $71 a day for beds in the medical-surgical, obstetrics and pediatrics units. Semi-private and private rooms will range from $74 to $82, and beds in the intensive care unit will be $166 a day.

Bolinger said Marin General rates will still be comparable to most hospitals in the Bay Area and will be lower than some.

In another financial action last night, the board authorized asking bids for remodeling of the medical records and radiology departments, estimated to cost $150,000.

The bids for the work, which will include a new building on the site of the community Mental Health Center patio for medical records, will be received at the Feb. 27 meeting of the board.

Orderly Conclusion To Growth Controls

By BONNIE BARD

Petaluma's controversial growth control system finished its first complete cycle last night as the city council approved development allotments for 1973-74 in a smooth session that brought only minor complaints from builders.

The council carried out its year-old policy of limiting growth to a maximum of 500 living units per year by alloting 427 units to eight developers.

The 16 applications had been rated numerically by the development allotment board after a lengthy series of meetings and a public hearing. Six developers protested their ratings, but the council overturned only one decision of the board.

Mayor Helen Putnam warned the developers that receiving an allotment is not complete assurance that they will receive permits to build. In some cases, developers must still seek annexation, rezoning and design approval. Should a developer fail to get approval on precise plans, his allotment would be passed on to the developer with the next highest rating.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen was instructed to put the allotments in resolution form for adoption at the council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The council also stuck to its policy of balanced growth between East and West Petaluma and a balance between single-family homes and apartments. The balance system called for 125 eastside houses, 125 eastside apartments, 135 westside apartments and 120 westside single-family homes.

Qantas Development Corp. enjoyed the lone appeal success before the council. John Joslyn argued that additional points should be received for having an adequate drainage plan since the points should not be a matter of individual opinion.

The council agreed to give Qantas the additional points which pushed the point total over the previously high rating of Norman Johnson.

Although allotments for westside development fell below the 250 unit maximum with 177 units, the council rejected the appeal of Camille Enterprises for 33 homes and 67 apartment units south of Hillcrest Hospital.

Patrick Maguire of Camille argued that such a study would cost $50,000 and could not be undertaken unless some assurance plans would be approved and the project actually carried out.

Other appeals also fell on deaf ears, including Caster Mobile Home Corp. which predicted financial failure if plans were rejected for 100 units on North McDowell Boulevard. Representatives said an $800,000 bank note could not be met in April if plans to expand Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park were rejected.

Though disgruntled, the rejected developers lodged only minor complaints and none threatened court action to force the city to allow them to develop. City Atty. Edouard E. Robert has consistently warned the city council that lawsuits could be brought since the policy has yet to be tested anywhere in courts.

The allotments, and firms, listed in order of ratings received, are:

Westside single homes: Ronald Nunn with six units on Dickson Hill; Arthur Condiotti Enterprises with 100 units on I Street extension; and J. W. Combs with 12 units on Cherry Street.

Westside apartments: Lyle D. Hood with eight units on Grant Avenue and Camille Enterprises with 51 units on Keokuk Street.

Eastside single homes: Marino Crinella of Westland Development Corp., 116 units on Ely Road adjacent to Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School.

Eastside apartments: Qantas, 100 units at the rear of Washington Square Shopping Center, and Norman Johnson, 25 units on Stuart Drive.

Rating scores for all development applications, losers as well as winners, were reported in the Dec. 22 edition of the Independent-Journal.

Teamsters Lose Out At Hospital

Teamsters Local 856, which has been picketing Marin General Hospital since Jan. 8, last night lost another bid to represent some of the hospital employees.

In the meantime, the Marin County Employees Association also indicated it would like to act as bargaining agent for the employees.

The Teamsters had originally asked recognition as the bargaining unit for the hospital's housekeeping staff. This request was turned down by the Marin Hospital District board on the grounds the housekeepers were not a large enough department by themselves.

Then the Teamsters submitted a new request, seeking to represent the storekeepers and gardener. Since this group numbers only four men, hospital administrator Ray K. Bollinger said, the board agreed an "appropriate unit still had not been specified."

The matter was referred to the board's personnel committee.

Frank O'Connell, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, who was at last night's board meeting, said his group also wants to represent the hospital employees.

At the present time, only the registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and hospital engineers have collective bargaining units.

Typewriter Taken

An electric typewriter valued at $325 was stolen yesteday from St. John's Episcopal Church, Fifth and C streets, Petaluma, police reported. A rear door was pried open to gain entry.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

6:02 p.m., Tiburon — Hot ashes ignited garbage can which set fire to outside wall of apartment house at 1461 Vistago West; damage estimated at $2,500 including smoke damage to three apartments.

TODAY:

7:24 a.m., Mill Valley — Faulty fireplace ignited floor joists and outside wall at house owned by Mrs. M.A. Harvey at 12 Heuter Lane; no estimate of damage.

Public Building Smoking Ban Bill Introduced

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smoking would be banned in any public place "not open to the sky" under a bill introduced by a legislator who says "I'm tired of people blowing smoke in my face."

The bill by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, would outlaw smoking in any publicly or privately owned enclosed building used primarily by the public, and intrastate transportation equipment such as trains and planes.

"The latest government reports point out smoking may be hazardous to your health whether you smoke or not," Briggs said Tuesday. "Frankly, I'm tired of people blowing smoke in my face."

The bill is AB 202.

Legal Flap By BART Directors

OAKLAND (AP) — A committee of directors has recommended letting Bay Area Rapid Transit's attorney give legal advice to the board without getting the general manager's permission.

The recommendation yesterday stemmed from a meeting last year at which attorney Malcolm Barrett reported he was unable to answer a director's legal question because he would be violating an "attorney-client relationship" with General Manager B. R. Stokes.

The policy proposed for board adoption Feb. 8 would give Barrett "direct legal responsibility" to directors.

Crash Kills 34

BUDAPEST (UPI) — The news agency MTI said today a passenger train struck a bus Tuesday in eastern Hungary, killing at least 34 persons.

Big Auto Theft Ring Broken Up

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — A "sergeant's gang" that included Army and Marine Corps recruiters stole and sold more than $12 million worth of cars — mostly luxury models — around the nation, authorities said today.

The ring was broken up by undercover agents, and five arrests were made, said Sgt. Charles Brown of the Orange Police Department. More arrests are expected soon, he said.

Police closed in Monday on an Army recruiting station in Inglewood, Calif., Brown said, and arrested Army Sgt. 1. C. Joe Taylor, 42, of Lynwood, Calif., and Marine Corps S. Sgt. Gary Daleassandri, 35, of Hawthorne, Calif.

Actor Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Irish actor Jack MacGowran, 54, known for his interpretations of works by playwright Samuel Beckett, died Tuesday, apparently of the London flu. He had been appearing in the Lincoln Center Repertory Company's production of "The Plough and the Stars."

You can participate in the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Study.

Individuals and representatives of citizen organizations are invited to attend a second organizational meeting to form a Citizens Advisory Panel for the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Project. The Panel will work with the consultants planning the future transit system from Sonoma and Marin Counties into downtown San Francisco.

The main emphasis of this study will be upon plans for undergrounding that portion of the system from the Golden Gate Bridge to downtown San Francisco. The study will examine alternative routes, problems and advantages of undergrounding, and the economic, social, and environmental impacts related to the various proposals that will evolve during the course of the study.

If you are interested in helping to shape the course of the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Study, plan to attend this important public meeting to be held:

Thursday, February 1, 7:30 p.m.

Financial Woes Unsolved At Mill Valley Library

The Mill Valley City Council refused last night to cut hours at its financially shaky library and again asked the chief librarian and city manager to work on reducing library costs.

The two are to report the results at a fourth special meeting on the library's financial crisis on Feb. 27. For several months the library had been overrunning its annual budget of $153,878 by as much as $2,000 per month. The city staff now estimates the monthly deficit at $800 to $900.

Last night, the council and library board heard librarian Alberta L. Hankenson suggest that the library could cut back its hours from 60 to 42 per week, lay off seven part-time employees to get within its budget.

Most of the council and the city manager rejected the idea as too drastic.

"It would be like having the police department open only 17 hours a day and having all of them run around like crazy to protect the town during those hours," said City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Councilman Robert E. Burton objected that cutting hours would be a temporary stopgap that would not deal with increasing costs of the library in the future.

Cunningham himself recommended that he could maintain present library service while cutting costs if allowed to juggle tasks and fire two full-time library staff members. Cunningham presented cost and employee statistics from other Bay Area municipal libraries and maintained that the Mill Valley library was being operated more expensively than the rest.

Library board member Eugene W. McGeorge also reported to the council that it would be difficult to have the county take over the Mill Valley library. "It would be problematical at this point whether the county would want us," he said. "We're not in a terribly good bargaining position."

The council and library board finally voted unanimously to have Miss Hankenson and Cunningham get together on a solution.

In another vote of 4-0, the council ordered the library to continue offering present services, but to try to reduce part-time wages which the city staff has blamed for most of the budget deficits. Mayor Jean S. Barnard dissented on the grounds that the motion was "too much of a rerun of measures from past meetings."

Among the crowd of 50 at the meeting, most who spoke on the issue protested that the council would damage the library by trying to cut costs.

Earlier this month, Cunningham reportedly asked Miss Hankenson to resign because of the financial upset. She has refused to do so and claims she can only be fired by the library board which hired her. "So far I have nothing in writing from anyone," she said following last night's meeting.

A Break Sought For Unmarried In Tax Payments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the Senate today under which an unmarried taxpayer would pay no more income tax than a married couple with the same amount of income.

Its sponsors, Sens. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said under existing law 30 million unmarried taxpayers pay $1.6 billion in taxes they would not have to pay if all taxpayers were treated alike.

Single people pay as much as 20 per cent more in taxes than married people with as much income, they said.

Marin Represented In Berkeley Show

Eight Marin County artists are represented in the show, "Printmakers' Prints," now on display through Feb. 28 at the Ames Gallery in Berkeley.

Represented in the collections of prints are Wesley Chamberlin, Robert Fried, Victor Moscoso, John Ilhe, Tom Meisenheimer, Richard O'Hanlon, Elanore Bender and Elizabeth Sher.

Peru Threatens Death Penalty

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — The military government said today it will impose more drastic penalties, including the death penalty, to curb an "alarming" increase in the crime rate.

The death penalty was abolished in most cases in September, 1971, leaving the penalty in force only in cases of certain crimes against police, treason and some types of crimes against minors.

But now, a government decree said, the death penalty now will also cover cases of robbery involving violence that endangers life or is "particularly cruel."

A Good Defense For Lie Detector

SEATTLE (UPI) — A police detective made a pretty good case Tuesday for the screening of prospective policeman with a lie detector.

Dewey Gillespie said a "top candidate" for the Seattle force flunked a polygraph test when "he admitted use, buying and selling of narcotics, shoplifting, property damage, car prowling, pulling false fire alarms, thefts of money and merchandise from employers, vandalism and contributing to the delinquency of a minor."

Tommy Lee Walker, a 27-year-old ex-convict facing another felony charge, leans against a car while jurors in his Marin Superior Court trial visit the scene of alleged assaults. Inside the Mohawk service station at 3050 Bridgeway, Sausalito, the jurors listened yesterday as Judge Henry J. Broderick described the setting. The muscular Walker is charged with assaulting a hitchhiker in front of the station Sept. 28, then beating Sausalito Officer Robert Klein. Walker's attorney told the jury yesterday that his client was provoked. The hitchhiker, John Randolph, kicked Walker, and the officer shoved him and hit him in the hand with a club before Walker retaliated, according to Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs Jr. The trial continued today. Behr Bill Would Aid Homeowner

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to grant homeowners 90 per cent of their property tax exemption for late claims has been introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Present law allows 80 per cent of the full exemption for late claims, but leaves it to county supervisors to decide if there was "reasonable cause" for the late filing. The new bill, SB 104, would eliminate the supervisors' option and make the 90 per cent grant mandatory.

The bill, proposed by Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, would save affected homeowners approximately $40 on their property tax bill, the senator's office said.

The option to find "reasonable cause for late filings was applied inequitably in many counties, and proved too costly to check, the senator's staff said.

The bill, requiring a two-thirds vote in each house, would take effect immediately so it could apply to claims for next fiscal year. The bill would shift the deadline for late filings from June 15 to Dec. 10.

Park Expansion Bill Introduced By Bagley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to earmark some $8 million a year for expansion and development of state parks was introduced today by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The Parks and Recreation Department now is dependent on annual appropriations because the $8 million it collects from fees and rentals goes into the state's general fund, which is used largely for other purposes.

The measure would put the $8 million instead into the Bagley Conservation Fund, which is administered by the department. The fund had $40 million when created in 1971, of which $22 million already has been spent or earmarked, including $5 million for the new coast commissions.

Bagley's bill would exempt fees from boating facilities, which are credited to the Harbors and Watercraft Fund.

A second bill introduced today by Bagley would shift from the Parks and Recreation Department to the Division of Highways an annual budget of some $1 million for roadways through state parks. The department long has objected to including this cost in its budget, Bagley's staff said.

Reappointed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — J. Robert Springer, of Newport Beach, and Michael I. Neil, of La Jolla, were reappointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan Tuesday to four-year terms on the state Veterans Board.

Novato Flood Victims Eye Suit

Residents in the flood-stricken Nave Gardens area of Novato are preparing to file a "class action" suit to recover losses suffered in the mid-January floods.

Herbert Young of 19 Joan Avenue said the intent is to have home owners whose homes suffered "internal damage" in the floods join together in a suit against whoever is responsible for the flood damage.

Young said residents interested in joining the suit can notify him or Sharon Benson at 1554 South Novato Boulevard.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Governor

Disaster — Urged President Nixon to declare San Luis Obispo and Marin Counties and the city of South San Frrancisco disaster areas because of flood damage.

Remap —Told a news conference that reapportionment of the Legislature rests with the Supreme Court.

The Senate

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bennie L. Cooper, 11, who was dragged a block by a runaway bull, died Tuesday. The boy tied a rope around his waist Monday and tried to hold the bull, but it bolted and ran.

Idling Engines Said To Cause Worse Pollution

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — An idling engine can only lead to no good, an automobile association official says.

Cars allowed to idle on cold mornings cause unnecessary air pollution without warming up the vehicle's vital parts, said Gary H. Matters.

"We know that an idling engine produces more pollution than one that is moving," he said.

The important moving parts of the auto, including the drive line and transmission will warm up better by actually driving, said Matters. He warns, however, that drivers should use correct lubricating oils and drive slowly for a few blocks to prevent excessive wear.

Lady Karate Expert Rips Up Burglar

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. Patrick Lynch, a professional wrestler and holder of a black belt in karate, told police she battered and partially ripped the clothing off a man she found burglarizing her home Tuesday night.

Mrs. Lynch, who wrestles professionally in the Orlando area, said she was returning home with her husband at about 10 p.m. When they opened the door o their Titusville house, there stood a prowler with her jewlery and a television set.

"He turned around and hit my husband in the stomach so hard that he doubled on the floor. I thought he had stabbed him with a knife or something so I jumped him," she said.

Police not only have a good description of the 6-foot intruder but Mrs. Lynch is quite sure about what he was wearing, because in addition to Karate chopping, wrestling and "socking him a few times," she tore pieces of his shirt and leather jacket from him.

"He was in the dining room and I knocked him down and he got up and tried to fight so I knocked him again," she told one reporter. "Too bad the gun was in the bedroom because I would have gotten the gun and killed him. I know this much, there was blood all over his face and all over him when he left."

Mrs. Lynch said she was so worried about her husband that she finally let the man flee with a portable television set and at least one stolen wristwatch.

Lynch was not seriously hurt and detectives were looking for the burglar.

Jet's Icy Skid

OSLO (UPI) — A Scandinavian Airline Systems (SAS) jetliner skidded off the runway and onto the frozen surface sea late Tuesday on takeoff then sank in 36 feet of water. The 29 passengers and four crewmembers escaped injury.

Five Named To GOP Central Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Five Marin citizens have been appointed by the county's two state legislators to the Republican State Central Committee.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, appointed Novato City Councilmen George C. Quesada, Arthur J. Costamagna of San Rafael, a member of the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board, and Edwin W. Thomas Jr., also of San Rafael, administrative officer for the governor's cabinet. Thomas also was one of the senator's appointees two years ago.

Appointed by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, were his administrative assistant, Virginia Brunini of Tiburon, and Sally Rakow of Ross. Mrs. Rakow, a trustee of the Ross School District, was one of Bagley's appointments two years ago.

Mrs. Brunini replaced Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael, unsuccessful candidate last year for the governor's appointment to replace the late John F. McInnis as county supervisor.

Behr's six other appointees were from the Napa and Solano county portions of his district. Bagley's were throughout the state, and included retiring presidential adviser Robert H. Finch.

Lawyer Shortage Brings Another Post To Bagley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A rare shortage of lawyers among the dwindling contingent of Republicans in the Assembly has landed Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, on a fourth committee for the 1973-74 session.

Assemblymen usually serve on only three committees, but Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, found there were only four lawyers among the 29 Republicans — with GOP representation needed on both the judiciary and criminal procedures committees.

Bagley, a lawyer, thus was named to the judiciary committee, which he chaired several years ago before becoming one of his party's fiscal experts in the lower house.

Moretti also reappointed Bagley to the key ways and means and revenue and taxation committees, which oversee the budget and all fiscal matters. Bagley previously was reappointed as chairman of the welfare committee.

Half of the 50 Democrats in the Assembly are lawyers.

A New Antioch Bridge Is Nearer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Replacement of the Antioch Bridge, linking Contra Costa County with the San Joaquin-Sacramento Delta, has moved another step closer to reality with the approval of federal funds, says Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

Nejedly said yesterday that the U.S. Transportation Department had released $11.7 million for bridge replacement projects in California during the 1973-74 fiscal year. Of that money, about $7 million will be used to get the new Antioch Bridge started, Nejedly said.

The total cost of the new bridge is estimated at $28 million, of which 75 per cent is to be federal funds, Nejedly said.

Indian Woman To Seek Presidency

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI) — Mrs. Runningwaters Fifi Taft, making her second try for the White House, announced Tuesday she would seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

Mrs. Taft, 57, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian from Cincinnati, Ohio, campaigned in the 1968 New Hampshire primary. She said she will run again in 1976 "because Lyndon Johnson and Harry Truman just died and there's none of us Democrats left."

CASE OF NOT KNOWING THE REAL BIDDER

HUNTER, N.D. — The Town of Hunter wanted a piece of property. So it sent (it thought) one man to bid on a lot that was offered for sale by the county. The piece had been appraised at $500.

The bidding started at $550. Each bid was increased by $50. One man dropped out at $1,200. But a second man and a woman continued to make bids.

It looked like bad news when the price got to $2,400. The woman dropped out.

Then it was discovered that both were bidding for their town.

Comes now the good news: The county auditor, who was running the auction, eased their embarrassment. He lowered the price to $1,500.

Everyone was happy. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Reagan Raps U.S. Action In Vietnam

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday criticized America's fighting of the Vietnam war because it was "unwilling to win it and unable to end it."

"I question the right of any government to ask men to fight for their country and die for their country if that country isn't willing and doesn't believe in a cause enough to go forward and end the war by winning it," said Reagan.

The Republican governor, who wears a bracelet of an American soldier still listed as missing in action, noted with some emotion in his voice that "there's a great uselss sacrifice" in any war.

Reagan commented on the war in reply to a news conference question. It was his first public comments on the conflict—other than a prepared statement—since peace was announced.

Reagan, regarded as a Vietnam "hawk" when such characterizations were popular, was asked whether he considered the war worth it for this country. He did not answer directly.

"I think the war was badly fought for many years," he said, adding that President Kennedy committed troops contrary to President Eisenhower's policies.

"Once in it was a constant case of escalating," he said. "My greatest criticism down through the years of the war is that under two administrations they apparently were unwilling to win it and unable to end it."

Reagan also commented on these topics:

Future—"I'm just a fellow who can't make up his mind," the governor said when asked if he had decided whether to run for the U.S. Senate next year. Reagan replied flatly "no" when asked whether he was considering running for a third gubernatorial term. He said a decision on the Senate race was "not that pressing."

Surplus—The governor stood by what he told a group of high school students Monday, that he is leaning toward an income tax rebate and a delay in the sales tax as a combination way of returning an 1 million surplus to the taxpayers.

Spending—He insisted "I'm just as 'scroogie' as I always was" when it comes to government spending, despite a nearly $9.3 billion budget proposal twice as big as his first one seven years ago.

Reapportionment—He said he will oppose any legislative attempt to "gerrymander" districts in their rush to reapportion the Senate and Assembly before the State Supreme court acts. He also said "there is a built in conflict of interest" in the legislature reapportioning itself. "We've got to come to an end to this every 10 years cutting up the state like a melon to suit whoever happens to be in power."

Calls Swamp POW Center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Those wishing to express relief and concern to families of U.S. prisoners of war and missing should do so by letter or telegram rather than by direct telephone calls to the families.

The plea was made Monday by the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

"They are delighted by the concern of people, but telephone calls are interfering with the job of obtaining an accounting of all of the men," a spokesman for the league said.

QUAKE SHAKES MEXICO

An earthquake rocked Central Mexico from coast to coast yesterday, heavily damaging mountain towns and villages in at least three states. The quake was felt from the Pacific seaport of Manzanillo to Veracruz on the Gulf of Mexico, but most damage was on the Pacific side. Registering 7.5 on the Richter scale, the quake was stronger than that which destroyed the Managuan capital of Nicaragua last month. Authorities reported at least 10 dead and nearly 150 injured.

Novato Councilmen Delay Commercial Zone Action

Concerned about the effect of competition on a lagging downtown area, the Novato City Council last night put off decision on a request for commercial zoning at the future Rowland Boulevard interchange on Highway 101.

Alfred Burn of Mill Valley, who plans to develop a shopping center on the Pinheirc Ranch, said that major development at the interchange "will kill the downtown" section of the city.

The 34 acres of commercial zoning is being sought by Novato Center Inc. as part of a plan for a 36-hole golf course, motel-convention center, lake, overnight motor coach park, tennis courts and industrial park on the 455-acre Hanna Ranch northeast of Highways 101 and 37.

Attorney Quentin Cook said that the commercial zoning is vital to the entire plan and that the commercial uses planned wouldn't conflict with downtown business, but would be oriented to the highway.

"We're not talking about downtown use," Cook said. "We're talking about a regional type, drawing from all directions."

Council George C. Quesada said approval of 34 acres of commercial zoning "could jeopardize the downtown plan and what we hope to accomplish on the Pinheiro site."

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said he hoped the developers could get the kind of tenants that would attract people to Novato.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said he was seeking some way to make sure that commercial uses at the interchange would not be competitive with downtown business.

The council returned the request for commercial zoning to the city planning commission, which had recommended planned industrial in the area.

Cook said the firm is working toward a partnership with golfer Jack Nicklaus, winner od the Crosby tournament this week, on the proposed golf course.

The city's downtown plan sparked earlier discussion when Emil Renati appealed planning commission denial of a use permit for a Goodyear store at Highway 101 and Vallejo Avenue.

Commissioners said the use wouldn't be in keeping with the downtown plan, which calls for administrative professional offices in the area.

Ruegg, admittedly exasperated, said "the downtown plan can't be a blueprint for stagnation," and must have flexibility. To deny a permit for the Goodyear store would be ridiculous, he said.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said the effect of the store on the downtown plan had to be considered not only at the site but surrounding area.

A vote to uphold Renati's appeal ended in a 2-2 vote, with Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young in favor. Quesada abstained.

On reconsideration, the council voted unanimously to continue the matter until Monday at 7 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

A Weapon Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, the worlds largest nation in area, and the Republic of San Marino, one of the worlds smallest republics, signed a convention today on prohibition of development, production and stockpiling of bacteriological weapons, the Tass news agency said.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If a baseball player ever gets $300,000 for hitting .300 or a football player ever makes $6,000 per touchdown, they can point to San Francisco topless queen Carol Doda as the pioneer in this style of labor relations.

Miss Doda's silicone-enlarged bosom measures 44 inches. She renegotiated her contract with Condor's for 1973 Monday and got a raise—from $36,000 to $44,000.

Discussion Delayed On Novato Park Site

A possibility of acquiring the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue, long considered for a major park site, cropped up before the Novato City Council last night.

Councilmen were considering taking an option on a 13-acre park site near Lynwood Park when Councilman David Price Jones mentioned a potential agreement for long-term purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair site.

Jones said, with $65,000 available for park land, he would prefer to see funds go toward both sites, and the council continued park site purchase discussion until Feb. 20.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported the city could purchase the 13-acre site owned by Harry Heifetz at a cost of $154,315, with payments over a five-year period.

Jones then reported that City Atty. Clark M. Palmer was working on an agreement with attorneys for the O'Hair property, an agreement Palmer said was "near solution."

The Heifetz property is being considered as a neighborhood park for the South Novato area, while the O'Hair site has been viewed as a potential community park.

The council also continued until Feb. 12 consideration of a $400,000 claim by Jean Ostlind over city refusal to permit a Taco Bell restaurant at Novato Square.

The council was asked how much it spent in legal fees when it lost a zoning suit to Shell Oil Co. The question was in a letter from Alfred W. Bowman, read by Joseph Corr of 401 Via Del Plano.

Councilmen said they had no objections to divulging the legal fees, but the costs hadn't yet been computed.

One resident asked where the funds would come from if the city lost a suit by Mrs. Ostlind and Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said it would be a city expense.

The Novato City Council Also:

HERITAGE TREES — Adopted an ordinance to require a property owner to obtain a use permit to remove a sizable, rare or historic tree from his property. The vote was 3-2 with Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young dissenting.

SAN MARIN — Unanimously approved amending the San Marin master plan to permit Kaufman and Broad to construct 230 townhouses along San Marin Drive from Simmons Lane to San Marin High School, a plan endorsed by the San Marin Improvement Association.

BICYCLES — Introduced an ordinance regulating the registration and driving of bicycles and an ordinance amendment prohibiting vehicles from crossing bicycle paths and horse trails.

AGRICULTURAL SUPPLIES — Awarded contracts for agricultural compounds and fertilizers to Occidental Chemical Co. at a cost of $3,429 and Custom Chemicides Inc. at a cost of $2,376.

IMPOUND FEES — Introduced an ordinance to increase the impounding fees for animals from $7 to $10 for the first impounding, $10 to $15 for the second and from $10 to $25 for the third, following similar action by the Marin County Board of Supervisors Jan. 16.

RESTROOM — Approved plans and specifications for a restroom at Olive School Park estimated to cost $6,000, and set opening of bids for Feb. 22.

JUNIOR MISS — Congratulated Lori Gieleghem, 17-year-old Novato High School senior, who was selected California Junior Miss Saturday and will compete for the national Junior Miss title in Mobile, Ala., in May.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Dorothy Mitchell of 71 Blanca Drive from the environmental quality and solid waste committees.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House to complete the agenda and continue review of the 1972 Novato General Plan.

Flu Death Toll 383 In State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State health officials say London flu has hit about 5 million Californians — some 25 per cent of the state's population — and has taken the lives of at least 383.

Vince Vandre, a spokesman for the state Public Health Department, said yesterday that the epidemic appeared to be easing. Last week's death toll from the virus and from pneumonia complications was 118 — up by nine from the week before.

SUPERVISORS

A Parking Problem Pondered

Three Marin County supervisors have learned the hard way that the sheriff's office can be pretty sticky when it comes to parking violators at Civic Center.

For weeks, supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Robert A. Roumiguiere and Gary T. Giacomini have been playing little games with those who horn in on their reserved parking slots.

The favorite trick was to double park behind the offending vehicle and force its owner to either wait or go through the embarrassment of finding and asking the supervisor to move his auto.

Another favorite was to call the sheriff's office and have the hapless visitor's auto cited for illegal parking.

Both tactics worked well until the supervisors decided to combine the two in one — double park and call the sheriff to issue a citation.

Sheriff's deputies — upholding the letter of the law — have since been citing not only the illegally parked vehicles in the supervisors' slots but also the supervisors' double-parked autos.

The fine for illegally parking in a reserve slot is $1, while for double parking it's $3.

The score so far is visitors 4, supervisors 12 — dollars that is.

The three supervisors, on the losing end of the game despite The higher score, called it quits yesterday and directed County Administrator John F. Barrows to come up with a solution.

Flood Bond Vote Set April 17

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to set a special $4.5 million bond election April 17 in Novato to finance flood control work on Novato Creek.

The measure was initiated by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

Successful passage, which requires a two-thirds favorable vote, would provide for 25-year bonds to proceed with an Army Corps of Engineers plan for the creek or to develop a separate plan on a lesser scale, according to Baptiste.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

INVESTIGATORS — Turned down a request by a child support investigator that his position be reclassified to higher paid district attorney investigator. The board returned the matter to the personnel department for a new job description and recommended salary range.

WELFARE — Granted $50 per month in general relief funds to three residents of the Center Point Drug Rehabilitation Clinic. The assistance was limited to a three-month period.

OPEN SPACE — Set a special meeting with the parks and recreation department for Feb. 13 at 8:30 a.m. to discuss open space land acquisition. Supervisors, who serve as directors of the new regional park district, plan to meet as the district board on the second Tuesday of each month.

APPOINTMENTS —Appointed Parnell Finne, a county personnel commissioner; Dr. Robert Taylor, county mental health director; and Chester F. Villalba, head of the family services agency to a three-member committee to evaluate the Children's Treatment Center at Juvenile Hall.

RESOLUTION — Adopted unanimously a resolution by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere commending President Nixon on achieving a "cease fire" in South Viet Nam.

FIREHOUSE — Deferred action on a request that $35,000 be added to the $55,000 already budgeted for construction of a new fire department headquarters in Woodacre. County staff said they underestimated construction costs. The existing headquarters in Woodacre is beyond repair, the staff said. The board did authorize preliminary working drawings be drafted.

CONCESSION — Awarded the McNear's Beach food concession to Herbert Becker of Mill Valley, who offered to underwrite $1,500 cost of structural changes to a county owned concession building plus $50 per month rental and 5 per cent of net sales.

CLUSTERING — Approved an amendment to the zoning code allowing for clustering of homes in agricultural zoned areas of the county as a means of saving ecologically fragile areas.

STUDY — Authorized up to $2,500 for a contract with the firm of Warren E. Nute for a study of reuse of sewage effluent at the proposed North Bay Front Park. Also, up to $13,250 for utility and transportation studies at the park by John W. Hill.

CLAIM — Rejected a $100,000 claim from Douglas F. and Bette L. Woods, who own a business at 2951 Bridgeway, Sausalito. They claim their business was flooded during this month's storms due to the county's failure to "provide adequate and reasonable flood and water drains and sewers...

REZONING — Approved agricultural rezoning for about 10 scattered parcels of land that were excluded for one reason or another during the board's rezoning of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve. Other rezonings were postponed to the May 15 meeting.

Supervisors To Study Removal Of Drydocks In Richardson Bay

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to study how much it will cost to remove what one supervisor called "a county wart," the abandoned and derelict drydocks in Richardson Bay.

The board agreed to set up a committee headed by Sausalito Mayor Robin Sweeny and Supervisor Michael Wornum, whose district encompasses Sausalito and the drydocks.

The committee is to find out if the World War II vintage docks, long declared an eyesore by Sausalito city fathers and county officials, can be burned to water level and removed for less than the $40,000 set aside for that purpose two years ago.

Subsequent to that time, the board was informed that the Army Corps of Engineers could remove the docks if authorized and funded from Washington. The matter lapsed and in November of last year the corps told the board that given optimum political conditions in Washington, it would be at least two years before funds could be made available for their removal.

Results of the committee's findings are expected to lead to funds being set aside in the 1973-74 budget that will sound the death knell for the docks, once the subject of dreams by their owner to transform them into a $2.5 million educational and cultural complex.

The meeting room rocked with laughter when Mayor Sweeny ran down the present state of ownership of the docks:

They technically belong to Sausalito artist Chris Roberts, who is behind in his payments on them to the Bank of America, but a stipulation in the contract reads "that if he does not keep up his payments, the bank will not repossess."

The docks nearly burned down in 1970 when one wall mysteriously erupted in flames, a fire doused by a San Francisco fireboat to the delight of Roberts and his supporters and but to the vociferous dismay of many public officials.

Novato Sets Survey On Fund Direction

The Novato City Council is going to make a random survey of about 500 city residents on what they believe the city should do with its $115,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

Councilman George C. Quesada, who voted against the survey last night, called it an "exercise in futility" that "frustrates representational government." He said the council was elected to "do this job" of determining how the funds should be allocated.

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said it would give the council a "good reading" of what residents consider their priorities for use of the funds. The council hears mostly from "organized groups" and the survey questionnaire will provide opinion from the "average citizens" who don't attend council or planning commission hearings, he said.

Councilmen said they would seek the aid of local civic groups such as the Novato Jaycees to aid in making the survey. Completion is expected to take about a month.

Agnew Daughter To Join Hospital Ship

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI) — The 25-year old daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will embark Thursday on a 10-month cruise aboard the medical ship Hope for work with ambulatory children in South America.

Susan Agnew resigned her staff position Tuesday at the Eastern Shore State Hospital in Cambridge.

Rail Sandbagging Blamed For Novato Flood Water

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported to the Novato City Council last night that sandbagging of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. trestle was "probably the single most important contributing factor to the high level of flooding experienced two weeks ago.

The sandbagging raised the level of Novato Creek nearly two feet at the trestle by preventing water from spilling over into adjacent fields "and added one to one-and-one-half feet to the water surface elevation through Nave Gardens," he said.

"This caused water to spill out of Nave Gardens along its south side and flood the Automart subdivision, Yukon Way and Scottsdale," Brown reported.

Novato is working with the flood control zone "to persuade the railroad to find alternate means of protecting their trestle so sandbagging with its resulting increase in the creek level will not be necessary," Brown said.

Energy Crisis Seen Within Armed Forces

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — For the first time since World War II, the United States faces the possibility it may not be able to routinely provide all the fuel needed by its armed forces, a Pentagon spokesman has said.

Richard T. Mathews, a Defense Department petroleum expert, told an industry-military jet fuel symposium Tuesday that the Pentagon was unable to buy enough jet fuel in December to meet its requirements in the Pacific, an area that included the Indochina war zone.

Mathews said most of the attention on the energy crisis has been focused toward domestic problems, but he said the Defense Department has been having difficulties too.

A Citation On 'Shaggy Dog' Story

I-J Special Report

SAN ANDREAS — The publisher of a small mountain newspaper goes to court Feb. 21 to fight a contempt citation issued in connection with an editorial he wrote criticizing the local judge.

The case is the first in the nation in which a newspaper has been cited for contempt in connection with an editorial, said Oscar A. Mellin, publisher of the Calaveras Enterprise, a weekly newspaper in this old Gold Rush county which was made famous by Mark Twain's story of "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

(Mellin is the father of Lois Truett of Novato, whose husband, Harold, is Marin County public defender.)

"We won't be suppressed," said Mellin, who is also a lawyer. "We're going to fight this. If you don't fight the little fights, you lose the big ones." he said.

The Enterprise printed an editorial on Jan. 17 in which it suggested that the local justice court of Judge Howard Blewett resembled a "kangaroo court." The editorial was signed by Mellin.

The editorial specifically criticized the handling of a case in which Judge Blewett ordered seizure of a dog trespassing on his property, then brought charges against the dog's owner and presided over the pretrial hearing even though he himself was the complainant.

Mellins' editorial described it as a "ludicrous situation where the judge deliberately had a neighbor's dog trapped and then hailed the owner into his court, set the bail and then tried to sit in judgement on the case."

"In our view," the editorial said, "this gives credence to some local lawyers' opinions that our local judicial courts have a strong resemblance to kangaroo courts."

"Despite the fact that that this case shows the ludicrous actions of the court from a legal standpoint," the editorial adds, "it is one of the funniest 'shaggy dog' stories we have heard in years."

Mellin said he was served with the contempt citation Sunday.

Mellin said he had contacted the Publishers Auxiliary in Washington, D.C. and was told his was the first case on record of a newspaper being cited for contempt in connection with an editorial.

Judge Blewett could not be reached for comment.

Suit Filed Over Quarry Rezoning

American Savings and Loan Association has filed suit against the Town of Corte Madera for $750,000 damages arising from the town council's November rezoning of the quarry site.

The suit, filed by attorney Edmund L. Regalia of Oakland, claims the rezoning constitutes "inverse condemnation, confiscation without compensation and denial of due process."

It also alleges the "downzoning was for the purpose of devaluation with a view to acquiring same for open space for less than the fair market value."

American Savings had wanted the 20.5-acre site on the wooded hillside behind the Corte Madera regional library zoned R-2½ to permit high density housing, with a maximum of 209 units.

But at its meeting last Nov. 20 the council voted 3-1 to rezone the quarry to R-1 Planned Unit Development, a category which will permit up to 111 housing units clustered in the site's center.

The decision was greeted with wild applause from a large audience that had long opposed the proposed denser housing on a site which is included in the Northridge Open Space Plan.

In the suit, which Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said was filed in Marin Superior Court last week, Regalia stated the $750,000 damage claim is based on the difference in fair market value after rezoning, real estate taxes, costs of planning consultants, interest, invested capital and loss of use of income and rents.

American Savings and Loan paid $442,289 for the quarry in July 1967, acquiring it by foreclosing on money they'd lent on it, Howard Lawson, vice president and property manager, told the Corte Madera Town Council on Nov. 20.

Legal costs broughtthe price up to $524,598, said Lawson. Since that time property taxes of $7,000 a year had been paid, and in August 1972 it was appraised at $699,701. Its assessed valuation is about $250,000.

Lawson said a company assessor asserts that if R-1 planned unit development zoning were applied to the land, its value would be between $330,000 and $400,000.

The lawsuit will be considered by the Corte Madera Town Council at its next meeting, Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, said Bartels.

'Sounding Board' Topic Will Be Abortion Plan

The U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision conditionally sanctioning abortions in early pregnancy will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speakers will be Dr. Paul Hohe, gynecologist at Marin General Hospital; Dr. Edward Boyce, medical director of Planned Parenthood in Marin; Marie de Pizzol, representing the Voice for the Unborn organization; sociologist Mary L. Tranckino, and Patricia Maginnis, women's rights advocate and founder and president of the Society for Humane Abortion.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10 a.m. Sunday. Questions are invited for tomorrow's broadcast.

Sonoma Dam Project Delayed

Oft-postponed completion of the Warm Springs dam in Northern Sonoma County was set back another year this week when a third of its scheduled outlay was slashed in the federal water resources budget.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma County Water Agency, said $3,850,000 was budgeted for dam construction while $9 to $10 million was expected to keep the project on the latest schedule.

The water conservation dam near Cloverdale was originally approved in 1962, at which time completion was exptectd by 1968. Miller said the funding loss now defers the finish date to 1978-79.

The budgeted funds will permit continued relocation of roads and construction of a conduit, but will not allow construction of the main dam structure as planned.

When completed, the project by the Army Corps of Engineers will be known as Lake Sonoma, and recreation areas will cover 17,440 acres.

$500 Fine For Possessing Pot

A 21-year-old Novatan has been fined $500 in Marin Superior Court for possessing marijuana and amphetamines.

In addition to the fine, Judge David Menary Jr. also gave Fredric Ralph Fuller three years of probation for having 97 grams of marijuana and a gram of amphetamine.

Fuller was arrested Aug. 26 by a California Highway Patrol officer on Highway 101 near the Pacheco Overpass in Novato. Drugs were found in the car.

The young paint salesman told his probation officer he bought the marijuana for $50 to hand out at a party, and the other substance was thrown in by the seller.

BUTCHER'S TIP

Cutting Up Meat At Home Can Mean Money Savings

You can save money by cutting up meat at home, according to Merle Ellis, a butcher at the Corner Market in Tiburon.

Ellis will give three public lectures and demonstrations, sponsored by St. Hilary's Women's Club Gourmet Group at the Tiburon home of Mrs. Bryan Cowman on Feb. 6, 13 and 20 from 10 a.m. to noon.

A former television producer, Ellis resigned from his job to make documentary films. "For the last six months I have had to fall back on my trade; I was a journeyman meat cutter when I graduated from high school," he said.

He has explained butchering on television shows and hopes to teach cooking classes. At the meat counter he plans a dozen menus a week for customers who ask, "What shall I have for dinner?" he said. Ellis is writing a cookbook naming meat cuts first and then giving a variety of recipes for them "so that when you see a loin of pork on sale, you grab it and look in my book to find out what to do with it."

There are two basic kinds of meat — tender or tough. There are two basic kinds of cooking methods — dry and moist, he said.

If you know the cut comes from a less tender portion of the animal, it needs moist cooking. Use it in any braised dish like stew which calls for moisture to tenderize the meat, he said.

YOU CAN save money by knowing which cuts of meat you need for your recipe, the butcher said.

Meat buyers often are confused because recipe names have gotten into the show case, mixed up with names of beef cuts. "I have seen six different meat cuts labeled Chateaubriand. It could be anything from tenderloin to top round; they are selling the name," he said.

A number of different steaks can be used for Swiss steak and many cost less than what the meat market has labeled as Swiss steak. Often people buy more expensive cuts of meat than they need, he said.

A customer who wants to make a stew usually buys meat labeled beef stew. To economize, she should instead buy a large chuck roast at a lower price per pound and cut it up at home into stew beef, strips for Chinese dishes, steaks and make soup from the bone, the butcher said.

"Certain portions of chuck can be broiled using tenderizer. The first cut of chuck is only a knife cut away from prime rib; cut it for broiling. That is the one the butcher is apt to charge less for because it has more fat and waste," said Ellis.

He believes people spend too much money for chicken parts. Instead, buy the whole-body chickens and cut them up at home. In most cases a good portion of a pre-cut chicken breast is, in fact, part of the back, he said.

"YOU CAN often buy a whole-body chicken for what you pay for one breast," Ellis said.

Collect necks, backs and wings in your freezer until you have enough to make sauces and soups, he suggested.

"You will be hard pressed to find a friendly butcher who will bone chicken breasts and stuff them with crab or prepare chicken wings Chinese style for hors d'oeuvres. But you can do it yourself; it's fun and less expensive," he said.

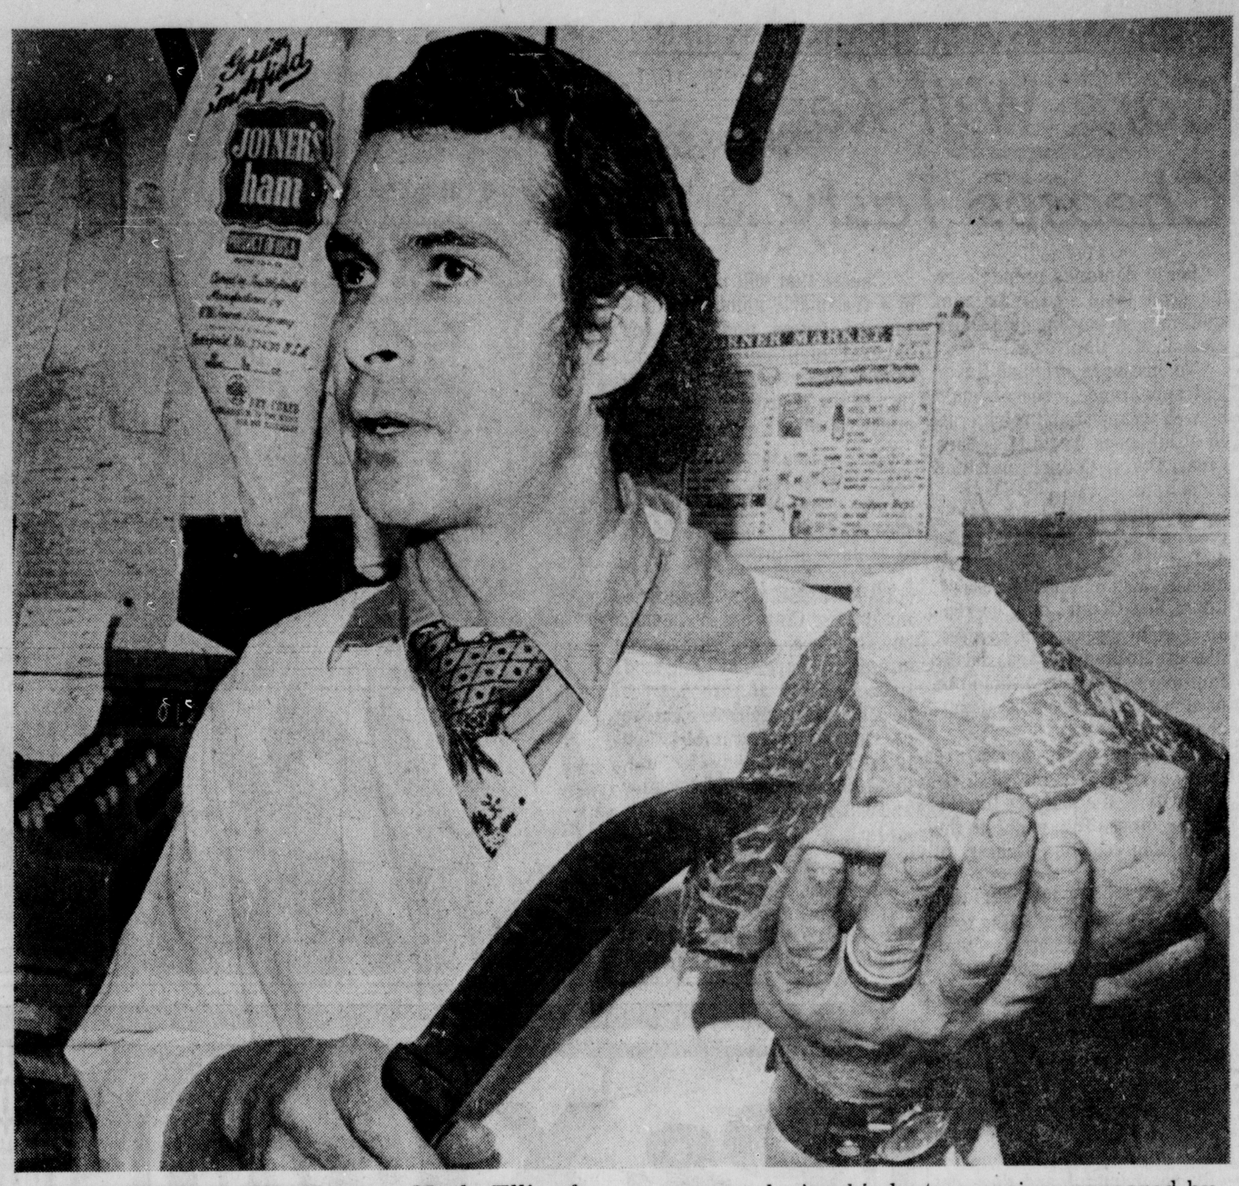
Ellis uses a 10-inch steak knife and a seven-inch boning knife which were given to him over 10 years ago by his father, a butcher in Mill Valley. Neither knife cost more than $8. He never takes his knives from the drawer without taking out his steel, too, to keep them sharp.

He suggested asking your butcher to get you some knives the next time his knife man comes, or to tell you where he gets his.

Meat cutting requires no strength, the butcher added. It's all in knowing where the joints are.

"All you need is a knife, a cutting board and courage," he said. "The board is to keep the knife from getting dull. The courage is to keep the knife from getting shaky."

VERSATILE RUMP roast (left) can be cut at home into (from top, clockwise) thin strips for Oriental dishes, cubes for braised beef recipes, half-inch Swiss steaks (center), laced beef rolls, thin slices to make the beef rolls. Rump roast is usually lower priced per pound than Swiss steak cut by the butcher, according to Merle Ellis.



JOURNEYMAN MEAT cutter Merle Ellis of the Corner Market in Tiburon will explain how to identify cuts of meat and prepare them and how to cut meat at home to save money during his lecture series sponsored by St. Hilary's Women's Club on Feb. 6, 13 and 20 at the Tiburon home of Mrs. Bryan Cowman. Austrians Really Mean It When They Say 'Soup's On'

"Soup's On" is an official announcement to be taken literally in any Austrian household — because they mean just that.

The love of soup is as native to the Austrian taste as the passion for sweets and twice a day, at lunch and dinner, soup provides an integral part of the menu.

It can be thin soup or thick soup, bisque or bouillon. It can be chicken or beef or fish soup, filled with either dumplings, artichokes, spinach, potatoes, onions or peas or it could be all of them. But whatever soup it is you can be sure that it will be served in the true Austrian style of elegance — a steaming tureen or a beautifully decorated bouillon cup.

It has been said that an Austrian girl preparing for her wedding would not worry as much about her blankets and linens as she would about her soup tureens, bouillon cups and saucers.

Three Austrian soups that have been slightly changed to help the American consumer prepare them more quickly are the following:

Austrian Zwiebelsuppe, which is similar to a French onion, has been topped with a slice of French bread broiled with a coating of grated Austrian Swiss cheese. The appearance and flavor of the hot cheese adds a delightful touch.

Austrian Potato Potage may be thought of as a healthy winter soup filled with protein and vitamins and packed with a great flavor. Especially popular as an apres-ski dish.

Austrian Swiss Vichyssoise is considered more of a gourmet item. But even though it is a cold soup, you can enjoy it all year round as an appetizer or a meal in itself.

AUSTRIAN ZWIEBELSUPPE
(Onion Soup)

¼ cup butter or margarine
6 large onions, chopped or 3 large onions and 1 bunch leeks trimmed and chopped
6 cups beef broth
6 large slices French bread
1 cup grated Austrian Swiss cheese (4 ounces)

In a kettle heat butter and saute onions until golden. Add beef broth and simmer slowly for 20 minutes or until onions are tender. Sprinkle toast thickly with grated cheese and place under broiler. Broil until cheese melts. Spoon soup into large bowls and top with cheese toast. Serves six.

AUSTRIAN POTATO POTAGE

¼ cup bacon or sausage drippings
1 onion, chopped
⅓ cup flour
3 cups chicken broth
3 cups milk
4 potatoes, peeled and finely diced
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1½ cups grated Austrian Swiss cheese (6 ounces)
Salt and pepper

In a kettle heat bacon drippings. Saute onion until golden. Stir in flour and stir over medium heat until flour is golden brown. Stir in chicken broth and milk. Add potatoes and mushrooms. Stir until soup bubbles and thickens slightly. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Stir in cheese one handful at a time until smooth and melted. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serves six.

AUSTRIAN SWISS VICHYSSOISE

3 chicken bouillon cubes
3 cups water
1½ cups milk
1 envelope instant mashed potatoes
1 package (6 ounces) Austrian Swiss cheese, finely grated
1 cup light cream
½ teaspoon Worcestershire

In large pot, combine bouillon cubes, water and milk; stir to boiling point. Remove from heat; whip in potatoes and cheese. Cool; add cream and Worcestershire. Serve ice cold with chives or watercress, as desired. Serves eight.

Recipe For Chicken Wings Given

Coralie Castle and Margaret Gin, authors of "Peasant Cooking of Many Lands," offer this recipe for chicken wings. They were guests today on Diane MacMillan's "Cooking Time in Marin" on KTIM.

HEM THUEN JOW GAI YIT
(Fried Chicken Wings with Sweet and Sour Sauce)

Remove tips (reserve for soup) from:
2 pounds chicken wings, cut at joints

Marinate one hour in mixture of:
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon sherry
2 slices fresh ginger root, minced
2 green onions, chopped
½ teaspoon minced garlic

Place wings in bowl with:
1 egg beaten

Stir to coat well; add and coat with:
½ cup flour

Fry in hot oil, ½ inch deep, one layer at a time, until golden on both sides. Drain and place on shredded lettuce.

Combine 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons each of catsup, vinegar, cornstarch and sugar; 1½ tablespoons plum sauce (optional). Heat until slightly thickened and adjust seasonings to taste. Pour over chicken wings and sprinkle with: ¼ cup toasted sesame seeds. Serve hot or cold with preserved mixed vegetable relish. Serves six.

3 slices of bacon, cut in half
3 small dill pickles, cut in half or one big one cut into six wedges
1 carrot, chopped
1 stalk of celery, chopped
½ cup flour
salt and pepper to taste
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 12-ounce bottle beer

Trim any excess fat from meat. With a mallet, a heavy frying pan or a rolling pin, pound each piece of meat a few good whacks to make it good and thin.

Spread each piece with one teaspoon mustard. Near one edge of each piece, place a strip of bacon, a wedge of onion and one of pickle. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, secure with toothpicks, and lace with string.

Put flour, salt and pepper in a bag. Add meat rolls, two or three at a time and shake, coating well.

In a heavy skillet or electric fry pan, heat the oil over moderate heat until it begins to sputter. Add the floured meat rolls and brown well on all sides. Reduce heat to low, add celery, carrots and half of the beer. Cover and simmer for about one hour until tender. Turn the rolls once or twice during cooking and add more beer if needed.

Remove rolls to a warm platter. Remove toothpicks and string. Strain the cooking liquid and return it to the pan over high heat. Thicken with Beurre Manie (flour and butter kneaded together into small balls and added to hot liquid). Pour sauce over meat rolls and serve.

This dish is good with simple boiled potatoes and perhaps a dish of sauteed red cabbage.

Care Will Keep Cheeses Tasty

Cheese demands proper care for good taste and maximum shelf-life, according to Dairy Council of California.

"To preserve original flavor and appearance, cheese should be well wrapped and refrigerated at all times," said Miss Sara Cina, Dairy Council nutrition consultant.

According to Miss Cina, the type of cheese and care given dictate cheese shelf-life. Hard cheese, such as Cheddar, Swiss, Edam and Gouda, may be kept up to eight weeks. Soft cheeses, like cream and cottage, do not improve with age and should be used within a few days of purchase.

The longer some cheeses are held, even under the best refrigeration, the sharper the flavor becomes. This is due to the continuing curing process of cheese.

"WHATEVER ITS variety, cheese should be kept well wrapped," said Miss Cina. "The original wrapping is adequate until the cheese has been unwrapped. Once the cheese is cut, however, it becomes necessary to cover with a plastic wrap or foil to exclude all air."

Wrapping the cheese keeps it moist and fresh. It also causes mold to grow but this is generally not harmful and does not affect the eating quality.

"If mold should develop, cut or scrape it off with a clean knife," said Miss Cina. "And then wash the knife so the mold won't spread, rewrap the cheese in fresh wrapping and refrigerate."

Blue, Brie, Camembert and other strong-flavored cheeses should be well wrapped as well as stored in air tight containers to keep flavor from spreading to other food.

"Cheese that will not be used in a reasonable amount of time can be frozen and kept for several months," said Miss Cina. "This may affect the texture of the cheese but it will not affect flavor."

Low-moisture cheese like Cheddar, Swiss, Edam and Gouda, freeze better than cheese high in moisture, such as cottage or processed.

TO FREEZE cheese, according to Miss Cina, cut in one-half pound pieces, wrap with moisture-proof paper or foil and freeze quickly at zero degrees or colder. Quickly-frozen cheese does not become crumbly when thawed. When ready for use, thaw slowly in the refrigerator and eat as soon as possible.

"Cheese is best served at room temperature," said Miss Cina. "Most cheeses, except for cottage, taste best when laid out at room temperature 30 minutes prior to serving time."

CHEESE SELECTION — A wide variety of flavorful, high-quality cheeses (left) are available to California shoppers. There's a cheese to suit every taste. Consumers are assured of purchasing cheeses that have been carefully cared for to assure good taste and maximum shelf-life. Dairy Council of California reminds shoppers to keep cheese well wrapped and refrigerated.

Lamb Often Is Ignored

It's the wise shopper who takes advantage of the wide variety of meat cuts in her retailer's display case. In the scramble for beef and pork, lamb too often is ignored. Then too, there's more to lamb than legs and loin chops.

Chops from the lamb shoulder cost less yet also are flavorsome and nutritious. These arm and blade lamb chops can be broiled or braised. They are especially inviting when glazed with jelly —be it apple, mint or currant.

JELLY GLAZED LAMB CHOPS

- 4 lamb arm or blade chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1½ teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons fat
- ¼ cup apple, currant or mint jelly
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Dredge lamb chops in seasoned flour and brown in lard or drippings. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes, turning occasionally. Pour off drippings. Mix jelly, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and pour over chops. Cover and continue cooking, turning occasionally until chops are coated with jelly glaze.

I-J OFFERS FORMS FOR ENGAGEMENTS & WEDDING STORY INFORMATION

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Mill Valley, Novato and Petaluma.

A junior at Redwood High School, Kellie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Oneal of Corte Madera.

Other officers who will be installed are Cindy Lambert, worthy associate adviser; Cheryl Guasco, charity; Janet Fields, hope, Robin Merwin, faith; Lolette Davis, recorder; LoMae Mathis, treasurer; Jennifer Jessup, chaplain; Nancy Phillips, drill leader; Colleen Richardson, love; Colleen Merwin, religion; Melodie Mathis, nature; Suzy Pride, immortality; Sabrina Young, fidelity.

Janet Harriman, patriotism; Diana Grant, service; Jane Sullivan, confidential observer; Susan Gilbert, outer observer; Patty Stahl, musician; Amy Hughes, choir director; Karen Brown, historian; Ellen Littman, banner bearer; and Lisa Friedman, flag bearer.

MRS. CHARLENE Arthur, co-owner of a bath shop at Northgate Mall, will speak at the meeting tomorrow of Alpha Lambda Chapter of Kappa Phi Sigma. The program will be held at the home of Mrs. Renate Klahr of Novato at 7:45 p.m.

A VALENTINE luncheon will be held at noon tomorrow by the Novato Federated Women's Club, preceded by a meeting at 11 a.m. at the Novato Library lecture room. Following the luncheon there will be tables of bridge and other games.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Claude Lewin, Edward Pennington and Emile Patrick.

INITIATION AND inspection will be held by Bethel 48, International Order of Job's Daughters, at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Masonic Temple in San Rafael. Janet Hinderman is chairman.

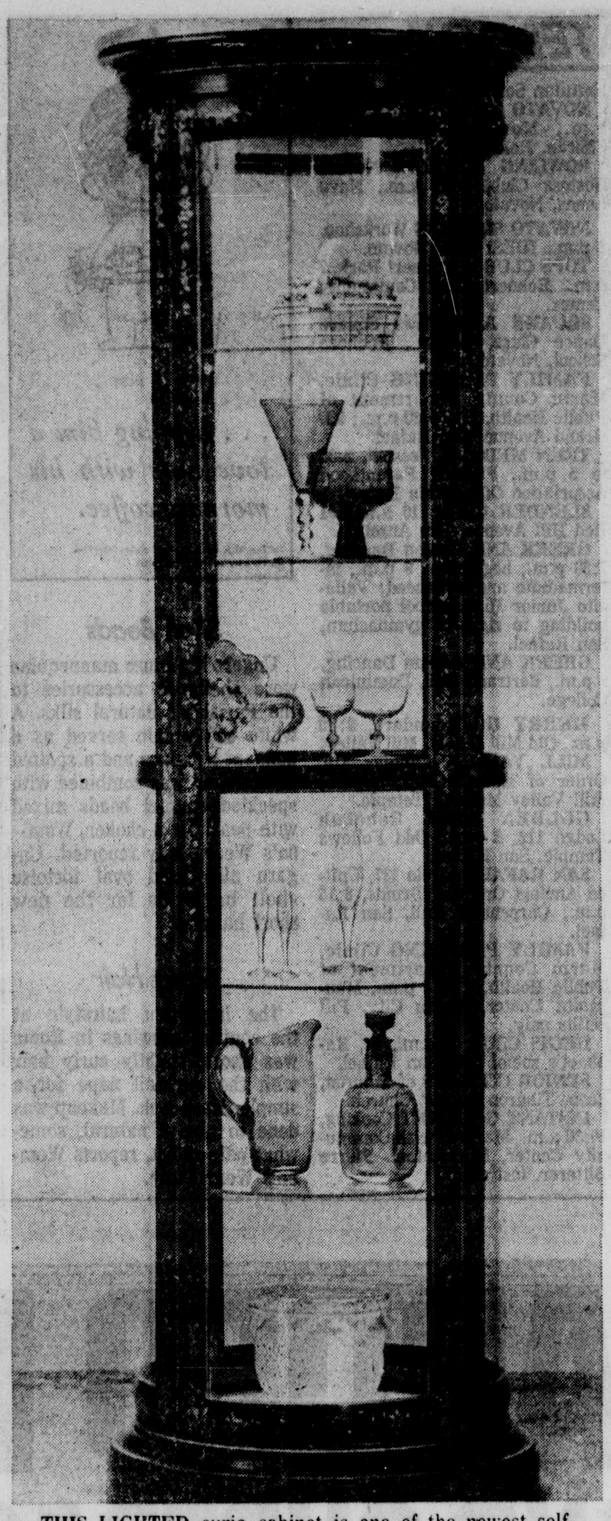
A FRIENDSHIP coffee will be given for members and prospective members by the Marinwood Guild of Sunny Hills at the home of Mrs. Jack Anttonen, in Terra Linda. The coffee is set for 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday.

"FUCHSIAS AND Frostbites" will be the topic of garden authority Gordon Baker Lloyd when he speaks to the Garden Section of the San Rafael Improvement Club Wednesday at the clubhouse in San Rafael. Lloyd will answer questions on garden problems after his 1:30 p.m. talk.

A SINGLE adults dance will be given Saturday at 9 p.m. by the Social-Lites Singles Club at the Hotel Santa Rosa in Santa Rosa. Guests are welcome for dancing to orchestra music.

THE SECOND "Hantique," the Novato Boys Club Auxiliary thrift shop, will conduct a half-price sale on all items in the shop tomorrow and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Auxiliary members will assist during the two-day sale. Mrs. John Stuber is auxiliary coordinator.



THIS LIGHTED curio cabinet is one of the newest self-lighted pieces of furniture being shown in the home furnishings mart. It is finished in black lacquer with gold Chinese floral decoration, part of the current Chinese trend in furniture styles.

FURNISHING MART TOUR

Good Lighting Plays Key Part In Today's Designs

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — An international home-furnishings market is hardly the place to go for serenity. Not at this particular moment in history.

Color is riotous. Pattern is upon pattern, upon pattern, and "busy." Furniture design is exuberant with curves, moldings, turnings, the shine of metal, and the pillowed and padded trappings of fat, soft seating.

We are in a state of more — more of everything — more plastic furniture, more chrome, more striped fabrics, more back-to-nature wood finishes, and "ecological" things that grow plants indoors.

We are in a period when many styles coexist and are of equal importance. The homemaker can feel free to ask "What suits me and my family best?"

The wonder of it all is that homemakers can winnow their way through the choices and come up with homes that adequately reflect themselves and their families.

THAT THEY do so is demonstrated in the Burlington House Award homes featured here. These prove that Americans now really understand "eclecticism" and are applying it to their homes. They are mixing and mingling periods with freedom and skill, and using color with adventure and excitement.

New colors and new materials have made a world of difference to Americans in their whole approach to their environment, says a Burlington Industries executive. And these real-life homes show where the trends really are — in the natural look, in ecological interests, personal collections, and in the expression of individuality and a host of do-it-yourself talents.

The Chinese influence, which blossomed with much timeliness in 1972, continues unabated. It is obvious in several showrooms at this market in the use of chinoiserie decoration on black lacquer finishes. Baker is one and Union-National is another which produce the decorative effect beautifully, with great artistic know-how.

Besides bringing back chinoiserie handpainted decoration, Union-National of Jamestown, N.Y., contends that furniture must be enhanced in yet another way — with good lighting. If a fine painting requires fine lighting, reasons the company, so does fine furniture, with its richness and depth of wood grains and design details that can best be outlined and defined by light.

Consequently, this company invited specialists from General Electric to bring their latest lighting techniques to furniture. The results — in lighting china cabinets, chests; armoires, curio vitrines, buffets, and headboards —are shown at this market.

Suddenly the lovely fretwork of a canopied bed is etched by light. The lower shelf of a mobile server is lighted to display ornaments, or serving casseroles and platters placed on it. A concentrated beam of light (similar to a car's headlight) penetrates down through an exquisite china cabinet, dramatizing the form, dimension, and texture of the china, glassware, and silver displayed on its glass shelves.

These new Union-National traditional pieces will probably lead a trend to more effective use of warm white florescent lamps in furniture, both for their decorative value and for their ability to light up back corners and dark recesses in storage cabinets.

AS FOR other things that influence fashion for the home, the international chess matches left their imprint. One little plastic Parsons table comes with a chess board printed on its top, complete to plastic chessmen. The whole package is geared to retail at $11.95.

Hundreds of new items are aimed at leisure-time activities in the home. There are game rugs, game tables, low party tables with their own low chairs on roll-around casters, sofa arrangements to encourage conversation. Big bulgy sofas seat ten because at least six guests are expected to perch on engineered-for-the-purpose upholstered arms and sofa backs. New and handsome folding chairs come out for parties, but live in the closet otherwise.

A lot more attention is being given to smallscaled furniture for apartments and small houses, and designers are giving more thought to long, narrow entrance halls, and what to put into them. Medallion shows a superb hall piece, a console that is 76 inches long and only 11½ inches deep.

Wood surfaces are certainly coming upwith a difference, often in parquet effects or in refined linear bucherblock effects.

IN SOME ways this market indicates both the richness of new ideas in the higher price ranges, and the poverty of ideas in many lower-priced groups. Unfortunately, a growing influence on low-cost furniture design is the warehouse or mass merchandizer who caters, it appears, to the lowest denominator of taste.

What is now being committed at this level in the name of the Mediterranean design is often hideous and vulgar. Colors are harsh, and design is over-florid. Numerous manufacturers justify this production with a shrug of the shoulders and a defensive, "That's what people want."

They are, in their own words, intent on "getting their share of the pie" by producing furniture that they themselves cannot abide.

Hats Return For Spring

The renewed interest in the classics has also revived an interest in hats.

Hats are bigger, smaller, brimmed and cartwheeled, reports Women's Wear Daily. Flowers are tucked into hatbands and are used to accent crowns.

The turban is wrapped, draped, twisted and twirled. The tennis cap is casual in cool cotton and traditional tennis colors.

Casual fabrics such as denim, poplin, felt, jersey and gingham plus a variety of straws make up this season's hat silhouettes and pastels head up the list of colors including pale sherbets, icy and frosty white, peach, lemon and strawberry.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Retiring Commander Will Be Honored

By MOLLY MARIN

Col. and Mrs. Vermont Garrison will be honored at a dinnerdance at the Officer's Club at Hamilton Air Force Base at 7 p.m., Friday, by the Marin Military Affairs Committee members and their wives.

Colonel Garrison is retiring as commander of Hamilton Air Force Base and the Garrisons will be moving to Mountain Home, Idaho, according to Clifford Lund, president of the military affairs committee. Master of ceremonies at the dinner dance will be Jimmy Griffin.

IT WAS something of an Oklahoman's reunion when the Joseph Asianos of San Rafael entertained comedienne Alice Ghostley and her husband, Felice Orlandi, at dinner at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax recently.

Miss Ghostley, who is currently starring on the Julie Andrews Show and has a string of television, film and stage credits, and Mrs. Asiano are both natives of Henryetta, Okla., as is Rubini's co-woner Gordon Jones.

ON THE guest list from Marin for the "Cruise to Nowhere" benefit given by the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Oakland are the Rev. and Mrs. John Yaryan of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Smith of Ross and Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Martin of San Rafael.

The party will be held Feb. 24 aboard the TS Hamburg at Pier 35 San Francisco, and will include a dinner dance, midnight buffet and a breakfast.

MRS. D. Jo O'Reilly of Novato and Richard C. Turner of Vallejo were married at Mare Island Chapel in December and are living in Novato after a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

The bride is employed at the Franciscan at Fisherman's Wharf and her husband at Hunters Point, in San Francisco.

She is the sister of Mrs. Jack P. Berger of Novato, her wedding attendant, and was given in marriage by her son, Robert Dean O'Reilly.

Call On Experts

Valuable art objects are best cleaned by experts. This goes for oil paintings, finely bound books, gilded statuettes.

Big Knits Seen For Winter '73

Winter 1973-74 will be the season of the big knit, forecasts Women's Wear Daily.

French knitwear designers are getting ready on some of the early trends including the big topper, the loose jacket or cardigan, the bulky pullover and the twin set.

As the waistline goes down around the hips, attention focuses on the higher neckline. The shawl collar, the open turtleneck and the shirt-collared V-neck are all part of the new look.

Captain Of Golf Club Is Announced

MRS. CHARLES B. SMITH
Golf captain

Golf, bowling and working for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation are the main interests of Mrs. Charles B. Smith of Novato, new captain of the Marin Country Club Women's Golf Association. She has alos served as handicapper and tournament chairman of the club.

Mrs. Smith was born in Petaluma and she and her husband, a contractor, have lived in Marin County 16 years. A graduate of Petaluma High School she is active in the North Bay Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Smith are Mmes. James Tarabbes, co-captain; Albert Shaddy, corresponding secretary; Mortimer Weiss; secretary; Bennett Valdes, treasurer; Carl Johnson, handicapper; Earl Isaac, tournament chairman; Ralph Patterson, rules chairman; Joseph Davidor, parliamentarian.

Other members serving the association are Mmes. Oscar Oliphant, assistant handicapper; Clyde Rossi, assistant tournament chairman; Armand Cueva, assistant rules chairman; Kenneth Lax, team captain; Walter Kessler, invitational chairman; Irving Dietrick, assistant invitational chairman; Norval Mac Donald, historian; William Campbell, publicity, and Dennis Rose, decorating chairman.

Beauty Ratings List 'Ins,' 'Outs'

Women's Wear Daily has picked Merle Oberon's smooth classic style of beauty as "in" and Martha Mitchell's teased, artificial look as "out" in its current beauty rating.

Also on the "in" list was Carrie Snodgress' shoulder length blunt-cut hair, as opposed to Ali McGraw's long stringy hair. Out too were the teased bouffant and pale lips, according to the ready-to-wear trade publication.

Stripes And Argyles Remain Big Items

The stripes and argyles in socks which started in 1971 are still around this year, reports Women's Wear Daily, but with a new twist.

Geometrics are coming on strong in bold patterns and colors. The styles include knee-highs, anklets or crews, a type of sock that is stepping back into fashion both here and abroad.

Based On Waist

The spring collection from Marc Bohan of Dior in Paris is built around the idea of the tiny waist. Among the outfits are the short shirtjacket and long, belted shirt.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Go Along With The Joke About Your Wife Coming To The Rescue

DEAR HELEN:

It was an honest mistake, but I may never live it down.

We went on a trip last weekend, and my wife didn't get the weekly wash done. When Monday came — I was without underwear. "Bare" is not my bag, so my wife in desperation, found me a pair of what she termed her "plain" panties. (She's not the "plain" type — they were pink with a little lace.)

"Better than nothing," I thought, but a trick of fate uncovered my secret. I forgot I had them on, then got them caught in my zipper, which brought out the janitor's pliers — and much laughter in the crowded men's washroom.

Most of the guys believed my explanation, I think, but that doesn't stop their kidding. Today I found a package on my desk. Yep, it was a pair of lavender ruffled panties with a card signed, "Your secret admirer."

My wife says, "Next joker that makes a remark, crack him one," which might show muscle, but wouldn't end anything.

Suggestions. — MANLY MALE WITH RUFFLED COMPOSURE

DEAR MALE:

Face it, this is probably the best joke to hit your office since someone sent the resident old maid a nudie calendar.

So let 'em laugh: they'll soon progress to a new joke.

You might even join the fun by hoisting the lavendar panties like a pennant in the men's washroom.

And consider: a truly secure male doesn't feel threatened when his wife asks him to hold her purse in public. Shouldn't this also extend to borrowing her lace underwear in a crisis? — H

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 35, considered attractive, happily married, have two sons. My problem? My dearest friend's husband.

He is a professor at a local university, as solid as a rock, runs his life beautifully, is well loved by his wife and children — and he has fallen in love with me.

What makes the situation so difficult is that the four of us have a beautiful friendship. We spend vacations together — jaunts to Europe, ski weekends — and, until recently, I had no idea that John (Professor X) cared for me as more than a good buddy. Then he confessed he's loved me for years. I'm not interested in him that way and never will be, but how can I break up this lovely foursome which has meant so much to all of us? I could never hurt my closest woman friend by telling her about her husband, nor would I mention this to my own man.

John says that now he's confessed, he can live with his "love" — he's just happy being near me. But since I know how he feels, I'm terribly uncomfortable.

Can I continue this brotherly-sisterly relationship, knowing that John doesn't think of me as a sister? He's a perfect gentleman. He'd never force himself on me, but — WHAT TO DO?

DEAR WHAT:

Weigh the unhappiness of breaking up a lovely foursome against the hazards of continuing it (given John's firm resolve and your faithfulness to your husband). I think you'll find that friendship wins out, and "love" can be kept under control. Don't you? — H.

Shell Beads

Ungaro's couture mannequins wore shells as accessories to the Parisian's natural silks. A white sea urchin served as a pendant necklace and a spotted brown shell was combined with speckled enamel beads mixed with pearl for a choker, Women's Wear Daily reported. Ungaro also used oval tortoise shell barrettes for the new short hairdos.

Short Hair

The important hairstyle at the couture showings in Rome was short, slightly curly hair with the ducktail nape for a simple, fresh look. Makeup was done to give a natural, somewhat pale effect, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Simplicity Is Secret To Collection

Simplicity is the secret of the Hubert de Givenchy couture collection for summer.

Givenchy is talking about a new proportion for jackets and skirts, and he said in Women's Wear Daily, "There will be lots of nudity, even for day. After all, what is prettier than a pretty stomach?" he asked.

His resort pants is an innocent-looking white line cardigan and pants that turns into something else when the jacket comes off to reveal a blue mirrored and beaded bra.

Givenchy's peasant dress in navy gazar printed with yellow, pink and turquoise daisies has a waist length cape which covers up the bra top and navel-baring dipping skirt.

Bonded Fabrics

Bonded fabrics consist of two or more joined layers of material, at least one of which is a textile.

Consumer Long Way From Being Savvy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who says we've become a nation of savvy consumers!

Granted, many of us have become aware of high prices often charged for shoddy merchandise. Ralph Nader has emerged as a man who could conceivably run for president. "Buyer Beware" has become a popular slogan.

Consumer rights are a concern now of the government and a rallying cry for hundreds of new consumer protection organizations.

And yet—consumer experts report that most members of any community still buy at full retail prices, during the wrong season, and in the wrong places, paying the overhead for a minority of well-informed customers who actually plan their purchases to take advantage of good buys.

A SUMMARY of recent studies on consumer buying bears out the experts:

—Most supermarket shoppers shop only one market, and about half of them never use a shopping list.

—Charge account customers purchase three times as much as cash customers.

—In most families, most of the money is spent within a few days of receiving the pay check, monthly pension or Social Security allottment.

—Most will buy on "easy terms" something they'd never pay outright cash for.

—People will spend five dimes more readily than a 50-cent piece and manufacturers and merchants take advantage of this in various ways.

—Goods well bought often are used improperly at great cost. Failure for instance to read instructions for mechanical goods accounts for about 40 per cent of all service calls.

ALL THESE points are outlined in "Your Retirement Consumer Guide", a new publication from the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association.

But the publication applies to almost every consumer; not just the one on retirement income.

For instance, says the 48-page booklet: "The average family spends nearly a quarter of its income for food, yet most everyone could save 20 per cent of that expenditure without sacrificing nutrition."

How? By buying house brands. It cites a Consumer Reports' estimate in the 1960s showing that shoppers could save $200 a year by buying house brands. "Today," said the guide, "the figure would probably be much higher."

Not only is the saving in the food dollar. The booklet goes into advice on buying new and used cars, clothing, mobile homes, and borrowing money.

This is a statistic of encouragement toward wise buying—"If you could save $2 out of every $10...you now spend, you would have 20 per cent more purchase power to live better...on your present budget.

"Look at it another way. Could you use a 20 per cent hike in income?"

IN A "SIMPLIFYING the supermarket game", the booklet advises a curb on impulse buying, advises going to market with a shopping list and sticking with it, and read the labels.

For all food products for which there is no government standard of quality are required to list their ingredients in the order of predominance.

Novato Pair Says Vows In Oakland

Laurel Jean Larsen and James Robert Cowhig, both of Novato, were married Saturday at the Oakland Temple, Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Larsen, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George M. Cowhig. All are residents of Novato.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Tamara Larsen. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Jeananne Larsen of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Cynthia and Becky Larsen, both of Novato; and the bridegroom's sister, Nancy Cowhig of Novato.

Best man for his brother was Michael Cowhig, and another brother of the bridegroom, Pat Cowhig and the bride's brothers, Steve and Marty Larsen, ushered. All are Novato residents.

A reception at the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints in Novato followed the ceremony. The couple will live in Rohnert Park following a wedding trip to Salt Lake City.

Laurel is a graduate of Novato High School. She is employed by the California Canadian Bank in San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Warner of Salt Lake City are her grandparents.

A graduate of San Marin High School, the bridegroom is employed by Larry Barrett, Inc., in San Francisco. His grandparents are George H. Cowhig of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Keiser of Union City.

The Couture Shopper Will Have Plenty Of Shirtdresses In Closet

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — It isn't exactly a uniform. But the women who shop in couture salons are going to dress a certain way come spring.

The most important thing in their wardrobe will be the shirtdress in printed wool voile, crepe or shantung. The colors are pastel, the neckline ties in a bow and the shirt is pleated. Sometimes, the whole dress is.

At Dior, the pleats start well above the natural waistline, unless the dress comes with a wide inset waistband. In either case, a narrow belt marks the waist.

The two exceptions to the shirtdress rule are from Ungearo and Lanvin. The first designer likes a 1920s dress that blouses over a dropped waistband.

From the same period are Lanvin's two-piece dresses. The soft blouson top with elbow sleeves and straightish skirt are both gathered at the waist.

With the dresses go soft flannel coats in the same pastels or short fitted jackets, which spare you the trouble of tucking in a blouse. Givenchy's skinny Spencer jackets are prettiest with white linen reverse and they also come with his pants suits.

Pants, however, are only for their most dedicated partisans this season. Most women will prefer the skirt at the knee, sheer stockings and pumps with a heel up to 3½ inches high.

Paris is now pushing the short party dress in bright colors of pleated chiffon or crepe de chine.

The late-evening feeling is stiff. Long flaring dresses with wide boleros are in cotton or gazar. They prove that an expensive or a cheap fabric can do the same thing for you. Givenchy's long flower dresses have ruched flower boas in the same colors. More dramatic are his dresses in red, green or cocoa with a few stripes, triangles or squares of a contrasting color. You can't miss them a mile off.

PASSENGERS PLUCKED FROM PRECARIOUS PERCH

Four elderly Canadians had a narrow escape yesterday when their car was caught by a rising drawbridge, leaving them teetering atop the upraised portion, in St. Petersburg, Fla. The two frightened women (right) held tightly to each other as they were rescued by a cherry picker. None of the four passengers in the car, all unidentified, were injured.

Nader Says Auto Policy Is Too Weak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged Congress today to require automakers to buy back cars with unrepairable safety defects.

Appearing before the Senate Commerce Committee, Nader criticized as "not strong enough" a proposed bill to make it mandatory for the manufacturers to repair all safety-related defects at no cost to the owner. Nader said consumers needed more protection than that.

He contended that a "buy back provision" is needed to cover cars such as the Volkswagen Microbus, and the Chevrolet Corvair.

In the case of the Corvair, the government warned 1961-1969 Corvair owners that the heater could leak carbon monoxide fumes into the passenger compartment.

GM agreed to recall the cars, but contended that the heater problem was the result of owners' failure to maintain the car. The cost of the repairs therefore should be paid by the owner, GM said.

Nader claimed the repair costs often exceeded the value of the aging Corvairs. In cases like this the automaker should pay the owner the so-called book value of the car and get it off the highway, Nader said.

He termed the Microbus "a basically unstable car." The buy-back provision would get the Microbus off the highway but prevent the owner from suffering financial loss, he argued.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's chief, Douglas Toms, told the committee Tuesday that the administration favored a no-cost-to-the-car owner policy for repairing safety defects. But he said automakers should have no liability for cars six years old and over unless the government found a serious safety defect.

Hub School Budget Analysis Attacked

Members of the San Anselmo School District's citizens' advisory committee last night criticized Supt. Frank R. Elliott for what they called a superficial analysis of a committee report on proposed district budget cuts.

San Anselmo School District board members listened intently to the criticism by committee member Paul Selinger and others, "but had no real reaction to the matter," Elliott said today.

At issue is a committee report issued last year after three months work. It proposes, among other things, that the district freeze employee salaries for one year, eliminate the position of administrative assistant and cut positions of several library aides, Elliott said.

Elliott's analysis of the committee study, which was made by the committee before he became superintendent last summer, was a "short terse statement" of what budget and staff cuts had resulted in connection with committee recommendations.

"The committee suggested cuts of $191,000, and we've made cuts amounting to $106,000, but I guess they wanted a more in-depth analysis of ther work," Elliott said today.

He said the board last night saw the criticism as constructive comment and supported no side in the matter.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

TAX SHIFT — Heard Elliott report that the district will get $1,103 per child next year under the state's new tax shift law, up from this year's $1,045 allotment.

STUDENT TRANSFER — Approved transfer from the San Anselmo district to the Fairfax district of students Deborah and Joshua Levenson and Gary and Brook Kobrofsky.

AUDIT — Accepted an audit of the 1971-72 school year from Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin, who reported that the district is financially sound but in need of better bookkeeping.

SABBATICAL — Appointed teacher James French to the sabbatical leave committee. The board took no action on a reimbursement request by teacher Doris Harnsberger for leave she is requesting in May.

EVALUATION — Told Elliott he can solicit opinion on his performance from students, staff and board members, but said filling out written evaluation sheets should be done on a voluntary basis.

CONSULTANT — On a 2-2 deadlock, rejected a proposal that the district hire a consultant for $600 to work on the employee's fringe benefit program. Board member Franklin C. Latcham was absent.

JOINT MEETING — Said the board will meet in joint session at 8 p.m. Feb. 13 with the city council in city hall to discuss an agreement for joint funding of tennis courts at Red Hill School. Also to be discussed at the meeting, according to Elliott, is future use or sale of Isabel Cooke School, possible conversion of Red Hill into an elementary facility and expansion of Hidden Valley School into a junior high school.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Feb. 8 in Red Hill School.

Connally's Name Enters '76 Picture

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Times reported today that President Nixon has said his former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would make a good Republican presidential candidate in 1976.

Quoting high Republican sources, the Times said Nixon in a conversation with a visitor to the White House "was understood to have indicated" he preferred Connally, a Democrat, over Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The sources said Agnew associates believe Connally will be brought back into the cabinet as secretary of state in a White House move to put him in the forefront for the GOP nomination ahead of the vice president, the Times said.

The return of Connally, who resigned as treasury secretary May 16 after 15 months in the office, will come after Secretary of State William P. Rogers and presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger resign from the administration, the Times said.

The Times said the administration neither confirmed nor denied reports of Connally, a former Democratic governor of Texas, returning to the cabinet. He has been in private law practice since leaving the treasury.

Teen-Age Son Of Cannibal's New Bride Says Facts Correct

HUNTINGTON BEACH (UPI) — Jmy Martin, 17, doubts he will ever be confronted with his stepfather— Obaharok, the cannibal chief.

Reports from Indonesia last week said his mother, an attractive 42-year-old American divorcee and explorer, had married the cannibal chieftain in a tribal ceremony in a wild area of West Irian.

"It's true all right," said Jmy (pronounced "Jimmy) in an interview.

"We knew about it before the newspapers did...Mother is writing a book. It's all about customs and things, and the best way to get material" is to live as a member of the tribe, he said.

The marriage is not a permanent arrangement, he said.

"When she's done with the book, that will be it," he said.

He scoffed at suggestions his mother was forced into the marriage, or that she ran the risk of being made into a meal by her new husband's tribesmen.

"Mom knows what she's doing," he said. His mother, Wynn Sargent, has traveledextensively, researching tribal customs, writing and taking photographs. She spent time previously among the Dyak headhunters of Borneo.

According to a Jakarta newspaper report, her marriage to Obaharok upset Indonesian officials in the remote area where the tribe lives.

In a photo of the ceremony, Miss Sargent wore blue jeans and a shirt, and the groom was practically nude. But Miss Sargent was quoted as saying she would adopt the garb of the tribe's females, a patch of banana bark over the loins.

Government officials were reportedly angry that this would set back their efforts to get Obaharok's tribe to wear clothes.

Jean Lewis, a friend of Miss Sargent's who has been caring for Jmy, said she had received a letter from the explorer saying "she hadn't seen them eat a man yet," the last human meal having been finished a few days before her arrival.

Miss Lewis said Miss Sargent wrote at that time that she was living with a cannibal chief named Kelion, in hopes of influencing him to end a war with another tribe.

Miss Sargent's first husband, Jmy's father, died in a car crash in Mexico. She married and later divorced, Ross McClintock, who last month married actress Mamie Van Doren.

Secretary General Sets Official Tour

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim leaves today for an official visit to India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Thailand and Japan. One of his main objectives is a first hand look at the political situation on the Indian subcontinent.

The visit starts Feb. 3 in New Delhi, when Waldheim arrives after a 3-day stay in London. The visit ends with a four-day stay in Japan.

Hongisto Sues The Mayor For A Bigger Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sheriff sued the mayor yesterday for more money.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto filed a superior court suit against Mayor Joseph Alioto, asking that the mayor be ordered to supply an additional $500,000 for the sheriff's office.

Hongisto demanded that his departmental budget be increased to bring the county jail up to minimum standards set by the state.

Carol Ruth Silver, the sheriff's lawyer, described the suit as unprecedented.

Alioto and Hongisto, both Democrats, have been waging a lengthy war of words over the jail budget and the sheriff's portion of federal revenue-sharing funds.

A Cash Discount Plan Is Proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, introduced a bill Monday that would allow customers to receive a cash discount instead of trading stamps.

The measure (SB138) requires business offering trading stamps with the sale of merchandise to offer also a cash discount equal to the value of the stamps and let the customer decide between cash and stamps.

Three Firms Fined On Pesticide Law

MUSIC REVIEW

Cellist Barahal Wins The Symphony Audience

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

A capacity audience shouted its approval of the gifted young cellist, Jed Barahal, at the Marin Symphony's Concert at the Veterans Memorial Building last night. His presentation of Schumann's Cello Concerto in A Minor was masterfully performed with the full support of the fine orchestra under the baton of Sandor Salgo.

Winner of the 1971 Marin Symphony Memorial Scholarship, Barahal, a San Rafael High School senior, demonstrated maturity and ability belying his age. His was the popular favorite of the three works performed.

The evening's program began with Ernst Dohnanyi's "Suite in F Sharp Minor for Orchestra." An over-long work, once a standard piece in orchestra repertoire, the suite has its moments of pleasant themes, humorous overtones, and occasional flashes of Brahmsian harmonies — Brahms was the composer Dohnanyi attempted to pattern himself after.

The main redeeming feature of this composition is its fine opportunities for solo instruments to display their talents — and talent abounded. Woodwinds were particularly fine. Carolyn Michaelian was outstanding on the English Horn, playing with a pure, full tone. Charles Meacham, violin, and Jean Mitchell, cello, matched one another in interpretation of a melodic answering duet for these instruments.

Schumann's Cello Concerto, second on the program, is a work of much greater depth. Written in the tragic last period of Schumann's life shortly before he went insane, this work is one of introspection interspersed with martial calls to action.

Schumann abhorred virtuoso performances and sought to avoid the florid passages and grand pyrotechnics to be found in solo works of the Romantic period. Instead he chose to incorporate devilishly difficult challenges to the performer within the fabric of the composition.

The three movements are written as one continuous piece and Schumann shifts deftly from one movement to the next. He called this a concert piece for cello with orchestral accompaniment. Orchestration is light and the cello is silent in only brief moments of orchestral interludes.

Barahal brought out the full richness of the cello in all registers and met Schumann's technical challenges head-on. Intonation and tone color were excellent. The required depth of understanding of the moods of the themes were clearly present.

Beethoven's Second Symphony constituted the second half of the program. This work presented an interesting contrast to the Schumann. Though it, too, was written at a time of despair, Beethoven chose to write a brilliantly optimistic composition to counteract his feelings of depression.

This symphony stands at the crossroads of Beethoven's works. Its form is that of the classic style of Mozart and Haydn, but the closing section of the first movement and much of the finale foretell of the heroic grandeur to be exploited by Beethoven in his Third Symphony.

Salgo delivered a polished performance, keeping articulation clean and themes lilting. Violins and cellos were remarkably beautiful. Only minor problems of synchronization were noticible in the scherzo with its four-note motif hopping from section to section, and in moments of the finale.

All in all it was a rewarding evening for performers and audience.

'Charlie Brown' Set By Children's Chorus

The Sonoma State College Children's Chorus will present four performances of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," beginning Feb. 8 in Ives Hall.

Performances of the play, based on Charles Schultz's "Peanuts" comic strip, will be given Feb. 8 at 9:45 a.m. and noon; Feb. 10 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 11 at 2 p.m.

Playing the lead role of Charlie Brown will be Joe Heid, 13, of Santa Rosa. He is a new member of the children's chorus.

Billy Simpson, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson of Petaluma, will play Linus. He attends McDowell School, Petaluma. Eric Luoto, 12, a seventh grader at Rohnert Park Junior High School, will play Snoopy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Luoto of Rohnert Park.

Kendall Schultz, 12, will play the role of Patty. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schultz of Petaluma and is in the seventh grade at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School.

Others in the cast are Michael Green, 12, and Yvonne Mura, 14, both of Santa Rosa.

Gerd Mairandres, a member of the college theater arts faculty, will direct the show. He has designed sets for Marin Shakespeare Festival and directed a production of "The Magic Flute" last summer in Inverness.

Sets and costumes have been designed by Floyd Ross, production coordinator for the Center for Performing Arts at the college. Donald Tarpley directs the children's chorus.

The Vienna Choir Boys Set Concert

The Vienna Choir Boys, songsters who range in age from 8 to 14 years, will perform at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 17 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Included on the program will be the comic operetta, "Tales from Old Vienna," in which the boys don wigs and high heels and romp through the dialogue in English, singing the music of the Strauss waltzes.

Boys stay with the historical group until their voices begin to change, then returning either to their own homes or remaining at the Augatten Palace in Vienna to continue music studies.

Many former Vienna Choir Boys have gone on to careers in various fields of music.

Astronaut Sees Space As Key To Earthy Woes

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Apollo 17 astronaut Ron Evans told the Kansas legislature Tuesday all governments should use space exploration to improve the quality of life on Earth. He said the idea occurred to him during a space walk on the way back from the moon last month.

"When I came out of the spacecraft, the first thing I saw was Earth," said Evans, a Navy captain who is a native of Kansas. "It came to mind that we have only so much water and so much air, and we ought to see how we can save that water and air.

"I believe the knowledge we gained from the space program can correct problems on Earth using space technology developed in planning space missions."

Ford Seeks Review On A Safety Seat

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. asked the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals Monday to review a federal order requiring interlocking seat and shoulder straps in all American-made cars by 1975.

Ford attorney John Pickering told the three-judge panel safety equipment standards required by the federal Department of Transportation "are not detailed and specific enough."

Seantor Behr Named Top Environment Legislator

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, today was named by the Planning and Conservation League as "the outstanding environmental legislator of 1972."

Behr was to receive the league's annual award at a luncheon today. The league said the senator won the award for "two of the most significant and far-reaching bills of the 1972 session."

The league, a federation of virtually every conservation organization in the state, cited Behr's successful passage of measures to protect the last of California's "wild rivers" in their free-flowing state and to require recorded roll-call committee votes.

The league also gave a posthumous award to Joseph Paul of San Francisco, whose Committee of Two Million launched the campaign to save the "wild rivers," and to Janet Adams of Woodside, chairman of the California Coastal Alliance, which got Proposition 20 on the November ballot and fought successfully for its passage.

Jazz Concert Set At College

The Sonoma State College Concert Jazz Ensemble and the University of Nevada Concert Jazz Band will combine for a concert Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. in Ives Hall.

The jazz ensemble is directed by Walt Oster of Petaluma, while Eugene Isaeff directs the Nevada band.

The Nevada band performed before 10,000 persons last year at the College Jazz Festival in San Francisco and has won Intermountain Collegiate Jazz Festival honors.

Dennis Christiansen, a professional trumpet player from Nevada, also will perform, along with Sonoma State vocalist Jeffrey Oster.

Slaying Of Two Turks Denied By Armenian

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A 77-year-old Armenian immigrant pleaded innocent yesterday to charges that he shot to death two Turkish diplomats after luring them here from Los Angeles with the promise of turning over a painting stolen from a Turkish sultan 100 years ago.

Gourgen M. Yanikian, a land developer and author of several books, entered the plea before Municipal Court Judge Frank P. Kearney, who set a bail hearing for Thursday and a prelminary hearing for Feb. 16.

Yanikian has been held without bail since his arrest following the shooting at the Biltmore Hotel here Saturday.

Slain in the incident were the Turkish counsul general in Los Angeles, Mehmet Baydar, 47, and his vice counsul, Bahadir Demir, 30.

Catholic Asks Abortion Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, a Roman Catholic, proposed Tuesday a constitutional amendment that would overturn the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

The Maryland Republican's proposal would have to be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate before it could be sent to the states and then would have to be passed by 38 states before it could become an amendment to the Constitution.

The proposed amendment reads in part: "Neither the United States, nor any state, shall deprive any human being, from the moment of conception, of life without due process of law; nor deny to any human being, from the moment of conception, within its jurisdiction, the equal protection of the laws."

A Jeweler Wears His Diamonds

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Jewelry store owner Herb Bales has found a new way to advertise his diamonds. He smiles.

Bales had his dentist install two $700 diamonds in his two front false teeth.

"They look like two headlights," Bales said. "It's caused such a commotion.

"Basically, all men are alike. I wanted to be different."

"The diamond is the most eternal mineral God put in the earth," he said. "Our (store) slogan is 'Our diamonds are forever.'"

Mixed Media Show

The Golden Gate Branch of the National League of American Pen Women will show mixed media works during the month of February at Redwood Bank in San Rafael.

Hilliard Parole Denied By State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Black Panther Party chief of staff David Hilliard, imprisoned after a shoot-out with police, has been denied parole by the state adult authority.

A spokesman for the department of corrections said Hilliard's request for freedom was turned down Tuesday because memers of the parole board "indicated there was still some consideration of public protection."

10 years and $100 million later!

It all began in November 1962. We organized our bank and opened our first office on Fourth Street in San Rafael. It was our goal to bring home-owned independent banking to the North Bay.

By the end of 1972, thanks to our friends and customers, we had 8 offices and had grown to $100 million in assets.

A strong independent bank can bring you more personalized services to meet your changing needs and give you the kind of individual attention you expect. So, if you're not already a customer of ours, give it some thought. Stop by the nearest Bank of Marin office and get acquainted. Together, the next 10 years could be even better!

PRODUCTION LINE — Members of the Marin County Junior Achievement program assemble earrings for their company, staffed entirely by local high school students. Ten active businesses are part of this year's program, designed to give youngsters practical experience in the workings of business and the free enterprise system.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Students Learn About Business

By PAUL LIBERATORE

"When do I get paid," a young employe asks, tagging behind an equally youthful personnel manager hustling down the hallway.

From an open doorway float the voices of accountants poring over company books. In another room workers hover over a sand mold used in producing candles and delight in a nearly perfect finished product.

The building is a beaver dam of activity. Everywhere there is discussion on production, marketing, personnel deployment, safety —all the kinds of things talked over daily in any large corporation.

The difference in this case is that in this building, which houses 10 going concerns, all personnel — from company presidents to workers — are Marin County high school students participating in this year's Junior Achievement program.

A total of 140 youngsters staff businesses such as Handcraft, producers of candles and plastic flowers; Imagination Unlimited, which creates handmade jewelry; J. A. Broadcasting, responsible for a 15-minute radiocast each Saturday over KTIM in San Rafael.

Odyssey Art specializes in wood and mosaic serving trays, Rippoff in turning discarded bottles into tumblers, Youth of Marin makes leather key chains, Reflectron manufacturers emergency highway reflectors.

There is even a bank, which handles all financial matters of the companies under the supervision of the Bank of Marin, right on the grounds of the San Rafael Junior Achievement Center at Mission and Cottage avenues, San Rafael.

The point of all this is to offer students an opportunity to find out about corporate finance and structure and to acquaint them through real experience in real businesses with the workings of the free enterprise system.

Each miniature company is sponsored by a local firm, which provides assistance in design, manufacturing, packaging, advertising and marketing of products. The students keep their own books, sell stocks at $1 a share to pay for materials and, if profits allow, return $1.10 per share at the end of the school year.

As in real life, some corporations are forced to recoup losses by changing products in midstream. For example, Musical Chimes of Marin kept its name but scrapped musical chimes, a loser, to produce firestarters, a hot item.

"The program has given me an opportunity to function in a free enterprise system and helped me in my comprehension of the business world," explained Dinu Gray, a 17-year-old senior at San Rafael High School.

Born in Rumania, he came to the U.S. with his family in 1965.

"This seems to me to be the best system there is," he said. "Of course, there is always room for improvement, but we should be proud of the system and support it."

Gray heads Monopolee, a firm that produces a variety of items, including handmade ties, cloth lunch bags, first aid kits and candles suspended by macrame ropes.

His company, sponsored by Pacific Telephone, has no trouble selling items; hangups stem from not being able to produce them fast enough, he said, pointing to empty bins that once bulged with merchandise.

Along with youth comes enthusiasm.

"My company has been great," said Mary Meyskens, 15, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School. "We even put in overtime."

Students normally work two hours each Tuesday night, conducting a business meeting before breaking up into their various functions as company members.

There is plenty of fun, but the young people are serious when it comes to the responsibilities of running a profitable organization.

"Part of my job as president includes coming down on people who are not keeping up with their responsibilities," explained 16-year-old Karie Jones with a twinkling smile that would direct most young workers' noses straight to the grindstone.

The bulk of the products are sold by going door-to-door, according to Clyde Chevrette, manager of the Marin County Junior Achievement Center.

He noted, however, that at least two companies will participate in a sales campaign this weekend at a Daly City shopping center and plans are under way to sell Junior Achiever goods at an upcoming trade fair at Northgate Industrial Park.

Junior Achievement is a national program with more than 7,000 companies being organized each fall throughout the U.S. Programs based on Junior Achievement have been organized in Canada, Finland, Mexico, the Netherlands, and in six other countries.

Grass Plants Bring Fines

Two Novato residents, arrested because eight marijuana plants were growing in their home, have been fined $500 each in Marin Superior Court on misdemeanor pot possession charges.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Walter Nicklous Lynch, 24, and 22-year-old Lynn Dee Altman on probation for one year. They pleaded guilty Monday after the judge agreed to reduce the charges from a felony.

Novato police said they went to the home of the two Oct. 20 and found the plants growing in three containers.

Rights Chairman Claims Secret Session Legal Under State Law

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The chairman of the Marin County Human Rights Commission said yesterday that he considers last week's secret meeting of his commission legal under state law as interpreted by the county counsel.

His announcement came just hours after the county board of supervisors agreed to postpone consideration of a pilot program on consumer protection which was the center of discussion at the commission's secret meeting.

In a letter to county supervisors, commission chairman Ernest J. Gray said he based his conclusion of the meeting's legality on an opinion given him last fall by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who said committees made up of less than a quorum of the full commission need not give public notice of meetings. Moreover, according to Godino's opinion, other commissioners could attend those private committee meetings as long as they attended in "an unofficial capacity."

By attending in "an unofficial capacity," Godino reasoned, the intent of the state's antisecret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act, could be circumvented without violating the letter of the law.

(The Brown Act merely says 24-hour notice must be given to press and public before a quorum of any agency can meet legally, except in certain emergencies, and makes no distinction between members of an agency as to "official" or "unofficial capacity.")

As reported Monday, a four-member quorum of the human rights commission met last week under the guise of a three-member committee.

During the secret meeting, commissioners Joaquin P. Gallardo, J. Barton Sarjeant and Gray agreed to withhold support of a controversial consumer protection program and request a postponement by the board of supervisors.

The lone voice of opposition to withdrawing support was commissioner June Weden, who, like the press, had been told the meeting was to be simply a committee meeting.

Gray's letter to supervisors admitted that a quorum of his seven-member commission was present at the session, but said it was permitted because "according to county counsel, this is legal under the Brown Act."

Gray, when asked Monday about the meeting, told the I-J that Gallardo had attended only momentarily and had not taken part in any discussion or decision.

However, a memorandum shown to the I-J the same day by Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department, indicated Gallardo and the others had discussed the matter and "voted 3-1 to withdraw support."

That original memorandum disappeared shortly after the secret meeting story was published and has been replaced by a watered-down version saying the three commissioners "independently expressed" reservations about the consumer program.

"Mr. Gallardo did take some part in the discussion," Gray acknowledged in his letter. "My statement to the press was that he did not take part in any decisions, as no decisions were made . . ."

He added that there was only one memorandum, apparently forgetting that Hood had read the first memorandum to him over the phone before its mysterious disappearance.

Meanwhile, Weden, while confirming the accuracy of Monday's story, said she had not used the words "secret meeting" in describing the secret meeting.

Executive Director Gerald J. Hood, confronted by a split on his commission, requested yesterday that supervisors postpone consideration of the consumer program to Feb. 13.

"It would be unthinkable to appear before the board of supervisors on its Jan. 30 agenda with what would appear to be a divided commission . . ." Hood wrote, requesting the delay.

"It is my opinion that the matter must be resolved before the full human rights commission before attempting any further presentation to the board of supervisors . . ." he added. He said the matter would be discussed by the commission at its Feb. 8 meeting.

It will be the second time the commission has discussed the program. In December, it voted unanimously to endorse it.

Silvia Siegel of Mill Valley, who described herself as a consumer consultant, urged a longer delay saying "the public" had not been given time to study the human rights' proposal.

Ruling On Worker's Appeal Is Awaited

The City of Novato is awaiting a decision on the appeal of Wade Lackey, long-time public works department employee, of a two-day suspension for alleged "discourteous conduct and insurbordination."

Lackey, a maintenance man who had served in the past as foreman and public works superintendent, was one of the city's original employees when it was incorporated in 1960.

He was suspended allegedly for refusing to obey an order and being discourteous to Carrol Madsen, maintenance superintendent, and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown ruled in December Lackey was guilty of insurbordination.

Lackey appealed and requested a hearing before a state officer. An open hearing was held last Thursday at the Novato Park and Recreation building by hearing officer George Coan of San Francisco, who will file a recommendation. The city council will make the final ruling on Lackey's appeal.

Lackey was represented by attorney Herbert Fuller of Vallejo and the city by City Atty. Clark M. Palmer.

Suyderhoud Asks For Dissolution

The father of former world water ski champion Mike Suyderhoud filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court to dissolve his 22-year marriage.

Jaap Suyderhoud of 22 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, claimed irreconcilable differences have developed in his marriage to Johanna Suyderhoud.

Married in 1948 in Indonesia, they separated last Sept. 22, according to Suyderhoud's petition.

Suyderhoud, who arrived from Holland in 1961, is a veteran promoter of water ski events.

20.5 Cents Correct Proposed Tax Rate

Repayment of the proposed $4.5 million flood control bonds to finance a Novato Creek project would require a tax rate of 20.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

Through a typing error, the Independent-Journal yesterday erroneously reported the rate had been estimated at 29.5 cents.

Police Mounts Will Be Dressed For Night

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police officials, hoping that a horse of a different color will be seen better at night, plan to dress police mounts in luminous white material and put blinking amber lights on their riders.

Capt. James J. Powers, head of the department's research bureau, said the new reflector material and lights would insure the safety of the city's 50 mounted police, 31 of whom work at night.

Minority Hiring In Apprentice Slots Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. District judge Robert Peckham Tuesday ordered Operating Engineers Local 3 to fill 70 per cent of its apprenticeship openings in Northern California with minority youths.

Peckham's order was partial settlement of a civil rights suit by the Justice Department in 1971. Local 3 and employers consented to the judge's order with the understanding that it was not an admission of past discrimination.

The quota included 30 per cent Negroes, 30 per cent Mexican-Americans and 10 per cent Orientals and other minorities.

Two Dental Board Appointments Made

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Henry Lucas Jr., of San Francisco, was appointed to the state Board of Dental Examiners and Dr. Joseph N. Reynolds, of Glendale, was reappointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan Tuesday.

Both men are dentists and Republicans.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
28 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We Cannot Trust State Assembly

The people of California are being defrauded by their State Assembly. Bills are being passed with false votes.

Columnist Earl G. Waters has exposed this appalling practice in two columns, the second of which appears today directly below this editorial.

THE FRAUD is perpetrated by a practice known as "ghost voting." This is made possible by the assemblymen's voting by pressing electric buttons to record "aye" or "nay." Such buttons are at each assemblyman's desk. They are supposed to be locked when he is absent from the chamber. But they are not locked. So other assemblymen press the buttons for absentees.

Objectors to this practice have been told that (a) it is necessary because often assemblymen must be absent during voting to attend Senate committee sessions on bills in which they are vitally interested, and (b) it doesn't matter anyhow, as they make arrangements with members present to vote for them according to their instructions.

BUT ASSEMBLYMAN Frank P. Belotti of Eureka did not make arrangements with any other assemblyman to press the "aye" button on his desk when the vote was taken on SB 1493 (a no-fault insurance bill) during the final afternoon of the regular 1972 session.

Assemblyman Belotti could not have made any such arrangements. Assemblyman Belotti was dead. He had died the previous day.

Nevertheless, Assemblyman Belotti was recorded as voting for the bill.

How many other assmblymen have been recorded as voting for or against bills when in fact they had no intention of so voting? How many bills have become law by fraudulent votes in the Assembly?

We will never know.

We know Assemblyman Belotti's vote on SB 1493 last Dec. 1 was fraudulent. But as to how many other such fraudulent votes have been recorded, we can only speculate.

IT APPEARS we cannot trust our assemblymen (the Senate does not use electric vote buttons). Therefore, the buttons should be removed, forcing the assemblymen to be present to vote — so that we will know the vote count is recorded honestly.

With the new two-year legislative session there is no need for Senate committee hearings while the Assembly is in session. Therefore, the excuse for "ghost voting" no longer has any color of validity.

This is the same state Assembly which met for 37 minutes last Thursday — a day of national mourning for President Johnson — in order to collect $30 per diem expenses for that day. And the speaker, Bob Moretti of North Hollywood, had the gall to attack newspapers for calling attention to this.

This is the same Bob Moretti who presides over the "ghost voting." And he also has the gall to want to be governor.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

How Dead Man's Vote Passed Assembly Bill

By EARL G. WATERS

Although he was elected to preside over the Assembly sessions, Speaker Bob Moretti has an aversion to the task. In his absences from the chamber during sessions, various assemblymen take turns in the chair. Usually it is Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, the majority floor leader and confidante of Moretti.

Fenton has an obsession on "no fault" insurance and has sponsored unsucessfully such a bill the past three years.

ON DEC. 1, the final day of the 1972 session, the Assembly was convened by Speaker Pro Tem Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, at 9:33 a.m. Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Garden Grove, took the gavel at 10:04 a.m. and Fenton replaced him at 11:30 a.m. Moretti, excepting for one strang and brief occasion, did not appear on the rostrum that day until the closing hour.

The journal shows that Fenton was presiding at 2:59 p.m. At that time he recessed the Assembly until 3:25 p.m. Moretti made his first appearance on the rostrum of the day and reconvened the Assembly. Twenty-three minutes later he turned the gavel over to Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, D-Norwalk.

Immediately thereafter Fenton took up SB 1493. This was a measure which Fenton had hijacked after his own "no fault" bill had failed in the Senate. He amended his defeated bill into SB 1493.

The journal shows that at 3:48 Fenton took up his bill and that it passed by a vote of 43 to 23.

That it was a close vote is indicated by the fact the journal also shows that after the vote had been taken, Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, received permission to have his vote added to the roll call to make the total of 43 "aye" votes.

THE JOURNAL FURTHER shows that Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, voted "aye". It is quite possible that Belotti's vote was the 41st vote and that the 42nd vote, like Bagley, came along after passage had been won.

Now the fact is that Assemblyman Frank Belotti had been absent from Sacramento since Oct. 12. The further fact is that Assemblyman Belotti died at noon on Nov. 30.

The voting of Belotti to assure passage of a pirated bill on "no fault" therefore was clearly illegal, in violation of the Constitution, and an outright and deliberate fraud. The sobriquet of "ghost" voting was no longer just a fiction.

That it was deliberate seems undeniable. At no time during Belotti's absence from Oct. 12 on to the time of his death was he voted on any other measure.

That it was known to all that he had died fully 24 hours before the roll call on SB 1493 cannot be denied.

The journal records that Speaker Pro Tempore Bee called the Assembly roll at 10:03 a.m. with 73 members present. Immediately thereafter Assembly Chaplain Rev. Leo McAllister offered a prayer in tribute to Belotti. At 11:30 a.m., with Fenton presiding, Assemblyman Dick Barnes, R-San Diego, presented a resolution memorializing the death of Assemblyman Belotti.

And it also shows that Speaker Moretti adjourned the 1972 session out of respect to Assemblyman Belotti.

THE SENATE, to its credit, refused to act on SB 1493, ruling that the amendments made by Fenton were not germane to the bill as it was introduced.

For the roll call vote which records Belotti voting "aye" the day after his death, turn to page 8437 of the Assembly Journal for Dec. 1, 1972.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

There's a prison in Sweden where all the inmates are given fulltime jobs. It's getting so there's no place a guy can go to avoid work.

It's hard to tell whether Swedish penologists are attempting to reduce the crime rate — or just trying to solve their nation's unemployment problem.

Criminals at Tillberg Prison receive generous wages but they're charged for cell occupancy. What happens if a fellow refuses to pay the rent? Is he evicted from prison?

Here in our country when a citizen wants a fulltime job he gets himself a smart lawyer and settles down as the defendant in one of those never-ending trials that are so popular these days.

Vietnam Settlement Leaves Reader Bitter

Le Duc Tho is correct when he says the peace agreement is a "great victory" for North Vietnam. He is correct when he says that the war was won in the United States. The traitors who defeated us are still among us. We shall not forget. These honored dead have died in vain. Perhaps the opportunity will come when I can avenge the death of my nephew.

Why Does The City Close Launching Ramps?

I have been a resident of Marin County for the past nine years. My wife and I recently bought a small (16 ft.) boat, and have launched it several times from the launching ramp at Loch Lomond.

Several years ago, I remember a friend of mine launching at the City of San Rafael free launching ramp on Francisco Boulevard (at the end of the San Rafael Canal). With the addition of the Grand Street Bridge, it is now impossible to use this ramp, for the clearance at high tide is limited to short ducks!

A recent acquisition of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department was the old Peacock Gap Swim Club and Marina. Upon investigation, I found that a perfectly good launching ramp — one that might have been used for free — has been filled in, and consequently made unusable.

I am inquiring for information as to why a perfectly good launching ramp, one that has very convenient access to the bay, has been closed to use by the public, necessitating a $2 charge for every launch!!

Gives Teachers Blame For Hawkins' Ouster

"Teachers here are sitting pretty," declared a Redwood High School instructor who ought to know, "and we want to keep it that way."

This incredible statement explains, more than anything else, the reason why the Tamalpais District will soon be losing the services of its talented, energetic and innovative superintendent, Wilber Hawkins.

Contrary to popular opinion, Hawkins' ouster is not due to a misunderstanding with the trustees over the cost of some office furniture. Rather, as Trustee David Ring put it, it is because three of the five board members "played into the hands of our two teachers' unions, which regularly seek to outdo each other in their efforts to take over the management of the school district."

Now, the notion of a Divine Right of Kings was pretty well outdated by the time of Charles I. But the idea of a Divine Right of Teachers is alive and well and flourishing in the faculty lounges of the Tam District.

I speak from personal experience. Having been a Redwood student during the first two years of Hawkins' tenure, and having been involved in some of the controversies at that time, I can personally attest to the hegemony that teachers hold over district policy making, the zealousness with which they guard their entrenched privileges — some of them would make Marie Antoinette look soft on democracy — and the unwillingness or inability of certain administrators to contest them.

The sin of Superintendent Hawkins was to challenge this hegemony. . .

So now he is gone. The position of the teachers is, in a perverse way, understandable. So was Torquemada's. But that of the three trustees who threw Hawkins out — Corlett, Ladar and Wallace — whose first duty is ostensibly to the voters and not to the autocrats of the faculty lounge, is incomprehensible. . .

Plenty Of Water, But How About Future?

It as great to see your front-page picture of Nicasio Dam, brimming full! And to read that Marin's other five reservoirs are also chuck full.

At the same time, isn't it disturbing to think of Marin's vast population increase to date — with our water supply dependent on the same lakes as they were when we were not nearly so numerous? And more to come!

From year to year, rains vary. Usage increases. Before our luck runs out, let's do what is necessary to make Marin County's water supply adequate for all seasons, not just '73.

No Home In Marin For This Young Man?

Ron is a 17-year-old young man who has a job in San Rafael, but no home. Until recently we were able to provide room for him at our home. Following an argument with one of our military personnel, Ron was forbidden further entry to Hamilton Air Force Base; and as our home is located on the base, we are unable to extend our hospitality any longer.

The county juvenile authorities are unable to help. The social welfare department tells me they have no foster homes for teens. The YMCA has no facilities. The crash pads have a time limit.

Remarkable! In this lavishly blessed community, is there anyone who is willing to provide room for someone who is honestly trying to make it on his own?

Don't Drink Water; 'It's All In The Mind'

We are told about the folly of "dignifying absurdity by reply." However the really ingenious and startling succession of non-sequiturs in Mr. William D. Soule's letter in this column on Jan. 25 is too stimulating to ignore.

Mr Soule does not like the recent decision of Marin voters to fluoridate our water supply. It is very hard to find any good reason for not praising their good judgment, but let no one say that Mr. Soule has not tried

If I understand him correctly, Mr. Soule asserts that it is only our belief in the efficacy of fluorides "that is the controlling factor" in that efficacy. This is true, he says, because fluoride is inert (does he mean inorganic?) matter. Such "inert" matter, he says, would have no more effect on me or you than on a corpse unless we have an irrational belief or superstition that it would do so.

It should follow that breathing air or drinking water have no more effect on me or Mr. Soule than administering the same inert substances to a dead body. We could stop drinking or breathing tomorrow without ill effect except for our stupid credulity. Similarly, only our silly superstition that arsenic or potassium cyanide could be harmful restrains us from introducing them into our daily diet

It's Time To Say Good Word For South Vietnamese Soldier

WASHINGTON — Now that we are leaving them to do it alone, it is past time to say a respectful word for the most maligned class of men in recent world history.

Put-downs and bad jokes about the armed forces of South Vietnam have been so common in the past decade that they make the Italians in North Africa and the Arabs in Sinai seem epic heroes by contrast. But those wisecracks have been often wrong, and always unfair.

MOST OF THE COMBAT reportage Americans read and saw from Vietnam was about American troops. A high proportion of the coverage of Saigon government forces was negative, and that is only natural.

After all, when U.S. units first went ashore there, it was to save South Vietnam when it was about to be cut in half along the road from Qui Nhon to Pleiku, a development threatened by a long series of government blunders and defeats. So when our soldiers and marines arrived, the immediate situation added to their and our disdain for the local troops, even beyond the soldier's classic habit of sneering at other outfits to inflate his own morale.

The daily news then was of ARVN regiments being decimated at the Michelin plantation, battalions cut up on the road to Vung Tau, ambushes on Highway One, outposts raided, villages hit, crops captured.

Then came Americanization, and Tet. Then came Vietnamization, and the great enemy offensive of last spring.

When it began, the ARVN Third Division, a unit of green replacements, broke and fell back from the DMZ past Quang Tri. There it was relieved by marines, who slowly recaptured the city. To the south, the enemy offensive struck at An Loc, and North Vietnamese troops were given a date certain by which that town had to be captured. It was destroyed, but its defenders held.

Out of the whole offensive, the two events most noticed back here were the collapse of the Third Division and the failure of other reinforcing units to punch through on the road to An Loc. Yet on the whole, this massive, sacrificial operation by the enemy, hitting objectives the length of the country, was turned back.

THE IMPRESSION of any American in his living room was that this happened purely because of the crushing intervention of U.S. air power and the mining of ports in North Vietnam. That intervention was certainly sorely needed, and perhaps critical. But the South Vietnamese air force was just as deeply involved, scoring heavily against the enemy tanks. And most important of all, on the ground, it was the remarkably stubborn, long-enduring South Vietnamese riflemen who fought the enemy and turned him back.

Even in the days when the main things you heard about him were that he stole the peasants' ducks, took siestas and sometimes skirted known enemy strongholds, that same soldier was manning lonely outposts and scoring occasional major victories.

I recall the one along the sand flats outside Quang Tri City in March of 1966, when the fashion was to chuckle at any body-count reports from Saigon's forces. In that operation, the South Vietnamese reported 444 enemy killed — and invited you to count them for yourself. I recall others in the godforsaken swamps of Chuong Thien Province, and watching patrols head into the elephant grass of the highlands, smiling and waving goodby. Most Americans heard little or nothing about such operations.

When I say "that same soldier" did all this, I speak of him collectively. Literally, "that same soldier" who fought back in 1965-66 is probably dead now. Government figures say more than 183,528 have died, and 499,025 have been wounded and hospitalized.

NOW OUR TROOPS are departing, and he remains. That is the way it has been all along, for him as an individual. For while the American soldier put in his one-year tour and hopefully returned home, the South Vietnamese soldier goes in for the duration, if he lasts that long.

He has far less to be glad about this week than we here do. His prospect is unclear at best. But as an organization, the government forces are better trained and better led, too, despite the conventional wisdom, than they were when the Americans arrived. And, as an individual, whatever follows the cease-fire agreement, the South Vietnamese soldier will be hanging in there.

What Are Vietnam's Lessons? It's Time To Start Finding Out

WASHINGTON — Are we going to learn some lessons from the Vietnamese war? Surely this is the first and essential question to raise in the wake of the Vietnamese peace.

If so, when are we going to begin and how are we going to go about it?

The answer to when is now, at once, without more delay. There has been delay because already one of the principal participants, former President Lyndon Johnson, whose knowledge and second thoughts would be invaluable, is no longer with us. We shouldn't fritter away much more time before we start to collect some of the wisdom of history, either privately or through government or both, before it is too late.

WE MUST GET IN HAND the raw material of history while it is still fresh in the minds of those who helped make it.

A search for the lessons of Vietnam should be wanted by government — President and Congress — and undertaken by qualified, respected and independent persons. A special commission outside government, appointed by the President and Congress, is a possibility. But a wholly private study might be much better, by the Brookings Institution, the Council on Foreign Relations, Freedom House or a pooled enterprise by several interested foundations.

How it is done is more important than who does it.

The first need is a reasonable degree of detachment. The search is for lessons to be learned, not scapegoats to be publicized.

ONE WILL NOT learn much to guide us in the future by assuming either that it was a mistake to defend South Vietnam or that it was desirable to do so.

Surely the first step toward getting some right answers is to ask the right questions and then dig out the facts of every facet of Vietnam decision-making before attempting to draw the lessons.

Some of the questions to which we need satisfactory answers are these:

What persuaded President Kennedy and President Johnson to turn a policy of American military aid to South Vietnam into a policy of military participation?

At the time when President Kennedy expanded our military participation — modestly but significantly — was the decision made to go all the way if necessary; and if not, why not?

What persuaded Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson and nearly the whole Congress, as expressed in the Southeast Asia Resolution, that it was vital to the United States to prevent South Vietnam from falling to Communist expansion by force?

Was the struggle for South Vietnam substantially a civil war or was the civil war substantially the instrument of Hanoi?

Did the highest officials of the U.S. government, military and civilian, ever set down for themselves at any time from 1963 to 1969 what they expected it would cost our nation in lives, money and all other resources to fight the Vietnamese war? And if they did, how accurate did those estimates prove to be?

Did we fight the war the best possible way? If it seemed best at the time, does it seem best in retrospect?

Is the prospect of peace and stability in Southeast Asia better or worse today because the United States intervened in Vietnam and in the end achieved a negotiated settlement? Is the best interest of the United States well served or ill served by this end result?

IN SOME of the foregoing questions there are implications concerning the soundness and competence of the decision-making process at high levels It has to be that way We must get the facts which may deepen or disprove honest doubts.

What is needed now is a clearheaded, fresh, independent look at what we may have done right and what we may have done wrong in Vietnam from beginning to end. The sooner the better.

Council Candidates Offers Wide-Ranging Platform

Richard C. Fox, the prolific letters-to-the-editor writer who intends to run for a San Rafael City Council seat April 17, has issued a 17-page platform statement dealing with matters ranging from tax relief to open-air band concerts.

The 45-year-old research chemist's viewpoints appear to fill the gap created when onetime candidate Edwina Codoni declared she would not run for a council seat as previously announced.

DESCRIBING HIMSELF as a conservative conservationist, Fox has proposed:

An incentive system whereby city employees who cut municipal costs receive cash bonuses;

Maximum encouragement and use of volunteer citizen help and expertise in areas such as planning;

A constant effort to decrease paperwork routines and constant communication between council and staff to decrease city workloads;

Elimination of parking meters;

Beautification of the downtown through use of trees, shrubs, flowers and grass where possible;

Freeing property owners from condemnation actions where possible;

A program whereby city government makes positive efforts to supply information to the press;

Once-a-month gripe sessions between citizens and councilmen at city hall;

Open-air band concerts on Fourth Street during shopping nights;

Volunteer tree plantings;

A citizens' art and garden show in the downtown area.

"I THINK WE NEED in San Rafael a continuing emphasis on unsophisticated good old-fashioned American local patriotism and teamwork plus a good shot of the high aiming ideals such as trust and belief in your fellow man that this country has been long noted for," said Fox.

Fox has called for a detailed budget study, "making Canal residents feel they are part of the city and not just tolerated," tax relief for senior citizens, open space, and aid to small businessmen.

Fox has also pledged to champion the interests of "a growing segment of private citizens and small businesses who are groaning under the weight of ever-increasing tax loads."

DESPITE FOX'S BAG of lofty ideals and proposals is not expected to gain many votes, one city councilman sees the April 17 ballot being split three ways among Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission, Thomas R. O'Toole, chairman of the city's planning commission, and Lawence E. Mulryan, incumbent city councilman.

Fox denies reports he will withdraw near the end of the council campaign to embrace another candidate.

"It would take two million dollars for me to do that," he said. "And even then I might not do it."

Fox, who admitted he isn't given much of a chance in the election, said he would nevertheless "campaign to the bitter end. I'll go down in flames if I have to," he said.

Sierra Club Uses Act To Get Facts On Park

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Sierra Club invoked the Freedom of Information Act yesterday in a federal court suit asking the U.S. Interior Department to make public a report on potential damage to Redwood National Park.

The club has been asking the department to take action to prevent possible damage caused by clearcutting and some other logging practices on adjacent land that drains into the park.

In such cases, the department has power under the law to modify park boundaries, acquire partial interests outside the park, or to make agreements with nearby landowners.

An Interior Department task force made a study of the situation last year. The Freedom of Information Act provides court injunctions against government agencies that withhold public records from citizens.

Harpsichordist To Give Concert

Harpsichordist Hilda Jonas will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Caleruega Hall at Dominican College, San Rafael.

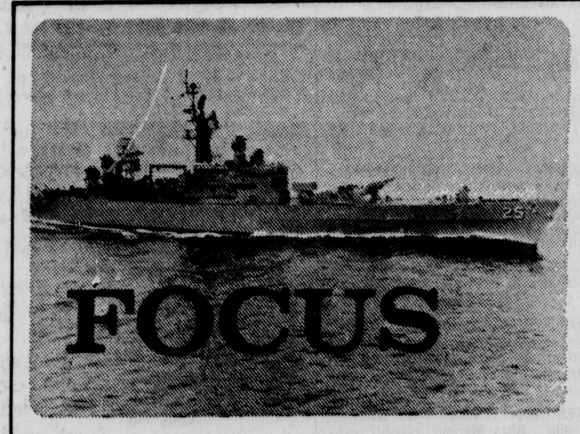
Her program will include the music of J. S. Bach, Hans Werner Henze, Galuppi and Jean-Philippe Rameau.

Mrs. Jonas received her musical education as pianist and harpsichordist in Germany, Switzerland and France, where she studied with Wanda Landowska. Her professional career includes concerts in Europe, Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii.

Voters To Choose Board Members

Apointees to the San Rafael Board of Education or the city council will serve only until the next municipal election, with the voters deciding who will fill out an unexpired term, if proposed charter amendments are approved by voters in the city's April 17 election.

The Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly reported appointees would serve until the next general election under the proposed charter amendments.



U.S. Troops in Europe

More than one out of every four of America's military personnel is serving outside the boundaries of the United States. Almost half of these are stationed in Europe or the surrounding waters. Over half of the 11,000 troops in West Berlin are American. The number of men assigned to the Sixth Fleet, stationed in the Mediterranean Sea, varies with the sizes of the ships in the fleet. Since the early Sixties, the number of soldiers stationed in Europe has dropped by about 100,000. The withdrawn units return yearly for training exercises on European soil.

DO YOU KNOW — In what country of the world does the U.S. have the most troops?

CTA Seeks Law Like Those In Strike States

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Nearly one million children across the nation were being deprived of schooling by teacher strikes last week as the California Teachers Association announced its No. 1 legislative priority for this year would be passage of a collective bargaining law.

The biggest of the strikes ended in Chicago as the Chicago Teachers Union, a unit of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, agreed to return to work after receiving salary increases, smaller class sizes — and a shortened school year. (The school year already had been shortened by the strike.)

Another AFT affiliate was on strike in Philadelphia. In St. Louis, locals of both AFT and National Education Association (of which CTA is a part) were striking. In Superior, Wis., it was another AFT affiliate.

ILLINOIS, PENNSYLVANIA, Missouri and Wisconsin have state laws permitting exclusive collective bargaining agents for teachers.

California has no such law. This state's Winton Act sets up a system for teacher representation in negotiations. All organizations to which teachers in a district belong are entitled to members on a certificated employees' council in proportion to their membership in the teaching force as a whole. This council meets and confers with the school board regarding salaries, employment conditions, and "all matters relating to the definition of educational objectives, the determination of the content of courses and curricula, the selection of textbooks, and other aspects of the instructional program" — a pretty wide scope, including just about everything except how to pay the bills.

However, under the Winton Act, the final decision is left with the board; and contracts are entered into with the teachers as individuals, not with a union as sole bargaining agent.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS, the California Teachers Association has been trying to change that.

In the 1971 Legislature, the vehicle was Assembly Bill 2833, introduced for CTA by Assemblyman L. E. Townsend, D-Torrance. It provided that the union with majority membership among a district's teachers "shall be the exclusive representative of all the employees . . . and a board of education shall not negotiate matters covered by this article with any other representative."

It went further, providing for mandatory deductions from teachers' pay checks of whatever amounts the union said it needed to police the contract. And it specified that teachers had the right to strike.

The 1971 bill was killed in the Assembly Education Committee.

Last year, the vehicle was AB 545 by Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando. It was worded a little more cautiously, containing no specific provision for strikes or mandatory deductions from teachers' pay checks for union use. But an opinion of the legislative counsel said both would be allowed under its terms. It also died in the Assembly Education Committee — by one vote.

THERE WILL BE another such bill this year.

In its Legislative Letter of Jan. 19 — while those teacher strikes were under way in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Superior, Wis. — CTA reported: "Tops among the issues, according to previously set association priorities, is a collective bargaining law for teachers and/or all pblic employees."

The makeup of the Assembly Education Committee has been changed this year by Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood. The new makeup gives CTA lobbyists high hope that they can get this year's collective bargaining bill out of committee.

California has had a few teacher strikes, despite the fact that our state laws do not recognize the right to strike by public employees. But the biggest, longest, costliest and most numerous teacher strikes have almost all been in states that have laws giving teacher unions the power that CTA wants to get for itself in California.

92 Streptoccous Cases Reported

A total of 92 cases of streptoccocus infection were reported to Marin health officials last week, Dr. Carolyn M. Abrecht, county health officer, said.

Second on the list of communicable diseases reported was gonorrhea, with 19 cases. Other illnesses reported were mumps, tuberculosis and infectious hepatitis, one case each.

A Watchdog For Technology

By PHILIP W. McKINSEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — When Congress ended the supersonic transport program in 1971, its scientific justification was partly a matter of guesswork and hunch — it sided with those scientists who feared the SST might be harmful to the environment, without hard knowledge that it would. Now, Congress is moving to give itself the capability to answer such questions more surely.

Under a little noticed piece of legislation passed last year, Congress is setting in place a new Office of Technology Assessment (OTA) to advise it on the technological consequences of new projects and legislative ideas. And the new office probably will expand its scope to take a look at the likely impact of some programs and activities already under way in both government and private industry.

It will get off to a cautious, slow start. Its director has yet to be picked, it hasn't yet gotten any money to operate and it is likely to feel its way along carefully for the first couple of years. But OTA could grow into a powerful force, both in capitol jockeying for power and in the shaping of government activities in the 1970s.

Christian Science Monitor sketch by Gene Langley

As a creature of Congress, just as is the General Accounting Office that probes executive branch agencies to spotlight mismanagement and waste, OTA will be independent of the administration. Its bosses will be a 12-member board of governors made up of six senators and six representatives, split 50-50 (Democratic and Republican).

The board's chairman is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and that will ensure OTA both of publicity, because Kennedy attracts reporters like a magnet, and influence, because Kennedy has become a powerful and respected member of the Senate power structure.

But OTA not only gives Congress a potentially powerful new tool to develop independent information to strengthen it in its newly heightened confrontation with the executive branch, it also provides a significant new forum for detailed government scientific study of the impact of private industrial activities that cause worries in some quarters.

The OTA will launch projects only on the order of its congressional board of directors, who will be backstopped by a 12-member advisory board with heavy scientific representation, or on the request of a congressional committee. But it won't have to wait long for directions.

Kennedy, for example, has a number of favorite subjects — going far beyond questions of specific proposed legislation — that he may choose from in setting OTA to work on its first projects.

Among them: energy technology, the impact of computers on the right of privacy, the ecological impact of pesticides and of alternatives to chemical pesticides, the side effects of food additives, and even the question of urban mass transit.

Plea Of Guilty To Burglary Charges Made

John R. Arbuckle, 22, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to two counts of burglarizing shops by tricking the storekeepers.

Arbuckle's plea was part of an arrangement with Judge David Menary Jr., who dismissed a third count and agreed to give him no more than seven months in jail. Sentencing was set for Feb. 20.

Arbuckle, Steven John Pappas, 21, of San Francisco, and a third man went into shops in August and while two distracted the clerk, the third raided the unattended till, according to police reporters.

The two and Andrew Joseph Carrino, 28, of San Rafael, were arrested Aug. 23 by San Anselmo police. Charges later were dismissed against Carrino.

Burglary targets that day were the Dream Days Shop and the Poppy Shop in San Anselmo and Trixie's Dress Shop in San Rafael.

Pappas received 60 days in jail after admitting two counts in December.

Guide Dogs To Graduate 10 Saturday

Guide Dogs for the Blind will graduate 10 blind people in ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the facility, 350 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Graduates are Sharolyn Carroll of Portland; Steven Galli and Norman Townsend of San Jose; Elizabeth Gerfen of Olympia, Wash.; Neva Golding of Fresno; Esther Gunther of Wichita, Kan.; Leo Hobelman of Denver, Colo.; Frederick Korgstad of Minneapolis; Linda Sharpe of Vancouver, B.C., and Floyd Yonders of Rainier, Ore.

Class members officially will recieve guide dogs with which they have trained.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hormone Lack In Later Life Contributes To Osteoporosis

An elderly woman was having back trouble and aspirin was the only drug that gave her any relief. She wrote: "I hate to take aspirin, but what else can I do. My nephew bought me an expensive brace and heating pad. They didn't help and he might as well have saved his money. Is there anything else you can recommended?"

We suggest a consultation with an orthopedic specialist because very little can be done unless the cause of the distriess is known.

A FEW MONTHS later, the nephew wrote: "X-rays of the spine showed shrinking of the vertebras and evidence of mineral deficiencies. My aunt has osteoporosis, which the doctor says is a common cause of backache in older people. He prescribed certain sex hormones and calcium tablets with vitamin D. Believe it or not, within 10 days, she was well enough to visit her son's farm."

Lack of sex hormones (following the change of life) is said to affect the calcium and phosphorus content of the bone. This explains why osteoporosis develops several years after the menopause or after age 60 in men. Furthermore, x-rays may show typical bone changes long before backache and weakness arise. Treatment at this time will reverse the osteoporotic process.

Sex hormones (estrogens and/or testosterone) are not as important in treatment as is a diet adequate in calcium, protein, and vitamins A and D.

MANY OLDSTERS are not good eaters; others do not absorb minerals and proteins, even when adequate amounts are taken. Correcting the diet with protein-rich foods is recommended along with vitamins A and D, plus large doses of calcium (dicalcium phosphate or calcium lactate). Milk, too, is rich in calcium. Exercise also helps. Relief of pain occurs within a few weeks and the sufferers feel better and look stronger. They are better able to endure the ordinary strains of life.

Osteoporosis is the most commonly seen metabolic bone disease in the United States. In this disorder, there is thinning of the skeletal tissue due to lack of minerals, such as calcium. In some instances, the bones (including the spine and pelvis) are so weak, spontaneous fractures occur.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

EXERCISE AND HEART

I. B. writes: Is it worse for a man with a bad heart to climb a flight of stairs than to walk on the level?

REPLY

Scientific studies show that the energy used in walking up a flight of stairs is not significantly different from walking on the level. Please note that we said one flight of stairs.

TONSIL POCKETS

V. D. writes: Should tonsils be removed if they have pockets?

REPLY

No. All tonsils have pockets or crypts, because of the presence of innumerable folds. Nothing need be done unless pus pockets develop.

BOILS AND AGE

T. writes: Is old age an invatation to boils?

REPLY

Yes, if you are slipping into elderly adolescence. Boils are more common in teen-agers.

TANTRUMS AT 85

D.L. writes: We all know about temper tantrums in children. But how about discussing this type of behavior in an oldster? I have in mind an 85 year old woman who seems sane, but throws a violent tantrum even when things are going smoothly. Her unreasonable actions are destroying her family. How do you cope with such a situation?

REPLY

This woman is in her second childhood (senile). The family physician may be able to prescribe medication to keep her quiet or to improve circulation to the brain. I assume these attacks are not epileptic seizures.

DON'T PUNISH SELF

K.F. writes: I have arthritis of the knees and feet. Pain is not too severe. Would it be better for me to stay off my feet or do the normal amount of walking?

REPLY

Stay off the feet when the arthritis process is active and the joints are acutely inflamed. Thereafter be up and about, but don't do any unnecessary walking, standing, or climbing stairs. In other words, minimize your activity and avoid undue strain. Meanwhile, check with your physician relative to modern treatment.

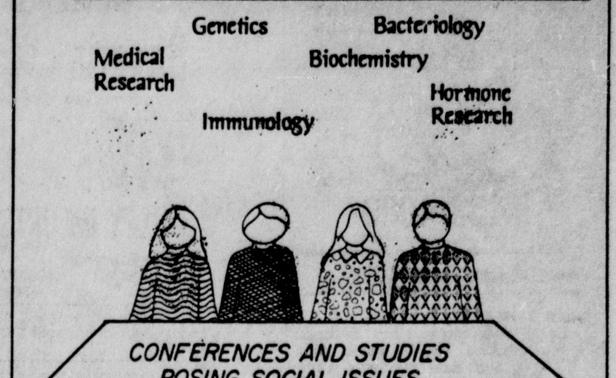
NURSERY SCHOOLS

Mrs. R. L. writes: I have a 3½-year-old son who is full of vitality and asks me questions all day long. There are no children on our block so he plays alone. My neighbors tell me I should send him to nursery school when he is 4, but wouldn't he pick up more infections in school? One 5-year-old caught meningitis at school and nearly died. Does a bright 4-year-old need nursery school?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but sooner or later your son must contend with the outside world, even though his chances of developing infections will increase. I got the impression from your letter that you are overprotecting your child. This is not wise because you are paving the way for feelings of insecurity and other emotional disorders.

EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION BETWEEN BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES



Science Of Biology Emerging As A Giant

Think about the birth control pill and the polio vaccine. Think about genetic counseling and organ transplants. What comes to mind is a mixture of widespread benefits as well as serious legal and ethical issues.

These scientific developments are each part of a larger phenomenon: the growing social impact of progress in the science of biology.

In the future, as scientists add even more to the biological understanding of man, there will be further temptation to intervene in his behavior, his reproduction, his learning, and his health. There will be more opportunities for human betterment and more possibilities for misuse.

What social concerns are involved? The preservation of health, certainly and the value of human life. When is life to begin, when allowed to end, and how well maintained?

The respect for individual rights may also be reexamined. What are the rights of the patients who submit to experiments, the genetically defective couples who want children, or the abnormally violent patient who doesn't want treatment?

Against these and other social concerns must be weighed the possible benefits of the biological future: a cure for disease, an end to malnutrition, a way to improve learning. Certainly these goals are worth pursuing.

Reaping the benefits without the hazards will mean answering difficult practical questions. It will also mean much more — there will have to be a new human ethic, one in which the best of the sciences and the best of the humanities can be mutually reinforcing.

In a few public agencies, and in some research centers such as the Salk Institute, the work toward this end has begun. Studies and action programs have been started that utilize the combined efforts of biologists, scholars in other fields, and public leaders. But much more needs to be done.

The other sciences can only change how men use their environment. Biology can change what men are.

Marines Retiring Last Of Enlisted Man Pilots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Flying Peons—enlisted men serving as pilots—are rapidly fading into oblivion. The Marine Corps retires its last four Thursday.

This will leave only three enlisted men still piloting aircraft in any of the services— all of them Navy chief petty officers.

Almost all air forces around the world make officers of their pilots now—the rank being more a mark of status than of command authority and pilots remain at the top of the prestige heap. For example, many of the men who piloted B52s from Guam to north Vietnam were captains outranked by their navigators, who often were majors.

But the pilots get the best single rooms on Guam while senior crewmen have complained they are jammed into barracks-like quarters.

At the peak of the enlisted pilot program, the Navy had 920 in 1950 and the Marine Corps about 500 in World War II. The Air Force never had any, although its predecessor, the Army Air Corps of World War II, graduated 1,125.

The Marine enlisted pilot program dates back to World War I. Over the years the pilots have been called Flying Sergeants, Enlisted Pilots and Flying Peons.

One of the more curious exploits in air warfare was fought by a Flying Peon, Marine M.Sgt. Herbert Valentine, during the Korean war. He had become an ace during World War II when he shot down six Japanese fighters in one day.

In Korea he was flying a small unarmed observation plane one day when he spotted a jeep carrying a North Korean general who sat ramrod straight with his arms folded as Valentine flew in low. The Flying Peon decided to attack although the only armament he and his observer had were .38 caliber pistols.

There ensued a 20-mile running battle with a rifleman in the jeep returning Valentine's fire. Neither side scored an effective hit.

Running low on ammunition, Valentine swooped down for one last attack. The jeep driver looked over his shoulder toward Valentine at the wrong moment, lost control and hurtled over a cliff. As the jeep pitched to destruction, Valentine could see the general, still sitting erect with arms akimbo.

The last four Marine Flying Peons are all master sergeants: Robert Lurie, 51, of Barksdale, Calif., the only one trained in jet aircraft; Joseph A. Conroy, 51, of Havelock, N.C., who started flying with the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1942; Leslie T. Ericson, 52, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Patrick J. O'Neil, 51, of Imperial Beach, Calif.

All four have flown in combat in the last three wars, except for Lurie, who missed World War II combat.

Lurie and Conroy will retire Thursday at Cherry Point Naval Air Station, N.C., and Ericson and O'Neil at El Toro Air Station, Calif., bringing an end to the Flying Peons of the Marine Corps.

Guilty Plea In Grand Theft Case

Lonnie Lawder Rivas, 26, of Petaluma, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a felony count of grand theft on condition he receives no more than three months in jail.

The proposed penalty was part of a plea bargain with Judge David Menary Jr., who set sentencing for March 5.

Rivas admitted participating in the theft of a $350 watch from two teen-agers Aug. 14 in the parking lot at Mayfair Market in San Rafael.

Rivas, Herman Sanchez, 27, of San Rafael, and Larry Paul Slager, 25, of San Rafael, all originally were charged with robbery, but in each case the charge was reduced.

Sanchez, also known as Joseph Rivera, pleaded guilty to grand theft and is to be sentenced Monday. Slager served 11 days in jail after pleading guilty to battery.

ROLLING SMOOTHLY ALONG

Buses have the best of it these days on the San Bernadino Freeway between El Monte and Los Angeles, rolling along in their own lane in the center of the freeway at a top speed of 70 miles an hour and shaving at least 15 minutes off rush hour travel time. Financed by state and federal grants, the $53 million busway will eventually grow to 11 miles and will be completed in mid-1974.

Marin Recreation Seeks $3.5 Million For Space

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Department today reported a $3.5 million "shopping list" of open space lands it would like to acquire this year for the new regional park district.

The document pinpoints six areas in the county which have been judged to be of "county-wide importance" and in need of public acquisition.

As expected, the document includes the long-sought Northridge between Mill Valley, Corte Madera and Larkspur. Other areas are Big Rock Ridge in Lucas Valley, Cascade Canyon in Fairfax, Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Penninsula, Wolfback Ridge overlooking Sausalito and the ridge dividing San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow.

County Parks Director Pierre W. Joske, who doubles as general manager of the new regional park district, said the document was developed by his staff and a committee of the parks and recreation commission.

He had declined Monday to reveal its contents to a group of city officials from Corte Madera, Mill Valley and Larkspur, who had met to discuss the Northridge acquistion plan.

Joske told the Independent-Journal today he had declined to discuss the document because he didn't have a copy Monday and feared giving incorrect information from memory.

No priority has been given to the six areas, he said, adding he doubted all could be purchased this year, even using long-range financing.

The Northridge is listed at 218,000 acres with an assessor's fair market value of about $685,000 or $3,144 per acre. The land, divided into 31 separate parcels, has been the center of open-space attention for more than a year.

The county's interest in Big Rock Ridge, meanwhile, is listed as starting with 119 acres with an assessor's market value of about $150,000 or $1,242 per acre. Portions of the Big Rock area currently are under heavy development pressure.

Cascade Canyon is the largest area listed, showing some 436 acres in one ownership, valued by the assessor at $171,000 or $436 per acre.

Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula is visible from Highway 101 at Corte Madera behind the town's controversial Madera Del Presidio housing development proposal. The mountain totals 371 acres with an assessor's value of $1.3 million of $3,610 per acre.

Wolfback Ridge, which was not included in the federal government's Golden Gate National Recreation Area, overlooks Sausalito and has been backed for acquisition by many residents. It is listed at 154 acres with an assessor's value of $175,444 or $1,132 per acre. The area has been subject to a building moratorium by the city of Sausalito.

The ridge between San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow is listed at 387 acres with an assessor's value of $928,000, or $2,396 per acre.

Joske said he was hopeful the county and city of San Rafael could wrk jointy on purchasing the tree-covered ridge.

The shopping list will be considered by the county board of supervisors, sitting as the board of directors of the regional park district, on Feb. 13 at 8:30 a.m. at the Civic Center.

Joske said the primary tool for keeping the land open will be long-range financing, if the board agrees. Currently, the county has about $700,000 budgeted for open space. Those funds will probably be shifted to the new park district.

Another Four File School Board Papers

Four more candidates have filed nomination papers to get their names on school district ballots for the trustee elections April, 17. Two others announced candidacy today but have not yet filed.

Paul K. McMullen, who was appointed to the San Rafael Board of Education last April, filed for election to a full term. He is a public relations official for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco.

McMullen is the first person to file for one of the two vacancies on the board. William Compagna of 206 Marin Street, has taken out papers, but had made no formal announcement. He could not be reached today.

Thomas A. Guerin of 11 Ames Street, Ross, became the second candidate to file for the Ross board. He has lived in Ross seven years. He and his wife, Janice, have two children in school and three past school age.

Guerin has coached Little League baseball and girls' soccer in Ross and basketball for the Catholic Youth Organization.

He received a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Santa Clara, and is a certified public accountant with offices in San Francisco.

He said his financial background, plus the experience of his five children in schools gave him a background that would be helpful to the other trustees.

Incumbent Sally Ann Rakow filed previously for one of the two seats open on the Ross board.

There were two filings for the Lagunitas School District board, Harry R. Smith of 15 Corona Avenue, and Lee DiVinzenzo of 320 Centure Avenue, Lagunitas.

Mrs. DiVincenzo formerly was a full-time teacher, and has been a substitute teacher in the Lagunitas district for the past two years, she said.

She and her husband, Joseph, a designer and artist, have lived in the community five years and have two children. She was graduated from California Western University in San Diego.

Smith could not be reached for information on his candidacy.

Dr. Thomas D. Spencer of 429 Live Oak Drive, Tamalpais Valley, announced he will run for one of three seats on the Mill Valley School District board.

He teaches child psychology at California State University in San Francisco and is director of the university's child learning center. Spencer is 35. He and his wife Gloria have two daughters. They have lived in the Mill Valley district for five years. Mrs. Spencer, a former teacher, has been president of the Tamalpais Valley School P-TA and a member of the district P-TA Council.

Cate Bauer, a Mill Valley housewife, and Harold Drob, business manager of the Learning Resources Center at the University of California Medical Center, previously filed. Incumbents John G. Eliot and John H. Cutler have announced they will seek reelection. The third term expiring in June is that of William P. Everts.

Candidates' filings will close at 5 p.m. Feb. 16.

Auto Crash Injuries Are Minor

A Petaluma woman and her daughter escaped with minor injuries yesterday when their auto rolled over on Highway 101 near Terra Linda after striking a barrier on the freeway.

The California Highway Patrol said Judith A. Miller, 24, of 1505 Pheasant Drive, was northbound on the highway about 8:30 p.m. when a truck pulled in front of her car and suddenly slowed down.

Officers said Mrs. Miller swerved to avoid a collision, struck the barrier and rolled over.

Mrs. Miller was treated for minor leg injuries at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael. Her daughter, Jody, 7, was treated at the hospital for a cut lip.

SPEAKER — Rev. John V. Ohlin of Springfield, Mo., field representative for the Assemblies of God Spiritual Life-Evangelism Commission, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Central Assembly of God, San Rafael.

A Warning Issued On Ovenware

San Rafael police today issued an urgent warning to anyone in Marin who may recently have bought potentially dangerous ovenware, a brand peddled from the streets and likely to explode in the heat of an oven.

Dennis Lee Travis, 23, of Norwalk, and Russell Duane Chesmore, 22, of Cudahay, both Los Angeles County, were arrested just before 11 a.m. and were to be booked at Marin County jail, according to police.

Assist. Police Chief Thomas L. Stephensen promptly issued the warning on "Queen Victoria" ovenware.

At least five persons yesterday purchased sets totaling 81 pieces of the ovenware, sold for $20 and claimed to be worth $89.50 a set, police reported.

A van with Chesmore in it, pulled into the Golden Gate Transit offices at 517 Jacoby Street at 11:30 a.m. where four sets were sold to employees.

After a warning was issued on a television station last night, Thomassine Keels of 1368 San Jose Boulevard, Novato, reported to San Rafael police that she had bought a set of the ovenware that afternoon from a van in front of 64 Gary Place, San Rafael.

According to San Rafael police, San Francisco police and San Francisco Better Business Bureau have issued repeated warnings against the ovenware.

The Independent-Journal carried a warning about it on Jan. 19 on the business page.

Water Warning Is Now Lifted

A contaminated water warning for the Muir Beach area — imposed because of recent floods — has been lifted by the county, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, announced yesterday.

Dr. Albrecht said residents no longer need boil water five minutes prior to human consumption.

"Recent bacteriological tests on samples of water from your system are entirely satisfactory," she wrote to the Muir Beach Community Services District board.

Guidelines On Impact Reports Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An unemployed hardhat worker and conservationists yesterday criticized proposed Reagan administration guidelines to implement the state's controversial new environmental impact reporting law.

Conservationist representatives testified at a public hearing that the guidelines fail to make adequate provision for citizens to participate in the review of environmental impact reports on proposed construction.

Other witnesses representing cities, builders and water users indicated they could live with the guidelines. Most offered technical suggested changes to make the proposal more palatable.

But Bud Weeks of Citrus Heights, a jobless operating engineer who said he represented "hardhats, citizens and taxpayers," told the hearing called by Resources Secretary Norman Livermore Jr. that environmentalists already had gone too far.

He cited lawsuits filed to block construction of new dams, highways and powerplants as examples of action by environmentalists which he said threw thousands of workers out of jobs.

"Some people have forgotten to use good common sense and have gone to an extreme on environmental issues," Weeks declared. "Before long we'll have to file an environmental impact report before we can mow the grass in our own yards."

"You've struck a very important chord," Livermore told him.

The hearing was held to receive testimony on guidelines for local government to implement legislation spawned by a controversial 1972 state Supreme Court decision which held that reports must be filed on private as well as public projects which posed a "significant" impact on the environment.

The Legislature last year rushed through "emergency" legislation declaring a 120-day moratorium on filing the reports and ordered the Resources Agency to develop guidelines for implementation of the law.

Representatives of the Sierra Club, Planning and Conservation League and Environmental Defense Fund generally agreed the proposed guidelines represented a "step in the right direction" but attacked features they said prevent the public from participating in the review of environmental impact reports.

"They are outrageous because they subtly, albeit systematically, exclude the public from any participation in the environmental impact report review process," charged Thomas J. Graff, regional counsel of the Environmental Defense Fund.

He said this flew in the face of both existing legislation and the Supreme Court's environmental ruling. Graff added, "the guidelines appear deliberately to refrain from mentioning even the possibility of public input."

The guidelines, which must be adopted by Feb. 5, were drafted chiefly by John Tooker, director of the state Office of Planning and Research.

He announced several proposed changes to the guidelines including one that would allow use of the same impact report for two or more projects provided they were nearly identical. Such a revision was called for by the California Builders Council.

Student Offers To Share Award

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A UCLA law student who last week won a $655,000 fraud judgment from a Beverly Hills leasing firm says he wants to share the money with others who have been victimized.

David Sabih and his wife Elaine were awarded the settlement Jan. 22 in a suit against Cal-Pacific Leasing Co. Inc.

Sabih said Tuesday he wants others to contact him if they feel they have been bilked by the same company, but do not have enough money to go to court.

Assassination Plot Was Flop

BEIRUT (UPI) — Marxist guerrillas plotted to assassinate the Sultan of Oman and overthrow his regime in a widespread insurrection scheduled for New Year's Eve but the plot was foiled, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar said today.

The forces of Sultan Qabus ben Said discovered and foiled the plot through the arrest of a guerrilla leader in Muscat, the newspaper said.

Sheep Fleeced As Tax Protest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sam Prather, a rancher from Philo in Mendocino County, fleeced a sheep in front of the Federal Building on Tuesday as a protest against income taxes.

Other protestors carried signs saying, "Every Day is Fleece-in Day at the IRS" and "Warning—the IRS is Dangerous to Your Wealth."

Factions In Laos Talk Cease-Fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Government and Communist Pathet Lao representatives opened private negotiations today, discussing a Laos cease-fire and other issues. Sources close to the talks called it a frank and honest exchange.

The two-hour meeting, the first discussions of their type to be held since peace negotiations started here in mid-October, took place this afternoon in what the sources decribed as a "very good atmosphere."

Government officials have welcomed the private meetings as a vehicle to a cease-fire agreement in Laos, which is the scene of continuing bombing by B52 strategic bombers and jet fighter bombers following last Saturday's Vietnam cease-fire.

The sources here declined to discuss the substance of today's private talks, held in the home of one of the government negotiators. Four government representatives and three Pathet Lao negotiators took part.

Well-informed sources said, however, that today's discussions were only in general terms. One source said the government proposal to split the private discussions into separate political and military committees had not materialized.

It was not immediately known whether any firm time was set for the next private meeting, expected to be held at the Pathet Lao permanent mission in Vientiane.

It was believed government representatives wished to consult with Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma who was scheduled to return here from Bangkok late Thursday afternoon.

In Bangkok, Souvanna was reported "delighted" with hope offered by the talks. According to Deputy Foreign Minister Chartchai Chunhawan, Souvanna in a meeting with Thai Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn reported a cease-fire in Laos appeared to be getting closer.

U.S. bombing in Laos has continued since last Sunday morning in the absence of a provision for a cease-fire here in the Vietnam agreements. Strategic B52 bombers based at U-tapao in Thailand were being used along the Ho Chi Minh supply complex in southern Laos.

Xerox Charged With A Copying Monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) officially accused Xerox Corp. today of monopolizing the $1.7 billion office copying machines business, and demanded the company take steps to correct the situation.

The FTC said Xerox built its monopoly through unfair marketing and patent practices, and by stopping foreign affiliates from competing with the parent firm in the United States.

The firm had no comment on the FTC suit. But it had said on Dec. 12 that the case was "ill founded and without merit." The FTC originally proposed the complaint Dec. 12 after negotiations to settle the matter through the usual consent procedure —where a company involved agrees to change its policies without admitting guilt — failed.

As a result, the FTC made the complaint official today and turned the matter over to one of its law judges.

The complaint alleges Xerox so dominated the market it accounted for 86 per cent of all the revenues from the sale and lease of machines in the market during 1971. The corporation's position was even more dominant —95 per cent of all revenues —in the $1 billion segment of the market concerned with copiers which use plain, untreated paper.

The FTC said Xerox has, through its monopoly position, forced customers to lease, rather than buy, its equipment; charged different customers different prices; monopolized and attempted to monopolize copier patents; used its patent position to head off potential competition and, with a British connection, "effectively divided up the world market for plain paper office copiers."

The FTC demanded Xerox offer unrestricted, royalty-free licensing of all existing office copier patents, and unrestricted licensing of any copier patents it might obtain during the next 20 years.

The agency also demanded Xerox divest its stock in Rank Xerox Ltd., of Great Britain, and drop any prohibition against that firm selling its products in the United States. In addition, it said Xerox should be forbidden from refusing to sell its machines; prohibited from acquiring the stock of any other copier firm; and told to drop any requirement that Xerox be the sole source for maintenance and repair of its leased copiers.

Excessive Spending Atop Nixon's Economic Goals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation and unemployment have taken a back seat to excessive federal spending at the top of President Nixon's list of economic problems.

Nixon made that clear today in his annual economic message to Congress. He said 1973 "can be a great year" for the economy if only the government doesn't spend too much of the taxpayers money.

It was the same theme Nixon stressed in his budget message two days ago. Congress, not the White House, will be the culprit if a new round of inflation forces a tax increase, he said.

Just three weeks after introducing a new format of voluntary wage-price guidelines, the President also advised the country to prepare for the end of economic controls. He did not mention a specific date for the total phase out of controls, however.

In a lengthy report that accompanied Nixon's message, the Council of Economic Advisors forecast another healthy year of economic growth with a modest decline in employment but little change in the overall rate of inflation. Food prices should decline in the months ahead, however, the Council said.

The current "vigorous expansion" that is boosting the economy closer to capacity and lowering unemployment could become too much of a good thing, according to Nixon.

"The problem, as far as can now be foreseen, will be to prevent this expansion from becoming an inflationary boom. That is why I put restraining federal expenditures at the top of the list of economic policies for 1973," Nixon said.

"Nothing is easier or more pleasant, at least for a bureaucracy, than to spend money... only by holding the line on federal spending will we be able to reduce the inflation rate further in 1973."

Nixon already has asked Congress for mandatory spending ceiling of $269 billion, the same as his budget request, for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Noting the nation's continuing foreign trade deficit, Nixon said, "This is not a situation that can go on indefinitely." He indicated that trade and other international economic matters would get lots of attention in 1973.

Last year, the United States imported $6 billion more than it exported, a record trade deficit. The administration hoped the dollar devaluation would improve the competitive position of the United States with its trading partners but Nixon's economic counselors predicted the trade balance would improve by only $2.5 billion in 1973, still leaving the nation $3.5 billion in the red.

The council also listed these figures in its 1973 forecast:

A 10 per cent or $115 billion increase in gross national product to $1,267 billion ($1.3 trillion).

"Real" or non-inflated economic growth of 6 ¾ per cent compared to an estimated 6.5 per cent in 1972.

Annual price increases averaging 3 per cent, about the same as last year.

A decline in the unemployment rate from the current 5.2 per cent to "the neighborhood of 4.5 per cent by the end of the year."

Heart Victim

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Crooks, 67, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange for three years in the 1950s, died Monday of a heart attack. He was a vice president and director of the brokerage house of Thomson & McKinnon, Auchincloss, Inc.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 31, the 31st day of 1973 with 334 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American novelist Zane Grey was born Jan. 31, 1872.

On this day in history:

In 1950, President Harry Truman disclosed that he had ordered development of the hydrogen bomb.

In 1958, Explorer 1, the first U.S. earth satellite, was launched from the Cape Canaveral, now Kennedy missile test center.

In 1961, Ham, a male chimpanzee, was rocketed into space in a test of the Project Mercury capsule later to carry an American astronaut into orbit.

In 1971, with three astronauts aboard, the Apollo 14 spacecraft blasted off for the moon.

A thought for the day: U.S. novelist Christopher Morley said, "Man must learn, or his name is mud, to relish the ebb as well as the flood."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, light air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

KTVU (2), 9 p.m. — "They've Killed President Lincoln" is an hour-long special documenting the events prior to the assassination. Joseph Leisch has the principal role. Richard Basehart is the narrator.

"However, son, man does not live by bread alone."

A Chilling Picture Of Next Quake

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A major earthquake will some day strike San Francisco again, causing "one of the greatest disasters ever experienced in the United States," a state official said yesterday.

Residents should prepare to take care of themselves during the hours after the quake, he said.

"Only God can help you, other than yourself during the first few minutes after a quake strikes," said Herbert R. Temple, director of the governor's Office of Emergency Services (OES).

"A major earthquake occurring in the San Francisco Bay Area will result in one of the greatest disasters ever experienced in the United States, thereby requiring massive assistance be provided to affected communities," Temple predicted.

An earthquake with a Richter Scale reading over 6.0 will be devastating, he said. The San Francisco quake of 1906 was 8.25 and killed over 400 persons.

The state agency is preparing an earthquake response plan for the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area encompassing 92 cities. The final blueprint will be a pilot project from which California officials hope to build a model for application cities throughout the rest of the state.

But the real key to success "lies at the local level." Temple said his agency has launched a series of animated shorts for use on television and in schools, giving instruction to residents on how to prepare for an earthquake and what to do when it occurs.

"Since the Bay Area is traversed by several active faults, any community may suffer serious damages in the event of a major earthquake. At the same time, others will be less damaged and some may be unaffected."

Hard hit areas will get help from less affected cities. "This prompt initial response would be followed by help from more distant parts of the state and from outside the state," Temple said.

The agency will organize relief efforts, tabulate location of emergency rations and equipment and funnel information regarding communications, resources, maps, emergency procedures, location of key facilities, high risk areas and transportation routes to victims through use of the news media.

In addition, OES plans workshops in each county "to enable the local jurisdictions to tailor the operations guide to their community."

The entire plan is to be completed by July of this year. Following its conclusion "there will be an exercise to test its effectiveness," Temple said.

Speakers on the program "What's New in Marin" at 9 a.m. Friday on KTIM will be Dorothy Brown of the Dixie Schoolhouse Foundation, Marcelett Henry of the Tamalpais High School homemaking department, men's hair stylist Fred Esparza and Sylvia Siegle, consumer advocate.

Mrs. Brown will discuss the recent naming of the Old Dixie Schoolhouse as an historical site, while Mrs. Henry will describe the new consumer resource center at Tamalpais High School.

Esparza will talk about men's hair styles, and Mrs. Siegle will discuss regulations covering household moving.

'All In The Family' Tops The Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "All in the Family" continues to lead the nation's 20 most popular television shows, according to A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings made public Monday.

The national ratings, for the week of Jan. 15-21, showed the winners in this order:

"All in the Family," CBS; "Bob Hope Christmas Show," Jack Benney's First Farewell Special," "Sanford & Son," "Walt Disney," "Sunday Mystery Movie" and "Mary Tyler Moore, both CBS, and "The Flip Wilson Show," NBC.

Other winners were "Bob Newhart," CBS; "Marcus Welby, M.D.," ABC; "Hawaii Five-O," CBS; "Tuesday Night Movie," ABC; "Gunsmoke" and "Maude," CBS; "Odd Couple," "Partridge Family and "Room 222," all ABC.

New Alarm System In Fairfax

The Fairfax Police Department has installed a new burglary alarm system for use by residents and businessmen on a subscription basis, Police Chief Charles A. Grasso announced yesterday.

First Federal Savings and Loan, which opened a branch in Fairfax Jan. 2, is the department's only subscriber.

Grasso, who urged all residents and businessmen to make use of the service - available for installation costs and a monthly fee of up to $30 - said the system has an "unlimited capacity to act as a deterent to criminals."

A buzzer sounds and a light flashes in the department when the alarm is tripped in a subscriber's home or business, he said, adding the system is similar to those used by other police departments.

Grasso predicted a reduction in local crimes through use of the alarm system.

The Buddy System In 49er Secondary

REDWOOD CITY — Only minutes after finding out he was San Francisco's number one pick in the NFL player draft yesterday, Mike Holmes was learning the 49ers' defensive system. His teacher? Ralph McGill, 49er defensive back who was a second round draft choice last year.

Holmes, a defensive back voted most valuable player on the Texas Southern University football team, and McGill, from the University of Tulsa, are close friends. They were at the Houston Oilers' offices yesterday observing the draft proceedings. That was where Holmes was reached by the Bay Area press, which conducted a "squawk box" interview shortly after the 49ers had announced him as their top pick in the college grab bag.

THE 21-YEAR-OLD Holmes, 6-foot-1 and 190 pounds, admitted he was surprised to be a No. 1 pick, but added, "I knew I would go somewhere in the area between rounds one and four."

He had seen the 49er play a number of times on television because "I was tight with Ralph McGill" whom he had met one night at a party. Holmes, an honor student at TSU, will be no dummy when it comes time to talk contract and he already has engaged Clifford Paul of National Sports in Houston, the same agent who handled McGill's negotiations. But the two buddies might find themselves fighting for the same position later this year at the 49ers' training camp.

Holmes said his goal is to break into the 49ers' lineup. "My main objective is to play as a rookie. I don't like to sit on the bench." Since the 49ers have five veteran defensive backs and two who will be in their second years, the competition in the defensive secondary will be fierce.

HOLMES, WHO CALLED defensive signals at Texas Southern, said he was looking forward to a trip to the West in about three weeks. "Ralph told me how beautiful San Francisco is."

San Francisco head coach Dick Nolan was very high on Holmes, as he should be since he was the team's top choice at No. 18 in the first round. "He is quick, has good speed and good range," said Nolan.

By the time it was San Francisco's turn to pick in the first round, the major running back candidates had already been picked. Otis Armstrong of Purdue was grabbed by Denver, Sam Cunningham of USC was taken by New England, Chuck Foreman of Miami went to Minnesota and George Amundson of Iowa State to Houston, all in the space of six selections. Two wide receivers and a lineman later it was San Francisco's turn. So they went with Holmes. The only running back who went later in the first round was Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, but surely San Diego plans to make a wide receiver out of him. At 173 pounds he can't be expected to bowl over any 260-pound linemen.

IN ADDITION to running back, another 49er deficiency this past season was at middle linebacker, where six-year veteran Frank Nunley had an unimpressive season. Although the Niners didn't get a middle linebacker, they got a really fine outside linebacker candidate in Willie Harper of Nebraska, a two-year All-American. He played defensive end for the Cornhuskers but in their system it was the same as linebacker, with Harper responsible for pass coverage as well as line play.

It prompted the question yesterday: Would Skip Vanderbundt be switched to middle linebacker to make room for Harper? "I don't think we're considering moving Skip inside," was the answer from 49er linebacker coach Mike Giddings and later echoed by Nolan. Instead, Giddings is hoping the team will carry six linebackers next season instead of five.

The Nebraska press book listed Harper at 6-foot-2 and 207 pounds but Nolan said his weight now was closer to 215 and he would probably "be around 220" when he reports to camp.

Giddings watched Nebraska play on television and said he was very impressed by the play of Harper. "He seems to have a nose for the football. I sure remember seeing that No. 81 all over the field."

Nolan said he watched Harper in the Senior Bowl and "he is very hard to knock off his feet. He has good balance." And he's coming from a winning team, which Nolan admits, "means a great deal."

ACROSS THE BAY, the Raiders might have filled three roster positions in one player by their selection of Ray Guy, All-American from University of Southern Mississippi, in the first round. He led the nation in punting, averaging 46.2 yards per kick, tied for seventh in the nation in interceptions (8) as a defensive back, and also is a place kicker. And George Blanda can't go on forever.

The teams are going at it again today, and when all the rumpled papers and notes are discarded and all the empty coffee cups washed, more than 400 college players will have been picked over by the pros.

I wonder if they will ever get to Oliver Snidely?

4 Marinites In Roadster Show

Four Marin car owners have entered the 25th annual National Roadster Show Feb. 16-25 at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

San Rafael's Mike Mitchell, Ray Galleguilo and Larrie Mead plus Novato's Ken Silvestri will be among the 200 entrants in the show, which features hand-crafted hot rods, custom cars, sports vehicles, dragsters, motorcycles, and powerboats.

Mitchell will present his 1973 Plymouth Barracuda "funny car." Mitchell built his entry around a 490-cubic Chrysler hemi engine. Mead will present a 1971 custom built sports roadster. Silvestri will bring a 1973 Corvette, while Galleguilo will show a sprint car.

NEW CHARGER — Johnny Rodgers, the Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Nebraska, will have to change the uniform of his plaster doll from Cornhusker to Charger, after learning at his home in Lincoln, Neb., that he had been named San Diego's first-round pick in the National Football League player draft yesterday.

San Marin Cagers Throttle Tamalpais

Win Led By Wright And Doar

By LEW CODDINGTON

With Hoza Wright throwing in field goals with his customary aplomb and Fred Doar holding court at the free throw line, San Marin High School led virtually all the way last night to post a 79-70 basketball victory over Tamalpais.

Wright scored 28 points, tying the high performance in the Marin County Athletic League this season, while Doar set a new MCAL seasonal high with 10 free throws among his 22 points.

300 FANS

About 300 fans at San Marin witnessed the Mustangs' victory, which was their third straight and moved them into the heavily congested second spot in the MCAL race with a 4-3 record, a game back of Drake's 5-2. Tied with San Marin are Marin Catholic, Novato, Redwood and Terra Linda. Tam is last at 1-6.

Purely and simply, the game was decided at the free throw line. Each team made the same number of field goals, 29, and each had the same number of free throw attempts, 28. San Marin made 21 of them, however, while Tam hit just 12. Doar, a 6-foot-2 senior forward, made 10 of 14.

BRIEF LEAD

Tam led briefly, 5-2, but San Marin quickly took command behind the outside shooting of Wright, a 6-2 senior guard, and went up 38-24 midway through the second quarter.

The Indians rallied in the second half behind the varied shooting of 6-4 junior Mike Dinehart, who finished with 26 points, and 6-4 senior Hollis Owens, who neeted 17.

The closest they could get, however, was five points on two occasions. With the score 55-50, San Marin center John Tait went to work with a short jump shot and two follows during a stretch in which the Mustangs increased their lead to 65-55. After Tam inched back to 65-59, Doar hit two free throws and a jumper from the head of the key, Wright hit a jumper, and with 2:23 left the score was 71-62 and the game was all but over.

Tamalpais	9	17	18	26—70
San Marin	18	20	15	26—79

San Marin — Wright 12-4-28, Starnes 2-2-6, Tait 5-3-13, Doar 6-10-22, Stublarec 0-2-2, Butti 1-0-2, Smith 3-0-6. Totals: 29-21-79.

Tamalpais — Dinehart 11-4-26, Dickens 1-0-2, Owens 7-3-17, McFerrin 3-0-6, Murphy 5-2-12, Williams 1-1-3, Winterling 1-2-4, Totals: 29-12-70.

THE WRIGHT WAY — San Marin High School's Hoza Wright (35) leaped high in an effort to block a shot by Jared McFerrin (dark uniform) of Tamalpais in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game at San Marin. Wright scored 28 points and San Marin won, 79-70.

San Rafael Turns Back Fairfield

Guard Scott Brown and center Pete Neuwald came off the bench in the fourth quarter to combine for 14 points — their entire output for the game — and lead San Rafael High School to a 55-52 non-league basketball victory over visiting Fairfield yesterday.

The Bulldogs (10-11) trailed by eight points, 47-39, before the two players entered the game.

San Rafael's scoring was led by Larry Meyers with 13 points and Dan Zitek with 12. Coach Bret Tovani did not play four cagers who normally start — Byron Stewart, Steve D'Ambra, Kevin Gallivan and the injured Guy Perry, who is expected to be ready to play Friday.

Fairfield	9	13	18	12—52
San Rafael	13	11	15	16—55

Fairfield — Kelly 7-1-15, Houston 5-5-15, Chervinskas 1-0-2, Matthews 1-0-2, Lewis 1-5-7, Gibson 3-1-7, Rike 0-2-2, Wilridge 1-0-2. Totals: 19-14-52.

San Rafael — Anderson 1-1-3, Hodes 1-0-2, Zitek 5-2-12, M. Ellingson 2-0-4, Brown 4-0-8, Campbell 2-1-5, Neuwald 1-4-6, E. Ellingson 1-0-2, Meyers 5-3-13. Totals: 22-11-55.

McKee's Takes Win In Rec Basketball

Mike Anthony scored 23 points and Clem Glynn 22 as McKee's edged Mike's Bar and Grill, 54-52, in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league game last night.

In other contests, the Over the Hill gang beat the San Rafael Saints in overtime, 45-43, on a back-door layup by Paul Chaffe; and Suburban Auto had two men with seven points and three more with six in beating King Realty, 45-37.

Pros Finally Draft Ohio State Player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State, the Big Ten Rose Bowl representative this year which did not have a player selected in the first seven rounds Tuesday, had four grabbed up quickly today as the National Football League moved into the second day of its annual player draft.

Rick Seifert, a defensive back, was chosen by the New York Jets on the eighth round. On the same round, the New York Giants took defensive tackle George Hasenohrl and Detroit, on a choice from Cleveland, grabbed running back John Bledsoe. Rich Galbos, also a running back, went to Washington on the ninth round.

Mike Rae, the quarterback who directed Southern California to the national title, went to Oakland on the eighth round. Rae was the 11th quarterback selected.

Most of the big names went early in the first seven rounds Tuesday and a mere handful of nationally known players, the most notable being Penn State quarterback John Hufnagel, was available today as the clubs chose the remainder of the 442 collegians. Today's session will be devoted to finding the rare gems that sometimes pop up in the late stages.

Tuesday's lengthy early going was devoted almost exclusively to linemen, as eight of the first 10 players selected and 12 of the first 26 were linemen.

Sagging Warriors Vs. 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Can the Golden State warriors obtain any brotherly love from a team which has won only four of 54 games?

The Warriors are hoping they can find some sympathy here tonight when they continue their ill-fated tour of the eastern seaboard against the hapless Philadelphia 76ers. They certainly didn't find any the past two nights in New York or Baltimore, losing 104-86 to the Bullets Tuesday night.

In two nights, the Warriors lost their shooting eyes— scoring only 84 and 86 points.

What hurts is that Rick Barry and Nate Thurmond—usually two of the team's big scorers—can't seem to find the range lately. Barry tallied 13 and Thurmond only 11 against the Bullets as the Warriors dropped their fourth straight and eighth in the last 13.

The schedule also is inclined to disfavor the Warriors, who are playing in four different cities on four straight nights.

Veteran guard Archie Clark paced the Bullets with 24 points and 11 assists in only his eighth game since ending a 43-game holdout. Teammate Mike Riordan also tallied 24 points.

In a decisive third period, former Cal star Phil Chenier scored 11 of his 19 points and Clark added six assists to lift the Bullets from a 52-45 halftime advantage into an 81-67 bulge at the end of three periods.

Cronin: Hitter Rule Will Attract Talent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Old baseball players no longer need fade away.

They can always join an American League club as the designated hitter for the pitcher.

Admitting the league is trying to "get a little more offense in the game" and at the same time "encourage young talent to go into baseball," American League President Joe Cronin met with the circuit's umpires Tuesday to familiarize them with the new rule.

One half of the "national pastime" (the American League), trying to keep in step with the growing popularity of football and basketball, adopted earlier this month what one official termed the sport's "biggest change in 81 years" when it passed the "designated hitter for the pitcher" rule.

The AL adopted the rule change on a three year trial basis. The National League will retain the status quo and, as a result, the designated hitter rule will not be in effect for the All-Star Game and World Series competition.

"We feel the rule is the best method to encourage young talent into baseball," said Cronin. "There are big strong fellows who can hit but not much of anything else. We hope they will look to baseball as an occupation.

"We realize the great inroads made by basketball and football into our sport. Basketball and football have built-in farm systems. It costs us $900,000 to $1.3 million to develop a player."

"The biggest change in baseball in 81 years," was the description given to the new rule by Bob Holbrook, the executive assistant to Cronin. "This is the biggest change since baseball eliminated the rule which said a player couldn't leave the game unless he was injured."

Both the International League and the Texas League will also have the designated hitter rule in effect this season and the other 13 minor leagues may yet decide to adopt it.

300 Boxing Fans Greet Foreman On His Return

Foreman, who wrested the title from Joe Frazier last Monday, arrived in the East Bay where he usually trains at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday, got some sleep and turned up as guest of honor at an impromptu reception.

Three-hundred persons, most of them youngsters, greeted Foreman when he arrived in a police car with siren wailing.

The new champ gave his thanks each time he received a gift—a plaque, Boys Club windbreaker, key to the city, bundle of carnations and an honorary membership in the Hayward fire department.

Then escorted by policemen, Foreman left the steps and turned into a dead-end alley. He turned and fought his way, gently, through a maze of youngsters into the building.

East Beats West In 'Soft' Hockey

NEW YORK (UPI) — They billed it as an All-Star game but "Powderpuff Derby" might have been a more appropriate sobriquet so it wasn't all that suprising when Greg Polis and Bobby Schmautz emerged as the unlikely heroes of the National Hockey League's 26th annual midseason "classic."

Polis, who only showed up in time for the game because his wife cooperated in delivering a seven-pound, 14-ounce baby boy 16 hours before the opening faceoff Tuesday night, scored two goals for the losing West team and went back home to Pittsburgh with a brand new Charger as the Most Valuable Player.

Schmautz, a last-minute addition to the team as the only representative from the Vancouver Canucks, scored the winning goal that gave the favored East its surprisingly difficult 5-4 triumph.

Despite the outpouring of goals, the game was far from "classic" proportions. The hardest check thrown all nigh came midway through the firs period when linesman Joh D'Amico collided with th East's Jacques Lemair against the boards. And at on time during the third stanz Frank Mahovlich of the Eas and Barry Gibbs of the Wes looked like they were giving th capacity crowd of 17,500 a ne rendition of "the Skater' Waltz" after accidentall bumping into each other alon the boards.

But if the fans were expectin anything more than a skatin exhibition, they should hav been forewarned when Bobb Orr, the most glamorous of Al Stars, gracefully skated out fo the pre-game introductions an then promptly slipped and fe flat on his behind while hi teammates looked on in astor ishment.

"I probably haven't slep more than one hour in the las 36," said Polis, who was to involved in his own curren

Plunkett Facing Surgery

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Former Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett faced probable knee surgery today and the New England Patriots kept fingers crossed after trying to find him 1973 help in the National Football League draft.

The Patriots, an NFL weakling, picked a huge blocking lineman and a couple of outstanding backs among the first 19 players chosen in the annual grab-bag Tuesday before disclosing that Plunkett was hurting.

Plunkett, a marked man often clobbered while trying to quarterback a woeful offense last season, re-injured his right knee while getting out of his car on the eve of the draft.

The former All-American from Stanford was examined and then ordered to go to Oklahoma City to consult with Dr. Donald Donohue, who has operated on many professional athletes, including Sonny Jurgensen of the Washington Redskins.

"I don't think it's too bad —it should be a simple operation," Plunkett said before limping into Logan International Airport in Boston and then accepting a ride to a plane for the flight to Oklahoma.

NBA ROUNDUP

Cavs Shock Bucks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Either the Milwaukee Bucks are slipping, or the Cleveland Cavaliers are on the upgrade as an NBA contender.

The Cavs made their record 9-4 for the month of January by beating the Bucks, 112-98, Tuesday night for their first victory ever over Milwaukee.

Owner Nick Mileti once said if his Cavs could ever post wins over New York and Milwaukee, they'd be on their way. Cleveland has accomplished the mission. It may be too late for a playoff drive, but the Cavs have the courage of Mileti's conviction that Cleveland can be a contender in future seasons.

Rookie Dwight Davis is one indication of Cleveland's sudden surge toward respectability. Davis scored 23 points and grabbed 13 rebounds against the Bucks, who were led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 28 points.

In other NBA action, Los Angeles edged Chicago, 95-92; Baltimore stopped Golden State, 104-86; Detroit defeated Atlanta, 126-123; Houston outhustled Portland, 123-120, and Buffalo nipped Philadelphia, 105-104.

Jerry West's three clutch throws in the final eight seconds brought Los Angeles its seventh straight win and increased the Lakers' lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division to 8½ games. West scored 31 points as his mates made it 11 in a row over Chicago.

Bob Lanier scored 40 points, including two key foul shots in the final seven seconds to break Detroit's six-game losing streak. Pete Maravich kept Atlanta in the game with 35 points.

Buffalo scraped past Philadelphia when Fred Carter of the 76ers missed two foul throws with one second remaining. Elmore Smith provided the Buffalo power with 36 points and 23 rebounds. Carter had 25 for the losers.

A layup and two foul shots by Calvin Murphy late in the game enabled Houston to beat Portland and give new Rocket coach Johnny Egan his fourth win in five tries.

KICKER IS NO. 1 FOR RAIDERS

49ers Go For Defense In Pro Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers drafted for defense while the Oakland Raiders surprised many by picking a kicker as their No. 1 choice Tuesday in the National Football League draft.

Mike Holmes, 6-1, 190-pound defensive back from Texas Southern, was taken by the 49ers as the 18th pick in the first round. He has intercepted 20 passes in his career, including nine in one season, and is used on kick returns.

"He's a great athlete," said 49er scout Joe Perry. "I've seen him eight or nine times. He has excellent range and fine speed."

Holmes has been clocked in 4.5 seconds over 40 yards and can cover the distance in 4.65 in full football gear.

Oakland's top choice, which came on the 23rd round, was Ray Guy, who averaged 46.2 yards a punt last season for Southern Mississippi. He stands over 6-3 and weighs 192.

However, Guy broke an ankle in the final game of the season but is expected to be in top physical condition when the Raiders rookie camp opens in a few months. The Raiders were last in the American Football Conference in punting last season with a 36.9 average, most of them by Jerry DePoyster.

"I couldn't believe it," said Guy from Hattiesburg, Miss. "The Raiders are one of the three teams I wanted. I liked Dallas as a fan and Atlanta's only a hundred miles down the road, but I've always followed Oakland."

Four of the next five picks by the 49ers were of defensive players including No. 2 pick Willie Harper, a 213-pound defensive end from Nebraska.

Then in order came Mike Fulk, a 235-pound linebacker from Indiana; split end Ed Beverly of Arizona State, 265-pound defensive tackle Arthur Moore of Tulsa and John Mitchell, a 235-pound defensive end from Alabama who will be used as a linebacker.

Oakland drafted a pair of outside tackles, two linebackers, a defensive back and two wide receivers to complete their first day picks.

Ron Nikalojcyzk of Tampa, who skipped his final collegiate year to play pro ball in Canada, and Purdue's Brent Myers, a 66, 258-pounder, were the offensive tackles tabbed by the Raiders.

Oakland's No. 2 selection was monte Johnson, a 240-pound linebacker with 4.8 speed from Nebraska. On the third round, defensive back Perry Smith of Colorado State was taken.

The wide receivers chosen by Oakland were Joe Wiley of Oklahoma and Louis Neal of Prairie View A&M. Gary Weaver, a 224-pounder linebacker from Fresno State, was Oakland's seventh pick.

Well, Jason Gregory Polis will have two pucks to savor when he grows up. One for when his dad put the West out front 1-0 with just 55 seconds left in the first period and the other for when the Pittsburgh Penguin star closed the East's lead to 4-3 at 4:27 of the final period.

Five minutes after Polis' second goal, Terry Harper knotted the game at 4-4 when he whistled a 40-foot shot past the East's backup goalie Ed Giacomin and suddenly, it looked like there wouldn't even be a winner to this exercise in gentility.

But alas, along came Schmautz, who was selected for the team because Vancouver had to have a representative on the squad and East coach Tom Johnson had his first All-Star victory.

"I really never saw the puck go in," said Schmautz, whose shot banged off the left goal post and then bounced off goalie Rogatien Vachon's pads and into the net. "(Serge) Savard took the puck down ice and I was just behind him."

Tamalpais Wrestlers Triumph

Craig Marshall, a 188-pound wrestler shifted to heavyweight because the regular heavyweight was ill, came through with a pin yesterday to give Tamalpais High School a 30-27 victory over San Rafael.

"If we need a pin, he's just tough enough to go out and get it for us," said Tam coach Denni Untermann, whose team trailed by three points when Marshall took the mat in the day's final match. The pin came at 1:30 of the second period.

Tam 97-pounder Anthony Triggs opened the match by pinning his foe in 30 seconds, and 140-pounder Bob Praszker preserved his record of pinning every league opponent, but San Rafael won several close decisions in the higher weight classes to force Marshall's heroics.

Lake Placid Reaffirms Bid To Host Winter Olympics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — This Adirondack community was asked Tuesday by the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) for a detailed proposal on its hope to host the 1976 Winter Games, a member of the local promotion unit said.

The North Elba Town Board responded Tuesday night by voting 5-9 to telegram the USOC reaffirming a proposal sent earlier this month after Colorado voters rejected in November spending state funds to support the Games.

The USOC request came hours after Salt Lake City mayor Jake Garn wired Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, that his city could not continue its effort to land the games without assurance of federal financial aid.

The Rev. J. Bernard Fell, chairman of Lake Placid's provisional Olympic organizing committee, said USOC officials already have copies of the proposal from the Village, which hosted the 1932 Winter Games, first in the U.S.

Frosh Basketball

Mike Stone hit a jump shot from the top of the key with two seconds left to send the game into overtime, and Marin Catholic High School's undefeated freshman basketball team went on to record its eighth straight Marin County Athletic League victory yesterday, 45-42 over Drake. In another game, Jeff Luchetti scored 18 points as San Rafael won its third straight by beating Tamalpais, 57-51.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Puzzling Terminology Of Seaman's Compass

The salty language of the sea — much of which has crept into the terminology and lexicon of modern day boating — has resisted change probably more than any other part of the language. But with every generation the ancient expressions of the sea-farers have less and less meaning and significance.

However, there's one antiquated and out-dated bit of terminology which, though it baffles many boatmen, stays with us as strong as ever. It's the system of describing the angles or arcs of a circle through which navigation lights are visible.

In every system of measurement used in day-to-day living, a circle is broken up into 360 degrees. Everybody must have learned in school that a right angle, a quarter of a circle, is 90 degrees.

However, when it comes to describing navigation lights, we have to revert to an archaic system, several hundred years old, in which the 360-degree circle of the compass is broken up into 32 "points."

Most boatmen comprehend that the four main points of the compass are north, south, east and west. In between these are other points, northeast, southeast, etc. And between these are still others, such as north by northeast, north northeast, northeast by north etc., and they make up 32 points in all.

It's a complicated system and although still used or accepted by many ocean-going seamen, most modern boatmen have never even heard the names for all 32 points of the compass.

But it naturally follows that if the 360-degree circle is divided into 32 parts, each part must be 11¼ degrees. So one "point" of the compass represents 11¼ degrees.

All this was brought up by a couple of questions I've been asked which can't be answered without explaining the "point" system:

Q. The red and green lights on a boat are described as 10-point lights. What does that mean?

A. The lights must be visible from a line dead ahead of the boar through an angle of 10 points. Ten points represents 112½ degrees (10x10¼) — just a little more than a quarter of a circle.

Q. What is the purpose of a white bow light of 20 points and a stern light of 12 points?

A. The 20 and 12 add up to 32 points, a full circle. If you draw a diagram of navigation lights arranged this way, it is apparent that on a full broadside view, only while the bow light and a colored side light are visible. As the boat passes, the bow light disappears, and the stern light becomes visible. It is to show the relative bearing or position of a passing boat.

Q. I see sailing craft with red ang green lights on the mast. What do they signify?

A. This is a relatively new idea of carrying two colored lights at the masthead and is good. It makes a sailing craft instantly identifiable at night. The colored lights — red over green — are 20 points lights (225 degrees).

Q. Where can I learn all about (navigation) lights? I'm taking a cruise to the Bahamas and Puerto Rico.

A. The text I like best is Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling. Other good ones are Basic Boating by Andrews and Russell, or Basic Seamanship by Walliser.

Q. In a column last year you said the compass is divided into 32 points. My understanding is that it is 96 points . . .?

A. This was done to "simplify" the compass and allow ships to steer more accurate courses. Each of the 32 points was divided into halves and quarters. The naming of the new division became a nightmare. For instance they came up with names like this: "south easy by east a quarter east." All the world's navies and most merchant marine services have dropped all this nonsense and use degrees.

Petaluma Drubbed By Ukiah

By PAUL DWORIN

UKIAH — Petaluma High School was an unwilling watcher of the Doug Vilotti show last night as the 6-foot-8 senior scored 31 points and dominated play to lead the Wildcats to a 74-31 North Bay League basketball victory.

It was the third straight loss for the Trojans and dropped their league mark to 2-5, putting them into a fourth place tie with Hogan of Vallejo, five games behind league leading Vallejo. Ukiah is now 5-2 and tied for second with Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

"We have no excuses," said Petaluma coach Mark Reischling when asked if the long trip might have caused the Trojans' poor play. "They just beat us to death. We just weren't psychologically prepared to play."

The Trojans were blown out of the gym in the first period for the second game in a row when the Wildcats jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first minute and built it up to a 19-6 lead at the end of the quarter.

For all intents and purposes, save playing a regulation contest, the game was over; but in case any comeback hopes were left in the minds of the few Petaluma fans who braved the journey, they were quickly dispelled as the Trojans scored just two points in the second quarter to fall behind 42-8 at halftime. The two points came on free throws by Dan Aldridge.

Although basketball is supposed to be a team game, Vilotti was a one man show. Besides his impressive offensive statistics (13 of 26 from the field), it was his defense that proved the Trojans, undoing as he blocked at least 12 shots and generally intimidated Petaluma shooters. "He was just super," Reischling commented.

The Trojans, who shot a poor 22 per cent from the field for the game and a miserable 10 per cent in the first half, were led by Kirk Smartt with 10 points, and Aldridge added five.

Seals Vs. New York Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — The California Golden Seals are hurting and the New York Rangers healthy moving into their National Hockey League confrontation tonight at Madison Square Garden.

New York is unbeaten in its last 10 games and has all its personnel on the ice for the first time this season.

The Seals Tuesday called up left wing Del Hall from Salt Lake City to fill in for injured Gary Croteau. The 23-year-old newcomer had 17 goals and 14 assists for the Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League.

Wing Joey Johnston's broken jaw may have mended enough for him to play tonight after missing two weeks, but Craig Patrick is still recuperating in Oakland from a leg cut.

Geyserville Defeats St. Vincent

GEYSERVILLE — St. Vincent High School of Petaluma had a four-game winning streak broken last night as the Broncos of Geyserville High exploded for 23 fourth-quarter points to take a 63-56 non-league victory.

Geyserville dropped the Mustangs' overall season basketball mark to 9-4 and avenged an early season 59-52 defeat at the hands of St. Vincent in Petaluma.

"We just didn't play well at all," commented St. Vincent coach Ed Major. "If we don't play better than this Friday night, then we have no chance against Kelseyville." Kelseyville is one game behind the Mustangs in the North Central League II basketball standings.

The teams were even at the third quarter mark, 40-all, but the Broncos outscored St. Vincent 23-16 in the fourth period for their seven-point victory margin.

Rob Loughran was the game high scorer for St. Vincent's with 21 points. Bob Vyenielo, who only played the fourth quarter, added nine for the losers. Sam Duffield and Sam Franco led Geyserville with 17 and 13 points.

St. Vincent	16	13	11	16—56
Geyserville	9	15	16	23—63

St. Vincent — Vyenielo 4-1-9, Tocchini 1-0-2, Loughran 9-3-21, Leoni 0-1-1, Dawson 3-0-6, Tippett 2-0-4, Moss 0-2-2, Murphy 4-1-9, Souza 1-0-2. Totals: 24-8-56.

Geyserville — S. Franco 4-5-13, J. Franco 3-3-9, Hernandez 0-1-1, Deleon 4-3-11, Duffield 8-1-17, Chairez 6-0-12. Totals: 25-13-63.

Tito Is Attempting To Redirect Youth

By ERIC BOURNE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

VIENNA — "Black is beautiful," we already know. So — according to some young Yugoslavs — is "partisan."

It's the new image in modern "gear" that trendy Yugoslav designers have come up with. It's their "with it" response to President Tito's gripes about Yugoslav youth's lack of "socialist consciousness."

Besides his recent dismissals of too-easy-going Communist Party "liberals," the President is campaigning also against "bourgeois influence" among the country's young people.

These influences until recently included the seamier kinds of Western television offerings, mainly American, which are now being kept off Yugoslav screens.

They are being replaced by films of the partisan struggle against the Nazis —part of the new look now being applied in cultural programs to remind young Yugoslavs of the ideals for which President Tito and their fathers fought 30 years ago.

Other targets of presidential ire were the "American Army" uniforms and insignia which Belgrade's teen-agers have affected this past year as spontaneously as their age group in London and other West European capitals.

Following his strictures, the great-coats, the combat jackets, and Marine and Air Force badges quietly disappeared from the stores, overnight.

Yugoslavia's trend-setters for modern youth fashions, however, were very quick to catch on.

"Partisan is beautiful" has become the theme. It is expressed in a wide range of partisan uniforms in "real sharp" styles for '73 (and colors a sniper would spot a mile off) which could make younger members of America's sedately rigged WACs goggle with envy.

One dark Yugoslav beauty took the catwalk when the first collection was exhibited wearing a slinky version of tunic, breeches, and riding boots which surely was inspired by the uniform President Tito wears in one of the wartime marshal's portraits most favored by his biographers.

"Children of the 'cream' of Yugoslav society," a spokesman told a recent party conference in Belgrade, "seem only interested in discotheques and boutiques."

"Cream" in this Yugoslav context means, of course, the sons and daughters of the wartime resisters whose survivors went on to build a new Yugoslav society.

The speaker accused many of their children of disdaining the "Communist way of life" and suggested that Yugoslavia might need a "cultural revolution" to remind them of it.

Youth's stylists have started the dress side of it at least. Their new "partisan look," moreover, is a healthy sign that, despite party storms and stern speeches, Yugoslavs are resilient and not taking the new stress on ideology too tragically.

All the Communist East European states have similar problems with youth. Their reactions and their efforts to cope vary according to how far they have got with internal reform and a more relaxed attitude toward youthful eccentricities.

Probe Of Skyrocketing Lumber Prices Is Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston called for a Senate investigation Tuesday of "the incredible, runaway inflation" in lumber costs.

Holding a board foot of Douglas fir at a news conference, the California Democrat said its price has risen from 6.7 cents in 1967 to 17.8 cents last Monday. He said the price was 14.4 cents on Jan. 12, and 16.5 cents on Jan. 19.

As a result, he said the lumber cost for a four-bedroom house shot up $1,500 since Jan. 1, 1972—and $210 in the last week.

The rising cost of lumber, he said, will knock hundreds of thousands of California families out of the market—"just about all who are not already stopped from building by the Nixon freezes."

President Nixon has frozen about $500 million in construction guarantee funds and about $6 billion in grants to improve sewer and water facilities. Cranston said the sewer-water freeze would raise the cost of many new homes by $4,000.

Cranston said he is asking the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee to investigate the lumber price rises. He said that anti-inflation measures by the Nixon administration have failed to control lumber prices.

The lumber increases, he said, may result from export to Japan of one third of all timber produced in the west. It also may result from poor forest management, he said.

Correction Is Likely Of Mortgage Abuses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Democratic senators said today chances are good this year for passage of a measure correcting California mortgage abuses which have received national attention.

Sens. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, and Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, made the comment on an article in Harper's agazine this month called "The California Mortgage Scandal."

The article cited the case of a 77-year-old widow who originally sought to borrow $1,400 but wound up owing nearly $30,000.

The lawmakers asked, "Can we in good conscience ... ignore an industry which can now legally write a $1,400 loan for a 77-year-old widow (of which she received only $1,023), then can put her through a series of five refinancings when she can't make the payments until she owes them almost $30,000?"

A reform measure offered last year by the two senators died one vote short of approval in a Senate committee.

They said a special panel was then appointed to look into the possibility of working out a compromise.

But they said it was unsuccessful "primarily due to near complete refusal by the Mortgage Brokers Institute and California Real Estate Association representatives to (agree to) any meaningful regulation."

Since then the Department of Real Estate has proposed a measure similar tc the one that failed last year.

Dymally and Beilenson said any measure this year should at least:

—Eliminate or sharply restrict loans with balloon payments.

—Impose limits on late-payment charges.

—Strictly control the industry's advertising practices.

—Require more aggressive enforcement of existing laws and regulations.

Student's Play To Be Presented

A stage version of "Catch-22," adapted, produced and directed by student Kent Skov of Lucas Valley, will be presented at California State University, San Francisco, Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

The performances, sponsored by the Associated Students and the Players Club, will be in the little theater of the Creative Arts Building. The show will be given at 8 p.m. Feb. 7 and 8 and at 4 and 8:30 p.m. Feb. 9.

Skov, 20-year-old Redwood High School graduate, has created a multimedia production contrasting the moods of the fighting man overseas with the nostalgia of the American people of the 1940s.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Identify the notables born today by the names which made them celebrities.

1. Arnold R. Cream, 59, today, was once the heavyweight champion of the world. The son of a poor family, he had to go to work at 14 after his father died, helping support 11 other children by selling newspapers, delivering groceries, and helping at a soup factory. Then his work as a hod carrier and longshoremen developed the muscles to make him a first-class fighter. He floored Joe Louis as a sparring partner, nearly knocked him out in a championship bout, and finally took the title by K-Oing Ezzard Charles in a rematch in Chicago in 1951.

2. Thomas G. Morfit grew up in Baltimore, where he got into show business as a writer and actor on a radio station (WBAL). Within three years he was starring on the NBC network from Chicago on "Club Matinee' and then teamed with Jimmy Durante on a coast-to-coast program. During the 1950s and early 60s he was the moderator of "I've Got a Secret" and the star of his own CBS television show. He is 58 today.

3. Jean Brooks is the married name of this Hollywood movie actress who is 44 today. Movie fans will remember her in such pictures as "Great Expectations," "Guys and Dolls," and "Elmer Gantry." After divorcing Stewart Granger in 1960, she married Richard Brooks.

4. Carol Lowe, 50 today, has a singing voice which audiences recognize immediately, especially when she does, "Hello Dolly." Born in Seattle, she went to Bennington College before starting her successful career as an actress-singer on Broadway. Her stage work includes "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Wonderful Town." Hollywood co-starred her with Julie Andrews in "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

ANSWERS

1. Jersey Joe Walcott; 2. Garry Moore; 3. Jean Simmons; 4. Carol Channing.

South Uses Dummy's Ace As A Decoy To Pull Off Victory

When today's hand was played by my friend Milton Adler more than 30 years ago, even the opponents had to compliment him on his shrewd deceptive play.

TAKES IN DUMMY

West opened the queen of hearts, and Adler won in the dummy with the king. He led the nine of spades from dummy and let it ride, losing to the jack. West returned the jack of hearts to dummy's ace.

Adler was in the dummy for the last time. He thought of cashing the ace of diamonds, but decided against it. He could only dischard his fourth club on the ace of diamonds, and his fourth club might turn out to be good.

Instead, Adler led dummy's second trump and finessed to West's king. West returned a third heart, and declarer ruffed.

DUMMY'S DIAMONDS

Now Adler led three more trumps, carefully saving all of dummy's diamonds. The opponents assumed that declarer had a way to get to dummy's ace of diamonds, and they both decided to keep diamonds at any cost.

By the time that Adler got down to one trump and four clubs, the defenders were in sad shape. They were each trying to keep four diamonds, and each of them had to throw a club.

LOSES A CLUB

Adler thereupon cashed the ace of clubs and gave up one club, after which he could take the last three tricks with the last trump and two good clubs.

There would have been a different story to tell if declarer had taken an early discard on the ace of diamonds. The defenders would save their clubs, and declarer would lose two clubs and two trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 9 6
♥ - A K 5
♦ - A J 8 6 3
♣ - 8 5 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid. You choose to bid, rather than pass, because your high-car structure is excellent.

81-Year-Old Storekeeper Scares Bandit

WEEDPATCH, Calif. (UPI) — The brash young bandit didn't get very far with the grizzled old storekeeper Monday night.

Cruz Zaragoza, 81, operator of Zaragoza's Market, told Kern County sheriff's deputies a youth about 16 years old entered the store, pulled a knife and demanded money.

Cruz whipped out his own .45-caliber pistol from his waistband and asked "Do you really want the money?"

"No," the youth replied as he fled out the door.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Tax Advice, Form Preparation Costs Deductible From Return

You can deduct the cost of tax advice or return preparation.

The sum you spend to have your tax return prepared or for advice in connection with any tax, or sums you spend to maintain records or for books on taxes is deductible. It doesn't matter if the taxes are in connection with your business life or your private life.

Section 212 says, "In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year — (1) for the production or collection of income; (2) for the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of income; or (3) in connection with the determination, collection or refund of any tax."

Perhaps the best source of information readily available to the average taxpayer is the Internal Revenue Service publition "Your Federal Income Tax 1973 Edition". This book is well indexed and written in understandable English. It is the biggest bargain in taxation today and it is sold by the Internal Revenue Service. In it you will find the answers to most of your questions.

If this book does not answer your questions, then you should consult your attorney or accountant.

Regulations require the signature of the preparer o an income tax return at the place designated on the return.

The preparer of a return is the person responsible for the information appearing thereon and not one performing merely clerical functions.

You don't have to worry about the information you give to a tax return preparer not being confidential.

If anyone who prepares your tax return for you for a fee uses any information that you give him for other than the preparation of your tax return, he is guilty of a misdemeanor and can be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

What happens if your accountant discovers that, through error, you materially underpaid your taxes in a previous year? According to the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, a Certified Public Accountant must promptly notify a client if he turns up a material understatement. The Certified Public Accountant isn't ethically bound to tell the Internal Revenue Service, however, or even allowed to do so without his client's permission.

How can you be sure that you will not be penalized for negligence in preparing your tax return?

Perhaps the best way to be sure is to have the tax return actually prepared by the accountant or attorney of your choice and to keep in your possession documentary evidence that you gave him full information and keep your copy of the tax return together with proof of every item appearing thereon.

You should also be prepared to show that you had every reason to believe that the accountant or attorney was one who was competent in tax matters.

Southern Pacific Earnings Top $108 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southern Pacific Co. today reported record earnings in 1972 of $108.2 million, or $4.06 per share — a gain of 8 per cent over 1971 when net income totaled $100.5 million, or $3.77 per share.

Operating revenues also were listed at a record level of $1.4 billion, compared with $1.3 billion in 1971.

"Even with earnings of this kind, we are still falling short of the return on our investment that is required to generate funds needed to provide new equipment and plant expansion for the increased transportation demand predicted for the next decade," said Benjamin F. Biaggini, president.

In 1972, Biaggini said the railway spent a record $300 million on capital improvements, with almost two-thirds of it going for railroad equipment.

Dividend Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Directors of Union Sugar Co. Monday declared a dividend of 37 ½ cents a share payable March 9 to shareholders of record as of Feb. 9.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Swift Due A New Name

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 296 shares of Swift and Co. (NYSE) which I have kept for sentimental reasons since my husband's death. The company is changing to a holding company. Will this mean a change in the dividend? I am 80 and do not wish to make any other investments. Should I sell this stock and put the money in the bank? — E.J.

A. For shareholders, the change in Swift's corporate structure is of very little significance. However, the company plans to change its name to Esmark, Inc. if shareholders approve at the Feb. 22 meeting. The four divisions will be operated as sub-holding companies called Swift & Co., GSI, Estech, Inc. and Vickers Energy Corp. You will receive tax-free 296 shares of Esmark, Inc. for your 296 shares of Swift.

A very strong final quarter, lifted fiscal 1972 results to $2.90 a share with sales up 8 per cent year to year. Reflecting the improvement, the dividend was upped 7.1 per cent to 75 cents per share annually. For the current year, meat-packing operations should be more profitable and earnings of $3.25 are a minimum expectation. Shares are well worth holding for their better-than-average appreciation potential.

Q. What is required to change stock ownership from husband to wife? — A.J.

A. If the shares are in your possession the transfer is relatively simple. A letter to the transfer agent for each company in which you hold stock, requesting that he make the change, should initiate the required action. Should your shares be held in a brokerage account, your broker will send you a transfer authorization to complete in order to implement the exchange.

Before taking this step, however, you should be aware of the legal implications involved. It is entirely possible that the transfer of ownership will also create a gift tax question.

In addition, you may irreparably tangle you and your wife's position in regard to eventual estate tax settlements. If you have not already done so, I strongly recommend that you discuss the change with your attorney.

Brighter Economy Scene Fails To Move Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — A somewhat improved economic picture could do no better than produce a mixed price reaction in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors received some welcome encouragement about the economy and this was enough to halt the decline in progress for five sessions.

Polaroid traded lower. William D. Schwartz, analyst for Burnham & Co., chopped his 1973 earnings expectations for the company to about $1.40 a share from a prior level of $2.30 a share.

Xerox also moved against the market. The Federal Trade Commission charged the company with monopolozing the office copying machine business and demanded steps be taken to rectify the situation. A Xerox spokesman said the company would withhold comment until it had actually been served with the FTC complaint.

American Motors Car Sales Are Up

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — American Motors' retail passenger car sales in the San Francisco Zone during the 1972 calendar year increased 16 per cent over the previous year.

Jack O. Polan, zone manager, said AMC dealers sold 7,075 cars in 1972, compared with 6,629 in 1971. The San Francisco Zone serves AMC dealers in Northern California, Hawaii, and a portion of Nevada.

Pan Am Reports Heavy Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways reported net losses for 1972 of $28,888,000, including a tax credit of $24,909,000. This compares with losses of $45,866,000, including a $16,010,000 tax credit in 1971.

The troubled airline noted the 1972 results largely reflect a first quarter loss of $30,914,000, the worst first quarter in the firm's history. Also the 1971 figures include an extraordinary SST refund from the federal government of roughly $6.5 million.

Pan Am is expected shortly to announce its decision on whether or not to take up the eight options it holds on the British-French Concorde.

Novato Auto Detailers To Open On Olive Avenue Next Month

Novato Auto Detailers will open for business next month at 815-B Olive Avenue behind King's Auto Repair, next to Russ Sharp Contractors.

The owner of the new auto detail shop is Howard Slade of Novato, who drove for Greyhound Bus Lines for 25 years and has been with the Golden Gate Transit District for the past year. Slade has lived in Marin since 1946.

His partner in the business is Melvin Park of Novato, who has six years experience in the auto repair business in the Novato area.

NOVATO AUTO DETAILERS will polish and paint cars, steam-clean motors, clean the car interior, and apply underseal. The company prepares cars for sale, by private parties or in car lots.

Slade said he hopes to open his auto detail shop in two or three weeks, on Olive Avenue near the railroad tracks.

JORDAN B. DELL'ERA of San Rafael has been appointed vice president and manager of Crocker Bank's San Rafael main office. He replaces Donald W. Chapman, who is on special assignment for the bank's West Bay Region administration.

Born in Larkspur, Dell'Era joined the First National Bank of San Rafael, a Crocker predecessor, in 1946. In 1961, he transferred to San Francisco as vice president in charge of central transit and clearing operations for Crocker Anglo National Bank, also a Crocker Bank predecessor.

Dell'Era served as vice president and manager of Crocker Bank's operations and branch administration, headquartered in San Francisco. He was vice president and manager, marketing, before his appointment to the San Rafael main office.

Dell'Era

Farbstein

ALLAN M. FARBSTEIN of Terra Linda was appointed vice president and general manager of Novo International, San Francisco-based freight forwarder and subsidiary of New York's Novo Corporation.

Farbstein has been with the parent company since 1971 as assistant to the vice president of their four subsidiary forwarding group. Novo International handles sea freight as forwarders and customs brokers and integrates its service with the three other Novo Corporation forwarding units to provide a total door-to-dooor freight forwarding system.

CINEMA II, a new movie theater opened this month at 5400 Redwood Highway, south of Hamilton Air Force Base, next to Camillo's restaurant.

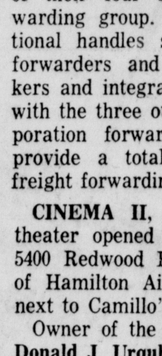
Owner of the new theater is Donald J. Urquhart of San Rafael, who has been in the film business for 25 years. He worked for Warner Brothers for 22 years and for the last two years, he has owned Urquhart Film Enterprises, a San Francisco film distributor.

Partners in the new theater are Philip Rosenberg of Novato, his son, Kenneth Rosenberg, and Edward Troy of San Rafael.

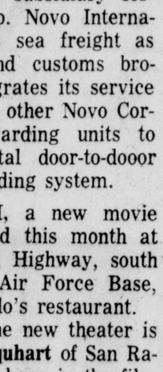
Cinema II is located in a new building with a seating capacity just under 250. It offers general films seven days a week. Starting Friday will be "Slaughterhouse Five" and "Frenzy."

JOHN C. POGUE of Mill Valley was named assistant vice president, municipal trading and underwriting, Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco.

Pogue joined Wells Fargo in 1970 and was investment officer before the promotion.



Pogue



Cann

HOWARD W. CANN of Mill Valley has been promoted to assistant vice president in the national division at Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters.

Cann was previously assistant cashier in the same department. He joined the bank's international division in 1970 after graduation from the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania with a masters of business administration.

EDWARD H. MARGOLIN of Novato, formerly vice president of marketing for Farrar, Herrick & Associates in San Rafael, has formed his own financial consulting firm called E.H.M. & Associates.

Margolin will be chief operating officer and president of the new organization, which is located at 4340 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park, in the same office as Farrar, Herrick & Associates.

In addition to heading the new firm, Margolin continues to represent Farrar, Herrick & Associates.

WARREN H. RICE, Larkspur tax consultant, has moved his Marin Income Tax Service from Corte Madera to San Rafael. The new office is in suite 26 at 819 A Street, San Rafael, near the Simas Bros. service station. His former office was at 101 Casa Buena Drive in Corte Madera.

Rice said most of his customers are referrals or repeats, not drop-in clients. This is a part-time occupation for Rice, who is employed as an accountant with the United States Army Engineers.

THOMAS (TOMMY) THOMPSON, former service manager with Leon C. Felton Volkswagen in San Rafael, has joined Novato Datsun at 1010 Grant Avenue in Novato as service manager.

A resident of Petaluma, Thompson has been working in Marin since 1959, first with Rossi's Garage and for the past seven years with Felton.

MR. AND MRS. JOE F. DE MAESTRI, who own DeMaestri Distributing Co. in San Rafael, are back from the annual Anheuser-Busch sales convention held in Houston, Tex., last week.

More than 2,400 wholesalers, wives and company marketing representatives attended the conference.

M. A. ARNHEITER of Novato has joined Mutual of New York's San Rafael agency as assistant manager and is representing the company in San Rafael. The San Rafael agency is located at 22 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park. Arnheiter is responsible for manpower recruiting and administration of the company's life insurance training programs.

Arnheiter was a life and health insurance consultant in this area for one year before joining MONY. A veteran of the United States Navy, he is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy.

ABANDONED DOGS HAVE A REAL PAL

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — N. P. Neumann is definitely a dog's best friend.

Neumann regularly cares for dogs that are abandoned at a park. He gets up at 3 a.m. daily to visit a place where the dogs are found and leaves a pan of food for his four-legged friends.

Neumann says he doesn't mind his task.

"I'm looking for the day when this job is no longer necessary," he says. "I hope abandonment of puppies will stop. But I would rather the animals be released at the park than turned over to the animal shelter.

"I don't want any thanks for what I'm doing," Neumann says. "Just seeing those tails wagging is enough for me." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Exemptions To Impact Rules Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Builders Council today asked the state Resources Agency to expand the list of private construction projects which would be exempted from environmental impact report requirements.

The CBC, legislative arm of California's home building and light construction industry, submitted the suggestion at an agency public hearing on proposed state guidelines for the impact reports.

James Acret, CBC special counsel, said the "author of the 1970 Environmental Quality Act has said publicly that the intent of the law was to exempt 95 per cent of the building projects, and the California Supreme Court 'Friends' of Mammoth' ruling said the vast majority of projects would not have a significant effect on the environment, and therefore should be exempt.

"But the tentative guidelines currently under consideration by the state Office of Planning would do just the opposite. In their present form, the guidelines require 95 per cent of all projects to have environmental impact reports."

The CBC's list of exemptions includes single-family residence, planned unit developments, condominiums, urban apartment buildings of 50 or fewer units, and industrial, warehouse and commercial buildings of less than 30,000 square feet in urban areas.

The state's proposed guidelines would exempt single-family homes and duplexes, and patio, swimming pool, fence and garage construction.

Acret said the court decision requiring the impact reports has created "chaos in the building industry," with local governments to hold "thousands of projects in abeyance." He noted the legislature's 120-day moratorium on the court ruling ends in April.

Reagan Asks Disaster Designation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today urged President Nixon to declare San Luis Obispo and Marin counties and the City of South San Francisco as disaster areas because of heavy flood damage.

Reagan, in a prepared statement, said the designation will clear the way for the allocation of more than $1.6 million in federal disaster relief to the stricken areas.

He said total damage to both public and private property from heavy rains, wind and flooding reached $7.1 million in San Luis Obispo County, $2.9 million in Marin County and $2.2 million in the City of South San Francisco.

Reagan said state and local funds available for restoration of the disaster areas have been obligated or spent.

The governor also proclaimed a state of emergency in the City of South San Francisco because of the flood damage which occurred during the week of Jan. 14.

Kissinger To Visit Hanoi; Nixon To Talk With Thieu

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said today he was sending Henry A. Kissinger to Hanoi next month and would meet with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu later this spring in San Clemente, Calif., to discuss the future of war-torn Vietnam.

Both conferences are aimed at considering economic assistance to both North and South Vietnam in the aftermath of the long war, he said.

In a 30-minute news conference, his first since Oct. 5, the President also repeated that he had no intention of granting amnesty to draft-dodgers and deserters.

Nixon said he would meet with Thieu, their first session since a meeting in Saigon on July 30, 1969, at the Western White House in San Clemente at an unspecified time in the spring. The White House announced earlier today that Kissinger, chief architect of the Vietnam cease-fire signed in Paris last Saturday, would be in Hanoi Feb. 10-13 for conversations with top North Vietnamese leaders.

Nixon declined to specify a figure for U.S. assistance to Vietnam, saying the amount would have to be worked out with Congress.

But he said the assistance was an essential ingredient in arranging incentives for both North and South Vietnam to abide by the agreement. He said assistance would go to all of Indochina. This would include Cambodia and Laos. "I look upon this as a potential investment in peace to the extent that North Vietnam — participating with us —would turn inward to works of peace rather than outward to works of war."

He said Kissinger would not be meeting American prisoners of war while in Hanoi.

The President also said he had no plans personally to greet returning POWs.

"This is a time we should not grandstand it, we should not exploit it," Nixon said, adding that the prisoners have a right to privacy and to get home to their families as soon as possible. As for amnesty for those who refused to serve during the war, Nixon said, "I have sympathy with an individual who has made mistakes. I have made mistakes. But certainly we have to pay a price for our mistakes. And that price is a criminal penalty for disobeying the laws of the United States."

On other matters:

—Nixon shrugged off reports that he had said John B. Connally would be the 1976 GOP presidential candidate. "I would be out of my mind to be endorsing anybody at this time," he said. He said that after the 1974 congressional elections, he would provide a list of likely presidential candidates and after several 1976 primaries he would predict a winner.

—He ruled out any foreign travel during the first half of 1973 but said that with the winding down of the Vietnam war, the problems of Europe can "be put on the front burner."

—The President described the critical wounding of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., as apalling and said it reinforced his conviction that small hand guns should be made illegal.

FUTURE PLANS — President Nixon today told an impromptu news conference that he will send Henry A. Kissinger to Hanoi next month and that he will meet with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu later this spring in San Clemente to discuss the future of wartorn Vietnam. (UPI Telephoto)

A Snag In Prisoner Releases

SAIGON (UPI) — Continued delays by a four-party military commission in making arrangements is holding up the release of American prisoners in North Vietnam, U.S. sources said today.

They said the issue was complicated by the fact the leader of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) delegation still has not arrived in Saigon for the talks.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said today a request was received Tuesday to pickup the PRG delegation leader somewhere along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border. He said the request did not include map coordinates and so without a specific location for the pickup, no one was sent to get the delegate.

According to diplomatic reports, meetings of the deputy chiefs of the joint military commission have been bedeviled by procedural wrangles between the opposing Vietnamese delegations. However, a source said today the atmosphere has become more workable.

Deputy delegation chiefs of the joint military commmission —the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong—conferred today for the fifth time, the sources said. The purpose of the meeting was to coordinate administrative details for the first meeting of the military delegation chiefs.

American officials had hoped their POWs could start returning as early as 24 hours after the cease-fire took effect Sunday. But the Paris agreement protocol on prisoner exchanges said "places of return shall be agreed tthrough the four-part joint military commission."

The commission can decide nothing until all delegation leaders are present, the sources said.

Maj. Gen. Le Quang Hoa, the North Vietnam chief delegate, arrived Monday in Saigon on a U.S. C130 transport plane from Hanoi. He immediately got embroiled in the dispute with the Saigon government over immigration forms and did not leave the plane until 22 hours after it arrived—when Saigon relented in what it called a goodwill gesture.

Meanwhile, the new International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) met for three hours Tuesday. It is composed of military and civilian personnel from Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia.

Ambassador Michel Gauvin, leader of the Canadian delegation, said he was designated to work with the military commission to get transport and other logistical support to get the team into the countryside to supervise the cease-fire.

The Paris agreement specifies that the military commission provide the transportation and other facilities. Work by the ICCS was held up because of the delay in getting the military commission organized.

However, since the planned ICCS outposts are in South Vietnamese-controlled territory, Gauvin said he would work with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials to try to hurry movement of ICCS troops to the field.

Behr's Seat Is Threatened Under New Remapping Plan

Proposed District Gives Democrats A Big Edge

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — The Legislature's last try to redistrict itself opened yesterday with a plan that would tie Marin to a Senate district stretching to suburban Sacramento and probably abort the political career of Marin's incumbent.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, eyeing heavy Democratic registration in the district proposed by leaders of both parties in the upper house, conceded getting reelected in 1974 would "pose major problems."

The district would include all of Marin, northern Contra Costa County and a swath of Solano and Yolo Counties.

In the Assembly, a plan was being drafted that would shift Sonoma State College, Cotati and Rohnert Park to the Second District of Democrat Barry Keene of Santa Rosa. The area has heavy Democratic registration, and its shift would increase percentage of Republican registration in the adjacent Seventh District, which covers Southern Sonoma and Marin.

Registration and population figures still were being compiled today for the proposed new districts.

All of Sonoma would remain in the First Senatorial District, represented by Randolph Collier, D-Yreka.

The Legislature's plan is designed to protect most incumbents, but to do so requires such gerrymandering that Gov. Ronald Reagan has vowed to veto it. He reportedly feels that the Republicans will do better if redistricting is done as promised by the state Supreme Court.

The court assumed jurisdiction over the issue after the Legislature failed two years in a row to do the job. But some legislative leaders believe the court would accept the lawmakers' plan rather than draft its own — if the Legislature can act before the court begins its work and override the veto.

Previous legislative remapping plans would have split Marin or lumped it with San Francisco in a district stretching down the Peninsula. This would have pitted Behr against Sen. Milton Marks, D-San Francisco.

A new "victim" of redistricting has been found in Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, who has announced he will not seek reelection in 1974. This problem is that one Northern California district must be shifted to Southern California because of population growth there. The new plan would shift Short's district to three Southern California counties.

As drafted, the plan would chop all of Napa and most of Solano out of Behr's present district. Instead, his district would jump across the bay to Pinole and Martinez, then northeast through the Delta to Sacramento.

The major question was whether enough votes could be assured in each house to get the necessary two-thirds vote to override a veto by the governor. None of his vetoes has ever been overridden, but legislative leaders of both parties pointed out that with their political lives at stake, even Republicans should join in an override.

Behr, saying the new plan "stinks," objected there was no "community of interest" between Marin and Sacramento citizens.

Stennis Is Shot During A Holdup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., was critically wounded in a holdup in front of his Washington home Tuesday night. He underwent six hours, 35 minutes of surgery early today.

The 71-year-old Stennis, one of the most powerful and most respected senators, managed to stagger into the house after being held up and shot at 7:40 p.m. EST by "at least two" men described by police as young Negroes.

Rushed to Walter Reed Army hospital, he was taken to surgery at 8:45 p.m. and the operation was not completed until 3:20 a.m. today.

Afterward, a hospital spokesman said Stennis' condition was "very serious" in Army terms, which he said was equivalent to a prognosis of critical at most hospitals.

One of two bullets that felled Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, entered his chest and ranged downward through the stomach and an intestine. It lodged in the lower back. That bullet was not removed during the operation.

The other bullet shattered against a bone in his upper left leg but did not break a bone. It was removed.

After the operation, a spokesman at the hospital, Maj. Frank Garland, was asked if Stennis would recover. He said:

"The prognosis is guarded ... He is conscious and he's resting comfortably. His vital signs remain stable." These include heart rate, blood pressure and respiration.

Garland, a hospital information officer, was asked if there were permanent injuries.

"None are apparent, as far as permanent injury is concerned."

The shooting took place, police said, in front of Stennis' home as he alighted from his car after driving from his office. His home is located on Cumberland St. N.W., between Wisconsin and Connecticut Aves., not far from the District of Columbia border near Chevy Chase, Md.

Investigators said Stennis told them he offered no resistance but was shot anyway after handing over his billfold, containing credit cards, along with a gold pocket watch, his Phi Beta Kappa key, and a quarter.

After the shooting, he managed to stagger 10 feet along a

Concerned Citizens' Victory In Madera Del Presidio Fight

By PAT PERRY

In a dramatic reversal of the old saw "you can't fight city hall", a group of Corte Madera townspeople proved yesterday that it is, indeed, possible.

It was proved in Superior Court when Judge Joseph G. Wilson said he will sweep away the town's approval of the bitterly contested Madera del Presidio housing project.

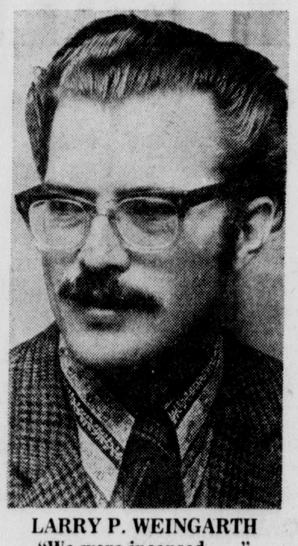
There was no dancing in the streets of Corte Madera last night, however. Just quiet jubilation.

Because it was, give or take a few fits of temper, a very civilized rebellion.

When they halted the bulldozers grading the hillside site, some of the protesters brought along picnics with wine and orange juice.

Town police, arriving hotfoot to arrest the rebellious citizenry, collapsed into giggles at the sight of entire families ambling around before the monster machines.

When the town council summarily rejected a petition signed by 800 residents to get the 75-acre site downzoned through the Environmental Law Fund of Novato Inc.



LARRY P. WEINGARTH
"We were incensed. . ."

there were angry cries, but no fistfights.

Instead, the incensed protesters met the next night in Larry P. Weingarth's home on Sonora Way.

"We were incensed," recalled Weingarth, who, with Marilyn Hallin filed the successful suit

"We had all followed every meeting and public hearing only to be ruled out of hand, our petition to be totally ignored. Government is supposedly for the good of the governed."

Weingarth said the group decided going to court was the only recourse.

"Se we passed that hat, and that evening we collected $900 right here in our living room. None of us are wealthy people, but the cash and checks came showering down."

"And we had meetings every night after that for weeks."

Marilyn Hallin of Paloma Drive volunteered to file suit, too.

She's lived in Corte Madera 15 years, has two children, and her husband is a native Sausalitan.

"I'd never been involved in anything like this before. We took a vote on what to do, going to court seemed the most sensible thing, since we'd exhausted other methods."

Did she have second thoughts about the responsibility of going to law?

"I suppose so, but it was just one of those commitments. You take the bull by the horns and follow through. We just don't want our town to look like the Los Angeles basin."

Mrs. Hallin, who'd never ever attended a council meeting before the Madera del Presidio hassle, is fairly typical of the protesters, previously uninvolved middleclass men and women who got their dander up.

Marilyn Shargel of Summit Drive got involved because she'd been taking sixth grade

Government Closing Research Facilities

Federal earthquake and ocean research facilities in Tiburon, San Francisco and Point Reyes have been ordered closed as a result of belt-tightening in the 1973-74 federal budget.

However, a spokesman for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported today the Congressman plans to appeal directly to the White House to save the "valuable, working research units."

The Marine Minerals Technology Center at Tiburon received orders on Monday to close by March 2. The Earthquake Mechanism Laboratory and the federally-operated California Seismological Field Survey also received shutdown orders, but the date is "subject to negotiation," a spokesman said.

The earthquake study groups operate the large, automatic earth movement monitoring station at Point Reyes National Seashore, a device park service employees call "the magic mushroom."

Both the marine minerology and the earthquake research projects are administered by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), which issued the closure orders from its headquarters in Rockville, Md.

Burton B. Barnes, assistant director at the marine minerology center in Tiburon, said "about 50 engineers and scientists will be out of jobs' unless he can find posts for them in other federal agencies. Barnes said the annual payroll is about $360,000 and the total budget is slightly more than $1 million.

He said the NOAA will continue to operate its fisheries re-

Private Property Damage From Flooding At Least $2 Million

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal official reported today that his office found private property in Marin County suffered at least $2 million damage in the mid-January rainstorms and flooding.

A total of 344 homes and 29 business firms suffering losses has so far been reported to the Small Business Administration district office here, according to Robert Belloni, who is in charge of the disaster program.

The data was gathered by SBA officials through what Belloni said was "only a very cursory review" of "a couple of areas the staff could inspect," plus information from state, county and city officials.

The data has been sent to the SBA headquarters in Washington, D.C.

"Until such time as the President acts" to declare Marin a disaster area "there really is not anything more this office can do" to begin processing low-interest loan applications and other financial aid to private property owners, Belloni said.

(Meanwhile, Frank E. Kirby, Marin County emergency services coordinator, said forms are available at his office and in city halls for private property owners to file damage reports. A volunteer aide in Kirby's office said reports were lacking from firms along Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, although that area was flooded two weeks ago.)

WAITING FOR A RIDE — Innocent victims of the Vietnam fighting, young South Vietnamese refugees sat behind barbed wire as they awaited transportation yesterday near Long Thanh, 24 miles southeast of Saigon. Sign in background calls for a fast peace settlement.

(UPI Telephoto)

Vietnam Fighting Is Tapering Off

SAIGON (UPI) — Fighting and casualties in Vietnam's four-day-old cease-fire dropped off for the third consecutive day today in what could be the prelude to total peace, although a Saigon military spokesman said the decrease was insignificant.

Reported Communist attacks across the country dropped from 426 the first day of the cease-fire, to 311 Tuesday and 209 today.

In one incident, a U.S. Army adviser suffered slight wounds Tuesday in both arms when Communists fired on his helicopter in the Quang Ngai coastal province north of Saigon. But the U.S. command said he returned to duty after treatment.

The magnitude as well as the number of attacks was on the downswing. In one battle Sunday, 28 South Vietnamese were reported killed and 85 wounded but no single clash since then has claimed more than 40 South Vietnamese casualties.

Those casualties were reported today by UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis, who said the North Vietnamese launched three ground attacks on government marine positions just south of the Cua Viet River, 10 miles below the Demilitarized Zone. Davis said 40 government troops were killed or wounded.

Allied experts say the cease-fire will become a reality when the fighting that preceded the truce wears itself out—which could take days or weeks. A South Vietnamese military spokesman indicated today it is too early to tell. He said the decrease in fighting so far is "not significant."

But these fitful—and possibly deceptive—stirrings of peace could be reported:

—Deputy delegation chiefs of the Four-Power Joint Military Commission working on prisoner of war returns and supervision of the cease-fire met in Saigon today in what a diplomatic source described as a "more workable atmosphere" following procedural disputes that hampered Monday and Tuesday sessions.

—U.S. B52 bombers were reported pounding the Ho Chi Minh supply trail through Laos today but the bombing since the cease-fire took effect has been halted throughout South Vietnam and Cambodia. U.S. advisers are being brought in out of the field and the 21,000 troops still in South Vietnam are going home at a rate of 400 a day.

—A few anecdotes of peaceful contact between government and Communist troops were beginning to surface. But these reports were scattered and often unverified.

Jury Finds The Remaining Two Watergate Defendants Guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate bugging trial ended with a jury finding two former campaign aides to President Nixon guilty of political spying, but it will be up to Congress to bring out the full story.

Deliberating only 90 minutes, a jury of eight women and four men brought the 16-day-old trial to an end Tuesday by finding James W. McCord Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy guilty of all charges brought against them in the raid against the Democratic National Committee's Watergate headquarters June 17.

Five other men earlier pleaded guilty.

McCord, a former CIA and FBI operative who was chief of security for Nixon's re-election committee, and Liddy, a former white House aide who served as counsel to the Nixon committee's finance arm, were ordered to jail without bond by U.S. Judge John J. Sirica.

Attorneys were expected to file motions for bail for the men this morning.

McCord and Liddy were charged with burglary, conspiracy and illegal wire tapping. McCord was found guilty of eight counts and could receive up to 45 years in prison and $60,000 in fines. Liddy was convicted of six counts and faces a maximum of 35 years and $40,000 in fines.

Appeals were expected on behalf of both men. Gerald Alch, a defense attorney for McCord, accused Sirica Tuesday of prejudicing the case by acting as "prosecutor and investigator" from the bench.

Sirica during the trial frequently complained that the attorneys were not properly developing the case. From time to time, he took over questioning of witnesses himself.

The trial did not answer all the questions raised by the revelation of the break-in at the Democratic offices and subsequent press reports that the Republicans had organized a campaign to sabotage the Democratic presidential primaries.

A Senate probe of the allegations is scheduled later this year and may make new revelations.

McCord and Liddy took the news of their conviction with no visible emotion.

Liddy stood with his arms crossed in front of his chest as the clerk read the verdict of "guilty" to each charge. McCord stood next to him at parade rest and turned once and winked at his wife, Ruth, who was sitting in the rear of the courtroom.

Heath Arrives For Nixon Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — British Prime Minister Edward Heath has arrived here for two days of talks with President Nixon expected to center chiefly on trade.

Accompanied by Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and other officials, Heath flew here from London Tuesday night. He will not begin talks with the President until Thursday morning at the White House.

On Friday, Nixon and Heath will helicopter to the President's Camp David mountain retreat.

Judge Enters Plea For Timothy Leary

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A plea of innocent was entered by the judge Tuesday for LSD apostle Timothy Leary, who is charged with conspiracy in an alleged international drug-smuggling operation.

Leary's lawyer asked for a postponement of the case, but Superior Court Judge James Turner denied the request and ordered "a not guilty plea entered in the defendant's behalf." Leary also faces charges in connection with his escape from prison 28 months ago. He was brought back to the United Slates from Afghanistan by U.S. narcotics agents.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Teen-Agers Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — Two Belfast Roman Catholic teen-agers were found shot to death in execution-style killings today, the fourth and fifth victims within 36 hours of Northern Ireland's latest surge of slayings.

A telephoned tip to police led to the discovery of the body of a 14-year-old in the car park of an ancient stone circle beauty spot known as the Giant's Ring, four miles south of the city.

He had been shot through the ead and the hood of his blue parka pulled over his head.

A few hours later a British army patrol found the body of a 17-year-old, also shot through the head, near an approach road to the Belfast-Dublin highway.

Airman Guilty

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Airman Donald Ricks, 20, of Roxbury, Mass., was found guilty by Navy court martial yesterday of assault and rioting, the fifth of 27 accused crewmen of the carrier USS Kitty Hawk to be convicted.

Forty-six crewmen were injured in rioting aboard the carrier as it sailed toward Vietnam Oct. 12-13. Navy prosecutors and a congressional subcommittee that investigated the incident said a comparative small group of black sailors ran amok, beating up white crewmen.

Seat Belt Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With less than 20 per cent of the nation's motorists using seat belts, safety advocates have launched a nationwide campaign for passage of state laws making it mandatory to buckle up or face a fine.

Bills have been introduced in legislatures in Georgia, New York, Maryland, and Virginia to make the use of the seat belt mandatory.

Seventeen other states are expected to follow suit, The American Seat Belt Council, a trade organization representing seat belt manufacturers, said.

Volcano Woes

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Iceland-ic government officials on a first inspection tour of the volcano stricken island of Heimaey said today the town of Vestmannaeyjar would be uninhabitable for years. They said eruptions could go on for months.

The officials said the deserted town —once the thriving fishing capital of Iceland — was covered by four million tons of ashes.

Hundreds of houses have been gutted by fire, buried under hardened lava or have collapsed under the weight of the ashes from the Helgafjell volcano.

Arab Summit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Political sources in Cairo said today Arab defense and military leaders have abandoned, at least for the time being, plans for an Arab summit conference to plan strategy against Israel.

The report came as President Anwar Sadat of Egypt prepared a major address today to outline steps he will take to deal with domestic unrest and unity in the face of the Middle East crisis. Political sources said Sadat would address the country before a special parliamentary session at 6 p.m. (11 a.m. EST).

Instead of an Arab summit, the sources said, delegates to an Arab League joint defense council decided to arrange a series of lower-level meetings over the next few weeks to attempt to coordinate Arab action against Israel.

First Contact

VIENNA (UPI) — Negotiators from East and West made their first contacts on Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions today in a busy attempt to get formal talks going before the day is out.

"We hope that the conference will develop in a constructive spirit," said chief Soviet negotiator Oleg N. Shlestov, who flew in from Moscow.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) allies delegated Dutch officials to make first contacts with the Russians.

Space Meeting

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Brig. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, Mercury astronaut Donald K. Slayton and rookie Vance D. Brand have been selected to meet two Russians in earth orbit in 1975 in the first international manned space mission.

The Space Agency named the crewmen Tuesday and said they will start joint training with Soviet cosmonauts this summer at the manned spacecraft center in Houston.

Bungled Plot

JACKSON, Tenn. (UPI) — Donald O'Neal Holt, a 29-year-old carpet layer, was charged Tuesday with being the abductor dressed in women's clothing who bungled a $200,000 kidnap-extortion plot.

Mrs. Rebecca Arendale was abducted Monday. Her husband, Charles Arendale, chairman of the board of the Jackson State Bank, twice left $200,000 ransom beside a highway, only to have passers-by pick it up. Mrs. Arendale freed herself and escaped.

The FBI charged it was Holt, dressed in a wig, high heels and a pair of black women's slacks, who grabbed Mrs. Arendale from her ranch-style home, took her to an empty house and left her tied up.

Nixon Still Firm In Amnesty Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says President Nixon has not changed his campaign position that he will "never" grant amnesty to Vietnam war draft dodgers and deserters.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, was asked Tuesday what was Nixon's position in light of the Vietnam cease-fire.

"Our position has not changed," Ziegler said.

Nixon took a hard line position on the issue during last fall's presidential campaign.

"Don't worry about that amnesty—never," Nixon told an Ohio couple who had lost a son in the war.

The statement contrasted with a position Nixon took on a television interview in January, 1972. At that time, Nixon said he expected he would be "very liberal in regards to amnesty."

It is estimated there are about 500 draft resisters and deserters serving jail terms in the United States and perhaps as many as 70,000 others in exile in other countries.

An aide said Monday that Sen. Robert A. Taft Jr., R-Ohio, is contemplating re-introducing legislation that would provide at least a partial amnesty. Taft has suggested letting deserters come back home if they agree to spend time in the military or public service.

Taft, who generally is a supporter of Nixon, introduced similar legislation in the last session of Congress, but it did not pass.

Third Term Decision Final, Governor Says

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says his decision to serve only two terms is final and absolute.

Reagan told a news conference Tuesday he expects no widespread attempt to "draft" him to seek a third term in 1974 and he wouldn't respond to it even if it did develop.

But the Republican chief executive, who will be 62 next week, still is pondering whether to run for the seat of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., in 1974.

There have been recurring reports that some party leaders and Reagan backers are trying to convince Reagan to relax his two-term pledge and run for governor again even though only one man, Earl Warren, has ever been elected to a third term as governor of California.

"No," Reagan replied firmly when asked about that.

Absolutely not? he was asked.

"No".

Would he respond to a draft?

"No. Nor do I think there's going to be any such thing," the governor added.

Reagan said he hasn't decided yet whether to run for the Senate. Cranston, who plans to run for a second term, says he is sure Reagan will oppose him.

Reagan said, "I think I said I would probably have an answer before the snow melts in the Sierra... The snow 'way up high on the mountains."

In recent weeks, Henry Salvatori of Los Angeles, a prominent Reagan supporter, said he had encouraged Reagan to "sit out" the 1974 elections and prepare instead to run for president in 1976.

Reagan dropped any possible presidential ambitions in 1972 and was Richard Nixon's California re-election chairman. His name has been included in speculation about 1976, however, since last November's balloting.

He has brushed aside any such suggestion by saying he hadn't made up his mind about 1974 yet, let alone 1976.

In response to the Salvatori comment, Reagan said: "I don't know that Henry Salvatori said anything of that kind... so no comment."

Report On Handicapped Education

With 40 children currently in classes for the educationally handicapped and another 45 children on the waiting list. the Old Adobe School District board last night heard a detailed progress report on the district's school psychologist program

Commenting that the program is comparatively new to school districts and that Petaluma's Old Adobe District is breaking fresh ground, trustee William V. Young suggested the board schedule a meeting to decide "what psychological services should provide to the schools."

Barbara Cochran, school psychologist, and Nina Manrath, education specialist and professor of child development at Sonoma State College, reported that half the students this year spent some time in regular classes.

Students are reevaluated at least once a year after returning to normal classes, said professor Manrath. "We have the psychological data on the child, we talk with the teachers and watch how they function within the group." The goal, she said, is a well-rounded, well-functioning individual.

Mrs. Cochran said that although cooperation and communication from regular teachers had been good, many still have questions about the program. She suggested teachers attend and observe the work in the special classes.

Trustee Margaret Kullberg warned against spreading the program thin by acting as social workers. She said that because the City of Petaluma lacked counseling clinics for parents and children, the school psychologists may be called to work out of the classroom.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

FUNDS — Was told that $4,440 budgeted for the program for the mentally retarded has been spent and that another $3,000 will be soon, at which time support for the project will have to come from the general fund.

BOARD — Suggested a date for the selection of a district advisory board for the Early Childhood Education program and to set up a schedule for recommendations by the local boards on where to set up the first ECE program.

COLLEGE — Accepted students Mary Landis and Liz Varney as aides to the Early Childhood Education program

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation as of next June by Barbara Carriker who will move out of the area after seven years of teaching in the district.

A Possible Conflict Seen In Shopping Center Plans

Plans for major shopping centers in Corte Madera and Larkspur run counter to the proposed Marin Countywide Plan which those cities, along with others in the county, are being asked to approve.

That. at least. is the conclusion of Walter Patrick Smith. general manager of the Northgate Mall shopping center, in an analysis of some effects of the countywide plan from a business standpoint.

Smith's analysis notes that the propsoed 75-acre center in east Corte Madera is based on estimates of $30 million to $50 million annual sales volume, and the proposed expansion of the Bon Air Center in Larkspur calls for $50 million in annual sales.

To divert that amount of business from existing shopping areas in Marin would result in widespread blight, he holds.

The combined total of the two proposed centers calls for an increase of about one-third in the county's total retail sales. This would mean that "69,000 more people will have to move into the area and do all of their retail store buying— including groceries — at these two new shopping centers; a population increase of one-third" to justify the developments, says Smith's analysis.

The countywide plan, however, calls for an increase of only 60,000 people in the next 10 years.

Creation of such large shopping centers also would require new highway linkups, and new street patterns and street widening in both Corte Madera and Larkspur, Smith holds, noting:

"Most of the problems of concentrating people and commerce into one corridor" (as proposed in the countywide plan) "will be problems of transport. The people must be allowed to move around within the corridor, frequently in circumstances requiring auto use rather than public transit."

He quotes Division of Highways figures that 6,000 cars daily leave Highway 101 at the Tamalpais Drive interchange in Corte Madera and 17,000 daily leave at the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard interchange in Larkspur. Both these figures would be substantially increased by adjacent major shopping centers, he contends.

However, the countywide plan calls for minimal road improvements to try to force people onto public transit. It also calls for scenic open space between communities and recommends that the "eastern corridor" communities "stop continued dispersal of new shopping centers."

Pilot Ditches Plane In Hudson; Swims To Shore

NEW YORK (UPI) — The pilot of a light plane ditched his craft in the icy Hudson River Tuesday night when the motor failed over midtown Manhattan. He calmly climbed out and swam 100 yards to the shore.

"I was just past the Empire State Building when the engine quit and I landed the plane on the Hudson River," said pilot Richard Burling, 28, New Monmouth, N.J. "It felt like jumping into a cold shower."

A spokesman for St. Vincents Hospital said Burling, an employe of General Instruments, Inc., Neptune, N.J., was in excellent condition. "There's virtually nothing wrong with him except that he's cold," the spokesman said.

Business Phone Refund Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission Tuesday ordered the Pacific Telephone Co. to refund $1.8 million to businesses.

The order approved a formula in which the company could pay the last of $175 million to subscribers as ordered by the state Supreme Court in June.

Most of the refunds were paid by applying credits to customers' monthly bills The latest PUC order applied only to businesses.

In other action, the PUC ordered an inquiry into the company's application for a $328 million rate hike. Hearings will begin Feb. 28.

POT HAUL — California Highway Patrolmen Myron R. MacNeil and Kevin M. Turner weigh some of the more than 20 pounds of marijuana and illegal drugs confiscated after a routine traffic stop last night near Corte Madera. Four persons were arrested, including a 14-year-old Tamalpais High School girl. Officers recovered 10 kilos of marijuana, plus amphetamines, tranquilizers and barbiturates.

Firehouse Opponents Are Beaten

A move to reject plans for a new firehouse facility was defeated last night by the Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission.

The vote was 5-2, commissioners Randall Garrison and Gracia Landley voicing opposition to the facility planned for land adjacent to Perry Park. They believed the property was better suited for park use. A bond issue to provide the new firehouse will go before voters April 17.

The commission also formed a committee headed by Garrison to look into a plan to preserve redwoods in Honor Grove at Bolinas Road. Suggestions were to build a boardwalk through the grove and to provide a regular system of care for the trees.

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission also:

COOPERATION — Agreed to set up a coordinating comimittee to meet with a similar committee from the San Anselmo Recreation Department to work out a plan of cooperation in scheduling events and classes of mutual interest to both communities.

PAVILION — Instructed architect Don Olson to study costs and feasibility of restoring steps leading to the Fairfax Pavilion.

Chinese Team Arrives For Jet Training

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — A six-member Red Chinese team has arrived to work out details for the training of personnel to handle 10 Boeing 707 jets contracted for purchase last year.

Boeing officials said the Chinese team, which arrived Tuesday, would remain here about a week. They said about 70 Chinese would have to be trained to fly and service the jets.

The planes were ordered in September for $125 million. The first one will be delivered late this summer.

Rocket Firing Is Spectacular

VANDENBERG AFB (UPI) — A Minuteman III, newest of the series, was launched just after sunset Tuesday, causing brilliant pink and white curls across the sky that prompted inquiries from observers from Fresno to Riverside.

The missile's destination was a target zone near the Marshall Islands in the Pacific, 5,000 miles away from the California coast.

Air Force officials said the aerial phenomenon was caused by the freezing of fuel debris and water vapor into crystals at high altitudes and sunlight reflecting from the crystals.

Traffic Stop Results In Arrests For Drugs

What began as a routine traffic stop for two California Highway Patrol officers last night ended with the arrest of four persons — including a 14-year-old girl on suspicion of committing several offenses — and confiscation of more than 20 pounds of marijuana and illegal drugs.

Booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale were Edward Lovell Mitchell, 52, of 55 Park Circle, Marin City; Gregg Stacey, 24, and Sheryl Ann Rudder, 18, both of no known address.

A 14-year-old Sausalito girl, arrested with the trio, was being held in Marin Juvenile Hall. Her name was withheld on standing order of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Mitchell and Stacey also were being held for investigation of possessing dangerous drugs and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In addition, Stacey was booked on suspicion of resisting arrest and possessing stolen property.

Officers Kevin M. Turner and Myron R. MacNeil were northbound on Highway 101 near Corte Madera shortly before midnight when they noticed a station wagon in front of them weaving back and forth on the freeway.

The officers followed the car onto Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and stopped it near Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae.

When the driver, Mitchell, reached in a paper bag to get out his driver's license, Officer MacNeil said he noticed a vial of suspected marijuana in the sack and arrested the driver and the car's othe three occupants.

A search of the vehicle, officers said, uncovered 10 kilos of marijuana in a cardboard carton in the rear of the auto. Approximately 100 tablets of suspected amphetamines, barbiturates and tranquilizers also were found, it was reported.

A search of Stacey, who is said by officers to have resisted the attempts to handcuff him, revealed a credit card which had been reported stolen in Mill Valley, the highway patrol said.

Bail had not yet been set for Mitchell, Stacey or Miss Rudder, who were scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

One Nailed As Suspect In Robbery

A Sausalito man, who managed to jump from a moving auto during an armed robbery last night, provided Sausalito police with a description of the car which led to the arrest of one of the robbers later in Fairfax.

Booked into Marin County Jail was Donald Wade Jones, 20, of 251 Drake Avenue, Marin City. Two other men are still being sought.

The victim, Raymond M. Healy, 21 of Kappas Yacht Harbor, told police he was hitchhiking northbound on Bridgeway near Johnson Street about 12:40 p.m. when three negro males in a brown Cadillac gave him a ride.

Shortly after Healy got into the back seat, he reported, the man beside him pulled a gun and demanded he empty his pockets. When Healy complied and the men found no money or other valuables, one of the trio suggested he be shot anyway.

As the car neared the north city limits and slowed for the turn into Marin City, Healy said he managed to open a door and jump out. He immediately reported the robbery to police who broadcast a description of the car.

The vehicle was later stopped in Fairfax by Fairfax police and Jones arrested. Another man in the car when the stop was made managed to jump out and flee, police said.

Bail had not yet been set for Jones, who was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Slayer Stabbed At San Quentin

A convicted murderer was in satisfactory condition today after he was stabbed twice in the chest yesterday in the north housing unit of San Quentin Prison.

James Earl Coumpy, 24, serving a five-year-to-life term for the fatal stabbing of a Merced County jail supervisor during a 1969 escape attempt, is confined to the prison hospital.

Two convicts have been questioned in the attack, but Associate Warden James W.L. Park would not release their names because "they are not firm suspects," he said.

Park was unable to give any motive for the attack.

File Lost For Five Months

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bennie Miles Jr., 44, was jailed five months ago on charges of shoplifting a can of malt liquor valued at 53 cents. But his file was misplaced until Tuesday, when he finally got a trial.

Miles pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to 108 days in jail and fined $200. Judge Billy Ragan ruled the five months Miles served satisfied the sentence.

The district attorney's office said it lost Miles' file and was unaware he was in jail until Miles notified an attorney.

STENNIS

sidewalk, walk up four concrete steps, walk along 20 feet more of sidewalk leading to his doorstep, then climb three steps to the small landing to the front door.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a fellow member of the Armed Services Committee, said Mrs. Stennis heard what sounded like "two pops" and her husband subsequently staggered in.

One report said Mrs. Stennis had looked out the window after the sounds and saw two young men fleeing.

Stennis, police said, told his wife to call the police and the hospital. He was admitted to Walter Reed about 8:05 p.m.

Two ambulance attendants who accompanied Stennis on the ride to the hospital said they heard the senator describe his assailants as two men of 18 or 19. A police investigator said Stennis "was set upon by at least two subjects."

Bill Seeks Funds Now For Approach

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to require the California Highway Commission to appropriate funds to rebuild the deadly San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge was introduced today by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco.

Calling the Doyle Drive approach "blood alley" and a form of "Russian roulette," the legislator said his bill would order immediate funding of the project.

The commission's present plans call for funding the project in 1977, while Foran noted efforts to improve the roadway have been made since the end of World War II.

He pointed out that there have been 17 fatalities since 1969 and 409 accidents since 1967 on the short stretch.

His bill calls for widening the lanes from 10 to 12 feet, constructing a concrete median barrier and addition of adequate merging lanes.

The Humanities Major To Find Jobs Difficult

STANFORD (UPI) — Jobs will be more plentiful for June university graduates, except for those majoring in the humanities, a Stanford University researcher said Tuesday.

"It appears as though liberal arts and humanities majors in general will require two educations in the immediate future—one for the good life and the other for a salable skill," Ralph Keller reported.

Keller, who directs the university's Planning and Placement Center, said prospects appear good for "engineering majors, especially at the bachelor of science level."

Rabbi Proposes Paying Arabs To Leave Israel

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, head of the militant Jewish Defense League, said Tuesday the government should pay Arabs to leave Israel. A Christian Arab said many of his brethren would go if they could afford it.

Kahane said he was working in Arab villages in the hills of the Galilee region to sign up Arabs wishing to leave.

"I do not want to live in an atmosphere of tension caused partly by the activities of terrorists," said Emanual Kuri, 46, a Christian Arab and a teacher from Fassuta, a village in Western Galilee.

Navy Is Cutting Food Bill Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has substituted hamburger for steak on its menus because of rising food prices.

In a Navywide message, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt cited a 20 per cent increase in the cost of Navy chow over the past six months and he, like many a housewife, ordered the food list changed to keep the budget more in line.

Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, told food managers to stop getting "selected high-cost luxury and convenience items." These include steak, roasts, lamb chops and lobsters.

Silent Prayers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A bill introduced in the Texas Senate Tuesday would permit silent prayers in public schools.

Film Maker Wins Sex Case Appeal

Celebration over one legal victory apparently led to the arrest in Marin of one-time night club operator Lloyd K. Downton of Tamalpais Valley, who is due to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday in connection with his latest problem.

Downton, 42, received word Tuesday that his conviction in connection with a 1971 "sex show" case had been reversed by the state District Court of Appeal.

Downton, who once ran for mayor of San Francisco, served more than 10 months in state prison on a charge of conspiracy and aiding and abetting an act of oral copulation.

The higher court ruled, however, there was no substantial evidence that he had conspired or aided and abetted in the act.

His codefendant, performer Louise Drolet, performer at a sex show Downton produced at bars called the New Follies and the Outer Limits, was acquitted of conspiracy but the high court confirmed her oral copulation conviction.

It was apparently in jubilation over his belated acquittal that led to Downton's arrest for drunken driving on the Golden Gate Bridge early Wednesday.

CLOSINGS

search facility at the former Tiburon Net Depot. The undersea minerals research project has endured several previous cutbacks, returning a fleet of research vessels back to the Navy.

Marion Otsea, an aide to Mailliard, said the Congressman had been told that only about five of the top officials at the Tiburon facility would be transferred to other federal posts, the rest losing their jobs.

Dr. Don Tocher, chief of the earthquake lab in San Francisco, said about 45 people in his office and in the seismological survey, were affected, with a total annual payroll of about $700,000. Tocher said he was "negotiating" to find other federal posts for the employees. His laboratory has operated since 1964; the seismological survey since 1931, he pointed out.

The earthquake scientist said NOAA had decided to divest itself of all scientific research projects except atmospheric studies and ocean biological studies.

The cutback will end federal research into the cause of earthquakes and how to predict them, Tocher added.

Brother, Sister Will Be Named To Air Academy

Rep. Don Clausen, R-Calif., has announced plans to nominate a Crescent City brother and sister to the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Clausen said he received applications from both Charles and Alicia Lytle this year, but that Miss Lytle will have to wait until next year to be nominated. She is only a high school senior and will not be eligible until then.

If accepted, she would be the first female to attend the academy.

Mother Dies

EVANSVILLE, Ind., (AP) — Ida Hartke, 85, mother of Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., died Tuesday. She served as postmaster of Stendal, Ind., from 1948 to 1960.

TOWN

students on field trips to the area.

Describing herself as "a naturalist of sorts" Mrs. Shargel entered the fight when it was suggested the condominium site housed "just a few deer."

"It's loaded with animals, fox, deer, skunk, mice and rabbits," said Mrs. Shargel, "it just seemed wrong that people who don't live here could do this to our town. They're the same people that put up Shelter Ridge in Mill Valley, and who's ever heard anything complimentary about that?"

Once the momentous decision to go to law had been taken, the question of paying for it continued.

Costs of the fight which ended yesterday came to a little over $3,000, much lower than they might have been, because Environmental Law Fund is a nonprofit corporation.

So the rebellious townspeople embarked on a low-key fundraising venture. A spaghetti dinner was held at Le Tonneau and the hat was passed.

Then Jana and Jack Haehl of Corte Madera Avenue arranged an art show and sale.

Haehl is an art teacher at Terra Linda High School, and his wife got involved in the protest when she became president of the Corte Madera Homeowners Association.

Like most of her fellow protesters, Mrs. Haehl hadn't been involved in local government before. Last March she decided her new office meant she should monitor council meetings, and that's how she heard of the Madera del Presidio controversy. Until then she'd never even been inside a home on the east side of town.

Corte Madera is physically divided by the freeway, and there's little communication between east and west.

"But our common bond was frustration," recalled Mrs. Haehl. "We were rejected and it made us allies."

The Haehls collected art works from friends and cleared over $400 for the court fund from a two-day sale at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur in November.

The next fund-raising project will be a benefit performance of the Ross Valley Players production of "How the Other Half Loves" at the Barn in the Art and Garden Center in Ross on March 2, at 8:30 p.m. All proceeds will go to help pay court costs.

It's difficult to determine exactly how many Corte Maderans were involved in the struggle, since everyone is so modest. Credit is given to everyone else, and mostly to the hundreds of people who have contributed money.

"The community has been absolutely gallant," said Mrs. Hallin.

Reward Offered For Stolen Tapes

A Berkeley woman has offered a reward for return of video tapes taken from her car in Fairfax Monday night.

Lucy Turner, a graduate student of the University of California anthropology department, said the sack of tapes was taken sometime Monday night while she visited friends near 80 Rocca Drive.

The tapes were films of Eskimo life she made while on an expedition in the Canadian Artic last year, she said, adding they were part of her doctorate thesis.

The anthropology student urged anyone with knowledge of the tapes to contact her through the Berkeley anthropology department.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Louise M. Hund Dies At 88

Louise M. Hund, wife of the late Dr. Harry O. Hund and long-time member of Marin County Medical Association auxiliary, died yesterday in a Reno hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Hund, 88, died just 19 days after her husband.

She was born in Brooklyn, where she met her husband. They were married in 1912, and observed their 60th wedding anniversary last December.

They moved to Marin County, where Dr. Hund practiced medicine for more than 50 years. The couple first lived in Ross and then moved to 558 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, in 1933. They moved to Reno four years ago.

Besides the Marin County Medical Association Auxiliary, Mrs. Hund was past president of the California State Medical Association Auxiliary.

She is survived by a daughter, Marie White o Reno; a brother, William E. Hotchkiss of Evanston, Ill.; a grandchild, and a great-grandchild.

Memorial service will be at 2 p.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael. Inurnment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to a favorite charity are preferred by the family.

LULA HORNE

The Independent-Journal incorrectly reported as Lulu yesterday the first name of Lula Horne of Larkspur, who died Monday at home.

Mrs. Horne, who once shared the award of Marin County's outstanding senior citizen, was a 76-year resident of Marin and a charter member of Redwoods Presbyterian Church in Larkspur.

Memorial service will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the church.

MRS. NORTON

Graveside service for Gertrude Norton of Black Point, who died Saturday, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Mrs. Norton, 86, of 67 Manzanita Avenue, was a long-time member of the Black Point Improvement Club.

Friends may call at the Redwood Chapel Mortuary in Novato this evening.

MRS. BUNDESEN

Blanche L. Bundesen, 73, retired telephone operator, died yesterday at her home in Petaluma after a short illness.

Mrs. Bundesen was a lifelong Petaluma resident and lived at 523 B Street. She had worked more than 25 years as an operator for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Mrs. Bundesen was a member of the Petaluma Christian Science Church. Her husband, Martin, died in 1969.

She is survived by a son, Sterling Bundesen of Los Altos; a daughter, Sophie Moriarty of Santa Barbara; three sisters, Ruby Waite of Penngrove, Lillie McCrum and Mary Deiss of Petaluma; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Private funeral was held today in Petaluma. Inurnment was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

TRUCK DEMOLISHED IN TRAIN COLLISION

The wreckage of a 1960 truck sits beside the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks at Fifth Avenue in San Rafael. The southbound train hit the westbound truck at 9:40 p.m. yesterday at Mission Avenue and dragged it one block before stopping. Ray A. Beardall of Santa Rosa, engineer, said he blew his whistle and rang the bell, but apparently the driver did not see it. San Rafael police reported that tests made later showed that the signals were working then.

(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred Arn)

INJURED MAN — James Clyde Strauss Jr., 18, of Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax, was lifted into a waiting ambulance last night after his westbound pickup truck was hit by a Northwestern Pacific Railroad train in San Rafael. Strauss was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises, hospital authorities reported.

Hospital's Room Rates Increased

Room rates at Marin General Hospital will rise $6 a day effective tomorrow because of $339,635 salary increases granted to employees last night by the Marin Hospital District oard.

Hospital Administrator Ray K. Bolinger said the raises to be paid in February range up to the 5.5 per cent allowed by the federal government. The annual total increase also includes $28,000 for increased social security taxes.

Room rates under the new schedule will include $71 a day for beds in the medical-surgical, obstetrics and pediatrics units. Semi-private and private rooms will range from $74 to $82, and beds in the intensive care unit will be $166 a day.

Bolinger said Marin General rates will still be comparable to most hospitals in the Bay Area and will be lower than some.

In another financial action last night, the board authorized asking bids for remodeling of the medical records and radiology departments, estimated to cost $150,000.

The bids for the work, which will include a new building on the site of the community Mental Health Center patio for medical records, will be received at the Feb. 27 meeting of the board.

Orderly Conclusion To Growth Controls

By BONNIE BARD

Petaluma's controversial growth control system finished its first complete cycle last night as the city council approved development allotments for 1973-74 in a smooth session that brought only minor complaints from builders.

The council carried out its year-old policy of limiting growth to a maximum of 500 living units per year by alloting 427 units to eight developers.

The 16 applications had been rated numerically by the development allotment board after a lengthy series of meetings and a public hearing. Six developers protested their ratings, but the council overturned only one decision of the board.

Mayor Helen Putnam warned the developers that receiving an allotment is not complete assurance that they will receive permits to build. In some cases, developers must still seek annexation, rezoning and design approval. Should a developer fail to get approval on precise plans, his allotment would be passed on to the developer with the next highest rating.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen was instructed to put the allotments in resolution form for adoption at the council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The council also stuck to its policy of balanced growth between East and West Petaluma and a balance between single-family homes and apartments. The balance system called for 125 eastside houses, 125 eastside apartments, 135 westside apartments and 120 westside single-family homes.

Qantas Development Corp. enjoyed the lone appeal success before the council. John Joslyn argued that additional points should be received for having an adequate drainage plan since the points should not be a matter of individual opinion.

The council agreed to give Qantas the additional points which pushed the point total over the previously high rating of Norman Johnson.

Although allotments for westside development fell below the 250 unit maximum with 177 units, the council rejected the appeal of Camille Enterprises for 33 homes and 67 apartment units south of Hillcrest Hospital.

Patrick Maguire of Camille argued that such a study would cost $50,000 and could not be undertaken unless some assurance plans would be approved and the project actually carried out.

Other appeals also fell on deaf ears, including Caster Mobile Home Corp. which predicted financial failure if plans were rejected for 100 units on North McDowell Boulevard. Representatives said an $800,000 bank note could not be met in April if plans to expand Petaluma Estates Mobile Home Park were rejected.

Though disgruntled, the rejected developers lodged only minor complaints and none threatened court action to force the city to allow them to develop. City Atty. Edouard E. Robert has consistently warned the city council that lawsuits could be brought since the policy has yet to be tested anywhere in courts.

The allotments, and firms, listed in order of ratings received, are:

Westside single homes: Ronald Nunn with six units on Dickson Hill; Arthur Condiotti Enterprises with 100 units on I Street extension; and J. W. Combs with 12 units on Cherry Street.

Westside apartments: Lyle D. Hood with eight units on Grant Avenue and Camille Enterprises with 51 units on Keokuk Street.

Eastside single homes: Marino Crinella of Westland Development Corp., 116 units on Ely Road adjacent to Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School.

Eastside apartments: Qantas, 100 units at the rear of Washington Square Shopping Center, and Norman Johnson, 25 units on Stuart Drive.

Rating scores for all development applications, losers as well as winners, were reported in the Dec. 22 edition of the Independent-Journal.

Teamsters Lose Out At Hospital

Teamsters Local 856, which has been picketing Marin General Hospital since Jan. 8, last night lost another bid to represent some of the hospital employees.

In the meantime, the Marin County Employees Association also indicated it would like to act as bargaining agent for the employees.

The Teamsters had originally asked recognition as the bargaining unit for the hospital's housekeeping staff. This request was turned down by the Marin Hospital District board on the grounds the housekeepers were not a large enough department by themselves.

Then the Teamsters submitted a new request, seeking to represent the storekeepers and gardener. Since this group numbers only four men, hospital administrator Ray K. Bollinger said, the board agreed an "appropriate unit still had not been specified."

The matter was referred to the board's personnel committee.

Frank O'Connell, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, who was at last night's board meeting, said his group also wants to represent the hospital employees.

At the present time, only the registered nurses, licensed vocational nurses and hospital engineers have collective bargaining units.

Typewriter Taken

An electric typewriter valued at $325 was stolen yesteday from St. John's Episcopal Church, Fifth and C streets, Petaluma, police reported. A rear door was pried open to gain entry.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

6:02 p.m., Tiburon — Hot ashes ignited garbage can which set fire to outside wall of apartment house at 1461 Vistago West; damage estimated at $2,500 including smoke damage to three apartments.

TODAY:

7:24 a.m., Mill Valley — Faulty fireplace ignited floor joists and outside wall at house owned by Mrs. M.A. Harvey at 12 Heuter Lane; no estimate of damage.

Public Building Smoking Ban Bill Introduced

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Smoking would be banned in any public place "not open to the sky" under a bill introduced by a legislator who says "I'm tired of people blowing smoke in my face."

The bill by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, would outlaw smoking in any publicly or privately owned enclosed building used primarily by the public, and intrastate transportation equipment such as trains and planes.

"The latest government reports point out smoking may be hazardous to your health whether you smoke or not," Briggs said Tuesday. "Frankly, I'm tired of people blowing smoke in my face."

The bill is AB 202.

Legal Flap By BART Directors

OAKLAND (AP) — A committee of directors has recommended letting Bay Area Rapid Transit's attorney give legal advice to the board without getting the general manager's permission.

The recommendation yesterday stemmed from a meeting last year at which attorney Malcolm Barrett reported he was unable to answer a director's legal question because he would be violating an "attorney-client relationship" with General Manager B. R. Stokes.

The policy proposed for board adoption Feb. 8 would give Barrett "direct legal responsibility" to directors.

Crash Kills 34

BUDAPEST (UPI) — The news agency MTI said today a passenger train struck a bus Tuesday in eastern Hungary, killing at least 34 persons.

Big Auto Theft Ring Broken Up

ORANGE, Calif. (UPI) — A "sergeant's gang" that included Army and Marine Corps recruiters stole and sold more than $12 million worth of cars — mostly luxury models — around the nation, authorities said today.

The ring was broken up by undercover agents, and five arrests were made, said Sgt. Charles Brown of the Orange Police Department. More arrests are expected soon, he said.

Police closed in Monday on an Army recruiting station in Inglewood, Calif., Brown said, and arrested Army Sgt. 1. C. Joe Taylor, 42, of Lynwood, Calif., and Marine Corps S. Sgt. Gary Daleassandri, 35, of Hawthorne, Calif.

Actor Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Irish actor Jack MacGowran, 54, known for his interpretations of works by playwright Samuel Beckett, died Tuesday, apparently of the London flu. He had been appearing in the Lincoln Center Repertory Company's production of "The Plough and the Stars."

You can participate in the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Study.

Individuals and representatives of citizen organizations are invited to attend a second organizational meeting to form a Citizens Advisory Panel for the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Project. The Panel will work with the consultants planning the future transit system from Sonoma and Marin Counties into downtown San Francisco.

The main emphasis of this study will be upon plans for undergrounding that portion of the system from the Golden Gate Bridge to downtown San Francisco. The study will examine alternative routes, problems and advantages of undergrounding, and the economic, social, and environmental impacts related to the various proposals that will evolve during the course of the study.

If you are interested in helping to shape the course of the Golden Gate Corridor Transportation Study, plan to attend this important public meeting to be held:

Thursday, February 1, 7:30 p.m.
Marina Junior High School Auditorium
3500 Fillmore Street, San Francisco

Financial Woes Unsolved At Mill Valley Library

The Mill Valley City Council refused last night to cut hours at its financially shaky library and again asked the chief librarian and city manager to work on reducing library costs.

The two are to report the results at a fourth special meeting on the library's financial crisis on Feb. 27. For several months the library had been overrunning its annual budget of $153,878 by as much as $2,000 per month. The city staff now estimates the monthly deficit at $800 to $900.

Last night, the council and library board heard librarian Alberta L. Hankenson suggest that the library could cut back its hours from 60 to 42 per week, lay off seven part-time employees to get within its budget.

Most of the council and the city manager rejected the idea as too drastic.

"It would be like having the police department open only 17 hours a day and having all of them run around like crazy to protect the town during those hours," said City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Councilman Robert E. Burton objected that cutting hours would be a temporary stopgap that would not deal with increasing costs of the library in the future.

Cunningham himself recommended that he could maintain present library service while cutting costs if allowed to juggle tasks and fire two full-time library staff members. Cunningham presented cost and employee statistics from other Bay Area municipal libraries and maintained that the Mill Valley library was being operated more expensively than the rest.

Library board member Eugene W. McGeorge also reported to the council that it would be difficult to have the county take over the Mill Valley library. "It would be problematical at this point whether the county would want us," he said. "We're not in a terribly good bargaining position."

The council and library board finally voted unanimously to have Miss Hankenson and Cunningham get together on a solution.

In another vote of 4-0, the council ordered the library to continue offering present services, but to try to reduce part-time wages which the city staff has blamed for most of the budget deficits. Mayor Jean S. Barnard dissented on the grounds that the motion was "too much of a rerun of measures from past meetings."

Among the crowd of 50 at the meeting, most who spoke on the issue protested that the council would damage the library by trying to cut costs.

Earlier this month, Cunningham reportedly asked Miss Hankenson to resign because of the financial upset. She has refused to do so and claims she can only be fired by the library board which hired her. "So far I have nothing in writing from anyone," she said following last night's meeting.

A Break Sought For Unmarried In Tax Payments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the Senate today under which an unmarried taxpayer would pay no more income tax than a married couple with the same amount of income.

Its sponsors, Sens. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said under existing law 30 million unmarried taxpayers pay $1.6 billion in taxes they would not have to pay if all taxpayers were treated alike.

Single people pay as much as 20 per cent more in taxes than married people with as much income, they said.

Marin Represented In Berkeley Show

Eight Marin County artists are represented in the show, "Printmakers' Prints," now on display through Feb. 28 at the Ames Gallery in Berkeley.

Represented in the collections of prints are Wesley Chamberlin, Robert Fried, Victor Moscoso, John Ilhe, Tom Meisenheimer, Richard O'Hanlon, Elanore Bender and Elizabeth Sher.

Peru Threatens Death Penalty

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — The military government said today it will impose more drastic penalties, including the death penalty, to curb an "alarming" increase in the crime rate.

The death penalty was abolished in most cases in September, 1971, leaving the penalty in force only in cases of certain crimes against police, treason and some types of crimes against minors.

But now, a government decree said, the death penalty now will also cover cases of robbery involving violence that endangers life or is "particularly cruel."

A Good Defense For Lie Detector

SEATTLE (UPI) — A police detective made a pretty good case Tuesday for the screening of prospective policeman with a lie detector.

Dewey Gillespie said a "top candidate" for the Seattle force flunked a polygraph test when "he admitted use, buying and selling of narcotics, shoplifting, property damage, car prowling, pulling false fire alarms, thefts of money and merchandise from employers, vandalism and contributing to the delinquency of a minor."

Tommy Lee Walker, a 27-year-old ex-convict facing another felony charge, leans against a car while jurors in his Marin Superior Court trial visit the scene of alleged assaults. Inside the Mohawk service station at 3050 Bridgeway, Sausalito, the jurors listened yesterday as Judge Henry J. Broderick described the setting. The muscular Walker is charged with assaulting a hitchhiker in front of the station Sept. 28, then beating Sausalito Officer Robert Klein. Walker's attorney told the jury yesterday that his client was provoked. The hitchhiker, John Randolph, kicked Walker, and the officer shoved him and hit him in the hand with a club before Walker retaliated, according to Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs Jr. The trial continued today. Behr Bill Would Aid Homeowner

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to grant homeowners 90 per cent of their property tax exemption for late claims has been introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Present law allows 80 per cent of the full exemption for late claims, but leaves it to county supervisors to decide if there was "reasonable cause" for the late filing. The new bill, SB 104, would eliminate the supervisors' option and make the 90 per cent grant mandatory.

The bill, proposed by Marin County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, would save affected homeowners approximately $40 on their property tax bill, the senator's office said.

The option to find "reasonable cause for late filings was applied inequitably in many counties, and proved too costly to check, the senator's staff said.

The bill, requiring a two-thirds vote in each house, would take effect immediately so it could apply to claims for next fiscal year. The bill would shift the deadline for late filings from June 15 to Dec. 10.

Park Expansion Bill Introduced By Bagley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to earmark some $8 million a year for expansion and development of state parks was introduced today by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The Parks and Recreation Department now is dependent on annual appropriations because the $8 million it collects from fees and rentals goes into the state's general fund, which is used largely for other purposes.

The measure would put the $8 million instead into the Bagley Conservation Fund, which is administered by the department. The fund had $40 million when created in 1971, of which $22 million already has been spent or earmarked, including $5 million for the new coast commissions.

Bagley's bill would exempt fees from boating facilities, which are credited to the Harbors and Watercraft Fund.

A second bill introduced today by Bagley would shift from the Parks and Recreation Department to the Division of Highways an annual budget of some $1 million for roadways through state parks. The department long has objected to including this cost in its budget, Bagley's staff said.

Reappointed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — J. Robert Springer, of Newport Beach, and Michael I. Neil, of La Jolla, were reappointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan Tuesday to four-year terms on the state Veterans Board.

Novato Flood Victims Eye Suit

Residents in the flood-stricken Nave Gardens area of Novato are preparing to file a "class action" suit to recover losses suffered in the mid-January floods.

Herbert Young of 19 Joan Avenue said the intent is to have home owners whose homes suffered "internal damage" in the floods join together in a suit against whoever is responsible for the flood damage.

Young said residents interested in joining the suit can notify him or Sharon Benson at 1554 South Novato Boulevard.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Governor

Disaster — Urged President Nixon to declare San Luis Obispo and Marin Counties and the city of South San Frrancisco disaster areas because of flood damage.

Remap —Told a news conference that reapportionment of the Legislature rests with the Supreme Court.

The Senate
Introduced

Ombudsman —Would create state ombudsman. (SB130-Mills, D-San Diego.)

Loophole —Eliminates loophole which would allow San Francisco to avoid a virtual freeze on property tax rates. (SB131—Marks, R-San Francisco.)

The Assembly
Introduced

Smoke —Make it illegal to smoke in any enclosed areas used primarily by the general public. (AB202—Briggs, R-Fullerton).

Headset —Prohibits the wearing of headsets while operating a motor vehicle. (AB190— Papan, D-daley City).

Primary —Changes statewide primary elections from June to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September (AB192—Gonzales, D-Bakersfield). . .

A Fatal Game

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bennie L. Cooper, 11, who was dragged a block by a runaway bull, died Tuesday. The boy tied a rope around his waist Monday and tried to hold the bull, but it bolted and ran.

Idling Engines Said To Cause Worse Pollution

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — An idling engine can only lead to no good, an automobile association official says.

Cars allowed to idle on cold mornings cause unnecessary air pollution without warming up the vehicle's vital parts, said Gary H. Matters.

"We know that an idling engine produces more pollution than one that is moving," he said.

The important moving parts of the auto, including the drive line and transmission will warm up better by actually driving, said Matters. He warns, however, that drivers should use correct lubricating oils and drive slowly for a few blocks to prevent excessive wear.

Lady Karate Expert Rips Up Burglar

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Mrs. Patrick Lynch, a professional wrestler and holder of a black belt in karate, told police she battered and partially ripped the clothing off a man she found burglarizing her home Tuesday night.

Mrs. Lynch, who wrestles professionally in the Orlando area, said she was returning home with her husband at about 10 p.m. When they opened the door o their Titusville house, there stood a prowler with her jewlery and a television set.

"He turned around and hit my husband in the stomach so hard that he doubled on the floor. I thought he had stabbed him with a knife or something so I jumped him," she said.

Police not only have a good description of the 6-foot intruder but Mrs. Lynch is quite sure about what he was wearing, because in addition to Karate chopping, wrestling and "socking him a few times," she tore pieces of his shirt and leather jacket from him.

"He was in the dining room and I knocked him down and he got up and tried to fight so I knocked him again," she told one reporter. "Too bad the gun was in the bedroom because I would have gotten the gun and killed him. I know this much, there was blood all over his face and all over him when he left."

Mrs. Lynch said she was so worried about her husband that she finally let the man flee with a portable television set and at least one stolen wristwatch.

Lynch was not seriously hurt and detectives were looking for the burglar.

Jet's Icy Skid

OSLO (UPI) — A Scandinavian Airline Systems (SAS) jetliner skidded off the runway and onto the frozen surface sea late Tuesday on takeoff then sank in 36 feet of water. The 29 passengers and four crewmembers escaped injury.

Five Named To GOP Central Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Five Marin citizens have been appointed by the county's two state legislators to the Republican State Central Committee.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, appointed Novato City Councilmen George C. Quesada, Arthur J. Costamagna of San Rafael, a member of the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board, and Edwin W. Thomas Jr., also of San Rafael, administrative officer for the governor's cabinet. Thomas also was one of the senator's appointees two years ago.

Appointed by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, were his administrative assistant, Virginia Brunini of Tiburon, and Sally Rakow of Ross. Mrs. Rakow, a trustee of the Ross School District, was one of Bagley's appointments two years ago.

Mrs. Brunini replaced Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael, unsuccessful candidate last year for the governor's appointment to replace the late John F. McInnis as county supervisor.

Behr's six other appointees were from the Napa and Solano county portions of his district. Bagley's were throughout the state, and included retiring presidential adviser Robert H. Finch.

Lawyer Shortage Brings Another Post To Bagley

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A rare shortage of lawyers among the dwindling contingent of Republicans in the Assembly has landed Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, on a fourth committee for the 1973-74 session.

Assemblymen usually serve on only three committees, but Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood, found there were only four lawyers among the 29 Republicans — with GOP representation needed on both the judiciary and criminal procedures committees.

Bagley, a lawyer, thus was named to the judiciary committee, which he chaired several years ago before becoming one of his party's fiscal experts in the lower house.

Moretti also reappointed Bagley to the key ways and means and revenue and taxation committees, which oversee the budget and all fiscal matters. Bagley previously was reappointed as chairman of the welfare committee.

Half of the 50 Democrats in the Assembly are lawyers.

A New Antioch Bridge Is Nearer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Replacement of the Antioch Bridge, linking Contra Costa County with the San Joaquin-Sacramento Delta, has moved another step closer to reality with the approval of federal funds, says Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

Nejedly said yesterday that the U.S. Transportation Department had released $11.7 million for bridge replacement projects in California during the 1973-74 fiscal year. Of that money, about $7 million will be used to get the new Antioch Bridge started, Nejedly said.

The total cost of the new bridge is estimated at $28 million, of which 75 per cent is to be federal funds, Nejedly said.

Woodcut Show

Woodcuts by Marin artist Blanche Small will be displayed at the Lucien Labaudt Art Gallery, 1407 Gough Street, San Francisco, from Feb. 8 to March 2.

Indian Woman To Seek Presidency

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI) — Mrs. Runningwaters Fifi Taft, making her second try for the White House, announced Tuesday she would seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

Mrs. Taft, 57, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian from Cincinnati, Ohio, campaigned in the 1968 New Hampshire primary. She said she will run again in 1976 "because Lyndon Johnson and Harry Truman just died and there's none of us Democrats left."

CASE OF NOT KNOWING THE REAL BIDDER

HUNTER, N.D. — The Town of Hunter wanted a piece of property. So it sent (it thought) one man to bid on a lot that was offered for sale by the county. The piece had been appraised at $500.

The bidding started at $550. Each bid was increased by $50. One man dropped out at $1,200. But a second man and a woman continued to make bids.

It looked like bad news when the price got to $2,400. The woman dropped out.

Then it was discovered that both were bidding for their town.

Comes now the good news: The county auditor, who was running the auction, eased their embarrassment. He lowered the price to $1,500.

Everyone was happy. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Reagan Raps U.S. Action In Vietnam

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday criticized America's fighting of the Vietnam war because it was "unwilling to win it and unable to end it."

"I question the right of any government to ask men to fight for their country and die for their country if that country isn't willing and doesn't believe in a cause enough to go forward and end the war by winning it," said Reagan.

The Republican governor, who wears a bracelet of an American soldier still listed as missing in action, noted with some emotion in his voice that "there's a great uselss sacrifice" in any war.

Reagan commented on the war in reply to a news conference question. It was his first public comments on the conflict—other than a prepared statement—since peace was announced.

Reagan, regarded as a Vietnam "hawk" when such characterizations were popular, was asked whether he considered the war worth it for this country. He did not answer directly.

"I think the war was badly fought for many years," he said, adding that President Kennedy committed troops contrary to President Eisenhower's policies.

"Once in it was a constant case of escalating," he said. "My greatest criticism down through the years of the war is that under two administrations they apparently were unwilling to win it and unable to end it."

Reagan also commented on these topics:

Future—"I'm just a fellow who can't make up his mind," the governor said when asked if he had decided whether to run for the U.S. Senate next year. Reagan replied flatly "no" when asked whether he was considering running for a third gubernatorial term. He said a decision on the Senate race was "not that pressing."

Surplus—The governor stood by what he told a group of high school students Monday, that he is leaning toward an income tax rebate and a delay in the sales tax as a combination way of returning an 1 million surplus to the taxpayers.

Spending—He insisted "I'm just as 'scroogie' as I always was" when it comes to government spending, despite a nearly $9.3 billion budget proposal twice as big as his first one seven years ago.

Reapportionment—He said he will oppose any legislative attempt to "gerrymander" districts in their rush to reapportion the Senate and Assembly before the State Supreme court acts. He also said "there is a built in conflict of interest" in the legislature reapportioning itself. "We've got to come to an end to this every 10 years cutting up the state like a melon to suit whoever happens to be in power."

Calls Swamp POW Center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Those wishing to express relief and concern to families of U.S. prisoners of war and missing should do so by letter or telegram rather than by direct telephone calls to the families.

The plea was made Monday by the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

"They are delighted by the concern of people, but telephone calls are interfering with the job of obtaining an accounting of all of the men," a spokesman for the league said.

QUAKE SHAKES MEXICO

An earthquake rocked Central Mexico from coast to coast yesterday, heavily damaging mountain towns and villages in at least three states. The quake was felt from the Pacific seaport of Manzanillo to Veracruz on the Gulf of Mexico, but most damage was on the Pacific side. Registering 7.5 on the Richter scale, the quake was stronger than that which destroyed the Managuan capital of Nicaragua last month. Authorities reported at least 10 dead and nearly 150 injured.

Novato Councilmen Delay Commercial Zone Action

Concerned about the effect of competition on a lagging downtown area, the Novato City Council last night put off decision on a request for commercial zoning at the future Rowland Boulevard interchange on Highway 101.

Alfred Burn of Mill Valley, who plans to develop a shopping center on the Pinheiro Ranch, said that major development at the interchange "will kill the downtown" section of the city.

The 34 acres of commercial zoning is being sought by Novato Center Inc. as part of a plan for a 36-hole golf course, motel-convention center, lake, overnight motor coach park, tennis courts and industrial park on the 455-acre Hanna Ranch northeast of Highways 101 and 37.

Attorney Quentin Cook said that the commercial zoning is vital to the entire plan and that the commercial uses planned wouldn't conflict with downtown business, but would be oriented to the highway.

"We're not talking about downtown use," Cook said. "We're talking about a regional type, drawing from all directions."

Council George C. Quesada said approval of 34 acres of commercial zoning "could jeopardize the downtown plan and what we hope to accomplish on the Pinheiro site."

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said he hoped the developers could get the kind of tenants that would attract people to Novato.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said he was seeking some way to make sure that commercial uses at the interchange would not be competitive with downtown business.

The council returned the request for commercial zoning to the city planning commission, which had recommended planned industrial in the area.

Cook said the firm is working toward a partnership with golfer Jack Nicklaus, winner od the Crosby tournament this week, on the proposed golf course.

The city's downtown plan sparked earlier discussion when Emil Renati appealed planning commission denial of a use permit for a Goodyear store at Highway 101 and Vallejo Avenue.

Commissioners said the use wouldn't be in keeping with the downtown plan, which calls for administrative professional offices in the area.

Ruegg, admittedly exasperated, said "the downtown plan can't be a blueprint for stagnation," and must have flexibility. To deny a permit for the Goodyear store would be ridiculous, he said.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said the effect of the store on the downtown plan had to be considered not only at the site but surrounding area.

A vote to uphold Renati's appeal ended in a 2-2 vote, with Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young in favor. Quesada abstained.

On reconsideration, the council voted unanimously to continue the matter until Monday at 7 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

A Weapon Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, the worlds largest nation in area, and the Republic of San Marino, one of the worlds smallest republics, signed a convention today on prohibition of development, production and stockpiling of bacteriological weapons, the Tass news agency said.

No. 44 Pays Off For Carol Doda

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If a baseball player ever gets $300,000 for hitting .300 or a football player ever makes $6,000 per touchdown, they can point to San Francisco topless queen Carol Doda as the pioneer in this style of labor relations.

Miss Doda's silicone-enlarged bosom measures 44 inches. She renegotiated her contract with Condor's for 1973 Monday and got a raise—from $36,000 to $44,000.

Discussion Delayed On Novato Park Site

A possibility of acquiring the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue, long considered for a major park site, cropped up before the Novato City Council last night.

Councilmen were considering taking an option on a 13-acre park site near Lynwood Park when Councilman David Price Jones mentioned a potential agreement for long-term purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair site.

Jones said, with $65,000 available for park land, he would prefer to see funds go toward both sites, and the council continued park site purchase discussion until Feb. 20.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported the city could purchase the 13-acre site owned by Harry Heifetz at a cost of $154,315, with payments over a five-year period.

Jones then reported that City Atty. Clark M. Palmer was working on an agreement with attorneys for the O'Hair property, an agreement Palmer said was "near solution."

The Heifetz property is being considered as a neighborhood park for the South Novato area, while the O'Hair site has been viewed as a potential community park.

The council also continued until Feb. 12 consideration of a $400,000 claim by Jean Ostlind over city refusal to permit a Taco Bell restaurant at Novato Square.

The council was asked how much it spent in legal fees when it lost a zoning suit to Shell Oil Co. The question was in a letter from Alfred W. Bowman, read by Joseph Corr of 401 Via Del Plano.

Councilmen said they had no objections to divulging the legal fees, but the costs hadn't yet been computed.

One resident asked where the funds would come from if the city lost a suit by Mrs. Ostlind and Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said it would be a city expense.

The Novato City Council Also:

HERITAGE TREES — Adopted an ordinance to require a property owner to obtain a use permit to remove a sizable, rare or historic tree from his property. The vote was 3-2 with Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young dissenting.

SAN MARIN — Unanimously approved amending the San Marin master plan to permit Kaufman and Broad to construct 230 townhouses along San Marin Drive from Simmons Lane to San Marin High School, a plan endorsed by the San Marin Improvement Association.

BICYCLES — Introduced an ordinance regulating the registration and driving of bicycles and an ordinance amendment prohibiting vehicles from crossing bicycle paths and horse trails.

AGRICULTURAL SUPPLIES — Awarded contracts for agricultural compounds and fertilizers to Occidental Chemical Co. at a cost of $3,429 and Custom Chemicides Inc. at a cost of $2,376.

IMPOUND FEES — Introduced an ordinance to increase the impounding fees for animals from $7 to $10 for the first impounding, $10 to $15 for the second and from $10 to $25 for the third, following similar action by the Marin County Board of Supervisors Jan. 16.

RESTROOM — Approved plans and specifications for a restroom at Olive School Park estimated to cost $6,000, and set opening of bids for Feb. 22.

JUNIOR MISS — Congratulated Lori Gieleghem, 17-year-old Novato High School senior, who was selected California Junior Miss Saturday and will compete for the national Junior Miss title in Mobile, Ala., in May.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Dorothy Mitchell of 71 Blanca Drive from the environmental quality and solid waste committees.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 7 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House to complete the agenda and continue review of the 1972 Novato General Plan.

Flu Death Toll 383 In State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State health officials say London flu has hit about 5 million Californians — some 25 per cent of the state's population — and has taken the lives of at least 383.

Vince Vandre, a spokesman for the state Public Health Department, said yesterday that the epidemic appeared to be easing. Last week's death toll from the virus and from pneumonia complications was 118 — up by nine from the week before.

SUPERVISORS

A Parking Problem Pondered

Three Marin County supervisors have learned the hard way that the sheriff's office can be pretty sticky when it comes to parking violators at Civic Center.

For weeks, supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Robert A. Roumiguiere and Gary T. Giacomini have been playing little games with those who horn in on their reserved parking slots.

The favorite trick was to double park behind the offending vehicle and force its owner to either wait or go through the embarrassment of finding and asking the supervisor to move his auto.

Another favorite was to call the sheriff's office and have the hapless visitor's auto cited for illegal parking.

Both tactics worked well until the supervisors decided to combine the two in one — double park and call the sheriff to issue a citation.

Sheriff's deputies — upholding the letter of the law — have since been citing not only the illegally parked vehicles in the supervisors' slots but also the supervisors' double-parked autos.

The fine for illegally parking in a reserve slot is $1, while for double parking it's $3.

The score so far is visitors 4, supervisors 12 — dollars that is.

The three supervisors, on the losing end of the game despite The higher score, called it quits yesterday and directed County Administrator John F. Barrows to come up with a solution.

Flood Bond Vote Set April 17

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to set a special $4.5 million bond election April 17 in Novato to finance flood control work on Novato Creek.

The measure was initiated by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

Successful passage, which requires a two-thirds favorable vote, would provide for 25-year bonds to proceed with an Army Corps of Engineers plan for the creek or to develop a separate plan on a lesser scale, according to Baptiste.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

INVESTIGATORS — Turned down a request by a child support investigator that his position be reclassified to higher paid district attorney investigator. The board returned the matter to the personnel department for a new job description and recommended salary range.

WELFARE — Granted $50 per month in general relief funds to three residents of the Center Point Drug Rehabilitation Clinic. The assistance was limited to a three-month period.

OPEN SPACE — Set a special meeting with the parks and recreation department for Feb. 13 at 8:30 a.m. to discuss open space land acquisition. Supervisors, who serve as directors of the new regional park district, plan to meet as the district board on the second Tuesday of each month.

APPOINTMENTS —Appointed Parnell Finne, a county personnel commissioner; Dr. Robert Taylor, county mental health director; and Chester F. Villalba, head of the family services agency to a three-member committee to evaluate the Children's Treatment Center at Juvenile Hall.

RESOLUTION — Adopted unanimously a resolution by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere commending President Nixon on achieving a "cease fire" in South Viet Nam.

FIREHOUSE — Deferred action on a request that $35,000 be added to the $55,000 already budgeted for construction of a new fire department headquarters in Woodacre. County staff said they underestimated construction costs. The existing headquarters in Woodacre is beyond repair, the staff said. The board did authorize preliminary working drawings be drafted.

CONCESSION — Awarded the McNear's Beach food concession to Herbert Becker of Mill Valley, who offered to underwrite $1,500 cost of structural changes to a county owned concession building plus $50 per month rental and 5 per cent of net sales.

CLUSTERING — Approved an amendment to the zoning code allowing for clustering of homes in agricultural zoned areas of the county as a means of saving ecologically fragile areas.

STUDY — Authorized up to $2,500 for a contract with the firm of Warren E. Nute for a study of reuse of sewage effluent at the proposed North Bay Front Park. Also, up to $13,250 for utility and transportation studies at the park by John W. Hill.

CLAIM — Rejected a $100,000 claim from Douglas F. and Bette L. Woods, who own a business at 2951 Bridgeway, Sausalito. They claim their business was flooded during this month's storms due to the county's failure to "provide adequate and reasonable flood and water drains and sewers. . .

REZONING — Approved agricultural rezoning for about 10 scattered parcels of land that were excluded for one reason or another during the board's rezoning of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve. Other rezonings were postponed to the May 15 meeting.

Supervisors To Study Removal Of Drydocks In Richardson Bay

The Marin County Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to study how much it will cost to remove what one supervisor called "a county wart," the abandoned and derelict drydocks in Richardson Bay.

The board agreed to set up a committee headed by Sausalito Mayor Robin Sweeny and Supervisor Michael Wornum, whose district encompasses Sausalito and the drydocks.

The committee is to find out if the World War II vintage docks, long declared an eyesore by Sausalito city fathers and county officials, can be burned to water level and removed for less than the $40,000 set aside for that purpose two years ago.

Subsequent to that time, the board was informed that the Army Corps of Engineers could remove the docks if authorized and funded from Washington. The matter lapsed and in November of last year the corps told the board that given optimum political conditions in Washington, it would be at least two years before funds could be made available for their removal.

Results of the committee's findings are expected to lead to funds being set aside in the 1973-74 budget that will sound the death knell for the docks, once the subject of dreams by their owner to transform them into a $2.5 million educational and cultural complex.

The meeting room rocked with laughter when Mayor Sweeny ran down the present state of ownership of the docks:

They technically belong to Sausalito artist Chris Roberts, who is behind in his payments on them to the Bank of America, but a stipulation in the contract reads "that if he does not keep up his payments, the bank will not repossess."

The docks nearly burned down in 1970 when one wall mysteriously erupted in flames, a fire doused by a San Francisco fireboat to the delight of Roberts and his supporters and but to the vociferous dismay of many public officials.

Novato Sets Survey On Fund Direction

The Novato City Council is going to make a random survey of about 500 city residents on what they believe the city should do with its $115,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

Councilman George C. Quesada, who voted against the survey last night, called it an "exercise in futility" that "frustrates representational government." He said the council was elected to "do this job" of determining how the funds should be allocated.

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said it would give the council a "good reading" of what residents consider their priorities for use of the funds. The council hears mostly from "organized groups" and the survey questionnaire will provide opinion from the "average citizens" who don't attend council or planning commission hearings, he said.

Councilmen said they would seek the aid of local civic groups such as the Novato Jaycees to aid in making the survey. Completion is expected to take about a month.

Agnew Daughter To Join Hospital Ship

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (UPI) — The 25-year old daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will embark Thursday on a 10-month cruise aboard the medical ship Hope for work with ambulatory children in South America.

Susan Agnew resigned her staff position Tuesday at the Eastern Shore State Hospital in Cambridge.

Rail Sandbagging Blamed For Novato Flood Water

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported to the Novato City Council last night that sandbagging of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. trestle was "probably the single most important contributing factor to the high level of flooding experienced two weeks ago.

The sandbagging raised the level of Novato Creek nearly two feet at the trestle by preventing water from spilling over into adjacent fields "and added one to one-and-one-half feet to the water surface elevation through Nave Gardens," he said.

"This caused water to spill out of Nave Gardens along its south side and flood the Automart subdivision, Yukon Way and Scottsdale," Brown reported.

Novato is working with the flood control zone "to persuade the railroad to find alternate means of protecting their trestle so sandbagging with its resulting increase in the creek level will not be necessary," Brown said.

Energy Crisis Seen Within Armed Forces

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — For the first time since World War II, the United States faces the possibility it may not be able to routinely provide all the fuel needed by its armed forces, a Pentagon spokesman has said.

Richard T. Mathews, a Defense Department petroleum expert, told an industry-military jet fuel symposium Tuesday that the Pentagon was unable to buy enough jet fuel in December to meet its requirements in the Pacific, an area that included the Indochina war zone.

Mathews said most of the attention on the energy crisis has been focused toward domestic problems, but he said the Defense Department has been having difficulties too.

A Citation On 'Shaggy Dog' Story

I-J Special Report

SAN ANDREAS — The publisher of a small mountain newspaper goes to court Feb. 21 to fight a contempt citation issued in connection with an editorial he wrote criticizing the local judge.

The case is the first in the nation in which a newspaper has been cited for contempt in connection with an editorial, said Oscar A. Mellin, publisher of the Calaveras Enterprise, a weekly newspaper in this old Gold Rush county which was made famous by Mark Twain's story of "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County."

(Mellin is the father of Lois Truett of Novato, whose husband, Harold, is Marin County public defender.)

"We won't be suppressed," said Mellin, who is also a lawyer. "We're going to fight this. If you don't fight the little fights, you lose the big ones." he said.

The Enterprise printed an editorial on Jan. 17 in which it suggested that the local justice court of Judge Howard Blewett resembled a "kangaroo court." The editorial was signed by Mellin.

The editorial specifically criticized the handling of a case in which Judge Blewett ordered seizure of a dog trespassing on his property, then brought charges against the dog's owner and presided over the pretrial hearing even though he himself was the complainant.

Mellins' editorial described it as a "ludicrous situation where the judge deliberately had a neighbor's dog trapped and then hailed the owner into his court, set the bail and then tried to sit in judgement on the case."

"In our view," the editorial said, "this gives credence to some local lawyers' opinions that our local judicial courts have a strong resemblance to kangaroo courts."

"Despite the fact that that this case shows the ludicrous actions of the court from a legal standpoint," the editorial adds, "it is one of the funniest 'shaggy dog' stories we have heard in years."

Mellin said he was served with the contempt citation Sunday.

Mellin said he had contacted the Publishers Auxiliary in Washington, D.C. and was told his was the first case on record of a newspaper being cited for contempt in connection with an editorial.

Judge Blewett could not be reached for comment.

Suit Filed Over Quarry Rezoning

American Savings and Loan Association has filed suit against the Town of Corte Madera for $750,000 damages arising from the town council's November rezoning of the quarry site.

The suit, filed by attorney Edmund L. Regalia of Oakland, claims the rezoning constitutes "inverse condemnation, confiscation without compensation and denial of due process."

It also alleges the "downzoning was for the purpose of devaluation with a view to acquiring same for open space for less than the fair market value."

American Savings had wanted the 20.5-acre site on the wooded hillside behind the Corte Madera regional library zoned R-2½ to permit high density housing, with a maximum of 209 units.

But at its meeting last Nov. 20 the council voted 3-1 to rezone the quarry to R-1 Planned Unit Development, a category which will permit up to 111 housing units clustered in the site's center.

The decision was greeted with wild applause from a large audience that had long opposed the proposed denser housing on a site which is included in the Northridge Open Space Plan.

In the suit, which Corte Madera Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said was filed in Marin Superior Court last week, Regalia stated the $750,000 damage claim is based on the difference in fair market value after rezoning, real estate taxes, costs of planning consultants, interest, invested capital and loss of use of income and rents.

American Savings and Loan paid $442,289 for the quarry in July 1967, acquiring it by foreclosing on money they'd lent on it, Howard Lawson, vice president and property manager, told the Corte Madera Town Council on Nov. 20.

Legal costs broughtthe price up to $524,598, said Lawson. Since that time property taxes of $7,000 a year had been paid, and in August 1972 it was appraised at $699,701. Its assessed valuation is about $250,000.

Lawson said a company assessor asserts that if R-1 planned unit development zoning were applied to the land, its value would be between $330,000 and $400,000.

The lawsuit will be considered by the Corte Madera Town Council at its next meeting, Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall, said Bartels.

Sonoma Dam Project Delayed

Oft-postponed completion of the Warm Springs dam in Northern Sonoma County was set back another year this week when a third of its scheduled outlay was slashed in the federal water resources budget.

Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma County Water Agency, said $3,850,000 was budgeted for dam construction while $9 to $10 million was expected to keep the project on the latest schedule.

The water conservation dam near Cloverdale was originally approved in 1962, at which time completion was exptectd by 1968. Miller said the funding loss now defers the finish date to 1978-79.

The budgeted funds will permit continued relocation of roads and construction of a conduit, but will not allow construction of the main dam structure as planned.

When completed, the project by the Army Corps of Engineers will be known as Lake Sonoma, and recreation areas will cover 17,440 acres.

'Sounding Board' Topic Will Be Abortion Plan

The U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision conditionally sanctioning abortions in early pregnancy will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speakers will be Dr. Paul Hohe, gynecologist at Marin General Hospital; Dr. Edward Boyce, medical director of Planned Parenthood in Marin; Marie de Pizzol, representing the Voice for the Unborn organization; sociologist Mary L. Tranckino, and Patricia Maginnis, women's rights advocate and founder and president of the Society for Humane Abortion.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be repeated at 10 a.m. Sunday. Questions are invited for tomorrow's broadcast.

$500 Fine For Possessing Pot

A 21-year-old Novatan has been fined $500 in Marin Superior Court for possessing marijuana and amphetamines.

In addition to the fine, Judge David Menary Jr. also gave Fredric Ralph Fuller three years of probation for having 97 grams of marijuana and a gram of amphetamine.

Fuller was arrested Aug. 26 by a California Highway Patrol officer on Highway 101 near the Pacheco Overpass in Novato. Drugs were found in the car.

The young paint salesman told his probation officer he bought the marijuana for $50 to hand out at a party, and the other substance was thrown in by the seller.

BUTCHER'S TIP

Cutting Up Meat At Home Can Mean Money Savings

You can save money by cutting up meat at home, according to Merle Ellis, a butcher at the Corner Market in Tiburon.

Ellis will give three public lectures and demonstrations, sponsored by St. Hilary's Women's Club Gourmet Group at the Tiburon home of Mrs. Bryan Cowman on Feb. 6, 13 and 20 from 10 a.m. to noon.

A former television producer, Ellis resigned from his job to make documentary films. "For the last six months I have had to fall back on my trade; I was a journeyman meat cutter when I graduated from high school," he said.

He has explained butchering on television shows and hopes to teach cooking classes. At the meat counter he plans a dozen menus a week for customers who ask, "What shall I have for dinner?" he said. Ellis is writing a cookbook naming meat cuts first and then giving a variety of recipes for them "so that when you see a loin of pork on sale, you grab it and look in my book to find out what to do with it."

There are two basic kinds of meat — tender or tough. There are two basic kinds of cooking methods — dry and moist, he said.

If you know the cut comes from a less tender portion of the animal, it needs moist cooking. Use it in any braised dish like stew which calls for moisture to tenderize the meat, he said.

YOU CAN save money by knowing which cuts of meat you need for your recipe, the butcher said.

Meat buyers often are confused because recipe names have gotten into the show case, mixed up with names of beef cuts. "I have seen six different meat cuts labeled Chateaubriand. It could be anything from tenderloin to top round; they are selling the name," he said.

A number of different steaks can be used for Swiss steak and many cost less than what the meat market has labeled as Swiss steak. Often people buy more expensive cuts of meat than they need, he said.

A customer who wants to make a stew usually buys meat labeled beef stew. To economize, she should instead buy a large chuck roast at a lower price per pound and cut it up at home into stew beef, strips for Chinese dishes, steaks and make soup from the bone, the butcher said.

"Certain portions of chuck can be broiled using tenderizer. The first cut of chuck is only a knife cut away from prime rib; cut it for broiling. That is the one the butcher is apt to charge less for because it has more fat and waste," said Ellis.

He believes people spend too much money for chicken parts. Instead, buy the whole-body chickens and cut them up at home. In most cases a good portion of a pre-cut chicken breast is, in fact, part of the back, he said.

"YOU CAN often buy a whole-body chicken for what you pay for one breast," Ellis said.

Collect necks, backs and wings in your freezer until you have enough to make sauces and soups, he suggested.

"You will be hard pressed to find a friendly butcher who will bone chicken breasts and stuff them with crab or prepare chicken wings Chinese style for hors d'oeuvres. But you can do it yourself; it's fun and less expensive," he said.

Ellis uses a 10-inch steak knife and a seven-inch boning knife which were given to him over 10 years ago by his father, a butcher in Mill Valley. Neither knife cost more than $8. He never takes his knives from the drawer without taking out his steel, too, to keep them sharp.

He suggested asking your butcher to get you some knives the next time his knife man comes, or to tell you where he gets his.

Meat cutting requires no strength, the butcher added. It's all in knowing where the joints are.

"All you need is a knife, a cutting board and courage," he said. "The board is to keep the knife from getting dull. The courage is to keep the knife from getting shaky."

3 small dill pickles, cut in half or one big one cut into six wedges
1 carrot, chopped
1 stalk of celery, chopped
½ cup flour
salt and pepper to taste
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 12-ounce bottle beer

Trim any excess fat from meat. With a mallet, a heavy frying pan or a rolling pin, pound each piece of meat a few good whacks to make it good and thin.

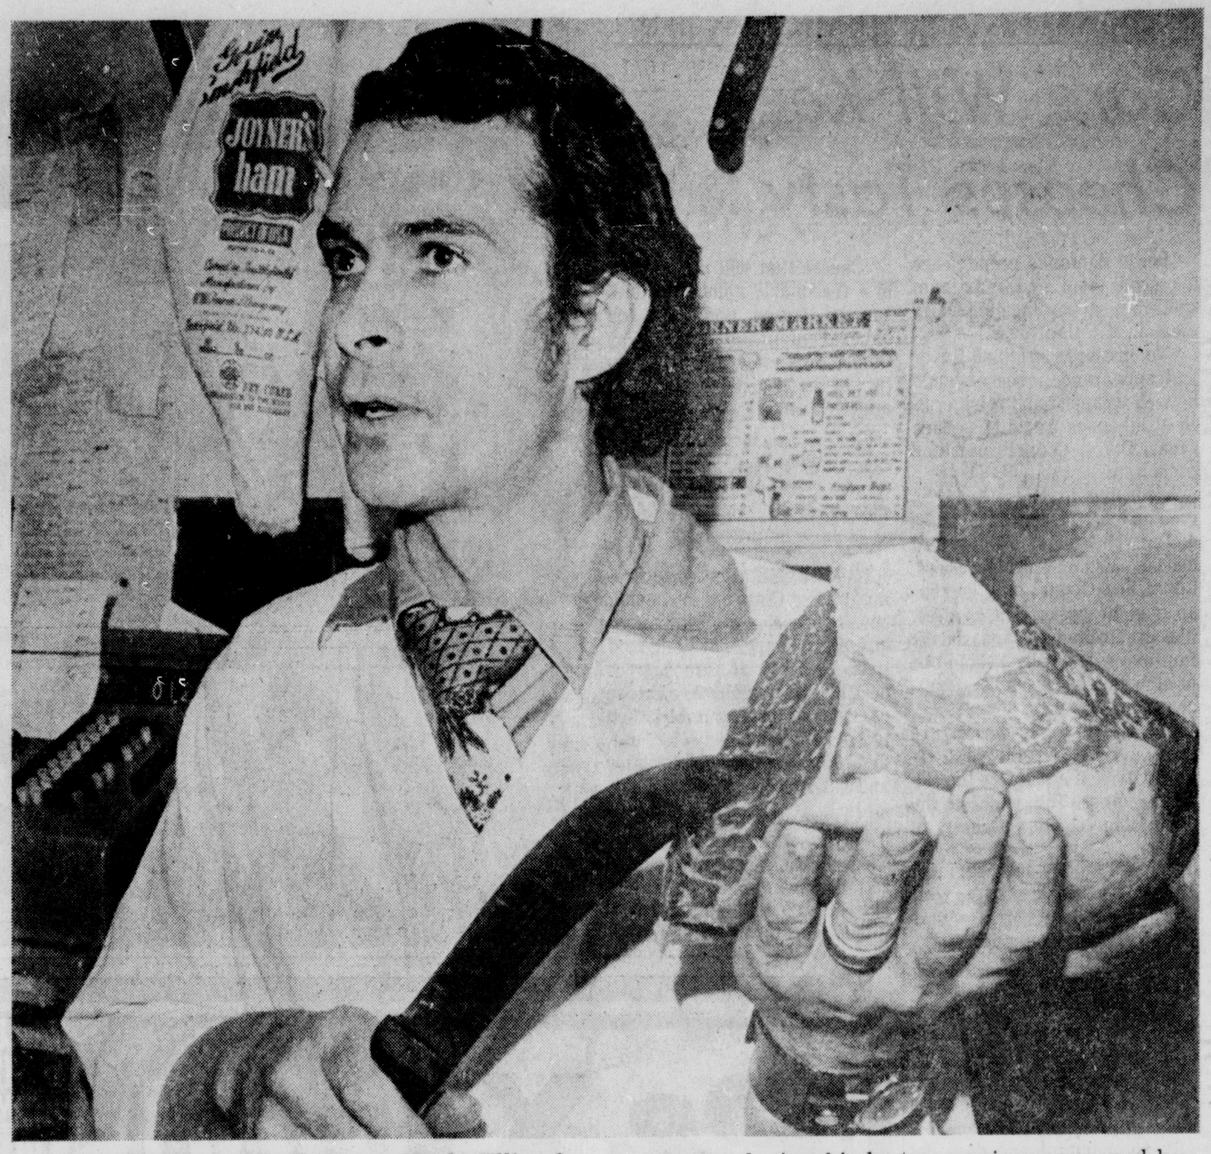
Spread each piece with one teaspoon mustard. Near one edge of each piece, place a strip of bacon, a wedge of onion and one of pickle. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, secure with toothpicks, and lace with string.

Put flour, salt and pepper in a bag. Add meat rolls, two or three at a time and shake, coating well.

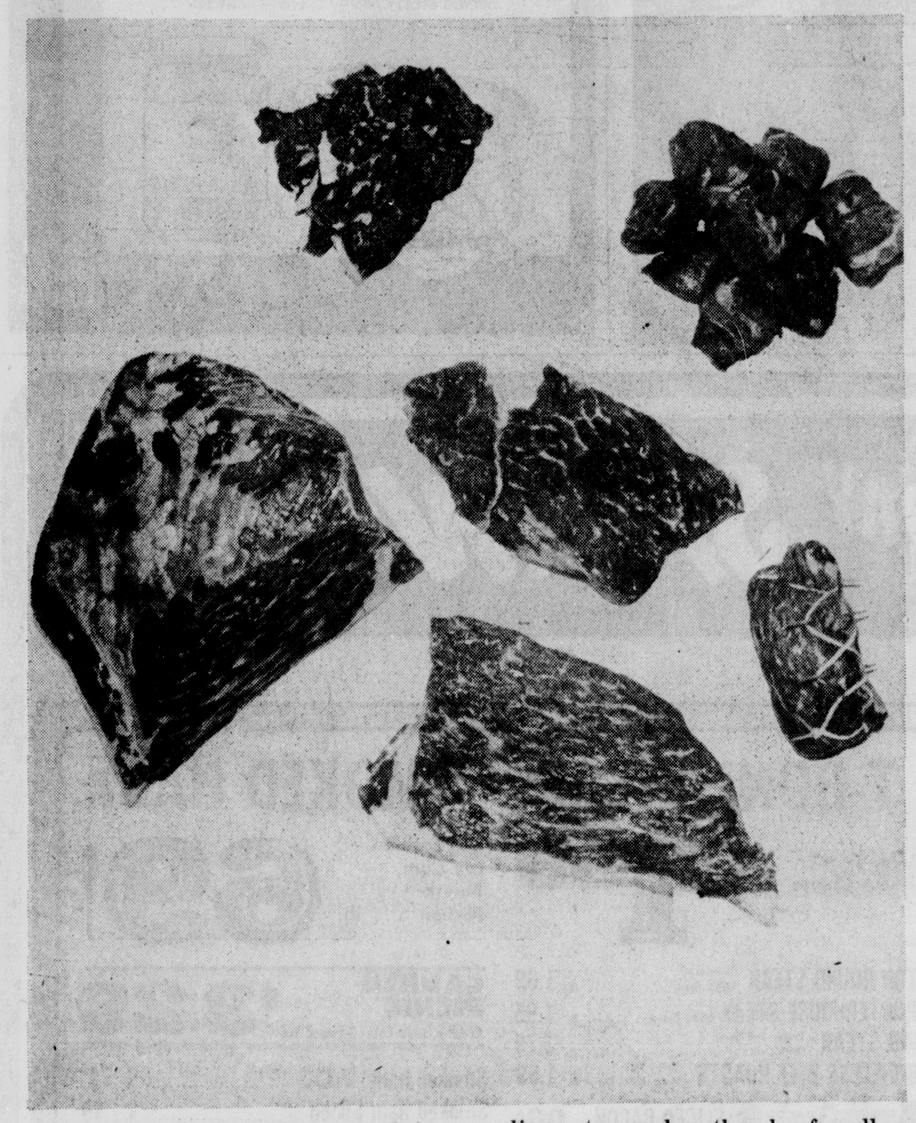
In a heavy skillet or electric fry pan, heat the oil over moderate heat until it begins to sputter. Add the floured meat rolls and brown well on all sides. Reduce heat to low, add celery, carrots and half of the beer. Cover and simmer for about one hour until tender. Turn the rolls once or twice during cooking and add more beer if needed.

Remove rolls to a warm platter. Remove toothpicks and string. Strain the cooking liquid and return it to the pan over high heat. Thicken with Beurre Manie (flour and butter kneaded together into small balls and added to hot liquid). Pour sauce over meat rolls and serve.

This dish is good with simple boiled potatoes and perhaps a dish of sauteed red cabbage.



JOURNEYMAN MEAT cutter Merle Ellis of the Corner Market in Tiburon will explain how to identify cuts of meat and prepare them and how to cut meat at home to save money during his lecture series sponsored by St. Hilary's Women's Club on Feb. 6, 13 and 20 at the Tiburon home of Mrs. Bryan Cowman. (Independent-Journal photos)



VERSATILE RUMP roast (left) can be cut at home into (from top, clockwise) thin strips for Oriental dishes, cubes for braised beef recipes, half-inch Swiss steaks (center), laced beef rolls, thin slices to make the beef rolls. Rump roast is usually lower priced per pound than Swiss steak cut by the butcher, according to Merle Ellis.

Austrians Really Mean It When They Say 'Soup's On'

"Soup's On" is an official announcement to be taken literally in any Austrian household — because they mean just that.

The love of soup is as native to the Austrian taste as the passion for sweets and twice a day, at lunch and dinner, soup provides an integral part of the menu.

It can be thin soup or thick soup, bisque or bouillon. It can be chicken or beef or fish soup, filled with either dumplings, artichokes, spinach, potatoes, onions or peas or it could be all of them. But whatever soup it is you can be sure that it will be served in the true Austrian style of elegance — a steaming tureen or a beautifully decorated bouillon cup.

It has been said that an Austrian girl preparing for her wedding would not worry as much about her blankets and linens as she would about her soup tureens, bouillon cups and saucers.

Three Austrian soups that have been slightly changed to help the American consumer prepare them more quickly are the following:

Austrian Zwiebelsuppe, which is similar to a French onion, has been topped with a slice of French bread broiled with a coating of grated Austrian Swiss cheese. The appearance and flavor of the hot cheese adds a delightful touch.

Austrian Potato Potage may be thought of as a healthy winter soup filled with protein and vitamins and packed with a great flavor. Especially popular as an apres-ski dish.

Austrian Swiss Vichyssoise is considered more of a gourmet item. But even though it is a cold soup, you can enjoy it all year round as an appetizer or a meal in itself.

AUSTRIAN ZWIEBELSUPPE
(Onion Soup)

¼ cup butter or margarine
6 large onions, chopped or 3 large onions and 1 bunch leeks trimmed and chopped
6 cups beef broth
6 large slices French bread
1 cup grated Austrian Swiss cheese (4 ounces)

In a kettle heat butter and saute onions until golden. Add beef broth and simmer slowly for 20 minutes or until onions are tender. Sprinkle toast thickly with grated cheese and place under broiler. Broil until cheese melts. Spoon soup into large bowls and top with cheese toast. Serves six.

AUSTRIAN POTATO POTAGE

¼ cup bacon or sausage drippings
1 onion, chopped
⅓ cup flour
3 cups chicken broth
3 cups milk
4 potatoes, peeled and finely diced
1 can (6 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1½ cups grated Austrian Swiss cheese (6 ounces)
Salt and pepper

In a kettle heat bacon drippings. Saute onion until golden. Stir in flour and stir over medium heat until flour is golden brown. Stir in chicken broth and milk. Add potatoes and mushrooms. Stir until soup bubbles and thickens slightly. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Stir in cheese one handful at a time until smooth and melted. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serves six.

AUSTRIAN SWISS VICHYSSOISE

3 chicken bouillon cubes
3 cups water
1½ cups milk
1 envelope instant mashed potatoes
1 package (6 ounces) Austrian Swiss cheese, finely grated
1 cup light cream
½ teaspoon Worcestershire

In large pot, combine bouillon cubes, water and milk; stir to boiling point. Remove from heat; whip in potatoes and cheese. Cool; add cream and Worcestershire. Serve ice cold with chives or watercress, as desired. Serves eight.

Recipe For Chicken Wings Given

Coralie Castle and Margaret Gin, authors of "Peasant Cooking of Many Lands," offer this recipe for chicken wings. They were guests today on Diane MacMillan's "Cooking Time in Marin" on KTIM.

HEM THUEN JOW GAI YIT
(Fried Chicken Wings with Sweet and Sour Sauce)

Remove tips (reserve for soup) from:
2 pounds chicken wings, cut at joints

Marinate one hour in mixture of:
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon sherry
2 slices fresh ginger root, minced
2 green onions, chopped
½ teaspoon minced garlic

Place wings in bowl with:
1 egg beaten

Stir to coat well; add and coat with:
½ cup flour

Fry in hot oil, ½ inch deep, one layer at a time, until golden on both sides. Drain and place on shredded lettuce.

Combine 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons each of catsup, vinegar, cornstarch and sugar; 1½ tablespoons plum sauce (optional). Heat until slightly thickened and adjust seasonings to taste. Pour over chicken wings and sprinkle with: ¼ cup toasted sesame seeds. Serve hot or cold with preserved mixed vegetable relish. Serves six.

Care Will Keep Cheeses Tasty

Cheese demands proper care for good taste and maximum shelf-life, according to Dairy Council of California.

"To preserve original flavor and appearance, cheese should be well wrapped and refrigerated at all times," said Miss Sara Cina, Dairy Council nutrition consultant.

According to Miss Cina, the type of cheese and care given dictate cheese shelf-life. Hard cheese, such as Cheddar, Swiss, Edam and Gouda, may be kept up to eight weeks. Soft cheeses, like cream and cottage, do not improve with age and should be used within a few days of purchase.

The longer some cheeses are held, even under the best refrigeration, the sharper the flavor becomes. This is due to the continuing curing process of cheese.

"WHATEVER ITS variety, cheese should be kept well wrapped," said Miss Cina. "The original wrapping is adequate until the cheese has been unwrapped. Once the cheese is cut, however, it becomes necessary to cover with a plastic wrap or foil to exclude all air."

Wrapping the cheese keeps it moist and fresh. It also causes mold to grow but this is generally not harmful and does not affect the eating quality.

"If mold should develop, cut or scrape it off with a clean knife," said Miss Cina. "And then wash the knife so the mold won't spread, rewrap the cheese in fresh wrapping and refrigerate."

Blue, Brie, Camembert and other strong-flavored cheeses should be well wrapped as well as stored in air tight containers to keep flavor from spreading to other food.

"Cheese that will not be used in a reasonable amount of time can be frozen and kept for several months," said Miss Cina. "This may affect the texture of the cheese but it will not affect flavor."

Low-moisture cheese like Cheddar, Swiss, Edam and Gouda, freeze better than cheese high in moisture, such as cottage or processed.

TO FREEZE cheese, according to Miss Cina, cut in one-half pound pieces, wrap with moisture-proof paper or foil and freeze quickly at zero degrees or colder. Quickly-frozen cheese does not become crumbly when thawed. When ready for use, thaw slowly in the refrigerator and eat as soon as possible.

"Cheese is best served at room temperature," said Miss Cina. "Most cheeses, except for cottage, taste best when laid out at room temperature. 30 minutes prior to serving time."

CHEESE SELECTION — A wide variety of flavorful, high-quality cheeses (left) are available to California shoppers. There's a cheese to suit every taste. Consumers are assured of purchasing cheeses that have been carefully cared for to assure good taste and maximum shelf-life. Dairy Council of California reminds shoppers to keep cheese well wrapped and refrigerated.

Lamb Often Is Ignored

It's the wise shopper who takes advantage of the wide variety of meat cuts in her retailer's display case. In the scramble for beef and pork, lamb too often is ignored. Then too, there's more to lamb than legs and loin chops.

Chops from the lamb shoulder cost less yet also are flavorsome and nutritious. These arm and blade lamb chops can be broiled or braised. They are especially inviting when glazed with jelly —be it apple, mint or currant.

JELLY GLAZED LAMB CHOPS

- 4 lamb arm or blade chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1½ teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons fat
- ¼ cup apple, currant or mint jelly
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Dredge lamb chops in seasoned flour and brown in lard or drippings. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes, turning occasionally. Pour off drippings. Mix jelly, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce and pour over chops. Cover and continue cooking, turning occasionally until chops are coated with jelly glaze.

FURNISHING MART TOUR

Good Lighting Plays Key Part In Today's Designs

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — An international home-furnishings market is hardly the place to go for serenity. Not at this particular moment in history.

Color is riotous. Pattern is upon pattern, upon pattern, and "busy." Furniture design is exuberant with curves, moldings, turnings, the shine of metal, and the pillowed and padded trappings of fat, soft seating.

We are in a state of more — more of everything — more plastic furniture, more chrome, more striped fabrics, more back-to-nature wood finishes, and "ecological" things that grow plants indoors.

We are in a period when many styles coexist and are of equal importance. The homemaker can feel free to ask "What suits me and my family best?"

The wonder of it all is that homemakers can winnow their way through the choices and come up with homes that adequately reflect themselves and their families.

THAT THEY do so is demonstrated in the Burlington House Award homes featured here. These prove that Americans now really understand "eclecticism" and are applying it to their homes. They are mixing and mingling periods with freedom and skill, and using color with adventure and excitement.

New colors and new materials have made a world of difference to Americans in their whole approach to their environment, says a Burlington Industries executive. And these real-life homes show where the trends really are — in the natural look, in ecological interests, personal collections, and in the expression of individuality and a host of do-it-yourself talents.

The Chinese influence, which blossomed with much timeliness in 1972, continues unabated. It is obvious in several showrooms at this market in the use of chinoiserie decoration on black lacquer finishes. Baker is one and Union-National is another which produce the decorative effect beautifully, with great artistic know-how.

Besides bringing back chinoiserie handpainted decoration, Union-National of Jamestown, N.Y., contends that furniture must be enhanced in yet another way — with good lighting. If a fine painting requires fine lighting, reasons the company, so does fine furniture, with its richness and depth of wood grains and design details that can best be outlined and defined by light.

Consequently, this company invited specialists from General Electric to bring their latest lighting techniques to furniture. The results — in lighting china cabinets, chests; armoires, curio vitrines, buffets, and headboards —are shown at this market.

Suddenly the lovely fretwork of a canopied bed is etched by light. The lower shelf of a mobile server is lighted to display ornaments, or serving casseroles and platters placed on it. A concentrated beam of light (similar to a car's headlight) penetrates down through an exquisite china cabinet, dramatizing the form, dimension, and texture of the china, glassware, and silver displayed on its glass shelves.

These new Union-National traditional pieces will probably lead a trend to more effective use of warm white florescent lamps in furniture, both for their decorative value and for their ability to light up back corners and dark recesses in storage cabinets.

AS FOR other things that influence fashion for the home, the international chess matches left their imprint. One little plastic Parsons table comes with a chess board printed on its top, complete to plastic chessmen. The whole package is geared to retail at $11.95.

Hundreds of new items are aimed at leisure-time activities in the home. There are game rugs, game tables, low party tables with their own low chairs on roll-around casters, sofa arrangements to encourage conversation. Big bulgy sofas seat ten because at least six guests are expected to perch on engineered-for-the-purpose upholstered arms and sofa backs. New and handsome folding chairs come out for parties, but live in the closet otherwise.

A lot more attention is being given to smallscaled furniture for apartments and small houses, and designers are giving more thought to long, narrow entrance halls, and what to put into them. Medallion shows a superb hall piece, a console that is 76 inches long and only 11½ inches deep.

Wood surfaces are certainly coming upwith a difference, often in parquet effects or in refined linear bucherblock effects.

IN SOME ways this market indicates both the richness of new ideas in the higher price ranges, and the poverty of ideas in many lower-priced groups. Unfortunately, a growing influence on low-cost furniture design is the warehouse or mass merchandizer who caters, it appears, to the lowest denominator of taste.

What is now being committed at this level in the name of the Mediterranean design is often hideous and vulgar. Colors are harsh, and design is over-florid. Numerous manufacturers justify this production with a shrug of the shoulders and a defensive, "That's what people want."

They are, in their own words, intent on "getting their share of the pie" by producing furniture that they themselves cannot abide.

Hats Return For Spring

The renewed interest in the classics has also revived an interest in hats.

Hats are bigger, smaller, brimmed and cartwheeled, reports Women's Wear Daily. Flowers are tucked into hatbands and are used to accent crowns.

The turban is wrapped, draped, twisted and twirled. The tennis cap is casual in cool cotton and traditional tennis colors.

Casual fabrics such as denim, poplin, felt, jersey and gingham plus a variety of straws make up this season's hat silhouettes and pastels head up the list of colors including pale sherbets, icy and frosty white, peach, lemon and strawberry.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Retiring Commander Will Be Honored

By MOLLY MARIN

Col. and Mrs. Vermont Garrison will be honored at a dinnerdance at the Officer's Club at Hamilton Air Force Base at 7 p.m., Friday, by the Marin Military Affairs Committee members and their wives.

Colonel Garrison is retiring as commander of Hamilton Air Force Base and the Garrisons will be moving to Mountain Home, Idaho, according to Clifford Lund, president of the military affairs committee. Master of ceremonies at the dinner dance will be Jimmy Griffin.

IT WAS something of an Oklahoman's reunion when the Joseph Asianos of San Rafael entertained comedienne Alice Ghostley and her husband, Felice Orlandi, at dinner at Rubini's restaurant in Fairfax recently.

Miss Ghostley, who is currently starring on the Julie Andrews Show and has a string of television, film and stage credits, and Mrs. Asiano are both natives of Henryetta, Okla., as is Rubini's co-woner Gordon Jones.

ON THE guest list from Marin for the "Cruise to Nowhere" benefit given by the Children's Hospital Medical Center in Oakland are the Rev. and Mrs. John Yaryan of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Smith of Ross and Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Martin of San Rafael.

The party will be held Feb. 24 aboard the TS Hamburg at Pier 35 San Francisco, and will include a dinner dance, midnight buffet and a breakfast.

MRS. D. Jo O'Reilly of Novato and Richard C. Turner of Vallejo were married at Mare Island Chapel in December and are living in Novato after a Lake Tahoe wedding trip.

The bride is employed at the Franciscan at Fisherman's Wharf and her husband at Hunters Point, in San Francisco.

She is the sister of Mrs. Jack P. Berger of Novato, her wedding attendant, and was given in marriage by her son, Robert Dean O'Reilly.

Big Knits Seen For Winter '73

Winter 1973-74 will be the season of the big knit, forecasts Women's Wear Daily.

French knitwear designers are getting ready on some of the early trends including the big topper, the loose jacket or cardigan, the bulky pullover and the twin set.

As the waistline goes down around the hips, attention focuses on the higher neckline. The shawl collar, the open turtleneck and the shirt-collared V-neck are all part of the new look.

Captain Of Golf Club Is Announced

Golf, bowling and working for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation are the main interests of Mrs. Charles B. Smith of Novato, new captain of the Marin Country Club Women's Golf Association. She has alos served as handicapper and tournament chairman of the club.

Mrs. Smith was born in Petaluma and she and her husband, a contractor, have lived in Marin County 16 years. A graduate of Petaluma High School she is active in the North Bay Chapter of Cystic Fibrosis.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Smith are Mmes. James Tarabbes, co-captain; Albert Shaddy, corresponding secretary; Mortimer Weiss; secretary; Bennett Valdes, treasurer; Carl Johnson, handicapper; Earl Isaac, tournament chairman; Ralph Patterson, rules chairman; Joseph Davidor, parliamentarian.

Other members serving the association are Mmes. Oscar Oliphant, assistant handicapper; Clyde Rossi, assistant tournament chairman; Armand Cueva, assistant rules chairman; Kenneth Lax, team captain; Walter Kessler, invitational chairman; Irving Dietrick, assistant invitational chairman; Norval Mac Donald, historian; William Campbell, publicity, and Dennis Rose, decorating chairman.

Beauty Ratings List 'Ins,' 'Outs'

Women's Wear Daily has picked Merle Oberon's smooth classic style of beauty as "in" and Martha Mitchell's teased, artificial look as "out" in its current beauty rating.

Also on the "in" list was Carrie Snodgress' shoulder length blunt-cut hair, as opposed to Ali McGraw's long stringy hair. Out too were the teased bouffant and pale lips, according to the ready-to-wear trade publication.

Stripes And Argyles Remain Big Items

The stripes and argyles in socks which started in 1971 are still around this year, reports Women's Wear Daily, but with a new twist.

Geometrics are coming on strong in bold patterns and colors. The styles include knee-highs, anklets or crews, a type of sock that is stepping back into fashion both here and abroad.

Based On Waist

The spring collection from Marc Bohan of Dior in Paris is built around the idea of the tiny waist. Among the outfits are the short shirtjacket and long, belted shirt.

HELEN HELP US!

Go Along With The Joke About Your Wife Coming To The Rescue

DEAR HELEN:

It was an honest mistake, but I may never live it down.

We went on a trip last weekend, and my wife didn't get the weekly wash done. When Monday came — I was without underwear. "Bare" is not my bag, so my wife in desperation, found me a pair of what she termed her "plain" panties. (She's not the "plain" type — they were pink with a little lace.)

"Better than nothing," I thought, but a trick of fate uncovered my secret. I forgot I had them on, then got them caught in my zipper, which brought out the janitor's pliers — and much laughter in the crowded men's washroom.

Most of the guys believed my explanation, I think, but that doesn't stop their kidding. Today I found a package on my desk. Yep, it was a pair of lavender ruffled panties with a card signed, "Your secret admirer."

My wife says, "Next joker that makes a remark, crack him one," which might show muscle, but wouldn't end anything.

Suggestions. — MANLY MALE WITH RUFFLED COMPOSURE

DEAR MALE:

Face it, this is probably the best joke to hit your office since someone sent the resident old maid a nudie calendar.

So let 'em laugh: they'll soon progress to a new joke.

You might even join the fun by hoisting the lavendar panties like a pennant in the men's washroom.

And consider: a truly secure male doesn't feel threatened when his wife asks him to hold her purse in public. Shouldn't this also extend to borrowing her lace underwear in a crisis? — H

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 35, considered attractive, happily married, have two sons. My problem? My dearest friend's husband.

He is a professor at a local university, as solid as a rock, runs his life beautifully, is well loved by his wife and children — and he has fallen in love with me.

What makes the situation so difficult is that the four of us have a beautiful friendship. We spend vacations together — jaunts to Europe, ski weekends — and, until recently, I had no idea that John (Professor X) cared for me as more than a good buddy. Then he confessed he's loved me for years. I'm not interested in him that way and never will be, but how can I break up this lovely foursome which has meant so much to all of us? I could never hurt my closest woman friend by telling her about her husband, nor would I mention this to my own man.

John says that now he's confessed, he can live with his "love" — he's just happy being near me. But since I know how he feels, I'm terribly uncomfortable.

Can I continue this brotherly-sisterly relationship, knowing that John doesn't think of me as a sister? He's a perfect gentleman. He'd never force himself on me, but — WHAT TO DO?

DEAR WHAT:

Weigh the unhappiness of breaking up a lovely foursome against the hazards of continuing it (given John's firm resolve and your faithfulness to your husband). I think you'll find that friendship wins out, and "love" can be kept under control. Don't you? — H.

Shell Beads

Ungaro's couture mannequins wore shells as accessories to the Parisian's natural silks. A white sea urchin served as a pendant necklace and a spotted brown shell was combined with speckled enamel beads mixed with pearl for a choker, Women's Wear Daily reported. Ungaro also used oval tortoise shell barrettes for the new short hairdos.

Short Hair

The important hairstyle at the couture showings in Rome was short, slightly curly hair with the ducktail nape for a simple, fresh look. Makeup was done to give a natural, somewhat pale effect, reports Women's Wear Daily.

Simplicity Is Secret To Collection

Simplicity is the secret of the Hubert de Givenchy couture collection for summer.

Givenchy is talking about a new proportion for jackets and skirts, and he said in Women's Wear Daily, "There will be lots of nudity, even for day. After all, what is prettier than a pretty stomach?" he asked.

His resort pants is an innocent-looking white line cardigan and pants that turns into something else when the jacket comes off to reveal a blue mirrored and beaded bra.

Givenchy's peasant dress in navy gazar printed with yellow, pink and turquoise daisies has a waist length cape which covers up the bra top and navel-baring dipping skirt.

Bonded Fabrics

Bonded fabrics consist of two or more joined layers of material, at least one of which is a textile.

Consumer Long Way From Being Savvy

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who says we've become a nation of savvy consumers!

Granted, many of us have become aware of high prices often charged for shoddy merchandise. Ralph Nader has emerged as a man who could conceivably run for president. "Buyer Beware" has become a popular slogan.

Consumer rights are a concern now of the government and a rallying cry for hundreds of new consumer protection organizations.

And yet—consumer experts report that most members of any community still buy at full retail prices, during the wrong season, and in the wrong places, paying the overhead for a minority of well-informed customers who actually plan their purchases to take advantage of good buys.

A SUMMARY of recent studies on consumer buying bears out the experts:

—Most supermarket shoppers shop only one market, and about half of them never use a shopping list.

—Charge account customers purchase three times as much as cash customers.

—In most families, most of the money is spent within a few days of receiving the pay check, monthly pension or Social Security allottment.

—Most will buy on "easy terms" something they'd never pay outright cash for.

—People will spend five dimes more readily than a 50-cent piece and manufacturers and merchants take advantage of this in various ways.

—Goods well bought often are used improperly at great cost. Failure for instance to read instructions for mechanical goods accounts for about 40 per cent of all service calls.

ALL THESE points are outlined in "Your Retirement Consumer Guide", a new publication from the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association.

But the publication applies to almost every consumer; not just the one on retirement income.

For instance, says the 48-page booklet: "The average family spends nearly a quarter of its income for food, yet most everyone could save 20 per cent of that expenditure without sacrificing nutrition."

How? By buying house brands. It cites a Consumer Reports' estimate in the 1960s showing that shoppers could save $200 a year by buying house brands. "Today," said the guide, "the figure would probably be much higher."

Not only is the saving in the food dollar. The booklet goes into advice on buying new and used cars, clothing, mobile homes, and borrowing money.

This is a statistic of encouragement toward wise buying—"If you could save $2 out of every $10...you now spend, you would have 20 per cent more purchase power to live better...on your present budget.

"Look at it another way. Could you use a 20 per cent hike in income?"

IN A "SIMPLIFYING the supermarket game", the booklet advises a curb on impulse buying, advises going to market with a shopping list and sticking with it, and read the labels.

For all food products for which there is no government standard of quality are required to list their ingredients in the order of predominance.

Novato Pair Says Vows In Oakland

Laurel Jean Larsen and James Robert Cowhig, both of Novato, were married Saturday at the Oakland Temple, Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Larsen, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George M. Cowhig. All are residents of Novato.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Tamara Larsen. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Jeananne Larsen of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Cynthia and Becky Larsen, both of Novato; and the bridegroom's sister, Nancy Cowhig of Novato.

Best man for his brother was Michael Cowhig, and another brother of the bridegroom, Pat Cowhig and the bride's brothers, Steve and Marty Larsen, ushered. All are Novato residents.

A reception at the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints in Novato followed the ceremony. The couple will live in Rohnert Park following a wedding trip to Salt Lake City.

Laurel is a graduate of Novato High School. She is employed by the California Canadian Bank in San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse P. Warner of Salt Lake City are her grandparents.

A graduate of San Marin High School, the bridegroom is employed by Larry Barrett, Inc., in San Francisco. His grandparents are George H. Cowhig of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Keiser of Union City.

The Couture Shopper Will Have Plenty Of Shirtdresses In Closet

By ALISON LERRICK

PARIS (AP) — It isn't exactly a uniform. But the women who shop in couture salons are going to dress a certain way come spring.

The most important thing in their wardrobe will be the shirtdress in printed wool voile, crepe or shantung. The colors are pastel, the neckline ties in a bow and the shirt is pleated. Sometimes, the whole dress is.

At Dior, the pleats start well above the natural waistline, unless the dress comes with a wide inset waistband. In either case, a narrow belt marks the waist.

The two exceptions to the shirtdress rule are from Ungearo and Lanvin. The first designer likes a 1920s dress that blouses over a dropped waistband.

From the same period are Lanvin's two-piece dresses. The soft blouson top with elbow sleeves and straightish skirt are both gathered at the waist.

With the dresses go soft flannel coats in the same pastels or short fitted jackets, which spare you the trouble of tucking in a blouse. Givenchy's skinny Spencer jackets are prettiest with white linen reverse and they also come with his pants suits.

Pants, however, are only for their most dedicated partisans this season. Most women will prefer the skirt at the knee, sheer stockings and pumps with a heel up to 3½ inches high.

Paris is now pushing the short party dress in bright colors of pleated chiffon or crepe de chine.

The late-evening feeling is stiff. Long flaring dresses with wide boleros are in cotton or gazar. They prove that an expensive or a cheap fabric can do the same thing for you. Givenchy's long flower dresses have ruched flower boas in the same colors. More dramatic are his dresses in red, green or cocoa with a few stripes, triangles or squares of a contrasting color. You can't miss them a mile off.

PASSENGERS PLUCKED FROM PRECARIOUS PERCH

Four elderly Canadians had a narrow escape yesterday when their car was caught by a rising drawbridge, leaving them teetering atop the upraised portion, in St. Petersburg, Fla. The two frightened women (right) held tightly to each other as they were rescued by a cherry picker. None of the four passengers in the car, all unidentified, were injured.

Nader Says Auto Policy Is Too Weak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged Congress today to require automakers to buy back cars with unrepairable safety defects.

Appearing before the Senate Commerce Committee, Nader criticized as "not strong enough" a proposed bill to make it mandatory for the manufacturers to repair all safety-related defects at no cost to the owner. Nader said consumers needed more protection than that.

He contended that a "buy back provision" is needed to cover cars such as the Volkswagen Microbus, and the Chevrolet Corvair.

In the case of the Corvair, the government warned 1961-1969 Corvair owners that the heater could leak carbon monoxide fumes into the passenger compartment.

GM agreed to recall the cars, but contended that the heater problem was the result of owners' failure to maintain the car. The cost of the repairs therefore should be paid by the owner, GM said.

Nader claimed the repair costs often exceeded the value of the aging Corvairs. In cases like this the automaker should pay the owner the so-called book value of the car and get it off the highway, Nader said.

He termed the Microbus "a basically unstable car." The buy-back provision would get the Microbus off the highway but prevent the owner from suffering financial loss, he argued.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's chief, Douglas Toms, told the committee Tuesday that the administration favored a no-cost-to-the-car owner policy for repairing safety defects. But he said automakers should have no liability for cars six years old and over unless the government found a serious safety defect.

Hub School Budget Analysis Attacked

Members of the San Anselmo School District's citizens' advisory committee last night criticized Supt. Frank R. Elliott for what they called a superficial analysis of a committee report on proposed district budget cuts.

San Anselmo School District board members listened intently to the criticism by committee member Paul Selinger and others, "but had no real reaction to the matter," Elliott said today.

At issue is a committee report issued last year after three months work. It proposes, among other things, that the district freeze employee salaries for one year, eliminate the position of administrative assistant and cut positions of several library aides, Elliott said.

Elliott's analysis of the committee study, which was made by the committee before he became superintendent last summer, was a "short terse statement" of what budget and staff cuts had resulted in connection with committee recommendations.

"The committee suggested cuts of $191,000, and we've made cuts amounting to $106,000, but I guess they wanted a more in-depth analysis of ther work," Elliott said today.

He said the board last night saw the criticism as constructive comment and supported no side in the matter.

San Anselmo School District Board Also:

TAX SHIFT — Heard Elliott report that the district will get $1,103 per child next year under the state's new tax shift law, up from this year's $1,045 allotment.

STUDENT TRANSFER — Approved transfer from the San Anselmo district to the Fairfax district of students Deborah and Joshua Levenson and Gary and Brook Kobrofsky.

AUDIT — Accepted an audit of the 1971-72 school year from Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin, who reported that the district is financially sound but in need of better bookkeeping.

SABBATICAL — Appointed teacher James French to the sabbatical leave committee. The board took no action on a reimbursement request by teacher Doris Harnsberger for leave she is requesting in May.

EVALUATION — Told Elliott he can solicit opinion on his performance from students, staff and board members, but said filling out written evaluation sheets should be done on a voluntary basis.

CONSULTANT — On a 2-2 deadlock, rejected a proposal that the district hire a consultant for $600 to work on the employee's fringe benefit program. Board member Franklin C. Latcham was absent.

JOINT MEETING — Said the board will meet in joint session at 8 p.m. Feb. 13 with the city council in city hall to discuss an agreement for joint funding of tennis courts at Red Hill School. Also to be discussed at the meeting, according to Elliott, is future use or sale of Isabel Cooke School, possible conversion of Red Hill into an elementary facility and expansion of Hidden Valley School into a junior high school.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Feb. 8 in Red Hill School.

Connally's Name Enters '76 Picture

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Times reported today that President Nixon has said his former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would make a good Republican presidential candidate in 1976.

Quoting high Republican sources, the Times said Nixon in a conversation with a visitor to the White House "was understood to have indicated" he preferred Connally, a Democrat, over Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The sources said Agnew associates believe Connally will be brought back into the cabinet as secretary of state in a White House move to put him in the forefront for the GOP nomination ahead of the vice president, the Times said.

The return of Connally, who resigned as treasury secretary May 16 after 15 months in the office, will come after Secretary of State William P. Rogers and presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger resign from the administration, the Times said.

The Times said the administration neither confirmed nor denied reports of Connally, a former Democratic governor of Texas, returning to the cabinet. He has been in private law practice since leaving the treasury.

Teen-Age Son Of Cannibal's New Bride Says Facts Correct

HUNTINGTON BEACH (UPI) — Jmy Martin, 17, doubts he will ever be confronted with his stepfather— Obaharok, the cannibal chief.

Reports from Indonesia last week said his mother, an attractive 42-year-old American divorcee and explorer, had married the cannibal chieftain in a tribal ceremony in a wild area of West Irian.

"It's true all right," said Jmy (pronounced "Jimmy) in an interview.

"We knew about it before the newspapers did...Mother is writing a book. It's all about customs and things, and the best way to get material" is to live as a member of the tribe, he said.

The marriage is not a permanent arrangement, he said.

"When she's done with the book, that will be it," he said.

He scoffed at suggestions his mother was forced into the marriage, or that she ran the risk of being made into a meal by her new husband's tribesmen.

"Mom knows what she's doing," he said. His mother, Wynn Sargent, has traveledextensively, researching tribal customs, writing and taking photographs. She spent time previously among the Dyak headhunters of Borneo.

According to a Jakarta newspaper report, her marriage to Obaharok upset Indonesian officials in the remote area where the tribe lives.

In a photo of the ceremony, Miss Sargent wore blue jeans and a shirt, and the groom was practically nude. But Miss Sargent was quoted as saying she would adopt the garb of the tribe's females, a patch of banana bark over the loins.

Government officials were reportedly angry that this would set back their efforts to get Obaharok's tribe to wear clothes.

Jean Lewis, a friend of Miss Sargent's who has been caring for Jmy, said she had received a letter from the explorer saying "she hadn't seen them eat a man yet," the last human meal having been finished a few days before her arrival.

Miss Lewis said Miss Sargent wrote at that time that she was living with a cannibal chief named Kelion, in hopes of influencing him to end a war with another tribe.

Miss Sargent's first husband, Jmy's father, died in a car crash in Mexico. She married and later divorced, Ross McClintock, who last month married actress Mamie Van Doren.

Secretary General Sets Official Tour

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim leaves today for an official visit to India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Thailand and Japan. One of his main objectives is a first hand look at the political situation on the Indian subcontinent.

The visit starts Feb. 3 in New Delhi, when Waldheim arrives after a 3-day stay in London. The visit ends with a four-day stay in Japan.

A Cash Discount Plan Is Proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, introduced a bill Monday that would allow customers to receive a cash discount instead of trading stamps.

The measure (SB138) requires business offering trading stamps with the sale of merchandise to offer also a cash discount equal to the value of the stamps and let the customer decide between cash and stamps.

Hongisto Sues The Mayor For A Bigger Budget

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The sheriff sued the mayor yesterday for more money.

Sheriff Richard Hongisto filed a superior court suit against Mayor Joseph Alioto, asking that the mayor be ordered to supply an additional $500,000 for the sheriff's office.

Hongisto demanded that his departmental budget be increased to bring the county jail up to minimum standards set by the state.

Carol Ruth Silver, the sheriff's lawyer, described the suit as unprecedented.

Alioto and Hongisto, both Democrats, have been waging a lengthy war of words over the jail budget and the sheriff's portion of federal revenue-sharing funds.

Three Firms Fined On Pesticide Law

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has reported that three Southern California firms were fined $8,600 for alleged violations of the federal pesticides law.

Purex Corp., Ltd., Wilmington, was fined $4,000, Universal Oil Products, Inc., Burbank, $2,200 and Aquatrol, Inc., Anaheim, $2,400.

MUSIC REVIEW

Cellist Barahal Wins The Symphony Audience

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

A capacity audience shouted its approval of the gifted young cellist, Jed Barahal, at the Marin Symphony's Concert at the Veterans Memorial Building last night. His presentation of Schumann's Cello Concerto in A Minor was masterfully performed with the full support of the fine orchestra under the baton of Sandor Salgo.

Winner of the 1971 Marin Symphony Memorial Scholarship, Barahal, a San Rafael High School senior, demonstrated maturity and ability belying his age. His was the popular favorite of the three works performed.

The evening's program began with Ernst Dohnanyi's "Suite in F Sharp Minor for Orchestra." An over-long work, once a standard piece in orchestra repertoire, the suite has its moments of pleasant themes, humorous overtones, and occasional flashes of Brahmsian harmonies — Brahms was the composer Dohnanyi attempted to pattern himself after.

The main redeeming feature of this composition is its fine opportunities for solo instruments to display their talents — and talent abounded. Woodwinds were particularly fine. Carolyn Michaelian was outstanding on the English Horn, playing with a pure, full tone. Charles Meacham, violin, and Jean Mitchell, cello, matched one another in interpretation of a melodic answering duet for these instruments.

Schumann's Cello Concerto, second on the program, is a work of much greater depth. Written in the tragic last period of Schumann's life shortly before he went insane, this work is one of introspection interspersed with martial calls to action.

Schumann abhorred virtuoso performances and sought to avoid the florid passages and grand pyrotechnics to be found in solo works of the Romantic period. Instead he chose to incorporate devilishly difficult challenges to the performer within the fabric of the composition.

The three movements are written as one continuous piece and Schumann shifts deftly from one movement to the next. He called this a concert piece for cello with orchestral accompaniment. Orchestration is light and the cello is silent in only brief moments of orchestral interludes.

Barahal brought out the full richness of the cello in all registers and met Schumann's technical challenges head-on. Intonation and tone color were excellent. The required depth of understanding of the moods of the themes were clearly present.

Beethoven's Second Symphony constituted the second half of the program. This work presented an interesting contrast to the Schumann. Though it, too, was written at a time of despair, Beethoven chose to write a brilliantly optimistic composition to counteract his feelings of depression.

This symphony stands at the crossroads of Beethoven's works. Its form is that of the classic style of Mozart and Haydn, but the closing section of the first movement and much of the finale foretell of the heroic grandeur to be exploited by Beethoven in his Third Symphony.

Salgo delivered a polished performance, keeping articulation clean and themes lilting. Violins and cellos were remarkably beautiful. Only minor problems of synchronization were noticible in the scherzo with its four-note motif hopping from section to section, and in moments of the finale.

All in all it was a rewarding evening for performers and audience.

'Charlie Brown' Set By Children's Chorus

The Sonoma State College Children's Chorus will present four performances of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," beginning Feb. 8 in Ives Hall.

Performances of the play, based on Charles Schultz's "Peanuts" comic strip, will be given Feb. 8 at 9:45 a.m. and noon; Feb. 10 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 11 at 2 p.m.

Playing the lead role of Charlie Brown will be Joe Heid, 13, of Santa Rosa. He is a new member of the children's chorus.

Billy Simpson, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson of Petaluma, will play Linus. He attends McDowell School, Petaluma. Eric Luoto, 12, a seventh grader at Rohnert Park Junior High School, will play Snoopy. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Luoto of Rohnert Park.

Kendall Schultz, 12, will play the role of Patty. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schultz of Petaluma and is in the seventh grade at Casa Grande Junior-Senior High School.

Others in the cast are Michael Green, 12, and Yvonne Mura, 14, both of Santa Rosa.

Gerd Mairandres, a member of the college theater arts faculty, will direct the show. He has designed sets for Marin Shakespeare Festival and directed a production of "The Magic Flute" last summer in Inverness.

Sets and costumes have been designed by Floyd Ross, production coordinator for the Center for Performing Arts at the college. Donald Tarpley directs the children's chorus.

The Vienna Choir Boys Set Concert

The Vienna Choir Boys, songsters who range in age from 8 to 14 years, will perform at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 17 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Included on the program will be the comic operetta, "Tales from Old Vienna," in which the boys don wigs and high heels and romp through the dialogue in English, singing the music of the Strauss waltzes.

Boys stay with the historical group until their voices begin to change, then returning either to their own homes or remaining at the Augatten Palace in Vienna to continue music studies.

Many former Vienna Choir Boys have gone on to careers in various fields of music.

Astronaut Sees Space As Key To Earthy Woes

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Apollo 17 astronaut Ron Evans told the Kansas legislature Tuesday all governments should use space exploration to improve the quality of life on Earth. He said the idea occurred to him during a space walk on the way back from the moon last month.

"When I came out of the spacecraft, the first thing I saw was Earth," said Evans, a Navy captain who is a native of Kansas. "It came to mind that we have only so much water and so much air, and we ought to see how we can save that water and air.

"I believe the knowledge we gained from the space program can correct problems on Earth using space technology developed in planning space missions."

Ford Seeks Review On A Safety Seat

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. asked the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals Monday to review a federal order requiring interlocking seat and shoulder straps in all American-made cars by 1975.

Ford attorney John Pickering told the three-judge panel safety equipment standards required by the federal Department of Transportation "are not detailed and specific enough."

Seantor Behr Named Top Environment Legislator

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, today was named by the Planning and Conservation League as "the outstanding environmental legislator of 1972."

Behr was to receive the league's annual award at a luncheon today. The league said the senator won the award for "two of the most significant and far-reaching bills of the 1972 session."

The league, a federation of virtually every conservation organization in the state, cited Behr's successful passage of measures to protect the last of California's "wild rivers" in their free-flowing state and to require recorded roll-call committee votes.

The league also gave a posthumous award to Joseph Paul of San Francisco, whose Committee of Two Million launched the campaign to save the "wild rivers," and to Janet Adams of Woodside, chairman of the California Coastal Alliance, which got Proposition 20 on the November ballot and fought successfully for its passage.

Jazz Concert Set At College

The Sonoma State College Concert Jazz Ensemble and the University of Nevada Concert Jazz Band will combine for a concert Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. in Ives Hall.

The jazz ensemble is directed by Walt Oster of Petaluma, while Eugene Isaeff directs the Nevada band.

The Nevada band performed before 10,000 persons last year at the College Jazz Festival in San Francisco and has won Intermountain Collegiate Jazz Festival honors.

Dennis Christiansen, a professional trumpet player from Nevada, also will perform, along with Sonoma State vocalist Jeffrey Oster.

Slaying Of Two Turks Denied By Armenian

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A 77-year-old Armenian immigrant pleaded innocent yesterday to charges that he shot to death two Turkish diplomats after luring them here from Los Angeles with the promise of turning over a painting stolen from a Turkish sultan 100 years ago.

Gourgen M. Yanikian, a land developer and author of several books, entered the plea before Municipal Court Judge Frank P. Kearney, who set a bail hearing for Thursday and a prelminary hearing for Feb. 16.

Yanikian has been held without bail since his arrest following the shooting at the Biltmore Hotel here Saturday.

Slain in the incident were the Turkish counsul general in Los Angeles, Mehmet Baydar, 47, and his vice counsul, Bahadir Demir, 30.

Catholic Asks Abortion Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, a Roman Catholic, proposed Tuesday a constitutional amendment that would overturn the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

The Maryland Republican's proposal would have to be approved by two-thirds of the House and Senate before it could be sent to the states and then would have to be passed by 38 states before it could become an amendment to the Constitution.

The proposed amendment reads in part: "Neither the United States, nor any state, shall deprive any human being, from the moment of conception, of life without due process of law; nor deny to any human being, from the moment of conception, within its jurisdiction, the equal protection of the laws."

A Jeweler Wears His Diamonds

FAIRFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Jewelry store owner Herb Bales has found a new way to advertise his diamonds. He smiles.

Bales had his dentist install two $700 diamonds in his two front false teeth.

"They look like two headlights," Bales said. "It's caused such a commotion.

"Basically, all men are alike. I wanted to be different."

"The diamond is the most eternal mineral God put in the earth," he said. "Our (store) slogan is 'Our diamonds are forever.'"

Mixed Media Show

The Golden Gate Branch of the National League of American Pen Women will show mixed media works during the month of February at Redwood Bank in San Rafael.

Hilliard Parole Denied By State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Black Panther Party chief of staff David Hilliard, imprisoned after a shoot-out with police, has been denied parole by the state adult authority.

A spokesman for the department of corrections said Hilliard's request for freedom was turned down Tuesday because memers of the parole board "indicated there was still some consideration of public protection."

PRODUCTION LINE — Members of the Marin County Junior Achievement program assemble earrings for their company, staffed entirely by local high school students. Ten active businesses are part of this year's program, designed to give youngsters practical experience in the workings of business and the free enterprise system.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Students Learn About Business

By PAUL LIBERATORE

"When do I get paid," a young employe asks, tagging behind an equally youthful personnel manager hustling down the hallway.

From an open doorway float the voices of accountants poring over company books. In another room workers hover over a sand mold used in producing candles and delight in a nearly perfect finished product.

The building is a beaver dam of activity. Everywhere there is discussion on production, marketing, personnel deployment, safety —all the kinds of things talked over daily in any large corporation.

The difference in this case is that in this building, which houses 10 going concerns, all personnel — from company presidents to workers — are Marin County high school students participating in this year's Junior Achievement program.

A total of 140 youngsters staff businesses such as Handcraft, producers of candles and plastic flowers; Imagination Unlimited, which creates handmade jewelry; J. A. Broadcasting, responsible for a 15-minute radiocast each Saturday over KTIM in San Rafael.

Odyssey Art specializes in wood and mosaic serving trays, Rippoff in turning discarded bottles into tumblers, Youth of Marin makes leather key chains, Reflectron manufacturers emergency highway reflectors.

There is even a bank, which handles all financial matters of the companies under the supervision of the Bank of Marin, right on the grounds of the San Rafael Junior Achievement Center at Mission and Cottage avenues, San Rafael.

The point of all this is to offer students an opportunity to find out about corporate finance and structure and to acquaint them through real experience in real businesses with the workings of the free enterprise system.

Each miniature company is sponsored by a local firm, which provides assistance in design, manufacturing, packaging, advertising and marketing of products. The students keep their own books, sell stocks at $1 a share to pay for materials and, if profits allow, return $1.10 per share at the end of the school year.

As in real life, some corporations are forced to recoup losses by changing products in midstream. For example, Musical Chimes of Marin kept its name but scrapped musical chimes, a loser, to produce firestarters, a hot item.

"The program has given me an opportunity to function in a free enterprise system and helped me in my comprehension of the business world," explained Dinu Gray, a 17-year-old senior at San Rafael High School.

Born in Rumania, he came to the U.S. with his family in 1965.

"This seems to me to be the best system there is," he said. "Of course, there is always room for improvement, but we should be proud of the system and support it."

Gray heads Monopolee, a firm that produces a variety of items, including handmade ties, cloth lunch bags, first aid kits and candles suspended by macrame ropes.

His company, sponsored by Pacific Telephone, has no trouble selling items; hangups stem from not being able to produce them fast enough, he said, pointing to empty bins that once bulged with merchandise.

Along with youth comes enthusiasm.

"My company has been great," said Mary Meyskens, 15, a sophomore at Terra Linda High School. "We even put in overtime."

Students normally work two hours each Tuesday night, conducting a business meeting before breaking up into their various functions as company members.

There is plenty of fun, but the young people are serious when it comes to the responsibilities of running a profitable organization.

"Part of my job as president includes coming down on people who are not keeping up with their responsibilities," explained 16-year-old Karie Jones with a twinkling smile that would direct most young workers' noses straight to the grindstone.

The bulk of the products are sold by going door-to-door, according to Clyde Chevrette, manager of the Marin County Junior Achievement Center.

He noted, however, that at least two companies will participate in a sales campaign this weekend at a Daly City shopping center and plans are under way to sell Junior Achiever goods at an upcoming trade fair at Northgate Industrial Park.

Junior Achievement is a national program with more than 7,000 companies being organized each fall throughout the U.S. Programs based on Junior Achievement have been organized in Canada, Finland, Mexico, the Netherlands, and in six other countries.

Grass Plants Bring Fines

Two Novato residents, arrested because eight marijuana plants were growing in their home, have been fined $500 each in Marin Superior Court on misdemeanor pot possession charges.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Walter Nicklous Lynch, 24, and 22-year-old Lynn Dee Altman on probation for one year. They pleaded guilty Monday after the judge agreed to reduce the charges from a felony.

Novato police said they went to the home of the two Oct. 20 and found the plants growing in three containers.

Rights Chairman Claims Secret Session Legal Under State Law

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The chairman of the Marin County Human Rights Commission said yesterday that he considers last week's secret meeting of his commission legal under state law as interpreted by the county counsel.

His announcement came just hours after the county board of supervisors agreed to postpone consideration of a pilot program on consumer protection which was the center of discussion at the commission's secret meeting.

In a letter to county supervisors, commission chairman Ernest J. Gray said he based his conclusion of the meeting's legality on an opinion given him last fall by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who said committees made up of less than a quorum of the full commission need not give public notice of meetings. Moreover, according to Godino's opinion, other commissioners could attend those private committee meetings as long as they attended in "an unofficial capacity."

By attending in "an unofficial capacity," Godino reasoned, the intent of the state's antisecret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act, could be circumvented without violating the letter of the law.

(The Brown Act merely says 24-hour notice must be given to press and public before a quorum of any agency can meet legally, except in certain emergencies, and makes no distinction between members of an agency as to "official" or "unofficial capacity.")

As reported Monday, a four-member quorum of the human rights commission met last week under the guise of a three-member committee.

During the secret meeting, commissioners Joaquin P. Gallardo, J. Barton Sarjeant and Gray agreed to withhold support of a controversial consumer protection program and request a postponement by the board of supervisors.

The lone voice of opposition to withdrawing support was commissioner June Weden, who, like the press, had been told the meeting was to be simply a committee meeting.

Gray's letter to supervisors admitted that a quorum of his seven-member commission was present at the session, but said it was permitted because "according to county counsel, this is legal under the Brown Act."

Gray, when asked Monday about the meeting, told the I-J that Gallardo had attended only momentarily and had not taken part in any discussion or decision.

However, a memorandum shown to the I-J the same day by Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the human rights department, indicated Gallardo and the others had discussed the matter and "voted 3-1 to withdraw support."

That original memorandum disappeared shortly after the secret meeting story was published and has been replaced by a watered-down version saying the three commissioners "independently expressed" reservations about the consumer program.

"Mr. Gallardo did take some part in the discussion," Gray acknowledged in his letter. "My statement to the press was that he did not take part in any decisions, as no decisions were made . . ."

He added that there was only one memorandum, apparently forgetting that Hood had read the first memorandum to him over the phone before its mysterious disappearance.

Meanwhile, Weden, while confirming the accuracy of Monday's story, said she had not used the words "secret meeting" in describing the secret meeting.

Executive Director Gerald J. Hood, confronted by a split on his commission, requested yesterday that supervisors postpone consideration of the consumer program to Feb. 13.

"It would be unthinkable to appear before the board of supervisors on its Jan. 30 agenda with what would appear to be a divided commission . . ." Hood wrote, requesting the delay.

"It is my opinion that the matter must be resolved before the full human rights commission before attempting any further presentation to the board of supervisors . . ." he added. He said the matter would be discussed by the commission at its Feb. 8 meeting.

It will be the second time the commission has discussed the program. In December, it voted unanimously to endorse it.

Silvia Siegel of Mill Valley, who described herself as a consumer consultant, urged a longer delay saying "the public" had not been given time to study the human rights' proposal.

Ruling On Worker's Appeal Is Awaited

The City of Novato is awaiting a decision on the appeal of Wade Lackey, long-time public works department employee, of a two-day suspension for alleged "discourteous conduct and insurbordination."

Lackey, a maintenance man who had served in the past as foreman and public works superintendent, was one of the city's original employees when it was incorporated in 1960.

He was suspended allegedly for refusing to obey an order and being discourteous to Carrol Madsen, maintenance superintendent, and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown ruled in December Lackey was guilty of insurbordination.

Lackey appealed and requested a hearing before a state officer. An open hearing was held last Thursday at the Novato Park and Recreation building by hearing officer George Coan of San Francisco, who will file a recommendation. The city council will make the final ruling on Lackey's appeal.

Lackey was represented by attorney Herbert Fuller of Vallejo and the city by City Atty. Clark M. Palmer.

Suyderhoud Asks For Dissolution

The father of former world water ski champion Mike Suyderhoud filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court to dissolve his 22-year marriage.

Jaap Suyderhoud of 22 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, claimed irreconcilable differences have developed in his marriage to Johanna Suyderhoud.

Married in 1948 in Indonesia, they separated last Sept. 22, according to Suyderhoud's petition.

Suyderhoud, who arrived from Holland in 1961, is a veteran promoter of water ski events.

20.5 Cents Correct Proposed Tax Rate

Repayment of the proposed $4.5 million flood control bonds to finance a Novato Creek project would require a tax rate of 20.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, according to Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

Through a typing error, the Independent-Journal yesterday erroneously reported the rate had been estimated at 29.5 cents.

Police Mounts Will Be Dressed For Night

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Police officials, hoping that a horse of a different color will be seen better at night, plan to dress police mounts in luminous white material and put blinking amber lights on their riders.

Capt. James J. Powers, head of the department's research bureau, said the new reflector material and lights would insure the safety of the city's 50 mounted police, 31 of whom work at night.

Minority Hiring In Apprentice Slots Ordered

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. District judge Robert Peckham Tuesday ordered Operating Engineers Local 3 to fill 70 per cent of its apprenticeship openings in Northern California with minority youths.

Peckham's order was partial settlement of a civil rights suit by the Justice Department in 1971. Local 3 and employers consented to the judge's order with the understanding that it was not an admission of past discrimination.

The quota included 30 per cent Negroes, 30 per cent Mexican-Americans and 10 per cent Orientals and other minorities.

Two Dental Board Appointments Made

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Henry Lucas Jr., of San Francisco, was appointed to the state Board of Dental Examiners and Dr. Joseph N. Reynolds, of Glendale, was reappointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan Tuesday.

Both men are dentists and Republicans.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

We Cannot Trust State Assembly

The people of California are being defrauded by their State Assembly. Bills are being passed with false votes.

Columnist Earl G. Waters has exposed this appalling practice in two columns, the second of which appears today directly below this editorial.

THE FRAUD is perpetrated by a practice known as "ghost voting." This is made possible by the assemblymen's voting by pressing electric buttons to record "aye" or "nay." Such buttons are at each assemblyman's desk. They are supposed to be locked when he is absent from the chamber. But they are not locked. So other assemblymen press the buttons for absentees.

Objectors to this practice have been told that (a) it is necessary because often assemblymen must be absent during voting to attend Senate committee sessions on bills in which they are vitally interested, and (b) it doesn't matter anyhow, as they make arrangements with members present to vote for them according to their instructions.

BUT ASSEMBLYMAN Frank P. Belotti of Eureka did not make arrangements with any other assemblyman to press the "aye" button on his desk when the vote was taken on SB 1493 (a no-fault insurance bill) during the final afternoon of the regular 1972 session.

Assemblyman Belotti could not have made any such arrangements. Assemblyman Belotti was dead. He had died the previous day.

Nevertheless, Assemblyman Belotti was recorded as voting for the bill.

How many other assmblymen have been recorded as voting for or against bills when in fact they had no intention of so voting? How many bills have become law by fraudulent votes in the Assembly?

We will never know.

We know Assemblyman Belotti's vote on SB 1493 last Dec. 1 was fraudulent. But as to how many other such fraudulent votes have been recorded, we can only speculate.

IT APPEARS we cannot trust our assemblymen (the Senate does not use electric vote buttons). Therefore, the buttons should be removed, forcing the assemblymen to be present to vote — so that we will know the vote count is recorded honestly.

With the new two-year legislative session there is no need for Senate committee hearings while the Assembly is in session. Therefore, the excuse for "ghost voting" no longer has any color of validity.

This is the same state Assembly which met for 37 minutes last Thursday — a day of national mourning for President Johnson — in order to collect $30 per diem expenses for that day. And the speaker, Bob Moretti of North Hollywood, had the gall to attack newspapers for calling attention to this.

This is the same Bob Moretti who presides over the "ghost voting." And he also has the gall to want to be governor.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

How Dead Man's Vote Passed Assembly Bill

By EARL G. WATERS

Although he was elected to preside over the Assembly sessions, Speaker Bob Moretti has an aversion to the task. In his absences from the chamber during sessions, various assemblymen take turns in the chair. Usually it is Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, the majority floor leader and confidante of Moretti.

Fenton has an obsession on "no fault" insurance and has sponsored unsucessfully such a bill the past three years.

ON DEC. 1, the final day of the 1972 session, the Assembly was convened by Speaker Pro Tem Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, at 9:33 a.m. Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Garden Grove, took the gavel at 10:04 a.m. and Fenton replaced him at 11:30 a.m. Moretti, excepting for one strang and brief occasion, did not appear on the rostrum that day until the closing hour.

The journal shows that Fenton was presiding at 2:59 p.m. At that time he recessed the Assembly until 3:25 p.m. Moretti made his first appearance on the rostrum of the day and reconvened the Assembly. Twenty-three minutes later he turned the gavel over to Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, D-Norwalk.

Immediately thereafter Fenton took up SB 1493. This was a measure which Fenton had hijacked after his own "no fault" bill had failed in the Senate. He amended his defeated bill into SB 1493.

The journal shows that at 3:48 Fenton took up his bill and that it passed by a vote of 43 to 23.

That it was a close vote is indicated by the fact the journal also shows that after the vote had been taken, Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, received permission to have his vote added to the roll call to make the total of 43 "aye" votes.

THE JOURNAL FURTHER shows that Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, voted "aye". It is quite possible that Belotti's vote was the 41st vote and that the 42nd vote, like Bagley, came along after passage had been won.

Now the fact is that Assemblyman Frank Belotti had been absent from Sacramento since Oct. 12. The further fact is that Assemblyman Belotti died at noon on Nov. 30.

The voting of Belotti to assure passage of a pirated bill on "no fault" therefore was clearly illegal, in violation of the Constitution, and an outright and deliberate fraud. The sobriquet of "ghost" voting was no longer just a fiction.

That it was deliberate seems undeniable. At no time during Belotti's absence from Oct. 12 on to the time of his death was he voted on any other measure.

That it was known to all that he had died fully 24 hours before the roll call on SB 1493 cannot be denied.

The journal records that Speaker Pro Tempore Bee called the Assembly roll at 10:03 a.m. with 73 members present. Immediately thereafter Assembly Chaplain Rev. Leo McAllister offered a prayer in tribute to Belotti. At 11:30 a.m., with Fenton presiding, Assemblyman Dick Barnes, R-San Diego, presented a resolution memorializing the death of Assemblyman Belotti.

And it also shows that Speaker Moretti adjourned the 1972 session out of respect to Assemblyman Belotti.

THE SENATE, to its credit, refused to act on SB 1493, ruling that the amendments made by Fenton were not germane to the bill as it was introduced.

For the roll call vote which records Belotti voting "aye" the day after his death, turn to page 8437 of the Assembly Journal for Dec. 1, 1972.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

There's a prison in Sweden where all the inmates are given fulltime jobs. It's getting so there's no place a guy can go to avoid work.

It's hard to tell whether Swedish penologists are attempting to reduce the crime rate — or just trying to solve their nation's unemployment problem.

Criminals at Tillberg Prison receive generous wages but they're charged for cell occupancy. What happens if a fellow refuses to pay the rent? Is he evicted from prison?

Here in our country when a citizen wants a fulltime job he gets himself a smart lawyer and settles down as the defendant in one of those never-ending trials that are so popular these days.

Why Does The City Close Launching Ramps?

I have been a resident of Marin County for the past nine years. My wife and I recently bought a small (16 ft.) boat, and have launched it several times from the launching ramp at Loch Lomond.

Several years ago, I remember a friend of mine launching at the City of San Rafael free launching ramp on Francisco Boulevard (at the end of the San Rafael Canal). With the addition of the Grand Street Bridge, it is now impossible to use this ramp, for the clearance at high tide is limited to short ducks!

A recent acquisition of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department was the old Peacock Gap Swim Club and Marina. Upon investigation, I found that a perfectly good launching ramp — one that might have been used for free — has been filled in, and consequently made unusable.

I am inquiring for information as to why a perfectly good launching ramp, one that has very convenient access to the bay, has been closed to use by the public, necessitating a $2 charge for every launch!!

Gives Teachers Blame For Hawkins' Ouster

"Teachers here are sitting pretty," declared a Redwood High School instructor who ought to know, "and we want to keep it that way."

This incredible statement explains, more than anything else, the reason why the Tamalpais District will soon be losing the services of its talented, energetic and innovative superintendent, Wilber Hawkins.

Contrary to popular opinion, Hawkins' ouster is not due to a misunderstanding with the trustees over the cost of some office furniture. Rather, as Trustee David Ring put it, it is because three of the five board members "played into the hands of our two teachers' unions, which regularly seek to outdo each other in their efforts to take over the management of the school district."

Now, the notion of a Divine Right of Kings was pretty well outdated by the time of Charles I. But the idea of a Divine Right of Teachers is alive and well and flourishing in the faculty lounges of the Tam District.

I speak from personal experience. Having been a Redwood student during the first two years of Hawkins' tenure, and having been involved in some of the controversies at that time, I can personally attest to the hegemony that teachers hold over district policy making, the zealousness with which they guard their entrenched privileges — some of them would make Marie Antoinette look soft on democracy — and the unwillingness or inability of certain administrators to contest them.

The sin of Superintendent Hawkins was to challenge this hegemony. . .

So now he is gone. The position of the teachers is, in a perverse way, understandable. So was Torquemada's. But that of the three trustees who threw Hawkins out — Corlett, Ladar and Wallace — whose first duty is ostensibly to the voters and not to the autocrats of the faculty lounge, is incomprehensible. . .

Plenty Of Water, But How About Future?

It as great to see your front-page picture of Nicasio Dam, brimming full! And to read that Marin's other five reservoirs are also chuck full.

At the same time, isn't it disturbing to think of Marin's vast population increase to date — with our water supply dependent on the same lakes as they were when we were not nearly so numerous? And more to come!

From year to year, rains vary. Usage increases. Before our luck runs out, let's do what is necessary to make Marin County's water supply adequate for all seasons, not just '73.

No Home In Marin For This Young Man?

Ron is a 17-year-old young man who has a job in San Rafael, but no home. Until recently we were able to provide room for him at our home. Following an argument with one of our military personnel, Ron was forbidden further entry to Hamilton Air Force Base; and as our home is located on the base, we are unable to extend our hospitality any longer.

The county juvenile authorities are unable to help. The social welfare department tells me they have no foster homes for teens. The YMCA has no facilities. The crash pads have a time limit.

Remarkable! In this lavishly blessed community, is there anyone who is willing to provide room for someone who is honestly trying to make it on his own?

Don't Drink Water; 'It's All In The Mind'

We are told about the folly of "dignifying absurdity by reply." However the really ingenious and startling succession of non-sequiturs in Mr. William D. Soule's letter in this column on Jan. 25 is too stimulating to ignore.

Mr Soule does not like the recent decision of Marin voters to fluoridate our water supply. It is very hard to find any good reason for not praising their good judgment, but let no one say that Mr. Soule has not tried

If I understand him correctly, Mr. Soule asserts that it is only our belief in the efficacy of fluorides "that is the controlling factor" in that efficacy. This is true, he says, because fluoride is inert (does he mean inorganic?) matter. Such "inert" matter, he says, would have no more effect on me or you than on a corpse unless we have an irrational belief or superstition that it would do so.

It should follow that breathing air or drinking water have no more effect on me or Mr. Soule than administering the same inert substances to a dead body. We could stop drinking or breathing tomorrow without ill effect except for our stupid credulity. Similarly, only our silly superstition that arsenic or potassium cyanide could be harmful restrains us from introducing them into our daily diet

It's Time To Say Good Word For South Vietnamese Soldier

WASHINGTON — Now that we are leaving them to do it alone, it is past time to say a respectful word for the most maligned class of men in recent world history.

Put-downs and bad jokes about the armed forces of South Vietnam have been so common in the past decade that they make the Italians in North Africa and the Arabs in Sinai seem epic heroes by contrast. But those wisecracks have been often wrong, and always unfair.

MOST OF THE COMBAT reportage Americans read and saw from Vietnam was about American troops. A high proportion of the coverage of Saigon government forces was negative, and that is only natural.

After all, when U.S. units first went ashore there, it was to save South Vietnam when it was about to be cut in half along the road from Qui Nhon to Pleiku, a development threatened by a long series of government blunders and defeats. So when our soldiers and marines arrived, the immediate situation added to their and our disdain for the local troops, even beyond the soldier's classic habit of sneering at other outfits to inflate his own morale.

The daily news then was of ARVN regiments being decimated at the Michelin plantation, battalions cut up on the road to Vung Tau, ambushes on Highway One, outposts raided, villages hit, crops captured.

Then came Americanization, and Tet. Then came Vietnamization, and the great enemy offensive of last spring.

When it began, the ARVN Third Division, a unit of green replacements, broke and fell back from the DMZ past Quang Tri. There it was relieved by marines, who slowly recaptured the city. To the south, the enemy offensive struck at An Loc, and North Vietnamese troops were given a date certain by which that town had to be captured. It was destroyed, but its defenders held.

Out of the whole offensive, the two events most noticed back here were the collapse of the Third Division and the failure of other reinforcing units to punch through on the road to An Loc. Yet on the whole, this massive, sacrificial operation by the enemy, hitting objectives the length of the country, was turned back.

THE IMPRESSION of any American in his living room was that this happened purely because of the crushing intervention of U.S. air power and the mining of ports in North Vietnam. That intervention was certainly sorely needed, and perhaps critical. But the South Vietnamese air force was just as deeply involved, scoring heavily against the enemy tanks. And most important of all, on the ground, it was the remarkably stubborn, long-enduring South Vietnamese riflemen who fought the enemy and turned him back.

Even in the days when the main things you heard about him were that he stole the peasants' ducks, took siestas and sometimes skirted known enemy strongholds, that same soldier was manning lonely outposts and scoring occasional major victories.

I recall the one along the sand flats outside Quang Tri City in March of 1966, when the fashion was to chuckle at any body-count reports from Saigon's forces. In that operation, the South Vietnamese reported 444 enemy killed — and invited you to count them for yourself. I recall others in the godforsaken swamps of Chuong Thien Province, and watching patrols head into the elephant grass of the highlands, smiling and waving goodby. Most Americans heard little or nothing about such operations.

When I say "that same soldier" did all this, I speak of him collectively. Literally, "that same soldier" who fought back in 1965-66 is probably dead now. Government figures say more than 183,528 have died, and 499,025 have been wounded and hospitalized.

NOW OUR TROOPS are departing, and he remains. That is the way it has been all along, for him as an individual. For while the American soldier put in his one-year tour and hopefully returned home, the South Vietnamese soldier goes in for the duration, if he lasts that long.

He has far less to be glad about this week than we here do. His prospect is unclear at best. But as an organization, the government forces are better trained and better led, too, despite the conventional wisdom, than they were when the Americans arrived. And, as an individual, whatever follows the cease-fire agreement, the South Vietnamese soldier will be hanging in there.

What Are Vietnam's Lessons? It's Time To Start Finding Out

WASHINGTON — Are we going to learn some lessons from the Vietnamese war? Surely this is the first and essential question to raise in the wake of the Vietnamese peace.

If so, when are we going to begin and how are we going to go about it?

The answer to when is now, at once, without more delay. There has been delay because already one of the principal participants, former President Lyndon Johnson, whose knowledge and second thoughts would be invaluable, is no longer with us. We shouldn't fritter away much more time before we start to collect some of the wisdom of history, either privately or through government or both, before it is too late.

WE MUST GET IN HAND the raw material of history while it is still fresh in the minds of those who helped make it.

A search for the lessons of Vietnam should be wanted by government — President and Congress — and undertaken by qualified, respected and independent persons. A special commission outside government, appointed by the President and Congress, is a possibility. But a wholly private study might be much better, by the Brookings Institution, the Council on Foreign Relations, Freedom House or a pooled enterprise by several interested foundations.

How it is done is more important than who does it.

The first need is a reasonable degree of detachment. The search is for lessons to be learned, not scapegoats to be publicized.

ONE WILL NOT learn much to guide us in the future by assuming either that it was a mistake to defend South Vietnam or that it was desirable to do so.

Surely the first step toward getting some right answers is to ask the right questions and then dig out the facts of every facet of Vietnam decision-making before attempting to draw the lessons.

Some of the questions to which we need satisfactory answers are these:

What persuaded President Kennedy and President Johnson to turn a policy of American military aid to South Vietnam into a policy of military participation?

At the time when President Kennedy expanded our military participation — modestly but significantly — was the decision made to go all the way if necessary; and if not, why not?

What persuaded Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson and nearly the whole Congress, as expressed in the Southeast Asia Resolution, that it was vital to the United States to prevent South Vietnam from falling to Communist expansion by force?

Was the struggle for South Vietnam substantially a civil war or was the civil war substantially the instrument of Hanoi?

Did the highest officials of the U.S. government, military and civilian, ever set down for themselves at any time from 1963 to 1969 what they expected it would cost our nation in lives, money and all other resources to fight the Vietnamese war? And if they did, how accurate did those estimates prove to be?

Did we fight the war the best possible way? If it seemed best at the time, does it seem best in retrospect?

Is the prospect of peace and stability in Southeast Asia better or worse today because the United States intervened in Vietnam and in the end achieved a negotiated settlement? Is the best interest of the United States well served or ill served by this end result?

IN SOME of the foregoing questions there are implications concerning the soundness and competence of the decision-making process at high levels It has to be that way We must get the facts which may deepen or disprove honest doubts.

What is needed now is a clearheaded, fresh, independent look at what we may have done right and what we may have done wrong in Vietnam from beginning to end. The sooner the better.

Council Candidates Offers Wide-Ranging Platform

Richard C. Fox, the prolific letters-to-the-editor writer who intends to run for a San Rafael City Council seat April 17, has issued a 17-page platform statement dealing with matters ranging from tax relief to open-air band concerts.

The 45-year-old research chemist's viewpoints appear to fill the gap created when onetime candidate Edwina Codoni declared she would not run for a council seat as previously announced.

DESCRIBING HIMSELF as a conservative conservationist, Fox has proposed:

An incentive system whereby city employees who cut municipal costs receive cash bonuses;

Maximum encouragement and use of volunteer citizen help and expertise in areas such as planning;

A constant effort to decrease paperwork routines and constant communication between council and staff to decrease city workloads;

Elimination of parking meters;

Beautification of the downtown through use of trees, shrubs, flowers and grass where possible;

Freeing property owners from condemnation actions where possible;

A program whereby city government makes positive efforts to supply information to the press;

Once-a-month gripe sessions between citizens and councilmen at city hall;

Open-air band concerts on Fourth Street during shopping nights;

Volunteer tree plantings;

A citizens' art and garden show in the downtown area.

"I THINK WE NEED in San Rafael a continuing emphasis on unsophisticated good old-fashioned American local patriotism and teamwork plus a good shot of the high aiming ideals such as trust and belief in your fellow man that this country has been long noted for," said Fox.

Fox has called for a detailed budget study, "making Canal residents feel they are part of the city and not just tolerated," tax relief for senior citizens, open space, and aid to small businessmen.

Fox has also pledged to champion the interests of "a growing segment of private citizens and small businesses who are groaning under the weight of ever-increasing tax loads."

DESPITE FOX'S BAG of lofty ideals and proposals is not expected to gain many votes, one city councilman sees the April 17 ballot being split three ways among Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission, Thomas R. O'Toole, chairman of the city's planning commission, and Lawence E. Mulryan, incumbent city councilman.

Fox denies reports he will withdraw near the end of the council campaign to embrace another candidate.

"It would take two million dollars for me to do that," he said. "And even then I might not do it."

Fox, who admitted he isn't given much of a chance in the election, said he would nevertheless "campaign to the bitter end. I'll go down in flames if I have to," he said.

Sierra Club Uses Act To Get Facts On Park

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Sierra Club invoked the Freedom of Information Act yesterday in a federal court suit asking the U.S. Interior Department to make public a report on potential damage to Redwood National Park.

The club has been asking the department to take action to prevent possible damage caused by clearcutting and some other logging practices on adjacent land that drains into the park.

In such cases, the department has power under the law to modify park boundaries, acquire partial interests outside the park, or to make agreements with nearby landowners.

An Interior Department task force made a study of the situation last year. The Freedom of Information Act provides court injunctions against government agencies that withhold public records from citizens.

Harpsichordist To Give Concert

Harpsichordist Hilda Jonas will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Caleruega Hall at Dominican College, San Rafael.

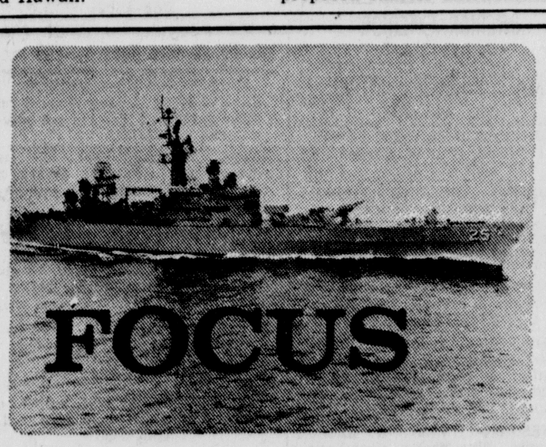
Her program will include the music of J. S. Bach, Hans Werner Henze, Galuppi and Jean-Philippe Rameau.

Mrs. Jonas received her musical education as pianist and harpsichordist in Germany, Switzerland and France, where she studied with Wanda Landowska. Her professional career includes concerts in Europe, Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii.

Voters To Choose Board Members

Apointees to the San Rafael Board of Education or the city council will serve only until the next municipal election, with the voters deciding who will fill out an unexpired term, if proposed charter amendments are approved by voters in the city's April 17 election.

The Independent-Journal yesterday incorrectly reported appointees would serve until the next general election under the proposed charter amendments.



U.S. Troops in Europe

More than one out of every four of America's military personnel is serving outside the boundaries of the United States. Almost half of these are stationed in Europe or the surrounding waters. Over half of the 11,000 troops in West Berlin are American. The number of men assigned to the Sixth Fleet, stationed in the Mediterranean Sea, varies with the sizes of the ships in the fleet. Since the early Sixties, the number of soldiers stationed in Europe has dropped by about 100,000. The withdrawn units return yearly for training exercises on European soil.

DO YOU KNOW — In what country of the world does the U.S. have the most troops?

CTA Seeks Law Like Those In Strike States

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Nearly one million children across the nation were being deprived of schooling by teacher strikes last week as the California Teachers Association announced its No. 1 legislative priority for this year would be passage of a collective bargaining law.

The biggest of the strikes ended in Chicago as the Chicago Teachers Union, a unit of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, agreed to return to work after receiving salary increases, smaller class sizes — and a shortened school year. (The school year already had been shortened by the strike.)

Another AFT affiliate was on strike in Philadelphia. In St. Louis, locals of both AFT and National Education Association (of which CTA is a part) were striking. In Superior, Wis., it was another AFT affiliate.

ILLINOIS, PENNSYLVANIA, Missouri and Wisconsin have state laws permitting exclusive collective bargaining agents for teachers.

California has no such law. This state's Winton Act sets up a system for teacher representation in negotiations. All organizations to which teachers in a district belong are entitled to members on a certificated employees' council in proportion to their membership in the teaching force as a whole. This council meets and confers with the school board regarding salaries, employment conditions, and "all matters relating to the definition of educational objectives, the determination of the content of courses and curricula, the selection of textbooks, and other aspects of the instructional program" — a pretty wide scope, including just about everything except how to pay the bills.

However, under the Winton Act, the final decision is left with the board; and contracts are entered into with the teachers as individuals, not with a union as sole bargaining agent.

FOR SEVERAL YEARS, the California Teachers Association has been trying to change that.

In the 1971 Legislature, the vehicle was Assembly Bill 2833, introduced for CTA by Assemblyman L. E. Townsend, D-Torrance. It provided that the union with majority membership among a district's teachers "shall be the exclusive representative of all the employees . . . and a board of education shall not negotiate matters covered by this article with any other representative."

It went further, providing for mandatory deductions from teachers' pay checks of whatever amounts the union said it needed to police the contract. And it specified that teachers had the right to strike.

The 1971 bill was killed in the Assembly Education Committee.

Last year, the vehicle was AB 545 by Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando. It was worded a little more cautiously, containing no specific provision for strikes or mandatory deductions from teachers' pay checks for union use. But an opinion of the legislative counsel said both would be allowed under its terms. It also died in the Assembly Education Committee — by one vote.

THERE WILL BE another such bill this year.

In its Legislative Letter of Jan. 19 — while those teacher strikes were under way in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Superior, Wis. — CTA reported: "Tops among the issues, according to previously set association priorities, is a collective bargaining law for teachers and/or all pblic employees."

The makeup of the Assembly Education Committee has been changed this year by Speaker Bob Moretti, D-North Hollywood. The new makeup gives CTA lobbyists high hope that they can get this year's collective bargaining bill out of committee.

California has had a few teacher strikes, despite the fact that our state laws do not recognize the right to strike by public employees. But the biggest, longest, costliest and most numerous teacher strikes have almost all been in states that have laws giving teacher unions the power that CTA wants to get for itself in California.

92 Streptoccous Cases Reported

A total of 92 cases of streptoccocus infection were reported to Marin health officials last week, Dr. Carolyn M. Abrecht, county health officer, said.

Second on the list of communicable diseases reported was gonorrhea, with 19 cases. Other illnesses reported were mumps, tuberculosis and infectious hepatitis, one case each.

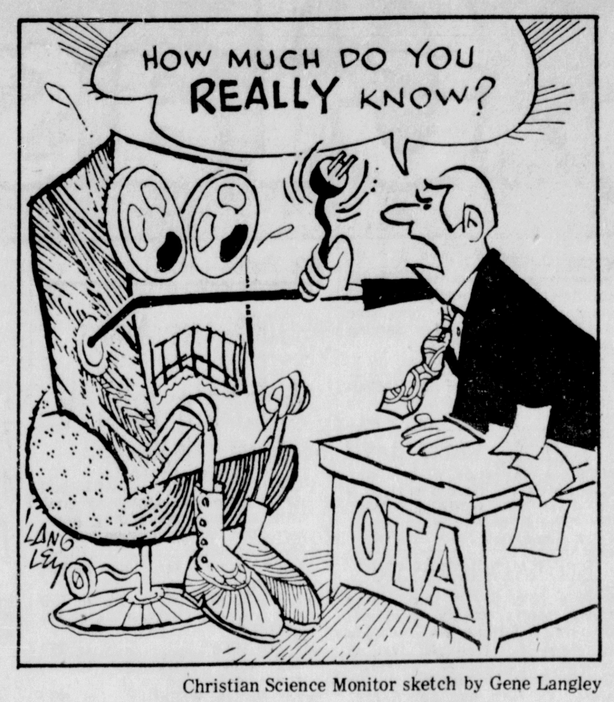
A Watchdog For Technology

By PHILIP W. McKINSEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — When Congress ended the supersonic transport program in 1971, its scientific justification was partly a matter of guesswork and hunch — it sided with those scientists who feared the SST might be harmful to the environment, without hard knowledge that it would. Now, Congress is moving to give itself the capability to answer such questions more surely.

Under a little noticed piece of legislation passed last year, Congress is setting in place a new Office of Technology Assessment (OTA) to advise it on the technological consequences of new projects and legislative ideas. And the new office probably will expand its scope to take a look at the likely impact of some programs and activities already under way in both government and private industry.

It will get off to a cautious, slow start. Its director has yet to be picked, it hasn't yet gotten any money to operate and it is likely to feel its way along carefully for the first couple of years. But OTA could grow into a powerful force, both in capitol jockeying for power and in the shaping of government activities in the 1970s.



Christian Science Monitor sketch by Gene Langley

As a creature of Congress, just as is the General Accounting Office that probes executive branch agencies to spotlight mismanagement and waste, OTA will be independent of the administration. Its bosses will be a 12-member board of governors made up of six senators and six representatives, split 50-50 (Democratic and Republican).

The board's chairman is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and that will ensure OTA both of publicity, because Kennedy attracts reporters like a magnet, and influence, because Kennedy has become a powerful and respected member of the Senate power structure.

But OTA not only gives Congress a potentially powerful new tool to develop independent information to strengthen it in its newly heightened confrontation with the executive branch, it also provides a significant new forum for detailed government scientific study of the impact of private industrial activities that cause worries in some quarters.

The OTA will launch projects only on the order of its congressional board of directors, who will be backstopped by a 12-member advisory board with heavy scientific representation, or on the request of a congressional committee. But it won't have to wait long for directions.

Kennedy, for example, has a number of favorite subjects — going far beyond questions of specific proposed legislation — that he may choose from in setting OTA to work on its first projects.

Among them: energy technology, the impact of computers on the right of privacy, the ecological impact of pesticides and of alternatives to chemical pesticides, the side effects of food additives, and even the question of urban mass transit.

Plea Of Guilty To Burglary Charges Made

John R. Arbuckle, 22, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to two counts of burglarizing shops by tricking the storekeepers.

Arbuckle's plea was part of an arrangement with Judge David Menary Jr., who dismissed a third count and agreed to give him no more than seven months in jail. Sentencing was set for Feb. 20.

Arbuckle, Steven John Pappas, 21, of San Francisco, and a third man went into shops in August and while two distracted the clerk, the third raided the unattended till, according to police reporters.

The two and Andrew Joseph Carrino, 28, of San Rafael, were arrested Aug. 23 by San Anselmo police. Charges later were dismissed against Carrino.

Burglary targets that day were the Dream Days Shop and the Poppy Shop in San Anselmo and Trixie's Dress Shop in San Rafael.

Pappas received 60 days in jail after admitting two counts in December.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hormone Lack In Later Life Contributes To Osteoporosis

An elderly woman was having back trouble and aspirin was the only drug that gave her any relief. She wrote: "I hate to take aspirin, but what else can I do. My nephew bought me an expensive brace and heating pad. They didn't help and he might as well have saved his money. Is there anything else you can recommended?"

We suggest a consultation with an orthopedic specialist because very little can be done unless the cause of the distriess is known.

A FEW MONTHS later, the nephew wrote: "X-rays of the spine showed shrinking of the vertebras and evidence of mineral deficiencies. My aunt has osteoporosis, which the doctor says is a common cause of backache in older people. He prescribed certain sex hormones and calcium tablets with vitamin D. Believe it or not, within 10 days, she was well enough to visit her son's farm."

Lack of sex hormones (following the change of life) is said to affect the calcium and phosphorus content of the bone. This explains why osteoporosis develops several years after the menopause or after age 60 in men. Furthermore, x-rays may show typical bone changes long before backache and weakness arise. Treatment at this time will reverse the osteoporotic process.

Sex hormones (estrogens and/or testosterone) are not as important in treatment as is a diet adequate in calcium, protein, and vitamins A and D.

MANY OLDSTERS are not good eaters; others do not absorb minerals and proteins, even when adequate amounts are taken. Correcting the diet with protein-rich foods is recommended along with vitamins A and D, plus large doses of calcium (dicalcium phosphate or calcium lactate). Milk, too, is rich in calcium. Exercise also helps. Relief of pain occurs within a few weeks and the sufferers feel better and look stronger. They are better able to endure the ordinary strains of life.

Osteoporosis is the most commonly seen metabolic bone disease in the United States. In this disorder, there is thinning of the skeletal tissue due to lack of minerals, such as calcium. In some instances, the bones (including the spine and pelvis) are so weak, spontaneous fractures occur.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

EXERCISE AND HEART

I. B. writes: Is it worse for a man with a bad heart to climb a flight of stairs than to walk on the level?

REPLY

Scientific studies show that the energy used in walking up a flight of stairs is not significantly different from walking on the level. Please note that we said one flight of stairs.

TONSIL POCKETS

V. D. writes: Should tonsils be removed if they have pockets?

REPLY

No. All tonsils have pockets or crypts, because of the presence of innumerable folds. Nothing need be done unless pus pockets develop.

BOILS AND AGE

T. writes: Is old age an invatation to boils?

REPLY

Yes, if you are slipping into elderly adolescence. Boils are more common in teen-agers.

TANTRUMS AT 85

D.L. writes: We all know about temper tantrums in children. But how about discussing this type of behavior in an oldster? I have in mind an 85 year old woman who seems sane, but throws a violent tantrum even when things are going smoothly. Her unreasonable actions are destroying her family. How do you cope with such a situation?

REPLY

This woman is in her second childhood (senile). The family physician may be able to prescribe medication to keep her quiet or to improve circulation to the brain. I assume these attacks are not epileptic seizures.

DON'T PUNISH SELF

K.F. writes: I have arthritis of the knees and feet. Pain is not too severe. Would it be better for me to stay off my feet or do the normal amount of walking?

REPLY

Stay off the feet when the arthritis process is active and the joints are acutely inflamed. Thereafter be up and about, but don't do any unnecessary walking, standing, or climbing stairs. In other words, minimize your activity and avoid undue strain. Meanwhile, check with your physician relative to modern treatment.

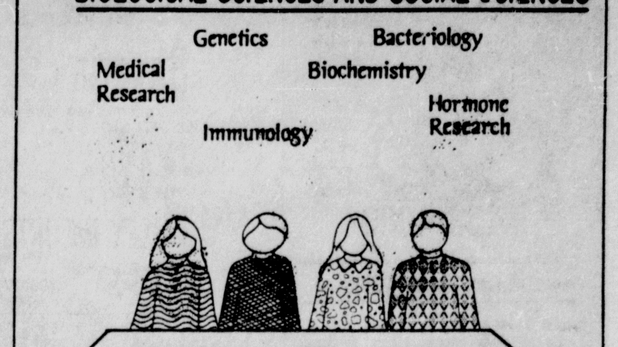
NURSERY SCHOOLS

Mrs. R. L. writes: I have a 3½-year-old son who is full of vitality and asks me questions all day long. There are no children on our block so he plays alone. My neighbors tell me I should send him to nursery school when he is 4, but wouldn't he pick up more infections in school? One 5-year-old caught meningitis at school and nearly died. Does a bright 4-year-old need nursery school?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but sooner or later your son must contend with the outside world, even though his chances of developing infections will increase. I got the impression from your letter that you are overprotecting your child. This is not wise because you are paving the way for feelings of insecurity and other emotional disorders.

EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION BETWEEN BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES



Science Of Biology Emerging As A Giant

Think about the birth control pill and the polio vaccine. Think about genetic counseling and organ transplants. What comes to mind is a mixture of widespread benefits as well as serious legal and ethical issues.

These scientific developments are each part of a larger phenomenon: the growing social impact of progress in the science of biology.

In the future, as scientists add even more to the biological understanding of man, there will be further temptation to intervene in his behavior, his reproduction, his learning, and his health. There will be more opportunities for human betterment and more possibilities for misuse.

What social concerns are involved? The preservation of health, certainly and the value of human life. When is life to begin, when allowed to end, and how well maintained?

The respect for individual rights may also be reexamined. What are the rights of the patients who submit to experiments, the genetically defective couples who want children, or the abnormally violent patient who doesn't want treatment?

Against these and other social concerns must be weighed the possible benefits of the biological future: a cure for disease, an end to malnutrition, a way to improve learning. Certainly these goals are worth pursuing.

Reaping the benefits without the hazards will mean answering difficult practical questions. It will also mean much more — there will have to be a new human ethic, one in which the best of the sciences and the best of the humanities can be mutually reinforcing.

In a few public agencies, and in some research centers such as the Salk Institute, the work toward this end has begun. Studies and action programs have been started that utilize the combined efforts of biologists, scholars in other fields, and public leaders. But much more needs to be done.

The other sciences can only change how men use their environment. Biology can change what men are.

Marines Retiring Last Of Enlisted Man Pilots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Flying Peons—enlisted men serving as pilots—are rapidly fading into oblivion. The Marine Corps retires its last four Thursday.

This will leave only three enlisted men still piloting aircraft in any of the services— all of them Navy chief petty officers.

Almost all air forces around the world make officers of their pilots now—the rank being more a mark of status than of command authority and pilots remain at the top of the prestige heap. For example, many of the men who piloted B52s from Guam to north Vietnam were captains outranked by their navigators, who often were majors.

But the pilots get the best single rooms on Guam while senior crewmen have complained they are jammed into barracks-like quarters.

At the peak of the enlisted pilot program, the Navy had 920 in 1950 and the Marine Corps about 500 in World War II. The Air Force never had any, although its predecessor, the Army Air Corps of World War II, graduated 1,125.

The Marine enlisted pilot program dates back to World War I. Over the years the pilots have been called Flying Sergeants, Enlisted Pilots and Flying Peons.

One of the more curious exploits in air warfare was fought by a Flying Peon, Marine M.Sgt. Herbert Valentine, during the Korean war. He had become an ace during World War II when he shot down six Japanese fighters in one day.

In Korea he was flying a small unarmed observation plane one day when he spotted a jeep carrying a North Korean general who sat ramrod straight with his arms folded as Valentine flew in low. The Flying Peon decided to attack although the only armament he and his observer had were .38 caliber pistols.

There ensued a 20-mile running battle with a rifleman in the jeep returning Valentine's fire. Neither side scored an effective hit.

Running low on ammunition, Valentine swooped down for one last attack. The jeep driver looked over his shoulder toward Valentine at the wrong moment, lost control and hurtled over a cliff. As the jeep pitched to destruction, Valentine could see the general, still sitting erect with arms akimbo.

The last four Marine Flying Peons are all master sergeants: Robert Lurie, 51, of Barksdale, Calif., the only one trained in jet aircraft; Joseph A. Conroy, 51, of Havelock, N.C., who started flying with the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1942; Leslie T. Ericson, 52, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; and Patrick J. O'Neil, 51, of Imperial Beach, Calif.

All four have flown in combat in the last three wars, except for Lurie, who missed World War II combat.

Lurie and Conroy will retire Thursday at Cherry Point Naval Air Station, N.C., and Ericson and O'Neil at El Toro Air Station, Calif., bringing an end to the Flying Peons of the Marine Corps.

Guilty Plea In Grand Theft Case

Lonnie Lawder Rivas, 26, of Petaluma, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a felony count of grand theft on condition he receives no more than three months in jail.

The proposed penalty was part of a plea bargain with Judge David Menary Jr., who set sentencing for March 5.

Rivas admitted participating in the theft of a $350 watch from two teen-agers Aug. 14 in the parking lot at Mayfair Market in San Rafael.

Rivas, Herman Sanchez, 27, of San Rafael, and Larry Paul Slager, 25, of San Rafael, all originally were charged with robbery, but in each case the charge was reduced.

Sanchez, also known as Joseph Rivera, pleaded guilty to grand theft and is to be sentenced Monday. Slager served 11 days in jail after pleading guilty to battery.

ROLLING SMOOTHLY ALONG

Buses have the best of it these days on the San Bernadino Freeway between El Monte and Los Angeles, rolling along in their own lane in the center of the freeway at a top speed of 70 miles an hour and shaving at least 15 minutes off rush hour travel time. Financed by state and federal grants, the $53 million busway will eventually grow to 11 miles and will be completed in mid-1974.

Marin Recreation Seeks $3.5 Million For Space

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Department today reported a $3.5 million "shopping list" of open space lands it would like to acquire this year for the new regional park district.

The document pinpoints six areas in the county which have been judged to be of "countywide importance" and in need of public acquisition.

As expected, the document includes the long-sought Northridge between Mill Valley, Corte Madera and Larkspur. Other areas are Big Rock Ridge in Lucas Valley, Cascade Canyon in Fairfax, Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Penninsula, Wolfback Ridge overlooking Sausalito and the ridge dividing San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow.

County Parks Director Pierre W. Joske, who doubles as general manager of the new regional park district, said the document was developed by his staff and a committee of the parks and recreation commission.

He had declined Monday to reveal its contents to a group of city officials from Corte Madera, Mill Valley and Larkspur, who had met to discuss the Northridge acquistion plan.

Joske told the Independent-Journal today he had declined to discuss the document because he didn't have a copy Monday and feared giving incorrect information from memory.

No priority has been given to the six areas, he said, adding he doubted all could be purchased this year, even using long-range financing.

The Northridge is listed at 218,000 acres with an assessor's fair market value of about $685,000 or $3,144 per acre. The land, divided into 31 separate parcels, has been the center of open-space attention for more than a year.

The county's interest in Big Rock Ridge, meanwhile, is listed as starting with 119 acres with an assessor's market value of about $150,000 or $1,242 per acre. Portions of the Big Rock area currently are under heavy development pressure.

Cascade Canyon is the largest area listed, showing some 436 acres in one ownership, valued by the assessor at $171,000 or $436 per acre.

Ring Mountain on the Tiburon Peninsula is visible from Highway 101 at Corte Madera behind the town's controversial Madera Del Presidio housing development proposal. The mountain totals 371 acres with an assessor's value of $1.3 million of $3,610 per acre.

Wolfback Ridge, which was not included in the federal government's Golden Gate National Recreation Area, overlooks Sausalito and has been backed for acquisition by many residents. It is listed at 154 acres with an assessor's value of $175,444 or $1,132 per acre. The area has been subject to a building moratorium by the city of Sausalito.

The ridge between San Rafael and Sleepy Hollow is listed at 387 acres with an assessor's value of $928,000, or $2,396 per acre.

Joske said he was hopeful the county and city of San Rafael could wrk jointy on purchasing the tree-covered ridge.

The shopping list will be considered by the county board of supervisors, sitting as the board of directors of the regional park district, on Feb. 13 at 8:30 a.m. at the Civic Center.

Joske said the primary tool for keeping the land open will be long-range financing, if the board agrees. Currently, the county has about $700,000 budgeted for open space. Those funds will probably be shifted to the new park district.

Another Four File School Board Papers

Four more candidates have filed nomination papers to get their names on school district ballots for the trustee elections April, 17. Two others announced candidacy today but have not yet filed.

Paul K. McMullen, who was appointed to the San Rafael Board of Education last April, filed for election to a full term. He is a public relations official for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco.

McMullen is the first person to file for one of the two vacancies on the board. William Compagna of 206 Marin Street, has taken out papers, but had made no formal announcement. He could not be reached today.

Thomas A. Guerin of 11 Ames Street, Ross, became the second candidate to file for the Ross board. He has lived in Ross seven years. He and his wife, Janice, have two children in school and three past school age.

Guerin has coached Little League baseball and girls' soccer in Ross and basketball for the Catholic Youth Organization.

He received a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Santa Clara, and is a certified public accountant with offices in San Francisco.

He said his financial background, plus the experience of his five children in schools gave him a background that would be helpful to the other trustees.

Incumbent Sally Ann Rakow filed previously for one of the two seats open on the Ross board.

There were two filings for the Lagunitas School District board, Harry R. Smith of 15 Corona Avenue, and Lee DiVinzenzo of 320 Centure Avenue, Lagunitas.

Mrs. DiVincenzo formerly was a full-time teacher, and has been a substitute teacher in the Lagunitas district for the past two years, she said.

She and her husband, Joseph, a designer and artist, have lived in the community five years and have two children. She was graduated from California Western University in San Diego.

Smith could not be reached for information on his candidacy.

Dr. Thomas D. Spencer of 429 Live Oak Drive, Tamalpais Valley, announced he will run for one of three seats on the Mill Valley School District board.

He teaches child psychology at California State University in San Francisco and is director of the university's child learning center. Spencer is 35. He and his wife Gloria have two daughters. They have lived in the Mill Valley district for five years. Mrs. Spencer, a former teacher, has been president of the Tamalpais Valley School P-TA and a member of the district P-TA Council.

Cate Bauer, a Mill Valley housewife, and Harold Drob, business manager of the Learning Resources Center at the University of California Medical Center, previously filed. Incumbents John G. Eliot and John H. Cutler have announced they will seek reelection. The third term expiring in June is that of William P. Everts.

Candidates' filings will close at 5 p.m. Feb. 16.

Auto Crash Injuries Are Minor

A Petaluma woman and her daughter escaped with minor injuries yesterday when their auto rolled over on Highway 101 near Terra Linda after striking a barrier on the freeway.

The California Highway Patrol said Judith A. Miller, 24, of 1505 Pheasant Drive, was northbound on the highway about 8:30 p.m. when a truck pulled in front of her car and suddenly slowed down.

Officers said Mrs. Miller swerved to avoid a collision, struck the barrier and rolled over.

Mrs. Miller was treated for minor leg injuries at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael. Her daughter, Jody, 7, was treated at the hospital for a cut lip.

SPEAKER — Rev. John V. Ohlin of Springfield, Mo., field representative for the Assemblies of God Spiritual Life-Evangelism Commission, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Central Assembly of God, San Rafael.

A Warning Issued On Ovenware

San Rafael police today issued an urgent warning to anyone in Marin who may recently have bought potentially dangerous ovenware, a brand peddled from the streets and likely to explode in the heat of an oven.

Dennis Lee Travis, 23, of Norwalk, and Russell Duane Chesmore, 22, of Cudahay, both Los Angeles County, were arrested just before 11 a.m. and were to be booked at Marin County jail, according to police.

Assist. Police Chief Thomas L. Stephensen promptly issued the warning on "Queen Victoria" ovenware.

At least five persons yesterday purchased sets totaling 81 pieces of the ovenware, sold for $20 and claimed to be worth $89.50 a set, police reported.

A van with Chesmore in it, pulled into the Golden Gate Transit offices at 517 Jacoby Street at 11:30 a.m. where four sets were sold to employees.

After a warning was issued on a television station last night, Thomassine Keels of 1368 San Jose Boulevard, Novato, reported to San Rafael police that she had bought a set of the ovenware that afternoon from a van in front of 64 Gary Place, San Rafael.

According to San Rafael police, San Francisco police and San Francisco Better Business Bureau have issued repeated warnings against the ovenware.

The Independent-Journal carried a warning about it on Jan. 19 on the business page.

Water Warning Is Now Lifted

A contaminated water warning for the Muir Beach area — imposed because of recent floods — has been lifted by the county, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, announced yesterday.

Dr. Albrecht said residents no longer need boil water five minutes prior to human consumption.

"Recent bacteriological tests on samples of water from your system are entirely satisfactory," she wrote to the Muir Beach Community Services District board.

Assassination Plot Was Flop

BEIRUT (UPI) — Marxist guerrillas plotted to assassinate the Sultan of Oman and overthrow his regime in a widespread insurrection scheduled for New Year's Eve but the plot was foiled, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar said today.

The forces of Sultan Qabus ben Said discovered and foiled the plot through the arrest of a guerrilla leader in Muscat, the newspaper said.

Guidelines On Impact Reports Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An unemployed hardhat worker and conservationists yesterday criticized proposed Reagan administration guidelines to implement the state's controversial new environmental impact reporting law.

Conservationist representatives testified at a public hearing that the guidelines fail to make adequate provision for citizens to participate in the review of environmental impact reports on proposed construction.

Other witnesses representing cities, builders and water users indicated they could live with the guidelines. Most offered technical suggested changes to make the proposal more palatable.

But Bud Weeks of Citrus Heights, a jobless operating engineer who said he represented "hardhats, citizens and taxpayers," told the hearing called by Resources Secretary Norman Livermore Jr. that environmentalists already had gone too far.

He cited lawsuits filed to block construction of new dams, highways and powerplants as examples of action by environmentalists which he said threw thousands of workers out of jobs.

"Some people have forgotten to use good common sense and have gone to an extreme on environmental issues," Weeks declared. "Before long we'll have to file an environmental impact report before we can mow the grass in our own yards."

"You've struck a very important chord," Livermore told him.

The hearing was held to receive testimony on guidelines for local government to implement legislation spawned by a controversial 1972 state Supreme Court decision which held that reports must be filed on private as well as public projects which posed a "significant" impact on the environment.

The Legislature last year rushed through "emergency" legislation declaring a 120-day moratorium on filing the reports and ordered the Resources Agency to develop guidelines for implementation of the law.

Representatives of the Sierra Club, Planning and Conservation League and Environmental Defense Fund generally agreed the proposed guidelines represented a "step in the right direction" but attacked features they said prevent the public from participating in the review of environmental impact reports.

"They are outrageous because they subtly, albeit systematically, exclude the public from any participation in the environmental impact report review process," charged Thomas J. Graff, regional counsel of the Environmental Defense Fund.

He said this flew in the face of both existing legislation and the Supreme Court's environmental ruling. Graff added, "the guidelines appear deliberately to refrain from mentioning even the possibility of public input."

The guidelines, which must be adopted by Feb. 5, were drafted chiefly by John Tooker, director of the state Office of Planning and Research.

He announced several proposed changes to the guidelines including one that would allow use of the same impact report for two or more projects provided they were nearly identical. Such a revision was called for by the California Builders Council.

Factions In Laos Talk Cease-Fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Government and Communist Pathet Lao representatives opened private negotiations today, discussing a Laos cease-fire and other issues. Sources close to the talks called it a frank and honest exchange.

The two-hour meeting, the first discussions of their type to be held since peace negotiations started here in mid-October, took place this afternoon in what the sources decribed as a "very good atmosphere."

Government officials have welcomed the private meetings as a vehicle to a cease-fire agreement in Laos, which is the scene of continuing bombing by B52 strategic bombers and jet fighter bombers following last Saturday's Vietnam cease-fire.

The sources here declined to discuss the substance of today's private talks, held in the home of one of the government negotiators. Four government representatives and three Pathet Lao negotiators took part.

Well-informed sources said, however, that today's discussions were only in general terms. One source said the government proposal to split the private discussions into separate political and military committees had not materialized.

It was not immediately known whether any firm time was set for the next private meeting, expected to be held at the Pathet Lao permanent mission in Vientiane.

It was believed government representatives wished to consult with Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma who was scheduled to return here from Bangkok late Thursday afternoon.

In Bangkok, Souvanna was reported "delighted" with hope offered by the talks. According to Deputy Foreign Minister Chartchai Chunhawan, Souvanna in a meeting with Thai Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn reported a cease-fire in Laos appeared to be getting closer.

U.S. bombing in Laos has continued since last Sunday morning in the absence of a provision for a cease-fire here in the Vietnam agreements. Strategic B52 bombers based at U-tapao in Thailand were being used along the Ho Chi Minh supply complex in southern Laos.

Xerox Charged With A Copying Monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) officially accused Xerox Corp. today of monopolizing the $1.7 billion office copying machines business, and demanded the company take steps to correct the situation.

The FTC said Xerox built its monopoly through unfair marketing and patent practices, and by stopping foreign affiliates from competing with the parent firm in the United States.

The firm had no comment on the FTC suit. But it had said on Dec. 12 that the case was "ill founded and without merit." The FTC originally proposed the complaint Dec. 12 after negotiations to settle the matter through the usual consent procedure —where a company involved agrees to change its policies without admitting guilt — failed.

As a result, the FTC made the complaint official today and turned the matter over to one of its law judges.

The complaint alleges Xerox so dominated the market it accounted for 86 per cent of all the revenues from the sale and lease of machines in the market during 1971. The corporation's position was even more dominant —95 per cent of all revenues —in the $1 billion segment of the market concerned with copiers which use plain, untreated paper.

The FTC said Xerox has, through its monopoly position, forced customers to lease, rather than buy, its equipment; charged different customers different prices; monopolized and attempted to monopolize copier patents; used its patent position to head off potential competition and, with a British connection, "effectively divided up the world market for plain paper office copiers."

The FTC demanded Xerox offer unrestricted, royalty-free licensing of all existing office copier patents, and unrestricted licensing of any copier patents it might obtain during the next 20 years.

The agency also demanded Xerox divest its stock in Rank Xerox Ltd., of Great Britain, and drop any prohibition against that firm selling its products in the United States. In addition, it said Xerox should be forbidden from refusing to sell its machines; prohibited from acquiring the stock of any other copier firm; and told to drop any requirement that Xerox be the sole source for maintenance and repair of its leased copiers.

Excessive Spending Atop Nixon's Economic Goals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation and unemployment have taken a back seat to excessive federal spending at the top of President Nixon's list of economic problems.

Nixon made that clear today in his annual economic message to Congress. He said 1973 "can be a great year" for the economy if only the government doesn't spend too much of the taxpayers money.

It was the same theme Nixon stressed in his budget message two days ago. Congress, not the White House, will be the culprit if a new round of inflation forces a tax increase, he said.

Just three weeks after introducing a new format of voluntary wage-price guidelines, the President also advised the country to prepare for the end of economic controls. He did not mention a specific date for the total phase out of controls, however.

In a lengthy report that accompanied Nixon's message, the Council of Economic Advisors forecast another healthy year of economic growth with a modest decline in employment but little change in the overall rate of inflation. Food prices should decline in the months ahead, however, the Council said.

The current "vigorous expansion" that is boosting the economy closer to capacity and lowering unemployment could become too much of a good thing, according to Nixon.

"The problem, as far as can now be foreseen, will be to prevent this expansion from becoming an inflationary boom. That is why I put restraining federal expenditures at the top of the list of economic policies for 1973," Nixon said.

"Nothing is easier or more pleasant, at least for a bureaucracy, than to spend money... only by holding the line on federal spending will we be able to reduce the inflation rate further in 1973."

Nixon already has asked Congress for mandatory spending ceiling of $269 billion, the same as his budget request, for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Noting the nation's continuing foreign trade deficit, Nixon said, "This is not a situation that can go on indefinitely." He indicated that trade and other international economic matters would get lots of attention in 1973.

Last year, the United States imported $6 billion more than it exported, a record trade deficit. The administration hoped the dollar devaluation would improve the competitive position of the United States with its trading partners but Nixon's economic counselors predicted the trade balance would improve by only $2.5 billion in 1973, still leaving the nation $3.5 billion in the red.

The council also listed these figures in its 1973 forecast:

A 10 per cent or $115 billion increase in gross national product to $1,267 billion ($1.3 trillion).

"Real" or non-inflated economic growth of 6 ¾ per cent compared to an estimated 6.5 per cent in 1972.

Annual price increases averaging 3 per cent, about the same as last year.

A decline in the unemployment rate from the current 5.2 per cent to "the neighborhood of 4.5 per cent by the end of the year."

Student Offers To Share Award

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A UCLA law student who last week won a $655,000 fraud judgment from a Beverly Hills leasing firm says he wants to share the money with others who have been victimized.

David Sabih and his wife Elaine were awarded the settlement Jan. 22 in a suit against Cal-Pacific Leasing Co. Inc.

Sabih said Tuesday he wants others to contact him if they feel they have been bilked by the same company, but do not have enough money to go to court.

Sheep Fleeced As Tax Protest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sam Prather, a rancher from Philo in Mendocino County, fleeced a sheep in front of the Federal Building on Tuesday as a protest against income taxes.

Other protestors carried signs saying, "Every Day is Fleece-in Day at the IRS" and "Warning—the IRS is Dangerous to Your Wealth."

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 31, the 31st day of 1973 with 334 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American novelist Zane Grey was born Jan. 31, 1872.

On this day in history:

In 1950, President Harry Truman disclosed that he had ordered development of the hydrogen bomb.

In 1958, Explorer 1, the first U.S. earth satellite, was launched from the Cape Canaveral, now Kennedy missile test center.

In 1961, Ham, a male chimpanzee, was rocketed into space in a test of the Project Mercury capsule later to carry an American astronaut into orbit.

In 1971, with three astronauts aboard, the Apollo 14 spacecraft blasted off for the moon.

A thought for the day: U.S. novelist Christopher Morley said, "Man must learn, or his name is mud, to relish the ebb as well as the flood."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — "Bellevue" is a one-hour special presenting a day in the life of New York's East Side hospital. Stacy Keach narrates.

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — Merv Griffin, comedian Larry Storch and the Mike Curb Congregation add to the music and merriment on "The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour."

KQED (9), 8 p.m. — Premiering is "America '73," a new series from the National Public Affairs Center for Television. The first program focuses on health care and the efforts of people who are working within the system for change.

KTVU (2), 9 p.m. — "They've Killed President Lincoln" is an hour-long special documenting the events prior to the assassination. Joseph Leisch has the principal role. Richard Basehart is the narrator.

"However, son, man does not live by bread alone."

A Chilling Picture Of Next Quake

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A major earthquake will some day strike San Francisco again, causing "one of the greatest disasters ever experienced in the United States," a state official said yesterday.

Residents should prepare to take care of themselves during the hours after the quake, he said.

"Only God can help you, other than yourself during the first few minutes after a quake strikes," said Herbert R. Temple, director of the governor's Office of Emergency Services (OES).

"A major earthquake occurring in the San Francisco Bay Area will result in one of the greatest disasters ever experienced in the United States, thereby requiring massive assistance be provided to affected communities," Temple predicted.

An earthquake with a Richter Scale reading over 6.0 will be devastating, he said. The San Francisco quake of 1906 was 8.25 and killed over 400 persons.

The state agency is preparing an earthquake response plan for the nine-county San Francisco Bay Area encompassing 92 cities. The final blueprint will be a pilot project from which California officials hope to build a model for application cities throughout the rest of the state.

But the real key to success "lies at the local level." Temple said his agency has launched a series of animated shorts for use on television and in schools, giving instruction to residents on how to prepare for an earthquake and what to do when it occurs.

"Since the Bay Area is traversed by several active faults, any community may suffer serious damages in the event of a major earthquake. At the same time, others will be less damaged and some may be unaffected."

Hard hit areas will get help from less affected cities. "This prompt initial response would be followed by help from more distant parts of the state and from outside the state," Temple said.

The agency will organize relief efforts, tabulate location of emergency rations and equipment and funnel information regarding communications, resources, maps, emergency procedures, location of key facilities, high risk areas and transportation routes to victims through use of the news media.

In addition, OES plans workshops in each county "to enable the local jurisdictions to tailor the operations guide to their community."

The entire plan is to be completed by July of this year. Following its conclusion "there will be an exercise to test its effectiveness," Temple said.

TOPICS FOR KTIM SHOW ANNOUNCED

Speakers on the program "What's New in Marin" at 9 a.m. Friday on KTIM will be Dorothy Brown of the Dixie Schoolhouse Foundation, Marcelett Henry of the Tamalpais High School homemaking department, men's hair stylist Fred Esparza and Sylvia Siegle, consumer advocate.

Mrs. Brown will discuss the recent naming of the Old Dixie Schoolhouse as an historical site, while Mrs. Henry will describe the new consumer resource center at Tamalpais High School.

Esparza will talk about men's hair styles, and Mrs. Siegle will discuss regulations covering household moving.

'All In The Family' Tops The Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "All in the Family" continues to lead the nation's 20 most popular television shows, according to A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings made public Monday.

The national ratings, for the week of Jan. 15-21, showed the winners in this order:

"All in the Family," CBS; "Bob Hope Christmas Show," Jack Benney's First Farewell Special," "Sanford & Son," "Walt Disney," "Sunday Mystery Movie" and "Mary Tyler Moore, both CBS, and "The Flip Wilson Show," NBC.

Other winners were "Bob Newhart," CBS; "Marcus Welby, M.D.," ABC; "Hawaii Five-O," CBS; "Tuesday Night Movie," ABC; "Gunsmoke" and "Maude," CBS; "Odd Couple," "Partridge Family and "Room 222," all ABC.

New Alarm System In Fairfax

The Fairfax Police Department has installed a new burglary alarm system for use by residents and businessmen on a subscription basis, Police Chief Charles A. Grasso announced yesterday.

First Federal Savings and Loan, which opened a branch in Fairfax Jan. 2, is the department's only subscriber.

Grasso, who urged all residents and businessmen to make use of the service - available for installation costs and a monthly fee of up to $30 - said the system has an "unlimited capacity to act as a deterent to criminals."

A buzzer sounds and a light flashes in the department when the alarm is tripped in a subscriber's home or business, he said, adding the system is similar to those used by other police departments.

Grasso predicted a reduction in local crimes through use of the alarm system.

Chamber Players Set Performance

The San Francisco Conservatory Chamber Players will perform at 5 p.m. Sunday at St. Stephen's Parish in Belvedere.

The program will include pieces of Vivaldi and Bach and will feature cello, piano, guitar, oboe and flute. The performance is one of a series of St. Stephen's Parish Vesper Concerts.

The Buddy System In 49er Secondary

REDWOOD CITY — Only minutes after finding out he was San Francisco's number one pick in the NFL player draft yesterday, Mike Holmes was learning the 49ers' defensive system. His teacher? Ralph McGill, 49er defensive back who was a second round draft choice last year.

Holmes, a defensive back voted most valuable player on the Texas Southern University football team, and McGill, from the University of Tulsa, are close friends. They were at the Houston Oilers' offices yesterday observing the draft proceedings. That was where Holmes was reached by the Bay Area press, which conducted a "squawk box" interview shortly after the 49ers had announced him as their top pick in the college grab bag.

THE 21-YEAR-OLD Holmes, 6-foot-1 and 190 pounds, admitted he was surprised to be a No. 1 pick, but added, "I knew I would go somewhere in the area between rounds one and four."

He had seen the 49er play a number of times on television because "I was tight with Ralph McGill" whom he had met one night at a party. Holmes, an honor student at TSU, will be no dummy when it comes time to talk contract and he already has engaged Clifford Paul of National Sports in Houston, the same agent who handled McGill's negotiations. But the two buddies might find themselves fighting for the same position later this year at the 49ers' training camp.

Holmes said his goal is to break into the 49ers' lineup. "My main objective is to play as a rookie. I don't like to sit on the bench." Since the 49ers have five veteran defensive backs and two who will be in their second years, the competition in the defensive secondary will be fierce.

HOLMES, WHO CALLED defensive signals at Texas Southern, said he was looking forward to a trip to the West in about three weeks. "Ralph told me how beautiful San Francisco is."

San Francisco head coach Dick Nolan was very high on Holmes, as he should be since he was the team's top choice at No. 18 in the first round. "He is quick, has good speed and good range," said Nolan.

By the time it was San Francisco's turn to pick in the first round, the major running back candidates had already been picked. Otis Armstrong of Purdue was grabbed by Denver, Sam Cunningham of USC was taken by New England, Chuck Foreman of Miami went to Minnesota and George Amundson of Iowa State to Houston, all in the space of six selections. Two wide receivers and a lineman later it was San Francisco's turn. So they went with Holmes. The only running back who went later in the first round was Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, but surely San Diego plans to make a wide receiver out of him. At 173 pounds he can't be expected to bowl over any 260-pound linemen.

IN ADDITION to running back, another 49er deficiency this past season was at middle linebacker, where six-year veteran Frank Nunley had an unimpressive season. Although the Niners didn't get a middle linebacker, they got a really fine outside linebacker candidate in Willie Harper of Nebraska, a two-year All-American. He played defensive end for the Cornhuskers but in their system it was the same as linebacker, with Harper responsible for pass coverage as well as line play.

It prompted the question yesterday: Would Skip Vanderbundt be switched to middle linebacker to make room for Harper? "I don't think we're considering moving Skip inside," was the answer from 49er linebacker coach Mike Giddings and later echoed by Nolan. Instead, Giddings is hoping the team will carry six linebackers next season instead of five.

The Nebraska press book listed Harper at 6-foot-2 and 207 pounds but Nolan said his weight now was closer to 215 and he would probably "be around 220" when he reports to camp.

Giddings watched Nebraska play on television and said he was very impressed by the play of Harper. "He seems to have a nose for the football. I sure remember seeing that No. 81 all over the field."

Nolan said he watched Harper in the Senior Bowl and "he is very hard to knock off his feet. He has good balance." And he's coming from a winning team, which Nolan admits, "means a great deal."

ACROSS THE BAY, the Raiders might have filled three roster positions in one player by their selection of Ray Guy, All-American from University of Southern Mississippi, in the first round. He led the nation in punting, averaging 46.2 yards per kick, tied for seventh in the nation in interceptions (8) as a defensive back, and also is a place kicker. And George Blanda can't go on forever.

The teams are going at it again today, and when all the rumpled papers and notes are discarded and all the empty coffee cups washed, more than 400 college players will have been picked over by the pros.

I wonder if they will ever get to Oliver Snidely?

4 Marinites In Roadster Show

Four Marin car owners have entered the 25th annual National Roadster Show Feb. 16-25 at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

San Rafael's Mike Mitchell, Ray Galleguilo and Larrie Mead plus Novato's Ken Silvestri will be among the 200 entrants in the show, which features hand-crafted hot rods, custom cars, sports vehicles, dragsters, motorcycles, and powerboats.

Mitchell will present his 1973 Plymouth Barracuda "funny car." Mitchell built his entry around a 490-cubic Chrysler hemi engine. Mead will present a 1971 custom built sports roadster. Silvestri will bring a 1973 Corvette, while Galleguilo will show a sprint car.

NEW CHARGER — Johnny Rodgers, the Heisman Trophy winner from the University of Nebraska, will have to change the uniform of his plaster doll from Cornhusker to Charger, after learning at his home in Lincoln, Neb., that he had been named San Diego's first-round pick in the National Football League player draft yesterday.

San Marin Cagers Throttle Tamalpais

Win Led By Wright And Doar

By LEW CODDINGTON

With Hoza Wright throwing in field goals with his customary aplomb and Fred Doar holding court at the free throw line, San Marin High School led virtually all the way last night to post a 79-70 basketball victory over Tamalpais.

Wright scored 28 points, tying the high performance in the Marin County Athletic League this season, while Doar set a new MCAL seasonal high with 10 free throws among his 22 points.

300 FANS

About 300 fans at San Marin witnessed the Mustangs' victory, which was their third straight and moved them into the heavily congested second spot in the MCAL race with a 4-3 record, a game back of Drake's 5-2. Tied with San Marin are Marin Catholic, Novato, Redwood and Terra Linda. Tam is last at 1-6.

Purely and simply, the game was decided at the free throw line. Each team made the same number of field goals, 29, and each had the same number of free throw attempts, 28. San Marin made 21 of them, however, while Tam hit just 12. Doar, a 6-foot-2 senior forward, made 10 of 14.

BRIEF LEAD

Tam led briefly, 5-2, but San Marin quickly took command behind the outside shooting of Wright, a 6-2 senior guard, and went up 38-24 midway through the second quarter.

The Indians rallied in the second half behind the varied shooting of 6-4 junior Mike Dinehart, who finished with 26 points, and 6-4 senior Hollis Owens, who neeted 17.

The closest they could get, however, was five points on two occasions. With the score 55-50, San Marin center John Tait went to work with a short jump shot and two follows during a stretch in which the Mustangs increased their lead to 65-55. After Tam inched back to 65-59, Doar hit two free throws and a jumper from the head of the key, Wright hit a jumper, and with 2:23 left the score was 71-62 and the game was all but over.

San Marin — Wright 12-4-28, Starnes 2-2-6, Tait 5-3-13, Doar 6-10-22, Stublarec 0-2-2, Butti 1-0-2, Smith 3-0-6. Totals: 29-21-79.

Tamalpais — Dinehart 11-4-26, Dickens 1-0-2, Owens 7-3-17, McFerrin 3-0-6, Murphy 5-2-12, Williams 1-1-3, Winterling 1-2-4, Totals: 29-12-70.

THE WRIGHT WAY — San Marin High School's Hoza Wright (35) leaped high in an effort to block a shot by Jared McFerrin (dark uniform) of Tamalpais in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game at San Marin. Wright scored 28 points and San Marin won, 79-70.

Pros Finally Draft Ohio State Player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State, the Big Ten Rose Bowl representative this year which did not have a player selected in the first seven rounds Tuesday, had four grabbed up quickly today as the National Football League moved into the second day of its annual player draft.

Rick Seifert, a defensive back, was chosen by the New York Jets on the eighth round. On the same round, the New York Giants took defensive tackle George Hasenohrl and Detroit, on a choice from Cleveland, grabbed running back John Bledsoe. Rich Galbos, also a running back, went to Washington on the ninth round.

Mike Rae, the quarterback who directed Southern California to the national title, went to Oakland on the eighth round. Rae was the 11th quarterback selected.

Most of the big names went early in the first seven rounds Tuesday and a mere handful of nationally known players, the most notable being Penn State quarterback John Hufnagel, was available today as the clubs chose the remainder of the 442 collegians. Today's session will be devoted to finding the rare gems that sometimes pop up in the late stages.

Tuesday's lengthy early going was devoted almost exclusively to linemen, as eight of the first 10 players selected and 12 of the first 26 were linemen.

Sagging Warriors Vs. 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Can the Golden State warriors obtain any brotherly love from a team which has won only four of 54 games?

The Warriors are hoping they can find some sympathy here tonight when they continue their ill-fated tour of the eastern seaboard against the hapless Philadelphia 76ers. They certainly didn't find any the past two nights in New York or Baltimore, losing 104-86 to the Bullets Tuesday night.

In two nights, the Warriors lost their shooting eyes— scoring only 84 and 86 points.

What hurts is that Rick Barry and Nate Thurmond—usually two of the team's big scorers—can't seem to find the range lately. Barry tallied 13 and Thurmond only 11 against the Bullets as the Warriors dropped their fourth straight and eighth in the last 13.

The schedule also is inclined to disfavor the Warriors, who are playing in four different cities on four straight nights.

Veteran guard Archie Clark paced the Bullets with 24 points and 11 assists in only his eighth game since ending a 43-game holdout. Teammate Mike Riordan also tallied 24 points.

In a decisive third period, former Cal star Phil Chenier scored 11 of his 19 points and Clark added six assists to lift the Bullets from a 52-45 halftime advantage into an 81-67 bulge at the end of three periods.

Cronin: Hitter Rule Will Attract Talent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Old baseball players no longer need fade away.

They can always join an American League club as the designated hitter for the pitcher.

Admitting the league is trying to "get a little more offense in the game" and at the same time "encourage young talent to go into baseball," American League President Joe Cronin met with the circuit's umpires Tuesday to familiarize them with the new rule.

One half of the "national pastime" (the American League), trying to keep in step with the growing popularity of football and basketball, adopted earlier this month what one official termed the sport's "biggest change in 81 years" when it passed the "designated hitter for the pitcher" rule.

The AL adopted the rule change on a three year trial basis. The National League will retain the status quo and, as a result, the designated hitter rule will not be in effect for the All-Star Game and World Series competition.

"We feel the rule is the best method to encourage young talent into baseball," said Cronin. "There are big strong fellows who can hit but not much of anything else. We hope they will look to baseball as an occupation.

"We realize the great inroads made by basketball and football into our sport. Basketball and football have built-in farm systems. It costs us $900,000 to $1.3 million to develop a player."

"The biggest change in baseball in 81 years," was the description given to the new rule by Bob Holbrook, the executive assistant to Cronin. "This is the biggest change since baseball eliminated the rule which said a player couldn't leave the game unless he was injured."

Both the International League and the Texas League will also have the designated hitter rule in effect this season and the other 13 minor leagues may yet decide to adopt it.

Foreman, who wrested the title from Joe Frazier last Monday, arrived in the East Bay where he usually trains at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday, got some sleep and turned up as guest of honor at an impromptu reception.

Three-hundred persons, most of them youngsters, greeted Foreman when he arrived in a police car with siren wailing.

The new champ gave his thanks each time he received a gift—a plaque, Boys Club windbreaker, key to the city, bundle of carnations and an honorary membership in the Hayward fire department.

Then escorted by policemen, Foreman left the steps and turned into a dead-end alley. He turned and fought his way, gently, through a maze of youngsters into the building.

San Rafael Turns Back Fairfield

Guard Scott Brown and center Pete Neuwald came off the bench in the fourth quarter to combine for 14 points — their entire output for the game — and lead San Rafael High School to a 55-52 non-league basketball victory over visiting Fairfield yesterday.

The Bulldogs (10-11) trailed by eight points, 47-39, before the two players entered the game.

San Rafael's scoring was led by Larry Meyers with 13 points and Dan Zitek with 12. Coach Bret Tovani did not play four cagers who normally start — Byron Stewart, Steve D'Ambra, Kevin Gallivan and the injured Guy Perry, who is expected to be ready to play Friday.

McKee's Takes Win In Rec Basketball

Mike Anthony scored 23 points and Clem Glynn 22 as McKee's edged Mike's Bar and Grill, 54-52, in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league game last night.

In other contests, the Over the Hill gang beat the San Rafael Saints in overtime, 45-43, on a back-door layup by Paul Chaffe; and Suburban Auto had two men with seven points and three more with six in beating King Realty, 45-37.

East Beats West In 'Soft' Hockey

NEW YORK (UPI) — They billed it as an All-Star game but "Powderpuff Derby" might have been a more appropriate sobriquet so it wasn't all that suprising when Greg Polis and Bobby Schmautz emerged as the unlikely heroes of the National Hockey League's 26th annual midseason "classic."

Polis, who only showed up in time for the game because his wife cooperated in delivering a seven-pound, 14-ounce baby boy 16 hours before the opening faceoff Tuesday night, scored two goals for the losing West team and went back home to Pittsburgh with a brand new Charger as the Most Valuable Player.

Schmautz, a last-minute addition to the team as the only representative from the Vancouver Canucks, scored the winning goal that gave the favored East its surprisingly difficult 5-4 triumph.

Despite the outpouring of goals, the game was far from "classic" proportions. The hardest check thrown all nigh came midway through the firs period when linesman Joh D'Amico collided with th East's Jacques Lemair against the boards. And at on time during the third stanz Frank Mahovlich of the Eas and Barry Gibbs of the Wes looked like they were giving th capacity crowd of 17,500 a ne rendition of "the Skater' Waltz" after accidentall bumping into each other alon the boards.

But if the fans were expectin anything more than a skatin exhibition, they should hav been forewarned when Bobb Orr, the most glamorous of Al Stars, gracefully skated out fo the pre-game introductions an then promptly slipped and fe flat on his behind while hi teammates looked on in astor ishment.

Plunkett Facing Surgery

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Former Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett faced probable knee surgery today and the New England Patriots kept fingers crossed after trying to find him 1973 help in the National Football League draft.

The Patriots, an NFL weakling, picked a huge blocking lineman and a couple of outstanding backs among the first 19 players chosen in the annual grab-bag Tuesday before disclosing that Plunkett was hurting.

Plunkett, a marked man often clobbered while trying to quarterback a woeful offense last season, re-injured his right knee while getting out of his car on the eve of the draft.

The former All-American from Stanford was examined and then ordered to go to Oklahoma City to consult with Dr. Donald Donohue, who has operated on many professional athletes, including Sonny Jurgensen of the Washington Redskins.

"I don't think it's too bad —it should be a simple operation," Plunkett said before limping into Logan International Airport in Boston and then accepting a ride to a plane for the flight to Oklahoma.

NBA ROUNDUP

Cavs Shock Bucks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Either the Milwaukee Bucks are slipping, or the Cleveland Cavaliers are on the upgrade as an NBA contender.

The Cavs made their record 9 -4 for the month of January by beating the Bucks, 112-98, Tuesday night for their first victory ever over Milwaukee.

Owner Nick Mileti once said if his Cavs could ever post wins over New York and Milwaukee, they'd be on their way. Cleveland has accomplished the mission. It may be too late for a playoff drive, but the Cavs have the courage of Mileti's conviction that Cleveland can be a contender in future seasons.

Rookie Dwight Davis is one indication of Cleveland's sudden surge toward respectability. Davis scored 23 points and grabbed 13 rebounds against the Bucks, who were led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 28 points.

In other NBA action, Los Angeles edged Chicago, 95-92; Baltimore stopped Golden State, 104-86; Detroit defeated Atlanta, 126-123; Houston outhustled Portland, 123-120, and Buffalo nipped Philadelphia, 105 -104.

Jerry West's three clutch throws in the final eight seconds brought Los Angeles its seventh straight win and increased the Lakers' lead over Golden State in the Pacific Division to 8½ games. West scored 31 points as his mates made it 11 in a row over Chicago.

Bob Lanier scored 40 points, including two key foul shots in the final seven seconds to break Detroit's six-game losing streak. Pete Maravich kept Atlanta in the game with 35 points.

Buffalo scraped past Philadelphia when Fred Carter of the 76ers missed two foul throws with one second remaining. Elmore Smith provided the Buffalo power with 36 points and 23 rebounds. Carter had 25 for the losers.

A layup and two foul shots by Calvin Murphy late in the game enabled Houston to beat Portland and give new Rocket coach Johnny Egan his fourth win in five tries.

KICKER IS NO. 1 FOR RAIDERS

49ers Go For Defense In Pro Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers drafted for defense while the Oakland Raiders surprised many by picking a kicker as their No. 1 choice Tuesday in the National Football League draft.

Mike Holmes, 6-1, 190-pound defensive back from Texas Southern, was taken by the 49ers as the 18th pick in the first round. He has intercepted 20 passes in his career, including nine in one season, and is used on kick returns.

"He's a great athlete," said 49er scout Joe Perry. "I've seen him eight or nine times. He has excellent range and fine speed."

Holmes has been clocked in 4.5 seconds over 40 yards and can cover the distance in 4.65 in full football gear.

Oakland's top choice, which came on the 23rd round, was Ray Guy, who averaged 46.2 yards a punt last season for Southern Mississippi. He stands over 6-3 and weighs 192.

However, Guy broke an ankle in the final game of the season but is expected to be in top physical condition when the Raiders rookie camp opens in a few months. The Raiders were last in the American Football Conference in punting last season with a 36.9 average, most of them by Jerry DePoyster.

"I couldn't believe it," said Guy from Hattiesburg, Miss. "The Raiders are one of the three teams I wanted. I liked Dallas as a fan and Atlanta's only a hundred miles down the road, but I've always followed Oakland."

Four of the next five picks by the 49ers were of defensive players including No. 2 pick Willie Harper, a 213-pound defensive end from Nebraska.

Then in order came Mike Fulk, a 235-pound linebacker from Indiana; split end Ed Beverly of Arizona State, 265-pound defensive tackle Arthur Moore of Tulsa and John Mitchell, a 235-pound defensive end from Alabama who will be used as a linebacker.

Oakland drafted a pair of outside tackles, two linebackers, a defensive back and two wide receivers to complete their first day picks.

Ron Nikalojcyzk of Tampa, who skipped his final collegiate year to play pro ball in Canada, and Purdue's Brent Myers, a 66, 258-pounder, were the offensive tackles tabbed by the Raiders.

Oakland's No. 2 selection was monte Johnson, a 240-pound linebacker with 4.8 speed from Nebraska. On the third round, defensive back Perry Smith of Colorado State was taken.

The wide receivers chosen by Oakland were Joe Wiley of Oklahoma and Louis Neal of Prairie View A&M. Gary Weaver, a 224-pounder linebacker from Fresno State, was Oakland's seventh pick.

Well, Jason Gregory Polis will have two pucks to savor when he grows up. One for when his dad put the West out front 1-0 with just 55 seconds left in the first period and the other for when the Pittsburgh Penguin star closed the East's lead to 4-3 at 4:27 of the final period.

Five minutes after Polis' second goal, Terry Harper knotted the game at 4-4 when he whistled a 40-foot shot past the East's backup goalie Ed Giacomin and suddenly, it looked like there wouldn't even be a winner to this exercise in gentility.

But alas, along came Schmautz, who was selected for the team because Vancouver had to have a representative on the squad and East coach Tom Johnson had his first All-Star victory.

"I really never saw the puck go in," said Schmautz, whose shot banged off the left goal post and then bounced off goalie Rogatien Vachon's pads and into the net. "(Serge) Savard took the puck down ice and I was just behind him."

Tamalpais Wrestlers Triumph

Craig Marshall, a 188-pound wrestler shifted to heavyweight because the regular heavyweight was ill, came through with a pin yesterday to give Tamalpais High School a 30-27 victory over San Rafael.

"If we need a pin, he's just tough enough to go out and get it for us," said Tam coach Denni Untermann, whose team trailed by three points when Marshall took the mat in the day's final match. The pin came at 1:30 of the second period.

Tam 97-pounder Anthony Triggs opened the match by pinning his foe in 30 seconds, and 140-pounder Bob Praszker preserved his record of pinning every league opponent, but San Rafael won several close decisions in the higher weight classes to force Marshall's heroics.

Lake Placid Reaffirms Bid To Host Winter Olympics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — This Adirondack community was asked Tuesday by the U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) for a detailed proposal on its hope to host the 1976 Winter Games, a member of the local promotion unit said.

The North Elba Town Board responded Tuesday night by voting 5-9 to telegram the USOC reaffirming a proposal sent earlier this month after Colorado voters rejected in November spending state funds to support the Games.

The USOC request came hours after Salt Lake City mayor Jake Garn wired Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, that his city could not continue its effort to land the games without assurance of federal financial aid.

The Rev. J. Bernard Fell, chairman of Lake Placid's provisional Olympic organizing committee, said USOC officials already have copies of the proposal from the Village, which hosted the 1932 Winter Games, first in the U.S.

Frosh Basketball

Mike Stone hit a jump shot from the top of the key with two seconds left to send the game into overtime, and Marin Catholic High School's undefeated freshman basketball team went on to record its eighth straight Marin County Athletic League victory yesterday, 45-42 over Drake. In another game, Jeff Luchetti scored 18 points as San Rafael won its third straight by beating Tamalpais, 57-51.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Puzzling Terminology Of Seaman's Compass

The salty language of the sea — much of which has crept into the terminology and lexicon of modern day boating — has resisted change probably more than any other part of the language. But with every generation the ancient expressions of the sea-farers have less and less meaning and significance.

However, there's one antiquated and out-dated bit of terminology which, though it baffles many boatmen, stays with us as strong as ever. It's the system of describing the angles or arcs of a circle through which navigation lights are visible.

In every system of measurement used in day-to-day living, a circle is broken up into 360 degrees. Everybody must have learned in school that a right angle, a quarter of a circle, is 90 degrees.

However, when it comes to describing navigation lights, we have to revert to an archaic system, several hundred years old, in which the 360-degree circle of the compass is broken up into 32 "points."

Most boatmen comprehend that the four main points of the compass are north, south, east and west. In between these are other points, northeast, southeast, etc. And between these are still others, such as north by northeast, north northeast, northeast by north etc., and they make up 32 points in all.

It's a complicated system and although still used or accepted by many ocean-going seamen, most modern boatmen have never even heard the names for all 32 points of the compass.

But it naturally follows that if the 360-degree circle is divided into 32 parts, each part must be 11¼ degrees. So one "point" of the compass represents 11¼ degrees.

All this was brought up by a couple of questions I've been asked which can't be answered without explaining the "point" system:

Q. The red and green lights on a boat are described as 10-point lights. What does that mean?

A. The lights must be visible from a line dead ahead of the boar through an angle of 10 points. Ten points represents 112½ degrees (10x10¼) — just a little more than a quarter of a circle.

Q. What is the purpose of a white bow light of 20 points and a stern light of 12 points?

A. The 20 and 12 add up to 32 points, a full circle. If you draw a diagram of navigation lights arranged this way, it is apparent that on a full broadside view, only while the bow light and a colored side light are visible. As the boat passes, the bow light disappears, and the stern light becomes visible. It is to show the relative bearing or position of a passing boat.

Q. I see sailing craft with red ang green lights on the mast. What do they signify?

A. This is a relatively new idea of carrying two colored lights at the masthead and is good. It makes a sailing craft instantly identifiable at night. The colored lights — red over green — are 20 points lights (225 degrees).

Q. Where can I learn all about (navigation) lights? I'm taking a cruise to the Bahamas and Puerto Rico.

A. The text I like best is Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling. Other good ones are Basic Boating by Andrews and Russell, or Basic Seamanship by Walliser.

Q. In a column last year you said the compass is divided into 32 points. My understanding is that it is 96 points . . .?

A. This was done to "simplify" the compass and allow ships to steer more accurate courses. Each of the 32 points was divided into halves and quarters. The naming of the new division became a nightmare. For instance they came up with names like this: "south easy by east a quarter east." All the world's navies and most merchant marine services have dropped all this nonsense and use degrees.

Petaluma Drubbed By Ukiah

By PAUL DWORIN

UKIAH — Petaluma High School was an unwilling watcher of the Doug Vilotti show last night as the 6-foot-8 senior scored 31 points and dominated play to lead the Wildcats to a 74-31 North Bay League basketball victory.

It was the third straight loss for the Trojans and dropped their league mark to 2-5, putting them into a fourth place tie with Hogan of Vallejo, five games behind league leading Vallejo. Ukiah is now 5-2 and tied for second with Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

"We have no excuses," said Petaluma coach Mark Reischling when asked if the long trip might have caused the Trojans' poor play. "They just beat us to death. We just weren't psychologically prepared to play."

The Trojans were blown out of the gym in the first period for the second game in a row when the Wildcats jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first minute and built it up to a 19-6 lead at the end of the quarter.

For all intents and purposes, save playing a regulation contest, the game was over; but in case any comeback hopes were left in the minds of the few Petaluma fans who braved the journey, they were quickly dispelled as the Trojans scored just two points in the second quarter to fall behind 42-8 at halftime. The two points came on free throws by Dan Aldridge.

Although basketball is supposed to be a team game, Vilotti was a one man show. Besides his impressive offensive statistics (13 of 26 from the field), it was his defense that proved the Trojans, undoing as he blocked at least 12 shots and generally intimidated Petaluma shooters. "He was just super," Reischling commented.

The Trojans, who shot a poor 22 per cent from the field for the game and a miserable 10 per cent in the first half, were led by Kirk Smartt with 10 points, and Aldridge added five.

Geyserville Defeats St. Vincent

GEYSERVILLE — St. Vincent High School of Petaluma had a four-game winning streak broken last night as the Broncos of Geyserville High exploded for 23 fourth-quarter points to take a 63-56 non-league victory.

Geyserville dropped the Mustangs' overall season basketball mark to 9-4 and avenged an early season 59-52 defeat at the hands of St. Vincent in Petaluma.

"We just didn't play well at all," commented St. Vincent coach Ed Major. "If we don't play better than this Friday night, then we have no chance against Kelseyville." Kelseyville is one game behind the Mustangs in the North Central League II basketball standings.

The teams were even at the third quarter mark, 40-all, but the Broncos outscored St. Vincent 23-16 in the fourth period for their seven-point victory margin.

Rob Loughran was the game high scorer for St. Vincent's with 21 points. Bob Vyenielo, who only played the fourth quarter, added nine for the losers. Sam Duffield and Sam Franco led Geyserville with 17 and 13 points.

Seals Vs. New York Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — The California Golden Seals are hurting and the New York Rangers healthy moving into their National Hockey League confrontation tonight at Madison Square Garden.

New York is unbeaten in its last 10 games and has all its personnel on the ice for the first time this season.

The Seals Tuesday called up left wing Del Hall from Salt Lake City to fill in for injured Gary Croteau. The 23-year-old newcomer had 17 goals and 14 assists for the Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League.

Wing Joey Johnston's broken jaw may have mended enough for him to play tonight after missing two weeks, but Craig Patrick is still recuperating in Oakland from a leg cut.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Tito Is Attempting To Redirect Youth

By ERIC BOURNE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

VIENNA — "Black is beautiful," we already know. So — according to some young Yugoslavs — is "partisan."

It's the new image in modern "gear" that trendy Yugoslav designers have come up with. It's their "with it" response to President Tito's gripes about Yugoslav youth's lack of "socialist consciousness."

Besides his recent dismissals of too-easy-going Communist Party "liberals," the President is campaigning also against "bourgeois influence" among the country's young people.

These influences until recently included the seamier kinds of Western television offerings, mainly American, which are now being kept off Yugoslav screens.

They are being replaced by films of the partisan struggle against the Nazis —part of the new look now being applied in cultural programs to remind young Yugoslavs of the ideals for which President Tito and their fathers fought 30 years ago.

Other targets of presidential ire were the "American Army" uniforms and insignia which Belgrade's teen-agers have affected this past year as spontaneously as their age group in London and other West European capitals.

Following his strictures, the great-coats, the combat jackets, and Marine and Air Force badges quietly disappeared from the stores, overnight.

Yugoslavia's trend-setters for modern youth fashions, however, were very quick to catch on.

"Partisan is beautiful" has become the theme. It is expressed in a wide range of partisan uniforms in "real sharp" styles for '73 (and colors a sniper would spot a mile off) which could make younger members of America's sedately rigged WACs goggle with envy.

One dark Yugoslav beauty took the catwalk when the first collection was exhibited wearing a slinky version of tunic, breeches, and riding boots which surely was inspired by the uniform President Tito wears in one of the wartime marshal's portraits most favored by his biographers.

"Children of the 'cream' of Yugoslav society," a spokesman told a recent party conference in Belgrade, "seem only interested in discotheques and boutiques."

"Cream" in this Yugoslav context means, of course, the sons and daughters of the wartime resisters whose survivors went on to build a new Yugoslav society.

The speaker accused many of their children of disdaining the "Communist way of life" and suggested that Yugoslavia might need a "cultural revolution" to remind them of it.

Youth's stylists have started the dress side of it at least. Their new "partisan look," moreover, is a healthy sign that, despite party storms and stern speeches, Yugoslavs are resilient and not taking the new stress on ideology too tragically.

All the Communist East European states have similar problems with youth. Their reactions and their efforts to cope vary according to how far they have got with internal reform and a more relaxed attitude toward youthful eccentricities.

Probe Of Skyrocketing Lumber Prices Is Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston called for a Senate investigation Tuesday of "the incredible, runaway inflation" in lumber costs.

Holding a board foot of Douglas fir at a news conference, the California Democrat said its price has risen from 6.7 cents in 1967 to 17.8 cents last Monday. He said the price was 14.4 cents on Jan. 12, and 16.5 cents on Jan. 19.

As a result, he said the lumber cost for a four-bedroom house shot up $1,500 since Jan. 1, 1972—and $210 in the last week.

The rising cost of lumber, he said, will knock hundreds of thousands of California families out of the market—"just about all who are not already stopped from building by the Nixon freezes."

President Nixon has frozen about $500 million in construction guarantee funds and about $6 billion in grants to improve sewer and water facilities. Cranston said the sewer-water freeze would raise the cost of many new homes by $4,000.

Cranson said he is asking the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee to investigate the lumber price rises. He said that anti-inflation measures by the Nixon administration have failed to control lumber prices.

The lumber increases, he said, may result from export to Japan of one third of all timber produced in the west. It also may result from poor forest management, he said.

IT'S DINNER TIME

Correction Is Likely Of Mortgage Abuses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Democratic senators said today chances are good this year for passage of a measure correcting California mortgage abuses which have received national attention.

Sens. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, and Mervyn Dymally, D-Los Angeles, made the comment on an article in Harper's agazine this month called "The California Mortgage Scandal."

The article cited the case of a 77-year-old widow who originally sought to borrow $1,400 but wound up owing nearly $30,000.

The lawmakers asked, "Can we in good conscience ... ignore an industry which can now legally write a $1,400 loan for a 77-year-old widow (of which she received only $1,023), then can put her through a series of five refinancings when she can't make the payments until she owes them almost $30,000?"

A reform measure offered last year by the two senators died one vote short of approval in a Senate committee.

They said a special panel was then appointed to look into the possibility of working out a compromise.

But they said it was unsuccessful "primarily due to near complete refusal by the Mortgage Brokers Institute and California Real Estate Association representatives to agree to any meaningful regulation."

Since then the Department of Real Estate has proposed a measure similar to the one that failed last year.

Dymally and Beilenson said any measure this year should at least:

—Eliminate or sharply restrict loans with balloon payments.

—Impose limits on late-payment charges.

—Strictly control the industry's advertising practices.

—Require more aggressive enforcement of existing laws and regulations.

Student's Play To Be Presented

A stage version of "Catch-22," adapted, produced and directed by student Kent Skov of Lucas Valley, will be presented at California State University, San Francisco, Feb. 7, 8 and 9.

The performances, sponsored by the Associated Students and the Players Club, will be in the little theater of the Creative Arts Building. The show will be given at 8 p.m. Feb. 7 and 8 and at 4 and 8:30 p.m. Feb. 9.

Skov, 20-year-old Redwood High School graduate, has created a multimedia production contrasting the moods of the fighting man overseas with the nostalgia of the American people of the 1940s.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Identify the notables born today by the names which made them celebrities.

1. Arnold R. Cream, 59, today, was once the heavyweight champion of the world. The son of a poor family, he had to go to work at 14 after his father died, helping support 11 other children by selling newspapers, delivering groceries, and helping at a soup factory. Then his work as a hod carrier and longshoremen developed the muscles to make him a first-class fighter. He floored Joe Louis as a sparring partner, nearly knocked him out in a championship bout, and finally took the title by K-Oing Ezzard Charles in a rematch in Chicago in 1951.

2. Thomas G. Morfit grew up in Baltimore, where he got into show business as a writer and actor on a radio station (WBAL). Within three years he was starring on the NBC network from Chicago on "Club Matinee' and then teamed with Jimmy Durante on a coast-to-coast program. During the 1950s and early 60s he was the moderator of "I've Got a Secret" and the star of his own CBS television show. He is 58 today.

3. Jean Brooks is the married name of this Hollywood movie actress who is 44 today. Movie fans will remember her in such pictures as "Great Expectations," "Guys and Dolls," and "Elmer Gantry." After divorcing Stewart Granger in 1960, she married Richard Brooks.

4. Carol Lowe, 50 today, has a singing voice which audiences recognize immediately, especially when she does, "Hello Dolly." Born in Seattle, she went to Bennington College before starting her successful career as an actress-singer on Broadway. Her stage work includes "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "Wonderful Town." Hollywood co-starred her with Julie Andrews in "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

ANSWERS

1. Jersey Joe Walcott; 2. Garry Moore; 3. Jean Simmons; 4. Carol Channing.

South Uses Dummy's Ace As A Decoy To Pull Off Victory

When today's hand was played by my friend Milton Adler more than 30 years ago, even the opponents had to compliment him on his shrewd deceptive play.

TAKES IN DUMMY

West opened the queen of hearts, and Adler won in the dummy with the king. He led the nine of spades from dummy and let it ride, losing to the jack. West returned the jack of hearts to dummy's ace.

Adler was in the dummy for the last time. He thought of cashing the ace of diamonds, but decided against it. He could only dischard his fourth club on the ace of diamonds, and his fourth club might turn out to be good.

Instead, Adler led dummy's second trump and finessed to West's king. West returned a third heart, and declarer ruffed.

DUMMY'S DIAMONDS

Now Adler led three more trumps, carefully saving all of dummy's diamonds. The opponents assumed that declarer had a way to get to dummy's ace of diamonds, and they both decided to keep diamonds at any cost.

By the time that Adler got down to one trump and four clubs, the defenders were in sad shape. They were each trying to keep four diamonds, and each of them had to throw a club.

LOSES A CLUB

Adler thereupon cashed the ace of clubs and gave up one club, after which he could take the last three tricks with the last trump and two good clubs.

There would have been a different story to tell if declarer had taken an early discard on the ace of diamonds. The defenders would save their clubs, and declarer would lose two clubs and two trumps.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond. You have 12 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton, enough for an optional opening bid. You choose to bid, rather than pass, because your high-car structure is excellent.

81-Year-Old Storekeeper Scares Bandit

WEEDPATCH, Calif. (UPI) — The brash young bandit didn't get very far with the grizzled old storekeeper Monday night.

Cruz Zaragoza, 81, operator of Zaragoza's Market, told Kern County sheriff's deputies a youth about 16 years old entered the store, pulled a knife and demanded money.

Cruz whipped out his own .45-caliber pistol from his waistband and asked "Do you really want the money?"

"No," the youth replied as he fled out the door.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Tax Advice, Form Preparation Costs Deductible From Return

You can deduct the cost of tax advice or return preparation.

The sum you spend to have your tax return prepared or for advice in connection with any tax, or sums you spend to maintain records or for books on taxes is deductible. It doesn't matter if the taxes are in connection with your business life or your private life.

Section 212 says, "In the case of an individual, there shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year — (1) for the production or collection of income; (2) for the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of income; or (3) in connection with the determination, collection or refund of any tax."

Perhaps the best source of information readily available to the average taxpayer is the Internal Revenue Service publition "Your Federal Income Tax 1973 Edition". This book is well indexed and written in understandable English. It is the biggest bargain in taxation today and it is sold by the Internal Revenue Service. In it you will find the answers to most of your questions.

If this book does not answer your questions, then you should consult your attorney or accountant.

Regulations require the signature of the preparer o an income tax return at the place designated on the return.

The preparer of a return is the person responsible for the information appearing thereon and not one performing merely clerical functions.

You don't have to worry about the information you give to a tax return preparer not being confidential.

If anyone who prepares your tax return for you for a fee uses any information that you give him for other than the preparation of your tax return, he is guilty of a misdemeanor and can be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both.

What happens if your accountant discovers that, through error, you materially underpaid your taxes in a previous year? According to the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, a Certified Public Accountant must promptly notify a client if he turns up a material understatement. The Certified Public Accountant isn't ethically bound to tell the Internal Revenue Service, however, or even allowed to do so without his client's permission.

How can you be sure that you will not be penalized for negligence in preparing your tax return?

Perhaps the best way to be sure is to have the tax return actually prepared by the accountant or attorney of your choice and to keep in your possession documentary evidence that you gave him full information and keep your copy of the tax return together with proof of every item appearing thereon.

You should also be prepared to show that you had every reason to believe that the accountant or attorney was one who was competent in tax matters.

Southern Pacific Earnings Top $108 Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southern Pacific Co. today reported record earnings in 1972 of $108.2 million, or $4.06 per share — a gain of 8 per cent over 1971 when net income totaled $100.5 million, or $3.77 per share.

Operating revenues also were listed at a record level of $1.4 billion, compared with $1.3 billion in 1971.

"Even with earnings of this kind, we are still falling short of the return on our investment that is required to generate funds needed to provide new equipment and plant expansion for the increased transportation demand predicted for the next decade," said Benjamin F. Biaggini, president.

In 1972, Biaggini said the railway spent a record $300 million on capital improvements, with almost two-thirds of it going for railroad equipment.

Dividend Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Directors of Union Sugar Co. Monday declared a dividend of 37 ½ cents a share payable March 9 to shareholders of record as of Feb. 9.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Swift Due A New Name

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 296 shares of Swift and Co. (NYSE) which I have kept for sentimental reasons since my husband's death. The company is changing to a holding company. Will this mean a change in the dividend? I am 80 and do not wish to make any other investments. Should I sell this stock and put the money in the bank? — E.J.

A. For shareholders, the change in Swift's corporate structure is of very little significance. However, the company plans to change its name to Esmark, Inc. if shareholders approve at the Feb. 22 meeting. The four divisions will be operated as sub-holding companies called Swift & Co., GSI, Estech, Inc. and Vickers Energy Corp. You will receive tax-free 296 shares of Esmark, Inc. for your 296 shares of Swift.

A very strong final quarter, lifted fiscal 1972 results to $2.90 a share with sales up 8 per cent year to year. Reflecting the improvement, the dividend was upped 7.1 per cent to 75 cents per share annually. For the current year, meat-packing operations should be more profitable and earnings of $3.25 are a minimum expectation. Shares are well worth holding for their better-than-average appreciation potential.

Q. What is required to change stock ownership from husband to wife? — A.J.

A. If the shares are in your possession the transfer is relatively simple. A letter to the transfer agent for each company in which you hold stock, requesting that he make the change, should initiate the required action. Should your shares be held in a brokerage account, your broker will send you a transfer authorization to complete in order to implement the exchange.

Before taking this step, however, you should be aware of the legal implications involved. It is entirely possible that the transfer of ownership will also create a gift tax question.

In addition, you may irreparably tangle you and your wife's position in regard to eventual estate tax settlements. If you have not already done so, I strongly recommend that you discuss the change with your attorney.

Brighter Economy Scene Fails To Move Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — A somewhat improved economic picture could do no better than produce a mixed price reaction in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors received some welcome encouragement about the economy and this was enough to halt the decline in progress for five sessions.

Polaroid traded lower. William D. Schwartz, analyst for Burnham & Co., chopped his 1973 earnings expectations for the company to about $1.40 a share from a prior level of $2.30 a share.

Xerox also moved against the market. The Federal Trade Commission charged the company with monopolozing the office copying machine business and demanded steps be taken to rectify the situation. A Xerox spokesman said the company would withhold comment until it had actually been served with the FTC complaint.

American Motors Car Sales Are Up

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — American Motors' retail passenger car sales in the San Francisco Zone during the 1972 calendar year increased 16 per cent over the previous year.

Jack O. Polan, zone manager, said AMC dealers sold 7,075 cars in 1972, compared with 6,629 in 1971. The San Francisco Zone serves AMC dealers in Northern California, Hawaii, and a portion of Nevada.

Pan Am Reports Heavy Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways reported net losses for 1972 of $28,888,000, including a tax credit of $24,909,000. This compares with losses of $45,866,000, including a $16,010,000 tax credit in 1971.

The troubled airline noted the 1972 results largely reflect a first quarter loss of $30,914,000, the worst first quarter in the firm's history. Also the 1971 figures include an extraordinary SST refund from the federal government of roughly $6.5 million.

Pan Am is expected shortly to announce its decision on whether or not to take up the eight options it holds on the British-French Concorde.

Novato Auto Detailers To Open On Olive Avenue Next Month

Novato Auto Detailers will open for business next month at 815-B Olive Avenue behind King's Auto Repair, next to Russ Sharp Contractors.

The owner of the new auto detail shop is Howard Slade of Novato, who drove for Greyhound Bus Lines for 25 years and has been with the Golden Gate Transit District for the past year. Slade has lived in Marin since 1946.

His partner in the business is Melvin Park of Novato, who has six years experience in the auto repair business in the Novato area.

NOVATO AUTO DETAILERS will polish and paint cars, steam-clean motors, clean the car interior, and apply underseal. The company prepares cars for sale, by private parties or in car lots.

Slade said he hopes to open his auto detail shop in two or three weeks, on Olive Avenue near the railroad tracks.

JORDAN B. DELL'ERA of San Rafael has been appointed vice president and manager of Crocker Bank's San Rafael main office. He replaces Donald W. Chapman, who is on special assignment for the bank's West Bay Region administration.

Born in Larkspur, Dell'Era joined the First National Bank of San Rafael, a Crocker predecessor, in 1946. In 1961, he transferred to San Francisco as vice president in charge of central transit and clearing operations for Crocker Anglo National Bank, also a Crocker Bank predecessor.

Dell'Era served as vice president and manager of Crocker Bank's operations and branch administration, headquartered in San Francisco. He was vice president and manager, marketing, before his appointment to the San Rafael main office.

Dell'Era

Farbstein

ALLAN M. FARBSTEIN of Terra Linda was appointed vice president and general manager of Novo International, San Francisco-based freight forwarder and subsidiary of New York's Novo Corporation.

Farbstein has been with the parent company since 1971 as assistant to the vice president of their four subsidiary forwarding group. Novo International handles sea freight as forwarders and customs brokers and integrates its service with the three other Novo Corporation forwarding units to provide a total door-to-dooor freight forwarding system.

CINEMA II, a new movie theater opened this month at 5400 Redwood Highway, south of Hamilton Air Force Base, next to Camillo's restaurant.

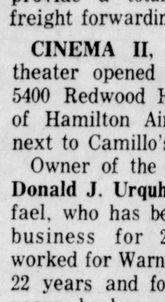
Owner of the new theater is Donald J. Urquhart of San Rafael, who has been in the film business for 25 years. He worked for Warner Brothers for 22 years and for the last two years, he has owned Urquhart Film Enterprises, a San Francisco film distributor.

Partners in the new theater are Philip Rosenberg of Novato, his son, Kenneth Rosenberg, and Edward Troy of San Rafael.

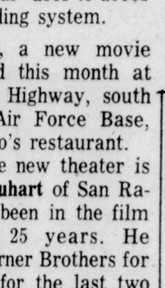
Cinema II is located in a new building with a seating capacity just under 250. It offers general films seven days a week. Starting Friday will be "Slaughterhouse Five" and "Frenzy."

JOHN C. POGUE of Mill Valley was named assistant vice president, municipal trading and underwriting, Wells Fargo Bank, San Francisco.

Pogue joined Wells Fargo in 1970 and was investment officer before the promotion.



Pogue



Cann

HOWARD W. CANN of Mill Valley has been promoted to assistant vice president in the national division at Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters.

Cann was previously assistant cashier in the same department. He joined the bank's international division in 1970 after graduation from the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania with a masters of business administration.

EDWARD H. MARGOLIN of Novato, formerly vice president of marketing for Farrar, Herrick & Associates in San Rafael, has formed his own financial consulting firm called E.H.M. & Associates.

Margolin will be chief operating officer and president of the new organization, which is located at 4340 Redwood Highway, Northgate Industrial Park, in the same office as Farrar, Herrick & Associates.

In addition to heading the new firm, Margolin continues to represent Farrar, Herrick & Associates.

WARREN H. RICE, Larkspur tax consultant, has moved his Marin Income Tax Service from Corte Madera to San Rafael. The new office is in suite 26 at 819 A Street, San Rafael, near the Simas Bros. service station. His former office was at 101 Casa Buena Drive in Corte Madera.

Rice said most of his customers are referrals or repeats, not drop-in clients. This is a part-time occupation for Rice, who is employed as an accountant with the United States Army Engineers.

THOMAS (TOMMY) THOMPSON, former service manager with Leon C. Felton Volkswagen in San Rafael, has joined Novato Datsun at 1010 Grant Avenue in Novato as service manager.

A resident of Petaluma, Thompson has been working in Marin since 1959, first with Rossi's Garage and for the past seven years with Felton.

MR. AND MRS. JOE F. DE MAESTRI, who own DeMaestri Distributing Co. in San Rafael, are back from the annual Anheuser-Busch sales convention held in Houston, Tex., last week.

More than 2,400 wholesalers, wives and company marketing representatives attended the conference.

M. A. ARNHEITER of Novato has joined Mutual of New York's San Rafael agency as assistant manager and is representing the company in San Rafael. The San Rafael agency is located at 22 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park. Arnheiter is responsible for manpower recruiting and administration of the company's life insurance training programs.

Arnheiter was a life and health insurance consultant in this area for one year before joining MONY. A veteran of the United States Navy, he is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy.

ABANDONED DOGS HAVE A REAL PAL

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — N. P. Neumann is definitely a dog's best friend.

Neumann regularly cares for dogs that are abandoned at a park. He gets up at 3 a.m. daily to visit a place where the dogs are found and leaves a pan of food for his four-legged friends.

Neumann says he doesn't mind his task.

"I'm looking for the day when this job is no longer necessary," he says. "I hope abandonment of puppies will stop. But I would rather the animals be released at the park than turned over to the animal shelter.

"I don't want any thanks for what I'm doing," Neumann says. "Just seeing those tails wagging is enough for me." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Exemptions To Impact Rules Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Builders Council today asked the state Resources Agency to expand the list of private construction projects which would be exempted from environmental impact report requirements.

The CBC, legislative arm of California's home building and light construction industry, submitted the suggestion at an agency public hearing on proposed state guidelines for the impact reports.

James Acret, CBC special counsel, said the "author of the 1970 Environmental Quality Act has said publicly that the intent of the law was to exempt 95 per cent of the building projects, and the California Supreme Court 'Friends' of Mammoth' ruling said the vast majority of projects would not have a significant effect on the environment, and therefore should be exempt.

"But the tentative guidelines currently under consideration by the state Office of Planning would do just the opposite. In their present form, the guidelines require 95 per cent of all projects to have environmental impact reports."

The CBC's list of exemptions includes single-family residence, planned unit developments, condominiums, urban apartment buildings of 50 or fewer units, and industrial, warehouse and commercial buildings of less than 30,000 square feet in urban areas.

The state's proposed guidelines would exempt single-family homes and duplexes, and patio, swimming pool, fence and garage construction.

Acret said the court decision requiring the impact reports has created "chaos in the building industry," with local governments to hold "thousands of projects in abeyance." He noted the legislature's 120-day moratorium on the court ruling ends in April.

Reagan Asks Disaster Designation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today urged President Nixon to declare San Luis Obispo and Marin counties and the City of South San Francisco as disaster areas because of heavy flood damage.

Reagan, in a prepared statement, said the designation will clear the way for the allocation of more than $1.6 million in federal disaster relief to the stricken areas.

He said total damage to both public and private property from heavy rains, wind and flooding reached $7.1 million in San Luis Obispo County, $2.9 million in Marin County and $2.2 million in the City of South San Francisco.

Reagan said state and local funds available for restoration of the disaster areas have been obligated or spent.

The governor also proclaimed a state of emergency in the City of South San Francisco because of the flood damage which occurred during the week of Jan. 14.
